P R E F A C E.

MR. WOTTON (that indefatigable Labourer in the golden Mines of Antiquity, whose Avenues were rendered almost inaccessible by the destructive Hand of Time, and the cruel Ravages of barbarous Nations) has cleared the Paths, which lead to the Perfection of this intricate Science. Neither the great Difficulties attending Genealogical Enquiries, (in which so many Centuries were to be traced, and the Thread to guide him generally so slender, and, sometimes broken,) nor the Impossibility of persuading some Families to give the least Assistance, were able to deter him from this very difficult Pursuit. In Spite of all Obstacles, in the Year 1741, he published his last Account of the English Baronets, of which this is presented to the Public as a New Edition, and Continuation to the present Time.

The Reception that Work met with, which is to be found only in the Libraries of the Curious, was a sufficient Motive for this Republication. The Necessity of a New Edition will appear the more evident, when we observe, that, of the Four Hundred and Sixty-eight Baronets, whose Families are mentioned by Mr. Wotton, near One Hundred and Forty of those Titles are now either extinct, or lie dormant in higher Promotions; and, of the Three Hundred and Forty Baronets, inserted in this Work, and who enjoyed the Title at the Time of Mr. Wotton's Publication, not an Hundred of them are now living. We may add, since that Period, Seventy-four new Baronets have been created. All these Considerations contribute to make Mr. Wotton's Edition, rather a valuable Work of Antiquity, than the modern State of the Baronets.

Mr. Wotton's Notes, most of which were only Authorities for what he advanced, though absolutely necessary in his Edition, are become of no Consequence to this, as the Facts they tended to corroborate are now generally allowed. Historical Passages of no great Moment, and the mention of Estates, which have been long lost to the present Families, where they did not seem necessary to illustrate the Pedigree, are here, for the Sake

Sake of Brevity, omitted. The Pedigrees, however, are every where kept entire, many of them corrected, but not the least Part of them destroyed.

We have pursued the Design of Mr. Wotton, in publishing the Account of every Baronet, to shew the Antiquity of each, as far as it can be traced, with their Marriages and Issues, to the present Time, together with such historical Memoirs, that have any Connection with, or may serve to illustrate or elucidate the same.

We apprehend, that the Baronets hereafter mentioned, are all that are in being, of the English Creation, strict Enquiry having been made in every County, to get the best Information relating to those that are extinct; and such of them as appear to be doubtful, though generally believed to have failed, are inserted by themselves at the End of the Work, not being willing, upon mere Presumption, to deprive any Family of its Honours.

The Accounts of those Baronets, who are Peers of Great Britain or Ireland, are not introduced here; because their Creations are absorbed in higher Titles, and their Genealogies published in the modern Peerages. One Instance having happened this Year, 1770, of a Baronet's Title surviving the Peerage, we have carefully given due Precedence to that Pedigree, as the Reader will perceive in the Account of Sir George Booth, (Vol. I. Page 18.) who succeeded to the Title of Baronet on the Death of Lord Delamer. We have given Place to the Pedigree of Sir James Harrington, of Ridlington, in Rutlandshire, though, perhaps, improperly, as that Title is said long since to have expired in an Act of Attainder; but, by others, supposed to be an illegal Act, and that the Right to the Title is still good. Not being able to settle the Pedigree of Sir Charles Hudson till the Work was nearly finished, we were obliged to defer it for Insertion in the Appendix, where the Reader will also find one or two more, and such Alterations and Additions as came to Hand after the Accounts of the different Families were printed: All which shall be carefully introduced, in their proper Places, in a future Edition.

It has been observed by some, in Opposition to Publications of this Nature, that heroic Virtue and Integrity redound more to the Honour of Mankind, than the longest Train of Ancestors possibly can. However, surely it must be granted, that a Retrospect of the magnanimous Deeds of illustrious Ancestors is most likely to animate the youth-youthful Bosom with an Emulation to equal, if not excel, their Predecessors.

Application has been made to every Baronet, whose Place of Residence could be known, not only by Letters, but by personal Application, and frequent Advertisements; and we acknowledge, with all due Respect and Gratitude, that many of the Baronets themselves, or their Relations, have very obligingly furnished us with the Continuation of their respective Pedigrees; some of them have even gone so far, as to enable us, where Mr. Wotton was faulty, to give their Family Accounts corrected from the first mention of their Existence. Some few we met with, who were such Strangers to the Glory of their Ancestors, and the future Honour of their Families, as not to be prevailed on, by repeated Sollicitations, to spare a Moment in furnishing one single Material to grace their Families.

It is with the greatest Pleasure, that I acknowledge myself obliged with the kind Assistance of some skilful Gentlemen, particularly that learned and curious Genealogist, George Booth Tyndale, of Bristol, Esq; Barrister at Law, by whom I was favoured, at no small Labour and Expence to himself, with many valuable Materials, and some entire Pedigrees.

While

While I am thus acknowledging the Favours I have received from the living, let me not forget the Tribute due to the Memory of my Friend, Mr. Kimber, who fell a Victim, in the Meridian of his Life, to his indefatigable Toils in the Republic of Letters. To him I owe the present Plan of this Work : He was the Architect, I only the Builder. Happy shall I think myself, if I shall appear properly to have executed the Design which he formed.

Rich. Johnson.

BARONETS

KING JAMES I.

I. BACON of Redgrave, Suffolk.

Created BARONET of England, May 22, 1611.

OF this name there have been many persons of great account in former ages ; but that particular family, of which we are now to treat, derive their descent from GRIMBALDUS, who came into England at the time of the Norman conquest, in company with William Earl Warren, to whom he was related ; which Grimbalduſ had lands in Normandy ; and, after his arrival in England, ſettled at Letheringſett, near Holt in Norfolk, where he founded the church, and made his ſecond ſon, Edmund, parſon of it. His other ſons were Radulph and Ranulph.

Roger, the ſon of Ranulph, was father of Robert, the firſt of the family we find mentioned by the name of Bacon, whoſe brother, William Bacon, was of Monks Bradfield in the county of Suffolk, temp. Ric. I. which William is taken notice of among the knights bearing banners, as well Normans as of other provinces, in the reign of King Philip II. of France ; and by a daughter of Thomas, Lord Bardolph, was father of another William, of the ſame place, whoſe ſon, Adam, lived in the time of Edw. I. and left two ſons, Wido Bacon of Bradfield aforeſaid, who died without iſſue, and Robert Bacon of Heſſet, alias Hegeſett, in the ſaid county.

The ſaid Robert, by Alice his wife, daughter of — Burgate, had iſſue John Bacon of Heſſet and Bradfield, who was father of John Bacon, and he of another John, of the ſame places, who married Helena, daughter of — Gedding, and by her left a ſon of his own name, who married (firſt) Helena, daughter of Sir George Tillot, of Rougham in Norfolk, Knt. and (ſecondly) Julian, daughter of — Bardwell ; from which ſecond marriage proceeded the Bacons of Heſſet, who flouriſhed there near five hundred years, and have not been extinct a century.

John, son of the said John Bacon, (by Helena his first wife,) married Margery, daughter and heir of John Thorp, son of William Thorp, (by the daughter and heir of — Quaplod) son of Sir William Thorp (by the daughter and heir of Sir Roger Bacon, a commander in the wars, temp. Edw. II. & Edw. III. son of Sir Henry Bacon, son of another Sir Henry, a judge itinerant, temp. Hen. III. lineally descended from Grimbaldus;) since which marriage this branch of the family quarter the arms of Quaplod with their own, viz. Barry of six, Or and Azure, a Bend, Gules.

The said John Bacon was father of Edmund Bacon of Drinkston, who married Elizabeth, daughter of — Crofts, by whom he had issue John Bacon, who married Agnes, daughter of Thomas Cockfield, and had issue Robert Bacon of Drinkston, who lies buried at Hefset, with Isabella his wife, daughter of John Cage, of Pakenham in Suffolk, by whom he had issue three sons and two daughters, viz. 1. Thomas Bacon, of Northaw, in Hertfordshire, who married the daughter of — Brown, but died without issue. 2. Sir Nicholas Bacon, hereafter mentioned. 3. James Bacon, Alderman of London, who died in 1573, and lies buried at St. Dunstan's in the East, London; leaving issue, 1. Sir James Bacon, of Friston in Suffolk, Knt. who married Elizabeth, daughter of Bacon of Hefset. 2. William; and one daughter, Anne, married to George Revett of Brandeston in Suffolk. The daughters of the said Robert Bacon were, Barbara, married to Robert Sharp, and Anne to Robert Blackman, both of St. Edmundsbury in Suffolk.

Nicholas Bacon, second son to Robert, was born at Chislehurst in Kent, and educated at Corpus-Christi College in Cambridge, (to which he was a great benefactor, by endowing it with six scholarships, three whereof he appropriated to scholars from Botesdale school, near his seat at Redgrave, founded by himself, and building the chapel and library over it,) after which, removing to Gray's-Inn for the study of the law, he made such a proficiency therein, that K. Henry VIII, in the 38th of his reign, made him attorney of the court of wards, having before, in the 36th year of his reign, granted him the manors of Redgrave, Botesdale, and Gillingham, late belonging to the monastery of St. Edmundsbury in Suffolk, with the park of Redgrave, and six acres of land in Wortham, as also the tythes of Redgrave, to hold in capite by Knight's service; and upon the death of that King, (which happened soon after,) he had his patent renewed 1 Edw. VI. and in the sixth of the same King was constituted Treasurer of Gray's-Inn, of which society he was a member. Being grown still more famous for his knowledge, he had the honour of knighthood conferred upon him by Queen Elizabeth, in the first year of her reign, and was made lord keeper of the great seal of England, which office in his time was by act of parliament made equal in authority with that of the chancellor. He promoted the interest of England to his power; and, to secure his own, made use of the policy of the age, viz. great alliance. He and Cecil married two sisters; Walsingham and Mildmay, two more; Knolles, Essex, and Leicester, were also linked together.

As to greatness, Sir Nicholas never affected it, according to his motto, Mediocria firma; nor was he so much for a large, as a good estate. His houses at Redgrave in Suffolk and Gorham-bury in Hertfordshire were convenient, but not stately; which made Q. Elizabeth tell him, when she called at Redgrave, in her progress, That it was too little for his Lordship. To which he answered, No, Madam; but your Highness has made me too big for it. However, on that remark he is said to have added the wings to the house now standing at Redgrave. Camden gives him this character: ‘Of person very corpulent, most quick wit, singular prudence, admirable eloquence, retentive memory, and ‘another pillar to the privy-council.’ This corpulency of body grew on him in his old age, to which the Queen alluding used to say, Sir Nicholas’s Soul lodges well.

‘He had the deepest reach into affairs of any man, that was ‘at the council-table, the knottiest head to pierce into difficulties, the most comprehensive judgment to surround the merit ‘of a cause, the strongest memory to recollect all circumstances ‘of a business to one view, the greatest patience to debate and ‘consider, and the clearest reason to urge any thing that came ‘in his way in court or chancery. His dexterity and dispatch ‘advanced him to the court of wards; his deep experience made ‘him lord keeper. Great was this statesman’s wit, greater the ‘fame of it. He was the exactest man to draw up a law in council, and the most discrete to execute it in court. The excellency of his parts was set off with the gravity of his person; ‘his account of England and all its affairs was punctual; his use ‘of learned artists was continual; his correspondence with his ‘fellow statesmen exact; his apprehension of our laws and government clear; his model of both, methodical; his faithfulness to the church, eminent; his industrious invention for the ‘state, indefatigable; he was that moderate man that was appointed to preside at the disputation between the protestant ‘and popish doctors in the first year of Queen Elizabeth; in ‘a word, he was a father of his country, and of Sir Francis ‘Bacon.’

He died 21 Eliz. 1579, and was interred on the south side of the choir of St. Paul’s cathedral, London, where a noble monument was erected to his memory, before the Fire of London.

He married two wives, first, Jane, daughter of William Fernley, of West-Creting in Suffolk, Esq; by whom he had issue three sons and three daughters. The sons were, 1. Sir Nicholas, of whom hereafter. 2. Nathaniel Bacon, of Stiffkey in Norfolk, Esq; (who married two wives, first, Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Gresham of London, Knt. by whom he had three daughters, his coheirs; 1. Anne, who being married to Sir Roger Townshend of Rainham in Norfolk, ancestor to the present Lord Visc. Townshend, brought the Stiffkey estate into that family; 2. Elizabeth, married to Sir Thomas Knyvet, of Ashwelthorpe in Norfolk; and 3. Winifrid, to Sir Robert Gawdy, of Claxton in Norfolk, Knts. Sir Nathaniel's second wife was Dorothy, daughter of Sir George Hopton of Suffolk, Knt. by whom he had no issue.) 3. Edward Bacon, of Shrubland-Hall in Suffolk, Esq; in right of his wife Helen, daughter and heir of Thomas Littell, of the same place, Esq; and of Bray in the county of Berks, (by Elizabeth his wife, daughter and coheir to Sir Robert Litton, of Knebworth in Hertfordshire, Knt.) from whom is lineally descended Nicholas Bacon, of Shrubland-Hall, Esq; and from younger sons of the said Edward, are the Bacons of Ipswich in Suffolk, and Earlham in Norfolk, descended. The daughters were, 1. Anne, married to Sir Henry Wodehouse, of Waxham in Norfolk, Knt. 2. —, married first, to Sir Francis Windham, Knt. one of the justices of the common-pleas; secondly, to Sir Robert Mansfield, Knt. and 3. Elizabeth, married first, to Sir Robert D'Oyly, of Chislehampton in Oxfordshire, Knt. secondly, to Sir Henry Nevill, Knt. and thirdly, to Sir William Periam, Knt. lord chief baron of the exchequer.

Sir Nicholas's second wife was Anne, daughter of Sir Anthony Cooke, of Giddy-Hall in Essex, Knt. by whom he had issue two sons, 1. Anthony, who was legate at Venice, and chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, and died at Essex-house in the Strand, unmarried, before his father; and 2. Sir Francis Bacon, Knt.

Sir Francis was born at York-Place in the Strand, Jan. 22, 1560, and June 10, 1573, was matriculated in the university of Cambridge, and entered into Trinity college, under the care of Dr. Whitgift, then master of the said college, and afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury. After he had passed through the circle of the liberal arts, his father thought proper to qualify him for the management of public affairs, and sent him over to France with Sir Amyas Paulet, Ambassador to that court, who entrusted him with a commission to the Queen, which he discharged with great approbation, and returned to France, with an intention to continue some years. During his absence, his father died in 1579, upon which he returned to England, and applied himself to the study of the common law, which he resolved solved upon as his profession. He was appointed one of the Queen's council extraordinary in the 28th year of his age, an honour scarce ever granted before. He was one of the first that argued the difficult case of Uses, called Chudleigh's Case, which is reported by Sir Edward Coke. But the greatest figure which he made in the ten last years of the Queen's reign, was in the House of Commons; and then it is thought he applied himself to politics; so that the Queen and Lord Treasurer Burghley employed his head and hand in affairs of state. He made no considerable advances in his fortune under Queen Elizabeth, but on the accession of King James to the crown, he was soon raised to considerable honours. July 23, 1603, he was knighted at Whitehall, and the year following he was made one of the King's council learned in the law; and, as his abilities had appeared in Council, in Parliament, and in his Profession, and especially in his Speeches which he made in the House of Commons, he was in the year 1607 appointed Solicitor-general in the room of Sir Henry Hobart. In 1611 he was made joint Judge with Sir Thomas Vavasor, then knight marshal of the knight marshal's court, and Oct. 27, 1613, he succeeded Sir Henry Hobart as Attorney-general, and June 9, 1616, he was sworn of the King's privy council, a trust rarely conferred, either before or since, on a gentleman in that office. March 7, 1716-7, he was appointed Lord keeper of the great seal, and Jan. 4, 1618, he was made Lord chancellor of England, and on the 11th of July following created lord Verulam, and Jan. 27, 1620-1, he was advanced to the dignity of Viscount St. Albans, and appeared with the greatest honour and splendor at the opening of the session of Parliament on the 30th of that month. But he was soon after surprized with a melancholy reverse of fortune; for, about the 12th of March following, a committee was appointed of some members of the house of commons, to inspect the abuses of the courts of justice, whereof Sir Robert Philips was appointed chairman. The first thing they fell upon was Bribery and Corruption, of which the Lord Chancellor Bacon was accused by Awbery and Egerton, who affirmed, that they had procured money to be given to him, to promote their causes depending before him. This being corroborated by some circumstances, a report was made from the committee to the house, upon the 15th of that month, yet with all imaginable tenderness and respect to his Lordship, in regard, as the chairman declared, it touched the honour of a great man, so endued with all parts both of nature and art, as that he would say no more of him, being not able to say enough. Upon this a conference was had with the lords, and afterwards baron Denham and the attorney-general were sent by the lords, with a copy of the charge against him, and after several messages *, on Monday, April 29, he sent his confession and submission to the house of lords, in which he confessed some facts, denied others, and endeavoured to answer or explain the rest in such a manner, as to take off the malignity of the offence. But the lords taking this for a full and ingenuous confession, sent several of their members to see if the chancellor would own it, which he did in these words, My lords, it is my act, my hand, my heart; I beseech your lordships to be merciful to a broken reed. This answer being reported to the house, the lords agreed to move the king to sequester the seal, and on Wednesday, May 2, it was resolved to give sentence against him next morning, and accordingly he was summoned to attend, but he answered, that he was sick, and protested that he did not feign this for an excuse; for if he had been well, he would willingly have come. On May 3, 1621, the Lord Chief Justice pronounced the following judgment,

That the Lord Viscount St. Albans, Lord Chancellor of England, shall undergo a fine and ransom of 40,000l. and that he shall be imprisoned in the Tower during the king's pleasure.

That he shall be incapable of any office, place, or employment in the state or commonwealth, and never sit in parliament, or come within the verge of the court.

The Prince of Wales and some others endeavoured to have mitigated the severity of this sentence; and many of the lords, by way of excuse for the rigour of it, told him afterwards, that they knew they left him in good hands, and it might be presumed, that the king, who, as his lordship writes, had shed tears upon the news of his being accused, would be indulgent and beneficent to him upon his Sentence.

There is a variety of opinions concerning his guilt in the points charged against him; Mr. Rushworth says, his decrees were generally made with so much equity, that tho' gifts rendered him suspected for injustice, yet never any decree made by him was reversed as unjust.

After the judgment given against him, and a short imprisonment in the Tower, he retired from the engagements of an active life, to the shade of a contemplative one, which he had always loved. The first, or at least the greatest act of kindness, which the king extended to him, was the remitting the parliamentary fine, and granting it to some of his lordship's friends. In a letter to the king, dated July 30, 1624, wherein he uses the most pathetic expressions, he implores his majesty to grant him a total remission of his sentence, to the end that the blot of ignominy might be removed from him, and from his memory with posterity.

* See the whole proceedings against him in State trials, fol. vol. 1. p. 353.

This request very probably was granted him, for we find that he was summoned to parliament in the first year of King Charles I. However, it appears from the works, which he composed and designed during his retirement, that his thoughts were still free, vigorous and noble; and, as Dr. Tenison (afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury) observes, it did not appear by any thing during all the time of his eclipse of fortune, that there was any abjectness of spirit in him; his writings shew a mind in him, not distracted with anxiety, nor depressed with shame; not slow for want of encouragement, nor broken with discontent; such vigour of conceit, such a masculine style, such quickness in composition, appeared in his learned labours. The last five years of his life he devoted entirely to his studies, a thing which he would often speak of during the active part of his life, as if he affected to die in the shade, and not in the light. In this recess he composed the greatest part of his Latin and English works.

His lordship had happily escaped the plague, which infested the summer of the year 1625, and with some difficulty, being of a weak and tender constitution, passed the severe winter which followed; but going in the spring to make some experiment in natural philosophy, he was taken so ill, that he was obliged to stay at the Earl of Arundel's house at Highgate about a week, and there expired on Easter-day, the 9th of April, 1626, in the 66th year of his age, of a gentle fever attended with a great cold, which occasioned such a defluxion of rheum, that he was suffocated with it. The Lord Keeper Bacon married Alice, daughter and coheir of Benedict Barnham, Esq; Alderman of London, by whom he had no issue.

The learned Bayle says he was one of the greatest genius's of his age. Mr. Voltaire styles him the father of experimental philosophy; and the greatest writers of our nation, as well as those of other countries, conspire in giving him the noblest character imaginable; and the late duke of Buckingham (Sheffield) in particular assures us, That all his works are, for expression as well as thought, the glory of our nation, and of all latter ages. Dr. Rawley, who was his chaplain, observes, that he was eminent for the sharpness of his wit, his memory, judgment, and elocution, so that Sir Walter Raleigh once said before the doctor, that the Earl of Salisbury was an excellent speaker, but no good pen-man; the Earl of Northampton, and the Lord Henry Howard, excellent pen-men, but no good speakers; but that Sir Francis Bacon was eminent in both. He read much, and with great judgment, and after a moderate relaxation of his mind from study, returned to it with fresh vigour, and would not suffer any moment to escape him without improvement. His conversation was extremely delightful and instructive. When his office called him, as he was one of the King's council, to charge any offenders, he did it with the greatest lenity; and in civil affairs, as counsellor of state, he never engaged his master in any severe or precipitate courses. Neither was he less in favour with the subject than with his sovereign; for he was always acceptable to the house of commons when he was a member thereof. He was religious, free from malice, which, as he said himself, he never bred nor fed. No revenger of injuries. He never endeavoured to remove others from their places, or accused any man to his Prince. In his will he has this remarkable passage, for my name and memory, I leave it to mens charitable speeches, and to foreign nations, and the next ages.

Sir Nicholas Bacon, eldest son of the lord keeper, was possessed of a very large estate upon the death of his father. He was knighted by Queen Elizabeth at Norwich, in her progress thither, Aug. 22, 1578, and had afterwards the honour to be the first person advanced to the dignity of a baronet, then instituted by K. James I. in the 9th year of his reign. He married Anne, sole daughter and heir of Edmund Butts, of Thornage in Norfolk, Esq; (Brother to Sir William Butts, Knt.) by Anne his wife, daughter and coheir of Henry Buers, of Barrow in Suffolk, Esq; and by her had issue nine sons and three daughters. The sons were, 1. Sir Edmund, his successor; 2. Henry, who died at Jerusalem, without issue; 3. Sir Robert, of whom hereafter; 4. Bachevell Bacon, of Hockham in Norfolk, Esq; (who married Mary, daughter of Thomas French in Essex, and left two sons that died young, and three daughters who were coheirs to their brother, viz. Mary, married to Sir Robert Baldock, Knt. one of the judges to the common-pleas; Philippa, to Robert Keddington, Esq; and Anne, to Nich. Rookwood, Esq;) 5. Sir Butts Bacon, of Mildenhall in Suffolk, created Baronet July 29, 1627, (who married Dorothy, daughter of Sir Henry Warner of Mildenhall, Knt. and relict of William, second son of Sir Robert Jermyn, Knt.) ancestor to those late of Heringfleet, and to Sir Edmund Bacon, of Gillingham, Bart. (of whom we shall speak hereafter;) 6. Nicholas Bacon, of Gillingham in Norfolk, Esq; (who married first, a daughter of Sir James Weston, baron of the exchequer, by whom he had only one daughter, married to Sir John Rous, of Henham in Suffolk, Bart. and 2dly, Margaret, daughter of Eustace Darcy, of Norwich, Esq; by whom he had Sir Nicholas Bacon, of Gillingham, Bart. so created Feb. 7, 1661, which title expired with his son Sir Richard without issue.) 7. Sir Nathaniel Bacon, of Cusford in Suffolk, Knight of the Bath, who married Jane, daughter of Hercules Meautys, Esq; (widow of Sir William Cornwallis, Knt.) by whom he had issue one son Nicholas, who died without issue male, and two daughters, Anne, (married, first, to Sir Thomas Meautys, Knt. secondly, to Sir Harbottle Grimston, Bart.) and Jane, who died unmarried. Sir Nicholas had two other sons that died young. The three daughters of Sir Nicholas the first Baronet, were, 1. Anne, married to Sir Robert Drury, of Hawsted in Suffolk, Knt. 2. Dorothy, married, first, to Sir Bassingbourn Gawdey, of Harling in Norfolk, Knt. and, secondly, to Philip Colby, Esq; 3. Jemima, to Sir William Waldegrave, of Smallbridge, Knt. Sir Nicholas, and his lady, lived fifty-two years together in wedlock, and dying within a short time one of another, the anno 1616, he not long after. They both lie buried in Redgrave church, under a most magnificent altar tomb, with both their effigies curiously carved in full proportion out of the finest white marble.

The inquisition after the death of this Sir Nicholas, dated 7 Nov. 1 Car. I. says, he died 13 Nov. 22 Jac. I. and Sir Edmund Bacon, Knt. and Baronet, found son and heir of the said Sir Nicholas and Anne his wife, and fifty years old.

Sir Edmund, the eldest, succeeded his Father in the title and estate, and married Philippa, one of the daughters and coheirs of the right hon. Edward lord Wotton, Baron of Marley; but dying without issue, April 10, 1649, lies buried at Redgrave aforesaid, under a handsome mural monument.

He was succeeded by Sir Robert, his next surviving brother, called before Robert Bacon, of Riborough in Norfolk, Esq; (an estate now in the family) where he mostly resided. He married Anne, daughter of Sir John Peyton, of Iselham in Cambridgshire, Knight and Baronet, and had issue by her, nine sons and three daughters, viz. Edmund, Nathaniel, Henry, Francis, and Drury, who all died young; Nicholas, who married Margaret, daughter and coheir of — Hobart, of Thwayte in Norfolk, Esq; but died without issue. The other sons were, Robert, the eldest, who married Catharine, daughter to Grave Violet, of Pynkney-house, near Tatterford in Norfolk, Esq; and dying in his Father's life-time, Aug. 25, 1652, was buried at Redgrave, leaving issue one son, Edmund, successor to his grandfather, and four daughters; 1. Jemima, married to Thomas Gardiner, of Essex, Esq; and after to Sir John Brattel, Knight, Assay-master of the Tower of London; 2. Philippa, married to Sir George Reeve, of Thwaite, Knight and Baronet; 3. Frances, to Paul Bockenham, of Great-Thornam, Esq; 4. Anne, to Edmund Yaxlee, of Yaxlee, Esq; all in the county of Suffolk.

Butts Bacon, Esq; another son of Sir Robert, married Dorothy, daughter and coheir of Sir John Tracey, of Stanhow in Norfolk, Knt. and was Father of Sir Robert, hereafter mentioned.

Peyton

Peyton Bacon, Esq; another son, married Eliz. daughter of Charles Suckling, of Wotton in Norfolk, Esq. Sir Robert's daughters were, 1. Philippa, married to Hamond Claxton, of Levermore; 2. Anne, to Thomas Hunt, of Sharnington; and 3. Alice, to Richard Gwyn, of Fakenham-Market, Esq.

Sir Edmund, only surviving son of Robert, aforesaid, succeeding his grandfather in title and estate, married Elizabeth, one of the daughters and coheirs of Sir Robert Crane, of Chilton in Suffolk, Knight and Baronet, by whom he had issue six sons and ten daughters; all of which, except four daughters, died unmarried before him. The sons were, 1. Robert; 2. Nicholas; 3. Edmond; 4. Edmond; 5. Philip; 6. Francis. The daughters were; 1. Susan; 2. Elizabeth; 3. Catharine; 4. Jemima; 5. Jane; 6. Sarah. Those that married were, 1. Frances, to Walter Norborne, of Calne in the county of Wilts, Esq; (by whom he had issue only two daughters, Elizabeth, married to Edward Viscount Hereford, and Susan, to Sir Ralph Hare, Bart.) 2. Susanna, to Charles Morris, of Loddington in Leicestershire, Esq; 3. Elizabeth, to William Ettrick, of the Middle-Temple, Esq; and, 4. Philippa, to Sir Edmund Gillingham, Bart. Sir Edmund Bacon, of Redgrave aforesaid, died Sept. 12, 1685, aged fifty-two, and lies buried in the church belonging to that place.

After Sir Edmond's decease without issue male, the title and part of the estate descended to,

Sir Robert Bacon, his cousin, son and heir to Butts Bacon, Esq; who was before seated at Egmore in Norfolk; and after the death of his cousin, Sir Edmund, was possessed of the estate at Redgrave; which descending to him under some incumbrances, he thought convenient to sell that estate to the lord chief-justice Holt, and afterwards purchased at Garboldisham in Norfolk, where he built a handsome seat for the future residence of his family. He died Jan. 31, 1704, and lies buried in the chancel of All-Saints church in Garboldisham.

He left issue by Elizabeth his wife, daughter to Daniel Chandler, of London, Esq; two sons, Sir Edmund, his successor, and Butts, who died unmarried, 1725-6, (Nathaniel and Robert, his two other sons, having died young before him) and two daughters, Abigail and Jane, who died unmarried.

Sir Edmund Bacon, of Garboldisham in Norfolk, represented the borough of Thetford in parliament the 9th of Queen Anne; and the county of Norfolk in three parliaments. He married, in November 1712, Mary, daughter of Sir Robert Kemp, of Ubbeston in Suffolk, Bart. (and sole heir to her mother, Letitia, daughter to Robert King, of Great Thurlow in the county of Suffolk, Esq;) which Lady died Sept. 14, 1727, leaving only four

four daughters, Letitia, married to the present Sir Armine Wodehouse, Bart. but died March 30, 1759; Mary; Sarah, married to Pryse Campbell, jun. and died May 20, 1767; and Elizabeth, who died unmarried, May 1738. Sir Edmund died June 1755.

It now remains to trace the family account of Sir Butts Bacon, from the time of his being created a Baronet, which was on the 29th of July, 1627, down to the present Sir Richard.

Sir Butts Bacon married Dorothy, daughter of Sir Henry Warner, of Parham in Suffolk, Knt. widow of William, second son of Sir Henry Jermyn, Knt. by whom he had three sons; Charles and Clement, who both died without issue, and Sir Henry his successor. He had also two daughters; Anne, married to Henry Kitchingman, of Bluntesdon Hall in Suffolk; and Dorothy, to William Peck, of Cove, in the same county, Esqrs.

He was succeeded by Sir Henry, his son, who removed to Herringfleet, in Suffolk, where his father had built a seat. He married Barbara, daughter of William Gouch, of Mettingham in Suffolk, Esq; and had issue his successor; and Anne, married to Sir Richard Bacon, of Gillingham in Norfolk, Bart. but died without issue.

Sir Henry Bacon, successor to the title and estate, was of Herringfleet and Gillingham, and executor to his sister's husband Sir Richard. He married Sarah, daughter of Sir John Castleton, of Sturston in Suffolk, Bart. by whom he had Sir Edmund, his successor; Henry and Nicholas, who died unmarried; and Richard, married to a daughter of Thomas Palgrave, of Norfolk, Esq;

Sir Edmund Bacon, Bart. the eldest son, married Philippa, daughter of Sir Edmund Bacon, of Redgrave in Suffolk, and died July 10, 1721, leaving issue, Sir Edmund, the succeeding Baronet; Henry, Richard, Devereux, made surveyor-general of his Majesty's dominions in North America, but died in his passage thither, July 1731, unmarried; John, Ralph, and Elizabeth, who died unmarried, Sept. 1738, and Philippa.

Sir Edmund Bacon, the eldest son, succeeded his father in title and estate. He represented the borough of Thetford in Norfolk, the sixth, seventh, and eighth parliaments of Great Britain. He married Susan, (now living) daughter of Sir Isaac Rebow, of Colchester in Essex, Knt. and died at Bath, Oct. 2, 1738. His issue was Sir Edmund, his successor, and a second son, born November, 1726, who died in his infancy; and Susan, married, March 18, 1765, to Francis Schutz, Esq;

Sir Edmund, his son and heir, succeeded him; and, on the death of Sir Edmund Bacon, of Garboldisham, before mentioned, ed, succeeded to that title likewise; so that this family enjoys the title of Baronet, not only by virtue of the patent granted in 1627, to Sir Butts Bacon, of Milden Hall afore said, fifth son of Sir Nicholas Bacon, of Redgrave, Bart. but likewise by that of 1611: By which means the present Sir Richard stands first on the honourable list of Baronets. The above Sir Edmund had a son and a daughter, of which the son died under age. Sir Edmund dying in 1750, was succeeded by his eldest brother,

Sir Henry, who dying unmarried, the title then descended to

Sir Richard Bacon, of Colchester, the present Baronet, who has had several sons, but all died under age. On the death of Sir Richard, the title will descend to Castle Bacon, Esq; (half brother of Sir Richard) of Reveningham in Norfolk.

2. HOGHTON, of Hoghton Tower, Lancashire.

Created B A R O N E T, May 22, 1611.

THIS family, anciently written de Hocton, and Hoghton, have been of great eminency in the county of Lancaster, in former ages, and were denominated, from their possessions, Hoghton Tower, a stately and large stone edifice, built upon an high, but very steep hill, in the middle of a park in the hundred of Leyland. The first mentioned, is Adam de Hocton, who held one carucat of land in Hocton, temp. Hen. II. whose great grandson was Sir Adam de Hoghton, written Knight 50 Hen. III. He had two sons, Richard, stiled Filius dom. Adæ, 2 Edw. I. and Adam de Hoghton, stiled also in deeds, Filius dom. Adæ, 20 Edw. I. and afterwards Frater magistri Richardi. Which Richard was sheriff of the county of Lancaster, 29 Edw. I. an office in those days of great trust and authority. He had a son Richard, who dying without issue, the estate came to his cousin and heir, another Richard de Hoghton, son of Adam de Hoghton. Which Richard was a Knight, and in 16 Edw. II. with Sir Gilbert de Singilton, Knt. were returned knights of the shire for the county of Lancaster, in the parliament held at York, and had their wages allowed for attendance, &c. In the same year
he

he and Edmund de Nevyle served as knights of the shire for the afore-mentioned county, as also in the 11th of that King's reign, and had their wages allowed. He died 14 Edw. III. having not a little increased the estate, by means of his wife Sibyll, daughter and heir to Henry de Lea, who had great possessions. Though these Lea's sometimes sealed with five Mascles in Bend for arms, and differed in the writing their names; yet were they nevertheless a cadet of the first dynasty of the Lancasters, primitively barons of Kendal, in Westmoreland, and lineal descendants from Ivo Talbois earl of Anjou in France, and barons of Kendal, temp. W. Conq.

The said Richard, by his wife Sibyll, aforementioned, had issue Adam de Hoghton, and a daughter named Sibyll, the wife of William, son of Richard de Bold.

Adam, last mentioned, is stiled a knight in deeds, 22 Edw. III. in which year he and John Cockaine served in parliament, as knights of the shire for the county of Lancaster, and had for their expences, 15*l.* 4*s.* for thirty days. In the 37th of that king's reign he served again as knight for that shire; as also in the 39th; and had, with the other knight, 17*l.* 4*s.* for forty-three days attendance. He died 10 Rich. II. leaving issue, by Ellen his wife, who survived her husband, two sons, Richard and Henry, and as many daughters. Agnes, the eldest, was wife to Sir Thomas, son of Sir Adam Banaster, Knt. and Sibyll, to William, brother of that Sir Thomas. Sir Henry de Hoghton the youngest son, was one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Lancaster, 9 Henry IV. and was progenitor to those of the name of Pendleton, in that county, which, in after times, went off in two heirs females; Catharine, married to a younger son of Hoghton of Hoghton, as is hereafter mentioned; and Mary, first married to George Singleton of Stayning, and secondly to Livesey Coner.

Richard de Hoghton, elder brother to the last Henry, was returned with Robert de Clifton, as Knights of the Shire for Lancaster, 6 Richard II. as also 4 Henry IV. with Sir Nicholas de Haverington, Knt. In which year the Sheriffs were directed to levy 27*l.* for their coming, attendance, and returning, computing sixty-nine days. He was a Knight, founded a chantry in the church of Ribbleschester, 7 Henry IV. and died 10 Henry V. leaving a daughter, Catharine, married to Hugh Venables, baron of Kinderton, and his grandson Richard, son of Adam de Hoghton, heir to the estate. He had also another son, Edward, who is supposed to be the ancestor to the Hoghtons in Suffex, who are said to be derived from Edward, a third son of this family.

Richard,

14 HOGHTON of Hoghton Tower.

Richard, grandson and heir of Sir Richard, died 19 Edward IV. He had five sons, Lawrence, Alexander, William, Thomas, who married Anne, daughter of Oliver Culcheth, and Edward; the two last died without issue; Lawrence succeeded in the estate, and dying the same year,

Alexander, his brother, and next heir, is found to be possessed of the inheritance, and was aged twenty-six years, 19 Edward IV. when the office was taken. In the 22d of that King's reign, having valiantly behaved himself under the Duke of Gloucester, in Scotland, he was made Knight Banneret, with several others of great note, on St. James's eve. He died 15 Henry VII. leaving a sole daughter and heir, aged eleven years at the time of the inquisition; and 17 Hen. VII. her mother Elizabeth, daughter of William Troutbeck, had assignation of dower. The greatest part of the estate descended to his next brother and heir,

William Hoghton, Esq; third son of Richard; which William was in the expedition into Scotland, under the Duke of Gloucester, and received from him the honour of knighthood, at the same time his brother, Sir Alexander, was made a Banneret. He died 17 Hen. VII. leaving issue by Mary his wife, daughter of Sir John Southworth of Samlesbury, Knt. Richard his son and heir, aged thirty years.

This Richard was afterwards knighted, and served with Thomas Butler as Knights of the Shire for the county of Lancaster, 1 Edward VI. He married four wives, first Alice, daughter and co-heir of Sir Thomas Afsheton, of Afsheton Under-Line, in Lancashire, Knt. and cousin and heir of Sir James Harrington of Wolphage in Northamptonshire, Knt. by whom he left issue Thomas, his son and heir, aged forty years at the death of his father, 1 Eliz. Alexander, and Isabella, married to Holden of Duxbury.

His second wife was Alice, daughter of Morley, by whom he had Thomas, Rowland, and Richard; Agnes, wife of Richard Butler of Rawcliffe, Alice, and Anne.

His third wife was Elizabeth, daughter of John Grigson; and the fourth, Anne, daughter of Roger Browne of Whitney. By the two last he left no issue.

Thomas, the eldest son and heir, married Catharine, daughter of Sir Thomas Gerard of Bryne, in Lancashire, Knt. and died 22 Elizabeth, leaving Jane his daughter, and heir, twenty-six years old at his death, and at that time wife to James, son and heir of Robert Bradshaigh of Haigh, in Lancashire, Esq; who had a great contest about the estate, which was at length decided for Alexander, second brother, and next heir male to Thomas, father of Jane aforementioned.

Which

Which Alexander Hoghton Esq; married twice, first to Dorothy, only daughter of Richard Asheton of Middleton, in Lancashire, Esq; by Catharine his second wife, daughter of Sir Robert Bellingham, Knt. and afterwards to Elizabeth, sister of Thomas and Bartholomew Hesketh, Esqs. and widow of George Warburton, Esq; but he left no issue by either of them; whereupon the estate descended to Thomas his half brother, viz. eldest son to Sir Richard Hoghton last mentioned, by his second wife Alice, daughter of — Morley.

Which Thomas, was sheriff of Lancashire, 6 Eliz. and was killed in the 49th year of his age, at Lea-Hall, by — Langton of Newton, commonly called Baron of Walton and Newton, 21 Nov. 32 Elizabeth, 1589. His wife Anne, daughter of Henry Kighley, of Kighley, in Lancashire, Esq; (son and heir of Sir Henry Kightley alias Kighley, Knt.) became afterwards second wife to Sir Richard Sherburn of Stonyhurst, Knt. She died at Lea, 30 Oct. A. D. 1609, aged 60 years; having issue by her first husband, 1. Sir Richard, Knt. and Bart. 2. William of Grimfargh, who died A. D. 1642, and left posterity, which lately became extinct, and the estate devolved to the head branch of the family. 3. Thomas, who married Catharine, one of the daughters and co-heirs of John Hoghton of Pendleton, Esq; and left four daughters his co-heirs. 4. Adam of Lea-Moor, who left posterity. And, 5. Henry, who married Anne, daughter of Lawrence Townley, Esq; also two daughters, Mary, second wife to Thomas Walmsley of Dunkenhalth, in Lancashire, Esq; and Catharine, wife of Thomas Middleton of Leighton, Esq;

Sir Richard Hoghton of Hoghton, eldest son of Thomas, was under age at his father's death, and in ward to Sir Gilbert Gerard: He succeeded to a very great estate, was knighted by Queen Elizabeth, and sheriff of Lancashire the forty-first year of her reign, and made a Baronet with the first advanced to that dignity. He served in several parliaments as Knight of the Shire for the county of Lancaster, and died 12 Nov. A. D. 1630, aged sixty years, six weeks, and two days. He married Catharine, daughter of Sir Gilbert Gerard, of Gerard's Bromley, in Staffordshire, Knt. master of the Rolls, who died 17 Nov. 1617, aged forty-eight years and six months: He had by her five sons and eight daughters; 1. Gilbert. 2. Thomas. 3. Richard. 4. Ratcliff. And 5. Roger, slain in Germany. The last three left no issue. Of the daughters, Anne, married first Sir John Cotton of Landwade, in Cambridgeshire, Knt. and afterwards Sir John Carleton of Brightwell, in Oxfordshire, Knt. and Bart. Catharine, was wife to James Stewart, Lord Galloway; Elizabeth, to Nicholas Girling, Esq; Gilbert, was married to Sir George Muscamp of the county of Northum-

Northumberland, Knt. Frances, Alice, Margaret, and Eleanor, all died unmarried.

Sir Gilbert, his successor, was thirty-nine years old at the death of his father, and was knighted at Whitehall, July the 21st, 1606. Sir Gilbert served several years in parliament as Knight of the Shire for the county of Lancaster, and died in April, 1647, having married Margaret, the eldest of the four daughters and co-heirs of Sir Roger Aston, of Cranford in Middlesex, Knt. gentleman of the bed-chamber, and master of the great wardrobe to King James I. to which Sir Roger, the said King, in the 9th year of his reign, granted to his coat-armour, an augmentation out of the two national badges of England and Scotland, viz. the Rose of England, and the Thistle of Scotland impaled, in a Canton, Or, in regard of the marriage of the said Sir Roger, with Mary, daughter of Andrew Stewart, who died in the lifetime of his father Andrew Stewart, Lord Avingdale, in Scotland, descended from the blood royal: Sir Gilbert's descendants therefore bear the same in right of his lady, who died Dec. 23, 1657, and bore him six sons and four daughters. 1. George, the eldest son, died young. 2. Richard, succeeded to the title and estate. 3. Roger, who was slain by a cannon-bullet at Heflam-moor, A.D. 1643. 4. Gilbert, major in the regiment of Sir Gilbert Gerard, Knt. governor of Worcester; married to Lettice, daughter and co-heir of Sir Francis Gamull of Chester, Knt. died anno 1661. 5. Thomas, died young. And, 6. Henry, captain of under the Earl of Derby, who took to wife Mary, daughter of Peter Egerton of Shaw, in Lancashire, Esq; and relict of Sir Tho. Stanley of Bickerstaff, in Lancashire, Bart. Of the daughters, Catharine married Thomas Preston of Holker, in Lancashire, Esq; Mary, Sir Hugh Calverly of Lee, in Cheshire, Knt. Margaret, Alexander Rigby of Middleton, in Lancashire, Esq; and Anne died young.

Sir Richard Houghton, Bart. who succeeded his father in the title and estate, was elected Knight of the Shire for the county of Lancaster, in the reign of King Charles II. and died Feb. 1677-8, universally regretted, as well on account of his many eminent virtues, as his distinguished abilities. He married lady Sarah, daughter to the right hon. Philip Stanhope, earl of Chesterfield, and had issue several sons and daughters; of the sons, those who arrived to maturity were Sir Charles his successor, and Benjamin, who died unmarried.

Sir Charles, who succeeded to the title and estate, married Mary, eldest daughter of John Skeffington, lord viscount Massareene, in the kingdom of Ireland, by whom he had issue five sons and six daughters. Of the sons, John the eldest died at the age of twenty-one. Sir Henry succeeded to the title and estate. Philip, who died in

Baronet, and Mary and Anne, both unmarried ; Skeffington, who died Feb. 8, 1768, aged eighty, unmarried ; and James, who died young. Of the daughters, Mary, the eldest, died at Chester, in 1710 ; Cordelia, widow of Robert Davie, of York, Esq; died on the very same evening as her brother Skeffington, having had two daughters, both dead ; Anna, widow of Samuel Crooke, of Cop-pul, Esq; died in 1760, and has left one son ; Margaret, married Samuel Watfon, of Hull, Esq; (by whom she has one son and one daughter ;) Elizabeth, married Thomas Fenton, of Houn-flett, near Leeds, Esq; (and has left eight sons and two daugh-ters ;) Lucy, married Thomas Lutwidge, of Whitehaven, Esq; (and has seven sons and one daughter.)

Sir Charles Hoghton, Bart. was three times elected Knight of the Shire for the county of Lancaster, in the reigns of K. Charles II, K. James II, and K. William III. He died at Hoghton-Tower, 10 June, 1710, and was buried at Walton, among his an-cestors. He was succeeded in honour and estate by his second son,

Sir Henry Hoghton, who married three wives, first, (in Oct. 1710,) Mary, eldest daughter of Sir William Boughton, of Law-ford, in Warwickshire, Bart. who died at Dover, 1720. After her decease, he married Lady Russel, relict of Lord James Russel, fifth son of William, the late Duke of Bedford ; she died, Sept. 1736 ; by neither of whom he had any issue ; and after her death was married to Susanna, eldest daughter of Thomas Butterworth, of Manchester, Esq; but had no issue. He served in Parliament for the borough of Preston, in Lancashire, in 9 Q. Anne ; and also again for the same corporation in 1 Geo. I. and 8 Geo. I. he served in Parliament for Eastlow in Cornwall ; and was after-wards twice elected for Preston ; and for his signal services in opposing the rebellion at Preston, in the year 1715, was chosen in Parliament one of the Commissioners for the forfeited estates ; and, after that commission determined, his late Majesty appointed him, by patent, Advocate-general or Judge-martial of his land forces. In the year 1740 he resigned his seat in Parliament, after having represented the borough of Preston near thirty years. From that time he resided at Walton-Hall, and continued to serve his country, as a Magistrate, with vigilance and activity, almost to the last period of a long life, which ended on the 23d of Feb. 1768, being then eighty-nine years of age. Leaving no issue, he was succeeded by

His nephew, Sir Henry Hoghton, the present Baronet, who, in the year 1760, married Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of William Ashhurst, of Hedingham Castle, in the county of Essex, Esq. This Lady died, the following year, in childbed, leaving only a daughter, Elizabeth. By this marriage, upon the death of Thomas Ashhurst, Esq; Sir Henry Hoghton became possessed of

3. BOOTH, of Dunham Massey, Cheshire.

Created BARONET, May 22, 1611.

THE family of Booth it undoubtedly of great antiquity in the Counties Palatine of Lancaster and Chester, where their constant residence has been with great repute and honourable note, through a succession of many generations; and from whom, as from one common or principal stock, all other families of this name, in other parts of the nation, are esteemed to be, by younger branches, descended. Various are the traditions touching the original stem of this family, which, like most others of long standing, is so ingulfed in the obscurity of all-devouring time, that no other light than conjecture is now to be had thereof. The most probable is, that their beginning was at a certain place called the Booths, in the County Palatine of Lancaster, where being seated, they were thence so furnamed, as the manner of those ages was, to stile men from the places where they lived.

And here, before I proceed, it may be proper to note the different manner in which the name of Booth has, in various ages, been wrote, viz. Booth, (as at this time,) Bothe, Both, Bouth, Bouthe, Boothe, as appears by many ancient deeds and evidences belonging to the family, (some in the possession of the Right honourable the Countess Dowager of Stamford, and others in the possession of George Booth Tyndale, Esq;) and is common in many families of great antiquity.

The first of this name I meet with, is William, son of Adam de Booths, in the County Palatine of Lancaster, living 1275,

BOOTH, of Dunham Massey. (19)

3 Edw. I. He married Sibil, daughter of Sir Ralph de Brereton, in the County Palatine of Chester, Knt. The Breretons were a very ancient family, seated at Brereton, in the aforesaid county, and continued there in a long succession of heirs males, until the same became extinct by the death of Francis, Lord Brereton, of the kingdom of Ireland, without issue, in the year 1721.

To this William succeeded Thomas de Booths, his son and heir, who had issue John de Booths, living in the reign of Edward II. (This was Robert, as appears by a copy of an old deed belonging to Barton, entered in a book which George Booth, of Woodford, in Cheshire, had lent him, by Richard Leigh, of High Leigh, in Cheshire, Esq; May, 1688.) He married Agnes, or Anne, daughter and heir of Sir Gilbert de Barton, near Eccles, in Lancashire, Knt. Here again seems to be another mistake; he married not Agnes, or Anne, but her daughter and heir, called Loretta, (if either,) who was of age, and unmarried, 20 Edw. I. as appears by a copy of a deed in the same book; for it was not likely that if he had married Agnes, and she had no issue male, the estate would have continued in the name of the Booths. After all, I rather think that Thomas Booth, called Tomalin of the Booths, was the first of Barton, and by purchase, as appears by copies of many deeds in that book, the lands bought of John, son of Gilbert de Barton, 27 Edw. III. and other deeds by his brothers and sisters, all releasing the first Gilbert de Barton, whose daughter and heir was Agnes, who lived 35 Hen. III. and Edw. I.

This John (or Robert) de Booths, had issue Sir Thomas Booth, of Barton, Knt. called Tomalin of the Booths, living in the reign of Edw. III. This Seal was given by Thomas Booth, of Barton, in Lancashire, 43 Edw. III. viz. a Chevron engrailed, in a Canton, a Mullet; and for a Crest, a Fox, and a Catharine-wheel; and this Label round it, Sigillum Thomæ Bothe, per antiquam cartam penes Dominum Delamer, 1680. He married Ellen, daughter of Thomas or Robert de Workesley (now wrote Worsley,) near Booths, in Lancashire, (from whom the Worsleys, of Pilewell, Hants, are descended,) and had issue three sons, and four daughters;

1. John, his son and heir, of whom hereafter.
2. Henry, who had issue John. To this Henry his father gave all his lands in Irwell, by the above mentioned deed.
3. Thomas, who had issue Robert.

The daughters were; 1. Alice, married, first, to William Leigh, of Baguleigh, in Cheshire; and, secondly, to Thomas Duncalf, of Foxwist, in —, Esq; 2. Catharine; 3. Margaret; and, 4. Anne, married to Sir Edward Weever, of Weever, Knt.

(20) B O O T H, of Dunham Massey.

The said John (son and heir of Sir Thomas, or Tomalin,) called John Booth, of Barton, lived in the reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV. It is said by Sir Peter Leiceſter, in his Antiquities of Cheſhire, p. 244. that this John was the firſt who gave the Boars Heads for his Arms, which was the Coat of the Lords of Barton, being granted to him and his heirs for ever, by Thomas Barton, of Barton, in Lancaſhire, by deed, dated 5 Hen. IV, 1404. But this is conceived to be a miſtake; for this John Booth, being the grandſon and heir of Agnes, or Anne, who was daughter and heir to Sir Gilbert de Barton, and who inherited all the Lordſhip of Barton, as appears by the ſame being at this day poſſeſſed by the heirs general deſcended from this Agnes, it is to be preſumed that the family of Barton, of Barton, became extinct in her, and ſeems not at all probable, that there could be any Barton, of Barton, cotemporary with this John Booth, to make ſuch a grant; neither was there occaſion for any ſuch grant, the deſcendants of the ſaid Agnes being entitled, by the Laws of Heraldry, to bear her Coat of Arms, or to quarter it with their Paternal Coat, if any ſuch they had prior to their anceſtors marrying her; nor, if ſuch grant were, is it probable, that the ſame ſhould have been deferred till the grandſon of Agnes, and not rather to have been made to Thomas her ſon, and immediate ſucceſſor. And the family of Booth have anciently, as to this day, quartered next to their Paternal Coat, another, viz. Argent, a Feſs, Gules, by the name of Barton. It is therefore much more probable, that the three Boars Heads, as now borne by them, was always their Paternal Coat.

This John Booth, of Barton, married, firſt, Joan, daughter of Sir Henry Trafford, of Trafford, in Lancaſhire, Knt. (a family of the greateſt antiquity, having been ſeated there before the time when William the Conqueror entered England, and have continued there in a lineal deſcent to this preſent time,) by whom he had iſſue ſeven ſons, and five daughters; 1. Sir Thomas; 2. Sir Robert; (of theſe two more hereafter;) 3. William, who was firſt bred in Grey's Inn, London, in the ſtudy of the Common Law, till, upon an offer of a Chancellor's place, in St. Paul's, he took Orders, was afterwards conſecrated Biſhop of Lichfield and Coventry, and ſix years afterwards tranſlated to the Archbiſhoprick of York. He had ſeveral other valuable Preferments in the Church; he died Sept. 12, 1464, and was buried in St. John Baptiſt's chapel at Southwell, purſuant to his own directions. 4. Richard, who ſettled at Strickland, (or Shrubland-hall,) near Ipſwich, in Suffolk, and was buried at Sallow, or Sawley, in Derbyſhire, where there is a memorial of him, and Phelippe his wife, daughter of Thomas Pey, Eſq; 5. Roger, who died Auguſt 18, 1467, and was buried at Sallow,

B O O T H, of Dunham Massey. (21)

Sallow, or Sawley, aforesaid. His wife was Catharine, daughter and heir of Ralph Hatton, of Mollington, near Chester, Esq; She died in 1466, and was buried with her husband, leaving issue, first, Robert Booth, of Sallow, or Sawley, aforesaid, who died Feb. 22, 1478, and was buried there; (by Margaretta, daughter of —, who survived him, he had several children; Charles, John, Roger, Catharine, Isabel, Dowse, Jane, Agnes, and Eme. Charles, the eldest son, was Bishop of Hereford, and had many other valuable preferments in the church; he died May 5, 1535, and was buried in Hereford cathedral. John, the second son, had issue another John, who was collated, Jan. 29, 1522, to the Archdeaconry of Hereford; he was also a Prebendary in that cathedral, and died in 1542;) and a son Thomas, who was collated Prebendary of Hereford, in Warham division, Sept. 1533. The other children of Roger Booth, by Catharine his wife, were John, who succeeded, Oct. 28, 1495, to the Prebend of Rical, in York cathedral, on the resignation of Tanfield; he was Prebendary of Southwell, and Treasurer of Lichfield; he was also Archdeacon of Durham, proved by a deed of 14 March, 15 Edw. IV. in the possession of George Booth Tyndale: He died in July, 1496, and was buried at Sallow, or Sawley, aforesaid. Ralph, who was admitted Archdeacon of York, Feb. 24, 1477; (he was Master of the Hospital of St. Giles de Kepier, proved by the same deed.) And also one daughter, Isabel, married to Ralph Nevil, third Earl of Westmorland, and buried at Branspath. The sixth son of John Booth, of Barton, was John, who was Prebendary of Norton Episcopi, in Lincoln cathedral; he is said by some to have been Bishop of Exeter; but that is a mistake, as appears by Weever, in his Funeral Monuments, 4445, and by Sir P. Leicester, 244. 7. Ralph. The daughters of the aforesaid John Bothe, of Barton, were, first, Margery, who married Sir John Byron, of Clayton, in Lancashire, Knt. 2. Joan, married first to Thomas Sherborne, of Stanhurst, in Lancashire, Esq; secondly, to Sir Thomas Sudworth, or Southworth, Knt. 3. Catharine, married to Thomas Ratcliffe, of Wimmerley, in Cheshire, Esq; 4. Alice, married to Sir Robert Clifton, of Clifton, in Nottinghamshire, Knt. she died Sept. 9, 1470, and was buried at Clifton. 5. Lucy, married to Sir Edward Weever, Knt. if this be not mistaken for Anne, her father's sister, afore-mentioned. The second wife of John Bothe, of Barton, aforesaid, was Maud, daughter of Sir John Savage, of Clifton, in Cheshire, Knt. by whom he had one son, Laurence, who was first Master of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, and was Chancellor of that University; he was Dean of St. Paul's, Bishop of Durham, and afterwards Archbishop of York; he was Keeper of the Privy-seal in 35

(22) B O O T H, of Dunham Massey.

Hen. VII. was also first Chancellor to Margaret, Queen to Hen. VI; and anno 13 Edw. IV, Sept. 20, Lord High Chancellor of England. He founded a Chantry for two Priests in the church of Southwell, and bought the manor of Battersea, near London, which he annexed to the Archbishoprick of York; he had several other valuable preferments in the church; he died at Southwell, May 19, 1480, and was buried in St. John Baptist's chapel there, (near his half brother, William,) where his tomb is yet to be seen, being a plain altar monument, which had his effigies engraven on a piece of brass, and an inscription under it, long since defaced.

We now return to Thomas Bothe, eldest son of John Bothe, of Barton, who was knighted 14 Hen. VI. He married a daughter of Sir George Carrington, Knt. and relict of ——— Weever, by whom he had issue four sons; 1. Thomas, who married, 1 Hen. VI. Anne, daughter of Sir John Ashton, of Ashton under Line, in Lancashire, Knight of the Bath, the 7th Hen. VI. by whom he had issue Robert Bothe, of Barton, who married a daughter of Sir John Savage, Knt. 32 Hen. VI. and had issue; but all failed about the time of Hen. VII; so Barton came to Sir John Bothe, the second son of Thomas Bothe, as by Barton evidences; which Sir John Bothe was slain at Floden Field, Sept. 9, 1533, 5 Hen. VIII. He married Ellen, or Hebrese, daughter of Sir Nicholas Byron, of Newsted, in Nottinghamshire, Knight of the Bath, and had issue one son, John, who married, temp. Hen. VII, Anne, daughter of Richard Ashton, of Middleton, in Lancashire, Esq; Their son John married Anne, daughter of Sir Richard Brereton, Knt. 32 Hen. VIII. They had issue one son, John, who died without leaving any male issue, whereby his three daughters became his coheirs; 1. Margaret, married to Edmund Trafford, of Trafford, in Lancashire, Knt. by whom he had issue three sons and one daughter; 2. Anne, married to George Leigh, of High Leigh, in Cheshire, Esq; and had issue one son, George; 3. Dorothy, married to John Molyneux, Esq; second son of Sir Richard Molyneux, of Sefton, in Lancashire, Knt. by whom she had a daughter. An Alice Bothe, daughter of Sir John Bothe, of Barton, Knt. married, temp. Hen. VIII, Alexander Ratcliffe, of Odfall, in ———, Esq; The other two sons of Thomas Bothe, eldest son of John Bothe, of Barton, were Henry and Nicholas.

The male line of the Bothes, of Barton, expiring, the line of Robert Bothe, second son of the afore-named John Bothe, of Barton, became the head branch of the family, and has so continued in lineal descent, to the Rev. Sir George Booth, the present Baronet.

Which

Which Robert Bothe was the first of the family who settled at Dunham Massey, in Cheshire, and died Sept. 16, 1450, and lies buried in the chancel of the parish church of Wilmeslow, in Cheshire. He married Dulcis, or Dowse, daughter and coheir of Sir William Venables, of Bollen, near Wilmeslow, aforesaid, Knt. which Sir William was the son of — Venables, by Joan, his wife, daughter and heir of Hamond Fitton, who was grandson of John Fitton, of Bollen, by Cicelie, his wife, eldest daughter and coheir of Sir Hamon de Massie, the sixth and last Baron of Dunham Massey, in the parish of Bowdon, in the County Palatine of Chester, being one of the eight Barons instituted by Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester, to whom William, called the Conqueror, in the fourth year of his reign, granted the whole county and Earldom of Chester. The family of Massey had been settled at Dunham Massey before the entrance of that Prince into England, and appears by the famous Survey, called Doom'sday book, to have been then possessed of a vast estate, as in other parts of Cheshire, so of the greatest part of the parish of Bowdon, which is of large extent.

This Sir Robert Bothe, and William his son, had a grant of the office of Sheriff of Cheshire for both their lives, and to the survivor of them, by patent, bearing date at Chester, Mar. 8, 21 Hen. VI. with all fees belonging to the said office, and to occupy it by themselves, or deputies. Dulcis, or Dowse, his wife, died Sept. 23, 1453, and lies buried with her husband. They had likewise a numerous issue, viz. nine sons, and five daughters; 1. Sir William, of whom hereafter; 2. Ralph, who married Margaret, daughter and heir of Thomas Sibell, of Sandwich, in Kent, by whom he had issue three daughters, his coheirs; (Jane, married to Robert Leicester, of Toft, in Cheshire, Esq; 2. Margaret, married to William Mere, of Mere, in Cheshire, Esq; 34 Hen. VI. and, 3. Dowse, married to — Comer, or Gomer, of London :) 3. Geoffrey; 4. Hamond, LL. D. 5. John, LL. D. Warden of Manchester college, was consecrated Bishop of Exeter, 22 Feb. 6 Edw. IV, 1466; he died 1 April, 1478, and was buried in St. Clements Danes church, London; he had, before he was consecrated Bishop, several other valuable preferments in the church; 6. Robert, Dean of York, died Jan. 25, 1487, buried in that cathedral; 7. Edmund, Archdeacon of Stow, in the diocese of Lincoln; (Br. Willis, vol. ii. p. 128.) 8. Peter; 9. Philip, who married the daughter of Sir William Hampton, of Willington, Knt. and had issue one son, Andrew, who married the daughter and heir of William Litton, Esq; The daughters were; 1. Lucy, married to William (Sir Peter Leicester has it John) Chauntrell, of the Batch, near

Chester, Esq; 2. Ellen, married to Robert Leigh, of Adlington, in Cheshire, Esq; 3. Alice, married to Robert Hesketh, of Rufford, in Lancashire, Esq; from whom the present Sir Thomas Hesketh, Bart. is descended; 4. Joan, married, 31 Hen. VI. to Hamond Maffie, of Rixton, in Lancashire, Esq; and, 5. Margaret, or Margery, married to James Scarebrick, Esq;

Sir William Bothe, of Dunham Massey, Knt. the eldest son of Sir Robert, married Maud, daughter of John Dutton, of Dutton, in Cheshire, Esq; 2 Hen. VI, 1442. By this Lady, (who surviving Sir William, married, secondly, Sir William Brereton, Knt.) he had issue five sons, and nine daughters; 1. George, of whom hereafter; 2. Richard; 3. Laurence; but a pedigree at Dunham Massey calls him Ralph; 4. John; and, 5. William. The daughters were; 1. Dowse, who married (1 Edw. IV, 1461) Thomas Leigh, of the Westhall, at High Leigh, in Cheshire, Esq; whose descendants are still living there; 2. Anne, married to John Leigh, of Booths, in Cheshire, Esq; whose descendants in the male line continued there till very lately; she married, secondly, Jeffery Shakerly, of Shakerly, in Lancashire, Esq; 3. Ellen, married to Sir John Leigh, of Baguleigh, in Cheshire, Knt. (6 Edw. IV, 1466,) whose issue male continued there till very lately; 4. Margery, married to John Hyde, of Haighton, in Lancashire, Esq; 5. Alice, married to John Ashley, of Ashley, in Cheshire, Esq; 6. Elizabeth, married to Thomas Fitton, of Pownall, in Cheshire, Esq; 7. Joan, married to William Holt, in Lancashire, Esq; 8. Isabella; and, 9. Catharine.

To this Sir William Bothe, K. Henry the sixth, in consideration of his good services, granted an annuity of ten pounds, to be received yearly during his life, at the Exchequer, at Chester, by patent, bearing date 27 Mar. 24 Hen. VI. This Sir William Bothe built or enlarged the chapel on the south side of the chancel of the parish church of Bowdon, in Cheshire, which has ever since been the burial place of this family. (Collins and Jacob, in their Peerages, say he died 16 Edw. IV, 1476; Weever dates the period of that event, April 6, 1478; but it is no wonder, that authors should differ in so remote a date.)

George Bothe, Esq; eldest son and heir of the said Sir William, married Catharine, daughter and heir of Robert Mountfort, of Bescote, in the county of Stafford, and of Monks-path, in the county of Warwick, Esq; descended from Charlemaine, Emperor of the Romans, and from David, King of Scots; and by his great-grandmother heir to the ancient and great family of Clinton, of Coleshill, in the said county of Warwick.

Warwick. This Catharine brought to her husband an ample estate of manors and lands in the several counties of Salop, Stafford, Warwick, Leicester, Hereford, Wilts, Somerset, Devon, and Cornwall. He had issue by her three sons, and two daughters; the sons were, 1. Sir William, of whom hereafter; 2. Laurence, who had a son named Charles; he was of Altringham, near Twamlow, in Cheshire, (the ancient seat of the Booths, says England's Gazetteer, edit. 1751;) and, 3. Roger. The daughters were; 1. Alice, or Anne, married to William Massie, of Denfield, in Cheshire, Esq; a family still in being; 2. This

(26) BOOTH, of Dunham Massey.

This Sir William Bothe was seized of divers manors in Cheshire, Yorkshire, Lancashire, Shropshire, Leicestershire, Herefordshire, Wiltshire, Somersetshire, and Cornwall, and died Nov. 19, 1519, 11 H. VIII, and was buried at Bowdon.

George Bothe, Esq; son and heir of the said Sir William, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Butler, of Beaufey, near Warrington, in Lancashire, Knt. whose progenitors had been summoned to Parliament among the Peers of England, in the reigns of K. Edw. I, and II. By her he had issue four sons and seven daughters; 1. George, his son and heir; 2. John, afterwards knighted, as appears by a pedigree at Dunham; (he married Elizabeth, daughter of John Dutton, of Cheshire, Esq; by whom he had four sons, William, Robert, M. A. Edmund, and Henry;) 3. Robert, who was Rector of Thornton in the Moors, in Cheshire, Rot. 1 Edw. VI. 4. Roger, Rot. Cest. ib. The daughters were, 1. Ellen, married to John Carrington, of Carrington, in Cheshire, Esq; 29 Hen. VIII, 1537; 2. Anne, married to William Massey, of Poppington, or Pudington, in Cheshire, Esq; whose issue male continued there till very lately; 3. Margaret, married to Sir William Davenport, of Bromhall, in Cheshire, Knt. whose family are still owners of that estate; 4. Elizabeth, married to Sir Richard Dutton, (Sutton, according to Sir Peter Leicester,) of Sutton, near Macclesfield, in Lancashire, 1566; 5. Dorothy, married to Robert Tatton, of Wilthenshaw, in Cheshire, Esq; whose descendants are still there; 6. Alice, married to Peter Daniel, of Over Tabley, in Cheshire, Esq; 4 Edw. VI, 1550, a family but lately extinct; 7. Cecilie, who died unmarried. This George Bothe died 22 Hen. VIII, 1531, aged forty years.

George Bothe, the eldest son and heir of the last mentioned George, being but sixteen years of age, married to his first wife (or was to marry her) as appears by an ancient deed, dated 12 June, 1531, 23 Hen. VIII, Margaret, daughter of Rowland Bulkeley, of Beaumorris, in the Isle of Anglesey, Esq; ancestor to the now Lord Viscount Bulkeley, of the kingdom of Ireland, but by her (if the marriage did take effect) had no issue; and she dying, he married, secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Edmund Trafford, of Trafford, in Lancashire, Knt. which marriage was agreed by deed, dated May 20, 27 Hen. Mary, married to Randle Davenport, of Henbury, in Cheshire, Esq; which family continued there for for many generations; and, 3. Anne, married to — Wentworth, of Yorkshire, Esq; To this George Bothe, being then in the 22d year of his age, Q. Jane Seymour commanded a Letter to be written, acquainting him with the birth of a son (afterwards K. Edw. VI.) bearing date at Hampton-court the very day of her delivery, Oct. 12, 29 Hen. VIII; which shows the error of those Historians who represent this Queen to have been ripped up for delivery of the child, and thereby dying. To this George Bothe also K. Hen. VIII. wrote a Letter concerning forces to be raised to war against the Scots, bearing date at Westminster, Feb. 10, in the 34th year of his reign. The originals of both these Letters are in the custody of Mary, Countess Dowager of Stafford. This George Bothe, Esq; died 35 Hen. VIII, 1544, aged twenty-eight. Elizabeth his wife surviving him, as aforesaid, died June 22, 1582, and was interred in Trentham church, in Staffordshire.

William Bothe, or Bouthe, son and heir of the last mentioned George, being but three years old when his father died, was in ward to the King; he was Sheriff of Cheshire, 1571, temp. Eliz. and was knighted in 1578; he married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Warburton, of Arley, in Cheshire, Knt. a family still continuing; she died Dec. 1628, and was buried in the Abbey church, Bath, the 27th of the same month. By this Lady Sir William had seven sons and six daughters. The sons were, 1. William, who died without issue before his father, in March 1572, and was buried at Bowdon, the 31st following; 2. The daughters were, 1. Eleanor, baptized at Bowdon, Feb. 27, 1573; 2. Thomas, the fourth son of Sir John, was born at Kenion, in Lancashire, and suffered death contrary to the laws of the land, Sept. 27, 1687, for a pretended murder he was accused of having committed at Yarmouth. Mary, who died unmarried, at London, May 12, 1657, and was buried in St. Sepulchre's church there; 2. (32) B O O T H, of Dunham Massey.

May 11, 1624, and baptized the 25th, at Bowdon, who married Sir John Jackson, of Hickleton, in Yorkshire, Knt. and Bart. she died in 1667.

This William Bouthe was Knight of the Shire for Cheshire, in the Parliament 21 James I. and was made Custos Rotulorum for Cheshire, by Commission, dated Nov. 20, 19 James I. which office, from that time, except with some intermission in the latter end of K. Cha. II, and during the reign of James II, continued in this family till 1693, when, on the death of Henry, first Earl of Warrington, who left his son, the late Earl, a minor, the same was disposed of elsewhere. This William Bouthe died before his father, April 26, 1636, and was buried at Bowdon the 3d of May following.

Sir George Bouthe, second son of the above William, was born Dec. 18, 1622, and succeeded his grandfather in the title of Baronet. By reason of his minority, at the death of his father, he became ward to the Crown. He represented the county Palatine of Chester in the Parliament 16 Charles I. and again in the first Parliament of K. Charles II, who sent a Commission under his Signet and Sign manual, bearing date July 22, 11 Charles II, a duplicate whereof bore date at Brussels, Aug. 9, 1659, 11 Car. II, constituting him Commander in Chief of all forces to be raised for his Majesty's service in Cheshire, Lancashire, and North Wales; which Commissions are recited in an Instrument under that King's Signet and Sign manual, bearing date at Whitehall, March 21, 22 Car. II, declaring that the said Sir George Booth, (then Lord Delamer,) acted by his said Commission in all he did, in order to his Majesty's restoration; and his Majesty grants this, both to declare the same, and for the remembrance of his early and eminent endeavours for his restoration, and to remain as a mark of his particular esteem for the merit of his service in that important conjuncture. In consideration of his many important services in assisting the Restoration, he was created, by letters patent, bearing date at Westminster, April 20, 1661, 13 Car. II. Baron Delamer, of Dunham Massey, to hold to him and the heirs male of his body. So frugal a method had the Crown, at that time, of rewarding services! On July 30, 1660, he was constituted Custos Rotulorum for Cheshire, and so continued till May 30, 1673, when he resigned it to Henry, his son and heir. After this, he not being studious to please the Court, in those measures which were taken in some parts of that reign, both he and his family were soon afterwards disregarded by the King, and ill used by his successor, King James II, as will be seen.

This George, Lord Delamer, married, about 13 Car. I. first, Catharine, daughter and heir of Theophilus Fienes, Earl of Lincoln,

Lincoln, who died in childbed, and was buried at Bowdon, Aug. 5, 1643, leaving an only daughter, Vere, born July 19, 1643, and baptized the 23d, who died unmarried Nov. 14, 1717, at Canonbury-house, Islington, in Middlesex, and was buried in that parish church the 23d of that month. He died Aug. 8, 1730, and was interred the 11th, in the College churchyard, at Bristol; his wife died June 4, 1732, and was interred the 10th, in the church of St. Bartholomew the Great, in West-Smithfield, London; the sons were, Robert, who was called to the Bar, and was elected, 1727, a Representative in Parliament for Bodmin, in Cornwall; he was educated at Westminster-School, and was a Student at Christ-church College, Oxford; he died unmarried, and was buried, Jan. 28, 1732-3, in the church of St. Martin in the Fields, London; 2. George, who was educated with his brother at Westminster, and was also a Student of the same college at Oxford; he afterwards took Holy Orders, and was Curate to his uncle, the learned Dr. Stephen Hales, at Farringdon, near Alton, Hants, where he died, unmarried, and was buried in the church there, Oct. 20, 1725; 3. Edward, who was also educated at Westminster School, and afterwards bred a Conveyancer, but died in June, 1729, young and unmarried, and was interred in the College church-yard, in Bristol, near his father ; 4. Nathanael, born June 9, 1709, who was also educated at Westminster, and bred a Spanish merchant; he married, April 26, 1743, Margaret, daughter of Richard Jones, of Ramsbury Manor, Wilts, Esq; by whom he had issue two sons, and one daughter ; 1. This Nathanael, on Aug. 2, 1758, succeeded to the Barony of Delamer, on the death of his first cousin, George, Earl of Warrington, and was Chairman of the Committees of the House of Lords from 1765 to his death, which happened Jan. 9, 1770; and dying without issue the Barony of Delamer became extinct ; but the dignity of a Baronet descended to his second cousin, the Rev. George Booth, Rector of Ashton under Line, in Lancashire, of whom in his proper place ; (and his two nieces and nephew, herein after named, became his coheirs at law, and, as such, entitled to quarter his arms ;) he was buried at Hampstead, with his children. 5. William, born 1710, and died young.

The daughters were, 1. Mary, who died unmarried at Bath, in March 1723, and was buried within the choir of the Abbey church of St. Peter and St. Paul there ; 2. Elizabeth, married, Oct. 19, 1724, at the Cathedral at Bristol, to Charlton Thruppe, of Hampstead, in Middlesex, Esq; by whom he had issue two daughters, (Elizabeth, now unmarried ; and Margaret Catharine, who married, in August, 1753, Zachary Bayley, now of the city of Wells, in Somersetshire, Esq;) she died Feb. 4, 1741-2, and was buried at St. Peter le Poor, near the Royal Exchange, London, the 8th of the same month ; 3. To this Gentleman the Editor is obliged not only for every particular in this Pedigree, but for many valuable materials inserted in various parts of this Work.) Also one daughter, ter, Elizabeth Vere, born April 22, 1745, who died Mar. 19, 1748-9, and was interred the 22d following, in the College church-yard at Bristol, with her maternal grandfather. The aforesaid Vere, wife of the said George Tyndale, died May 31, 1753, and was interred in the chancel of the parish church of Bathford aforesaid. The fourth and youngest daughter of Robert Booth was Catharine, who died unmarried Jan. 17, 1748-9, and was buried with her father and brother the 18th.

The sixth son of the first Lord Delamer was Cecil, who died unmarried May 16, 1711, and was buried at Wilmeslow, in Cheshire, May 19, following. 7. Nevil, baptized at Dunham, Nov. 15, 1667, and died, unmarried, on his return from the East Indies, anno 1685.

The daughters of the first Lord Delamer were, 1. Elizabeth, born June 14, 1646, married to Edward, Earl of Conway, Secretary of State, and died in childbed; 2. Anne, born Jan. 21, 1649, who died young; 3. Anne, born April 20, 1651, died Nov. 24, 1667, and buried at Clerkenwell aforesaid (near her brother) the 29th, where a monument is erected to her memory; 4. Jane, who died young, and was buried at Bowdon, anno 1663; 5. Diana, who married, first, Sir Ralph Delaval, of Seaton Delaval, in the county of Northumberland, Bart. a very ancient family (for a curious account of which see N^o 373. Vol. III. of this Work.) Secondly, she married Sir Edward Blacket, of Newby, in Yorkshire, Bart. living anno 1684. 6. Sophia, who died very young, and was buried at Bowdon.

George, the first Lord Delamer, died Aug. 8, 1684, and was buried at Bowdon.

Henry Booth, second Lord Delamer, the second son of the said George Lord Delamer, who, on the death of William, his elder brother, became heir, and succeeded to the Peerage on the death of his father, which happened as above mentioned. He was born Jan. 13, 1651; he had, in the life-time of his father, been Custos Rotulorum, and also Knight of the Shire for the County Palatine of Chester, in several Parliaments in the reign of King Charles II, wherein he always acted with great zeal for the interest of his country, and had been particularly warm for the passing the famous Bill of Exclusion, for which that great and good man, the Lord Russell, the morning of his going to be executed, sent him a very kind message of his respects for him; and having thereby incurred the displeasure of the then Duke of York, he was, before the death of King Charles II. committed close prisoner to the Tower of London, but after several months strict confinement, was released; yet soon after King James's accession to the

(36) B O O T H, of Dunham Massey.

Throne, he was again committed close prisoner there; and being after some time admitted to bail, was quickly afterwards taken up again, and committed a third time close prisoner to the Tower, on a false accusation of High Treason, on Thursday, January 14, 1685, (having but the day before completed the thirty-fourth year of his age,) he was, in a Court erected in Westminster-hall (as usual in case of Trial of Peers,) tried for High Treason before the Lord Chancellor Jefferys, his particular enemy, constituted Lord High Steward on the occasion; and although the Parliament was then actually existing by prorogation, he was not tried by the whole House of Peers, but a select number of twenty-seven Peers, summoned by the Lord High Steward for that purpose, (see State Trials, Volume the Second,) at which Trial his Lordship made so full and clear a defence, that he was by all those Peers his Judges, who gave their voices seriatim, unanimously acquitted. Happy for him that his father was then dead, whereby he was of right to be tried by his Peers, and not by such a Jury of Commoners as in those times the worthy Lord Russel, and many more great patriots, had felt the dire effects of! After this he lived retired, at his seat at Dunham Massey, not less beloved by his countrymen for the hardships he had undergone from the Court, until the happy Revolution; when, on intelligence of the Prince of Orange's design of coming, he, through the desire of delivering his country from Popery and Arbitrary Power, and perhaps not without some remembrance of the ill usage he had received from King James, raised, in a very few days, a great force in Cheshire and Lancashire, and therewith marched to join that Prince; on whose arrival at Windsor, in his approach towards London, this Lord Delamer, together with the Marquis of Halifax and the Earl of Shrewsbury, were, on the 17th of December, 1688, sent by that Prince with a Message to King James, to remove from Whitehall; which Message, they, being introduced into his Majesty's bed-chamber, by the Earl of Middleton, Secretary of State, delivered at one o'clock in the morning to the King, who was then in bed. A remarkable instance of the vicissitudes of fortune, or, rather, the appointments of an all-ruling Providence, that the King, who had been a spectator of the Lord Delamer's standing at the Bar upon Trial for Life, for a pretended High Treason, should, within less than three years, see that Lord come to his bed side, to bid him depart his royal Palace! A warning to all, to use their prosperity in such manner, as may best fit them for unforeseen adversities; remembering, that on this side the grave, no man can tell what is to befall him! And such was the use this Lord made thereof, thereof, whatever temptation it might be to him, to have then shewn an insulting resentment, for he comported himself with so much decency and respect towards that then unhappy Prince, and so sensible was that King of his civility to him on this occasion, that, after his retirement into France, he said, that Lord Delamer, whom he had used ill, had then treated him with much more regard than the other two Lords, to whom he had been kind, and from whom he might better have expected it.

This Henry, Lord Delamer, was, on the 13th of February, 1688, sworn a Privy Counsellor, and on April 9th, 1689, made Chancellor and Under Treasurer of the Exchequer; also on the 12th of the same month made Lord Lieutenant of the County Palatine of Chester, and of the city of Chester and county thereof, and on July 9th Custos Rotulorum of the said county; which last offices, together with that of Privy Counsellor, he enjoyed for life; but as to the others, he continued in them for about a year only. However, it was not thought adviseable to put this Lord out of employment, in a disobliging manner, and therefore he was, by Letters Patent, bearing date at Westminster, April 17, 1689, 2 William and Mary, created Earl of Warrington, in the County Palatine of Lancaster, to hold to him, and the heirs male of his body, for his great services in raising and bringing considerable forces to his Majesty, to rescue his Country and Religion from Tyranny and Popery, as the Preamble of the Patent expresses it. He died January 2, 1693, at London, and was interred at Bowdon, aforesaid, the 14th of the same month; as was his Lady, Mary, daughter and sole heir of Sir James Langham, of Cottesbrook, in the county of Northampton, Knt. and Bart. who died March 23d, 1690-91. sex, Esq; before mentioned.

drock, in Cornwall, Esq; Member for Bodmin; and Thomas

Created BARONET, May 22, 1611.

THIS family, as Mr. Camden observes, derive themselves from the Uffords, Earls of Suffolk, who descended from William Malet, a Norman Baron, who was Sheriff of Yorkshire in the third of William I.

The first of whom we find by the name of Peyton, was Reignold de Peyton, second son to Walter, Lord of Sibton, in Suffolk, younger brother to Malet, Sheriff of Yorkshire, and Lord of the honour of Eay, in Suffolk. This Reignold held the Lordships of Peyton-hall, in Ramshold, and Boxford, in Suffolk, of Hugh de Bigod, and had two sons, William and John.

John had issue four sons, John, the elder, Robert, Peter, and John, the younger.

Robert was Lord Justice of Ireland, in the time of Hen. III. and Edw. I. and, being Lord of Ufford, assumed the surname of his ancestors. Whose son, Robert de Ufford, was created Earl of Suffolk, 11 Edw. III, 1336, and made Knight of the Garter. He was at the battle of Cagn, and behaved so well, that the King rewarded him with the honour of Eye, formerly belonging to his family.

Brothers to the Earl, were Thomas de Ufford, Knight of the Garter, and John Ufford, who was brought up at Cambridge, and made doctor of law; promoted first to the deanry of Lincoln, coln, then to the chancellorship of England, and lastly, to the archbishoprick of Canterbury, which he never enjoyed, being cut off by the plague before he received either his pall or consecration, June 7, anno 1348, and lies obscurely buried in that cathedral church.

Peter de Peyton, lord of Peyton-Hall, married Helena —, of whom he had issue, Robert de Peyton, father to Sir John de Peyton, Knt. of the same places; whose issue male seemed to fail temp. Edw. III.

The fourth son was John de Peyton, jun. who sold to John his eldest brother, all his lands which he had in Boxford, of the fee of the abbey of St. Edmonds and Stoke-Neyland, which their father, John de Peyton, and William, their uncle, formerly possessed.

Sir John, the eldest son, succeeded, and was lord of Peyton-Hall in Boxford, who had issue by his wife, Matilda de Bueriis, three sons and one daughter, Agnes; William; and James de Peyton, who was witness to a dateless charter of his father, and to another of his elder brother, who was

Sir John de Peyton, Knt. successor to his father; to whom, and Clementia his wife, 27 Hen. III. John, son of William de Effington, gave two acres of land, &c. Sir John served in the parliament held at Westminster, as one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Suffolk, having reasonable allowance for his expence; as also in another parliament, 29 Edward I. soon after which he died. He had three wives, Agnes, Agnes, and Clementia.

Sir Robert, the eldest son, succeeded, who, in many of his evidences, is stiled Chevalier and Monsieur: He died 25 Edw. III. and was buried near his father, having had two wives, first, the Lady Christiana de Apleton, widow of William de Apleton, who died 19 Edward II. leaving no children, and was buried at Stoke-Neyland with great pomp, whose funeral expences are thus set down; fifty quarters of wheat, 4l. 10s. one hogshhead of wine, 53l. 4s. four muttoms, 5s. eight barrow-hogs, 24s. ten calves, &c. His second wife was Joan de Marney, of the noble family of the Marneys, of Layer-Marney, in Essex, by whom there was issue Sir John, the next heir, and William, who lies buried at Wicken.

Sir John succeeded, and married Margaret, the daughter and coheir of Sir John Gernon, of Lees, in Essex, Knt. lord of Wicken, in Cambridgeshire, and Bakewell in Derbyshire. Sir John died 17 Richard II. and his wife 2 Henry V.

family; who, dying about the 5th of Henry IV. left issue by his said wife, (afterwards married to Sir Roger Drury, Knt.) Margery, wife of Thomas Daubeney of Sharrington, in Norfolk, Esq; and three sons, John, Thomas, and Robert.

John, the eldest, was left a minor, being fifteen years old, 8 Henry IV. at which time an agreement was made between the Lady Margaret, his grandmother, Joan his mother of the one part; and John Burgoyne of Drayton, in Cambridgeshire, of the other; for an intermarriage with Grace, daughter of the said Burgoyne; which marriage took place; and from thence proceeded two sons, John and Thomas, and a daughter Anne, married to Jeffry Lockton, Esq. He died in the flower of his age, the 6th of October, 4 Henry V.

His son John, aged three years and three quarters at his father's death, died in his minority the 29th of October, 11 Henry VI. whereupon Thomas, then aged seventeen years, was the next heir. This Thomas was High-Sheriff of Cambridge and Huntingdon, 21 and 31 Henry VI. and married first Margaret, daughter and coheir of Sir John Bernard, of Iselham, Knt. by which match Iselham descended to this family; and he had issue by her Thomas, hereafter mentioned, Margaret, and Grace.

4. CLIFTON of Clifton, Nottinghamshire.

Created BARONET, May 22, 1611.

OF this family, Gervase Holles, Esq; a laborious antiquary, observes, that they took their surname from Clifton, a ville about two miles distant from Nottingham, which, in its Saxon etymon, signifies a ville situate upon a rock or shelving ground, as Sir W. Dugdale rightly observes, and upon a prominence is this seated (yet in a fertile soil) at the foot of which the Trent runs; where the Cliftons have a noble seat, from which, ascending by many steps, we rest upon the top, in a fair bowling-green, that yields a most pleasant prospect, overlooking the Trent, the town of Nottingham, the vale of Belvoir, and part of the forest of Sherwood.

Sherwood. They derive themselves from Alvaredus de Clifton, a Knight, said to be living in the time of William Peverell, the Conqueror's bastard; and for proof of this, Alvaredus, and two others of his lineal posterity, are cited in an authority amongst the collections of Mr. St. Lo, Kniveton, wherein it is said, Alvaredus was Warden of Nottingham castle, in the time of William Peverell; and in which office he was succeeded by his son and grandson, Robert and Gervase.

It is believed, however, that his son and grandson were both of them named Gervase; for, 20 Henry III. there was a fine levied between Gervase de Clifton, (taken for the son) and Hugh de Bel, concerning two oxgangs of land in Wilford. Anno 52 Henry III, Gervase, son of Gervase de Clifton, (the grandson) gives one mark for a writ in the county of Nottingham.

Sir Gervase, Knt. third of that name, (son of the last Gervase de Clifton) died 17 Edward II. having married Amflicia, daughter of Sir William Sampson, of Eperston, Knt. His son was Gervase, who died before him, 9 Edward II. leaving by Alice, daughter and heir of Robert de Rabacin, Robert his son, heir to his grandfather. This Sir Gervase must be accounted a principal advancer of this family. He was constituted High Sheriff of the counties of Nottingham and Derby, anno 7 Edward I. and continued for seven years; and in the 14th of that King, he was appointed High Sheriff of Yorkshire, and continued for six years.

The same Sir Gervase de Clifton dying, left Robert de Clifton, the son of Gervase, his eldest son, (who died before him) his next heir, and above twenty-six years of age; who did his homage to the King, as heir to his grandfather, and had seisin of his lands accordingly.

Gervase de Clifton, (the son of Sir Robert) was High Sheriff of the counties of Nottingham and Derby, anno 19 Edward III. and the next year Escheator of the same counties. We meet with no account of the death of this Gervase, nor is anything to be found concerning him after the age of sixty-eight. He had a son, Robert, who possibly died before his father, as no account of him, after the death of Gervase, is any where mentioned. It is supposed that Isabel, (wife of this Robert de Clifton) was the daughter of — Neville, of Rolleston, in Nottinghamshire, and his first wife; for he married, secondly, Agnes, daughter of — De Grey.

The next is Sir John Clifton, (son and heir of Robert and Agnes Grey) who, anno 4 Hen. IV. served in the parliament held at Westminster, with Sir Richard Stanhope, Knights of the Shire for Nottingham, and had their wages allowed for sixty-five days. He was that year slain at the battle of Shrewsbury, fighting on the King's side against the Piercies; having, as Hollinshed tells us, received from the King that morning the order of Knighthood, which (if true) must be the dignity of a Banneret; for he was a Knight before. He brought a great increase of estate into the family, by his wife Catharine, daughter of Sir John de Cresley, of Hodfack, in the county of Nottingham, Knt. and sister and coheir of Sir Hugh de Cresley, who died in the 9th year of the same King: The other sister and coheir, Elizabeth, was the wife of Sir John Markham, the elder Judge.

This Sir John Clifton's son and heir was Sir Gervase Clifton, as appears from a grave-stone in Clifton church.

The next is Sir Gervase Clifton, but whether son or brother to the last, is not clear, for the records here are intricate. 23 Hen. VI. Gervase Clifton was Lieutenant to Humphrey Duke of Gloucester, Constable of Dover castle. In the 30th of Henry VI. he was Treasurer of the town of Calais, which office was given him (in recompence of his good service) 24 May, 29th of that King, upon the resignation of Sir Richard Vernon, his predecessor in that office, he having delivered up his letters patent to be cancelled. He was twice High Sheriff of Kent; and once Treasurer of the King's Household; for there is a warrant in an uncertain year of that King, directed to the Keeper of the Privy Seal, commanding him to direct his letters to the Chamberlains of the Exchequer, to pay to certain persons the sum of 460 l. due to them whilst Sir Gervase Clifton, Knt. stood Treasurer of the Household. The chronicles tell us, that Richard Duke of York, in the 18th of Henry VI. made Sir Gervase Clifton Captain of Pontoise, near Paris, (having been a Commander at several places in France,) when the French King besieged and took the town by assault, but lost above three thousand men before it. And that in the 11th of Edward IV. 1471, the Monday after the battle of Tewkesbury, Sir Gervase Clifton (who was then taken prisoner) was beheaded in the market-place there, together with Edmund Duke of Somerset, and others.

This most active and signal Gentleman is believed by some of the family to be their immediate ancestor.

It is plain there was a Sir Gervase Clifton of Clifton, temp. Henry VI. and that Robert Clifton was his son and heir, who was High Sheriff of Nottingham and Derby, anno 29 and 38 Henry VI. And after, in the 7th of Edward IV. Robert Clifton, Knt. is mentioned then as late Sheriff of Nottingham and Derby. Alice, wife of the said Sir Robert, was daughter of John Booth, of Barton, in Lancashire, Esq; and sister of William the Archbishop.

Sir Robert Clifton died April 9, 1478, 18 Edward IV. leaving Gervase Clifton his son and heir, above forty years of age: He had had another son, Robert Clifton, who was Archdeacon of the East-Riding, in Yorkshire.

Gervase Clifton, his son and heir, was High Sheriff of Nottingham and Derby, 11 and 17 Edward IV. 22 Edward IV. that King ordained the said Gervase, Sheriff of the counties of Nottingham and Derby, and assigned him 100 l. out of the Exchequer, for the better sustaining of his charge in that office. Anno 1 Richard III. he was made one of the Knights of the Bath at the coronation.

Sir John Beaumont (in his poem of Bosworth-Field) says, he was slain there, fighting on Richard's side, against the Earl of Richmond, (after King Henry VII.) and that Biron, (being his friend, but of the other party) procured the Conqueror to restore his lands to his son. But it is plain he was not slain there, and probably did not serve there; or, if he did, it was on the other side, repenting that he had adhered to the Usurper; for not long after the beginning of King Henry VIIth's reign, we find him not only entrusted, but rewarded by him, being in his third year made Sheriff of the counties of Nottingham and Derby; and the same year having granted him the custody of the manors of Carleton in Lindrike, and Kinston in Carleton, being then in the King's hands, by reason of the minority of George, Lord Fitz-Hugh; and that he married first, Alice, daughter of Thomas Nevil, of Rolleston, Esq; relict of Richard Thurland; secondly, Agnes, daughter of Sir Robert Constable, of Flamborough, in Yorkshire, Knt. relict of Sir Walter Griffith, Knt. and died in the sixth year of the same King, in the house of the Friars Predicants, in London, and was buried in Clifton church.

The inquisition, after his death, taken at Blithe, the 30th of October, anno 7 Henry VII. says, that he died the 12th day of May last past, (which was in the sixth year of that King) and Robert Clifton, Clerk, was his son and heir, and above thirty years old at the death of his father.

Of this Robert Clifton we hear no more, but upon tradition, that being piously devoted, he became a secular Priest, died unmarried, and gave his temporal estate to his younger brother, Gervase Clifton, afterwards knighted; for he was made Knight of the Bath by King Henry VII. in the tenth year of his reign, at the time he created his second son, Henry, Duke of York. He married first, Agnes, daughter of Sir Walter Griffith above-mentioned; secondly, Joan, daughter of John Busby, widow of Sir Nicholas Byron, Knt. by the last he had no issue. In the 17th of Henry VII. he was made Sheriff of the counties of Nottingham and Derby, and died June 5, 23 Henry VII. It appears by the inquisition taken after his son's death, in the 9th of King Henry VIII. that Robert Clifton was his son and heir ; and that he had a younger son, Hugh Clifton, and though not mentioned in the inquisition, he had another son, Gervase Clifton, who was of the Customhouse at the port of London, and was father of Sir Gervase Clifton, summoned to parliament as a Baron of the realm, the 6th of James I. by the title of Lord Clifton of Leighton-Bromswold.

His eldest son, Robert, married first, Alice, daughter of Simon Digby, Esq; Lieutenant of the Tower of London, by whom he had no issue ; and by his second wife he added the greatest lustre to his family : For he married Agnes, daughter to Henry Lord Clifford, and sister to Henry, the first Earl of Cumberland, who, through the lines of Clifford, Percy, and Mortimer, was lineally descended from Lionel Plantagenet, Duke of Clarence, third son of that victorious Monarch King Edward III. She was married, after his death, to Robert Melford. This Robert Clifton died a young man, the 3d of September, the 9th of Henry VIII. leaving Gervase Clifton his son and heir, not two years old.

Which Gervase Clifton was of full of age, and sued out his livery in the 28th year of Henry VIII. He was Justice of the Peace, and Quorum, the most part of his long life ; and Sheriff of Nottingham and Derby in the last year of Henry VIII. and again, the first of the reign of Queen Mary ; and after, of Nottingham alone, in the 13th of Q. Elizabeth. He had likewise several military employments ; for he served under King Henry VIII. at the siege of Bulloigne, and was knighted, says Hollinshed in his chronicles, at Musclevburgh, by the Duke of Somerset, in the reign of King Edward VI. It is likely he was there, but it is manifest he was knighted in the days of King Henry VIII. Anno 2 Eliz. A.D. 1560, he served at the siege of Leith in Scotland, under the Lord Grey ; and upon notice of the peace concluded, Sir Gervase Clifton was sent into the trenches, on the west side of Leith, to command the soldiers to forbear hostility ; and the next day (the 7th of June) he was sent into the town, with Sir Francis Leke, to cause the peace to be proclaimed, where he was feasted by Monsieur Doyfel, the Governor.

He was twice married, first to Mary, daughter to Sir John Nevile, of Cheet, in Yorkshire, Knt. by whom he had five children, viz. Elizabeth, the first wife of Sir Peter Frecheville, of Stavely, in Derbyshire, Knt. Frances, Robert, Gervase, and Anthony, which four last died young, unmarried. The second wife of Sir Gervase, was Winifred, daughter and heir to William Thwaites, of Owlton, in the county of Suffolk, Esq; relict of Sir George Pierpoint, of Holme, Knt. by whom he had George his son and heir, who married Winifred, daughter of Sir Anthony Thorold, of Marston in Lincolnshire, Knt. (by Anne his wife, daughter and coheir of Sir John Constable, of Kinalton, Knt.) and died in the life-time of his father, August 1, 1587, leaving his wife with child of Sir Gervase Clifton, Bart. being at the time of his death but twenty years and seven months old.

His Lady surviving him, married first Henry Kervile, of Wigenhale, in Norfolk, Esq; and secondly, Sir Edward Gawsell, of Watlington, in Norfolk, Knt.

Sir Gervase Clifton, his father, died in the same year 1587, on the 20th of January, and lies buried under a stately monument in Clifton church.

The said Sir Gervase, at the time of his death, left his grandson and heir but four months and eleven days old. Which Sir Gervase Clifton, the grandson, was made Knight of the Bath, at the Coronation of King James I. and afterwards advanced to the dignity of a Baronet. He served in eight parliaments, he was Knight of the Shire, temp. Jac. I. and Car. II. and served for Retford, temp. Car. I. and was Commissioner at Oxford and Newark, for King Charles I. and for one thing he was more remarkable, (having in that gone beyond any of our nation, as yet heard of) he had six wives, and married a seventh when he was near seventy years old. His first Lady was Penelope, daughter to Robert Rich, Earl of Warwick; she died 26 October, 1613, aged twenty-three: He had by her Sir Gervase, his eldest son and successor: By his second Lady Frances, daughter of Francis Clifford, Earl of Cumberland, he had issue Sir Clifford Clifton, and four daughters; Margaret, married first to Sir John South, of Kelstern, in Lincolnshire, Knt. secondly, to William Whichcote, of Dunston, in Lincolnshire, Esq; thirdly, to Robert, Lord Hunsdon. Frances was wife, first, of Richard Tempest, of Bracewell, in Yorkshire, Esq; and secondly to Anthony Eyre, of Rampton, in Nottinghamshire, Esq; Anne, to Sir Francis Rodes, of Barlbrough, in Derbyshire, Bart. and Lettice, to Clifton Rodes, Esq; brother to Sir Francis; this Lady died November 22, 1627, aged thirty-three years. The third was Mary, daughter of John Egiock, of Egiock, in Worcestershire, Esq; widow of Sir Francis Leke, of Sutton, in Derbyshire, Knt. by her he had no issue; she died January 19, 1630. His fourth Lady was Isabel, daughter of — Meek, of Wolverhampton, Esq; relict of John Hodges, Esq; Alderman of London; she died also without issue, and was buried at Clifton, (as were also his two first Ladies) July 10, 1637. The fifth was Anne, daughter of Sir Francis South, of Kelstern, in Lincolnshire, Knt. buried at Clifton, (having no issue) 1 June, 1639. The sixth was Jane, daughter of
Anthony

Anthony Eyre, of Rampton, Esq; (by whom he was father of Robert Clifton, who married Sarah, daughter of Nathaniel Parkhurst, of Woodford, in Essex, Esq; Charles, who died unmarried; Jane, wife of Christopher Pack, of Coates, in Leicestershire, Esq; Elizabeth and Mary, who died young) she died at London, and was buried at Clifton, the 17th of March, 1655. The seventh wife of Sir Gervase, was Alice, daughter of Henry, Earl of Huntingdon, by whom he had no issue: She survived her husband, but died the same year, and was buried in St. Giles's church, London, (1666) as was his third Lady.

He was succeeded in the dignity and estate, by his eldest son by his first Lady,

Sir Gervase Clifton, Bart. who married Sarah, daughter of Timothy Pusey, of Selston, in Nottinghamshire, Esq; of the ancient family of the Puseys, in Bucks; she died Jan. 22, 1652; and he dying without issue, the 14th of January, 1675, was succeeded by his nephew, Sir William Clifton, Bart. only surviving son of Sir Clifford Clifton, Knt. and Frances his wife, daughter of Sir Heneage Finch, Knt. Recorder of London; which Sir Clifford, was the only son of Sir Gervase, by his second marriage; this Sir William died unmarried; leaving two sisters, his coheirs; Catharine, married to Sir John Parsons, Bart. (mother of the late Sir William) and Arabella, married to Sir Francis Wheeler, Knt. one of the Admirals under King William, who was unfortunately cast away near Cadiz. He was succeeded in title and estate by his cousin, Sir Gervase Clifton, Bart. eldest son of Robert Clifton, Esq; another son of Sir Gervase, by his sixth wife.

Which Sir Gervase married Anne, daughter of Dudley Bagnall, of Newry in Ireland, Esq; [which family is now the only remaining branch of those two famous brothers, Sir Samuel, and Sir Henry Bagnall, who were sent into Ireland by Queen Elizabeth, the first with the title of Marshal of that kingdom, and the latter distinguished himself very eminently at the taking of Cadiz, where he received eight wounds, and, covered with blood, was then knighted] by whom he had fifteen sons, and one daughter; ten of the sons died unmarried; those that survived their father, were, 1. Sir Robert, his successor. 2. William, who married Mrs. Wharton, by whom he had no issue. 3. Alfred, first an officer in the French service, afterwards in the Russian. 4. Dudley, who embraced a religious life. 5. George, who married Anne, only daughter and heir of Robert Sacheverell, of Barton in Nottinghamshire, Esq; by whom he had two daughters; Jane, only daughter of Sir Gervase, a Nun of the Order of St. Clare, at Graveline. Sir Gervase died, died, March 1730-1, and his Lady surviving him, married William Blackburne, of Ongar, in Essex, Esq;

Sir Robert Clifton, his eldest son, succeeded his father in title and estate, and married the Lady Frances, daughter of the Right Honourable Nanfan Coot, Earl of Bellamont, of the kingdom of Ireland, (by Lady Frances his wife, youngest daughter of the Right Honourable Henry de Nassau, Earl of Grantham,) she died leaving him only one daughter, Frances. He had the honour, in the year 1725, to be made one of the Knights of the Honourable Order of the Bath; and was elected, in several parliaments, one of the Representatives for East-Retford, in Nottinghamshire. He married, secondly, in June, 1740, —, eldest daughter and co-heir of the late Sir Thomas Lombe, Knt. Alderman of London, by whom he had issue, and was succeeded by,

Sir Gervase, the present Baronet, who is married to the daughter and heiress of the ancient family of the Lloyds, in Pembroke-shire, and has issue two sons, both infants.

Created BARONET, May 22, 1611.

WALTER FITZOTHER, at the time of the general survey, by William the Conqueror, was Castellán of Windsor, Warden of the forests in Berkshire, and possessed several Lordships in the counties of Middlesex, Hants, and Bucks, that Dominus Otherus is said to have held in the time of Edward the Confessor.

William, the eldest son of that Walter, took the surname of Windsor, from his father's office, and was ancestor to the Lords Windsor, whose heir is the present Earl of Plymouth; and from Gerard, brother to that William, the Gerards, and many other families, are lineally descended.

The said Gerard is sometimes surnamed de Windsor, and also Fitz-Walter, (i. e.) son of Walter; the latter Camden styles him; mentioning, that the Carews, as well of England as Ireland, descended from him. He had by Nesta, his wife, daughter of Rees, son of Theodore the Great, Prince of South Wales, three sons; sons; William, Maurice, and David; the latter was Bishop of St. Davids, A. D. 1148, and died 1176.

Maurice Fitz-Gerald, the second son, was one of the adventurers with Richard Strongbow, Earl of Pembroke, in the conquest of Ireland, 1170; as he had been with Robert Fitz-Stephen, when he landed two years before and took Weisford; and here was the first colony of the English, settled in Ireland, who by their valour opened a way for subjecting that dominion to the Crown of England: The said Maurice, settling there, became the ancestor to several great and noble families which flourished in that kingdom, particularly to the Earls of Kildare, Premier Earls of that realm.

Raymond Crassus, a principal sharer in the conquest of Ireland, who had a natural son named Maurice, from whom the Lords Fitz-Maurice, of Kerry, in Ireland, derive themselves. 6. SHELLEY, of Michelgrove, Suffex.

Created BARONET, May 22, 1611.

THIS family is undoubtedly of great antiquity, and came out of France with William the Conqueror; of which, though a younger branch, was Judge Shelley, who was sent by King Henry VIII. to Cardinal Wolsey, to demand the surrender of York-Place, near Westminster, (now Whitehall) belonging longing to the Archbishoprick of York, into the King's hands. After some altercation between the Judge and the Cardinal, the latter was obliged to submit; but charged the Judge to request his Majesty, that he would call to his most gracious remembrance, that there was both a Heaven and a Hell.

Of this family also, was Sir Thomas Shelley, one of the first gentlemen's families of distinction that became a protestant, temp. Eliz. as were also Richard Shelley, and Henry Shelley.

A descendant of the same lineage, was Sir Richard Shelley, Lord Prior of St. John of Jerusalem: He was Dominus natus; therefore when in Spain, refused to be called Prior d'Inglaterra, and stiled himself Turcopolier for the English nation; and had his seat in the house of Peers.

This family removed from Huntingdonshire near 500 years ago, and have ever since continued at Beckley, and Michelgrove, in Suffex.

The first mentioned in their pedigree, is John Shelley, who had two sons; 1. John; 2. Thomas Shelley, whose daughter and heir, Alice, married Sir William Brampton, Knt.

John Shelley, the eldest son, by Margaret his wife, daughter and heir of John Rolph, had three sons, who were all great men in their time, and all of them received the honour of knighthood. 1. Sir John; 2. Sir Thomas, who served as Knight of the Shire for Bucks, 21 Rich. II. 3. Sir William Shelley, who had two sons; Richard, the eldest, died without issue; Robert, the second son, 8 Henry V. married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of John Pettit, by whom he left issue two sons, John, and Thomas; which last was of Hunsdon. But this line terminated in an heir female, Alice, married to Thomas Randall, Esq.

John, the eldest son, was a Burgess in Parliament for the town of Rye in Suffex, 5, 8, and 9 Hen. V. and 1 Hen. VI. 7. BARRINGTON, of Barrington-Hall, Essex.

Created BARONET, June 29, 1611.

MR. CAMDEN, in his Britannia, says, 'Barrington-Hall (heretofore) the seat of that eminent family of the Barringtons, who, in the time of King Stephen, were greatly enriched with the estate of the Lords Montfitchet; and in the memory of our fathers, a match with the daughter and co-heir of Henry Pole, Lord Montacute, son and heir to Margaret, Countess of Salisbury, rendered them more illustrious, by an alliance with the royal blood.'

The first we find mentioned in the pedigree, in Chauncy's Hertfordshire, is, Sir Odynell Barrington, or Barentone, as the name was anciently written, descended from Barrington, that served Queen Emme, wife of King Etheldred, father of Edward the Confessor; he was Baron of Wagon, and incurred the common fate of his country, becoming subject to the Normans; which may be the reason that none of the name, either as chief Lords, or sub-tenants, in Essex, are mentioned in Domesday Book; yet Selden finds Radulfus de Barentona to be sworn among others in the hundred of Trepeflau, in Cambridgeshire, to take the Conqueror's survey; and the town and parish of Barrington, near Cambridge, is said to take name from him.

Mr. Le Neve, (late Norroy King at Arms,) says, the Barringtons are descended from Barentone, a Saxon, who had the custody of the forest of Hatfield-Regis, temp. Will. I. as may be gathered out of the old writings of the family; and that Eustachius de Barentona, (son of Barentone the Saxon) was servant to King Hen. I. and had granted him, by that King, lands, and the custody of the forest, and that he died in the time of King Stephen.

Humphry, his son and heir, married Grisilde, sister to Sir Ralph Marcy. Their son, Humphrey de Barenton, was under Mary, daughter of John Bovile; and also, 2. Maud, daughter of Sir Ralph Mortoft, Knt. He had no issue by the first; but by the latter a daughter, Margaret, married to Sir James Umfreville, and several sons; whereof Nicholas, the eldest, succeeded to the inheritance, was knighted, and living temp. 8. MUSGRAVE, of Hartley-Castle, Westmoreland.

Created BARONET, June 29, 1611.

THIS family is of great antiquity and reputation, and came into England with William the Conqueror: Their name implies some office or command, which they might have upon the marches or moſſes towards Scotland. Camden, in his Britannia, speaking of the two villages called Musgrave, in Westmoreland, says, 'which gave name to the warlike family of the Musgraves.'

The first of that name that we find mentioned, is, Sir Adam de Musgrave, Knt. temp. John, about the year 1204. Thomas, his son, who lived before 25 Hen. III. left issue, Thomas, who who was one of the Executors of Robert de Vipont, that powerful Baron, and was Sheriff of Westmoreland, 44 Henry III. He died 49 Hen. III. leaving Thomas, his son and heir, who was living 6 Edw. I. and 4 Edw. II.

Thomas de Musgrave, his son and heir, was returned to serve in Parliament for the county of Westmoreland, 14, 15, 17, 18, and 20 Edward III. Upon the invasion in the North, made by David Bruce, King of Scotland, he joined with the Barons in those parts, and was one of the Commanders in the van of that army, which gave him battle near Durham, utterly routing his forces, and taking the King prisoner. He was, for his signal knowledge in national affairs, summoned by Writ, amongst the Barons of this kingdom, from 24 to 47 Edw. III. inclusive. He married three wives; 1. Margaret, daughter and coheir of William Roos, of Yotton. 2. Mary, daughter of John Vaux, relict of Thomas Holland, Earl of Huntingdon. 3. Isabel, widow to Robert, son of Robert, Lord Clifford, and daughter to Thomas, Lord Berkley, by whom he had a daughter, married to Henry Wharton; and two sons; Thomas and William. He died, 1384.

Thomas, his son and heir, was a Knight, and returned to serve in Parliament, as one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of York, 37 and 43 Edw. III. was Sheriff of Cumberland, 16 Rich. II. and Knight of the Shire for Westmoreland, 1 Hen. IV. He died 10 Henry IV. 1409: When Hartley-Castle, with Musgrave, the ancient inheritance, devolved on Sir Richard Musgrave, Knt. his son, who left issue, Thomas Musgrave, Esq; who married —, daughter of the Lord Dacre, and died Jan. 3, 1447, 25 Hen. VI. leaving issue Sir Richard, who was married to Margaret, daughter of Sir Thomas Betham, Knt. This last Lady died in 1646.

Anthony, eldest son and heir of William Cope, Esq; was bred in Oriel college, and having excellent parts, improved and cultivated by a learned education, was soon distinguished among his neighbours, and esteemed by the most learned men of that age, both at home and abroad. His appetite after knowledge was not confined to his own country only, but by travelling into France, Germany, Italy, and other parts of Europe, visiting the universities, he sought the acquaintance of the most considerable persons abroad famed for learning, contracted an intimacy with many of them, and wrote several things whilst beyond the seas, as well as at home. 10. GRESLEY, of Drakelow, Derbyshire.

Created BARONET, June 29, 1611.

THE original of this family; (denominated from Grefeley, in Derbyshire,) anciently written Grefele, Grefelei, Greflea, Grefly, &c. I find to be derived from Malahulcius, uncle to the famous Rollo, sometime Duke of Normandy, and progenitor to William the Conqueror. From which Malahulcius descended Roger de Toeny, Standard-Bearer of Normandy, whose younger sons, Robert, and Nigell, accompanied William the Conqueror into England; and the former, at the time of the general survey, (14 Will. I.) possessed near an hundred and fifty Lordships, whereof Stafford, being his residence, he thence surnamed himself, and was ancestor to the noble race of the Staffords; of whom Humphry was created Duke of Buckingham by King Henry VI. with precedency before all Dukes, both in England and France, the Blood-Royal excepted.

From Robert, grandson of Nigill, by a younger branch, descended the Gresleys that had summons to Parliament among the Barons of the realm, whereof Thomas de Greflei, having summons to Parliament from 1 till 4 Edward II. inclusive, died without issue; and Joan, his sister, became his heir, who married John, the son of Roger Delawarr, and brought a fair inheritance to that noble family, from whom the present Lord Delawarr is descended.

William de Greflei, of Drachelawe, eldest son and heir to the aforesaid Robert, had issue Sir Geffery de Gresley, Lord of Morton, who was returned, with Robert de Frechville, Knights of the Shire for Derby, at the Parliament held at London, in 28 Edw. I. and in the same year and the following, returned for the same county, with Ralph de Frechville, in the Parliaments held at Lincoln. II. MOLINEUX, of Teverfal, Nottinghamshire.

Created BARONET, June 29, 1611.

WHEN William the Conqueror entered this kingdom, 1066, he was attended by many noble Normans, among whom was William des Molines, no less famous for his virtue, than for his noble extraction, as appears from the roll of Battle-Abbey, in which list his name stands the eighteenth in order; and in the most ancient written chronicles of the dutchy of Normandy remaining of record, it is to be seen, that this William des Molines is set down and placed as a most especial and chief man in nearness and singular credit with William the Conqueror, at that time when he invaded and conquered England.

To this William des Moulines or Molins, Roger de Poytiers, who was then possessed of all that tract of land in Lancashire, between the rivers of Ribble and Mercy, by the gift of William the Conqueror, gave, among other lands, by the consent of the Conqueror, the manors of Sephton, Thornewton, Kerdon or Kuerdon, ten carucates and an half of land, at the service of half

half a Knight's fee, whereof he made Sephton his chief seat, wherein he was succeeded by Vivian, his son and heir.

12. SAVILE, of Thornhill, Yorkshire.

Created BARONET, June 29, 1611.

THIS family is certainly of very great antiquity, and some have imagined them to be descended from the family of Savelli, in Italy, accounted one of the most ancient in the world, (Dr. Littleton, in his dictionary, on the usage of changing the letter b into y, instances, as from the Sabelli, of Rome, the Saviles in England) whereof some were Consuls before and after our Saviour; and Mr. Richardson, in his preface to Sir John Savile's Reports of Law-Cases, temp. Eliz. mentions, the Duke de Savilli to own, as his near relation, John, second son of that Sir John, when he made him a visit in Italy.

That the name and family were very numerous in Yorkshire, and came last from the province of Anjou, in France, (on the frontiers whereof were two towns of this name) into England; several pedigrees testify.

1. The first we find mentioned, is Sir John Savile, of Savile-Hall, in Yorkshire, who married the daughter of Sir Simon de Rockley, and had issue,

2. John, who married the daughter of Sir Roger Aldwark.

3. Henry, his son, married the daughter and heir of John Golcar, Esq.

4. Thomas, his son, married the daughter and heir of Sir Richard Tankersley, Knt. by whom he had, first, Sir John Savile, Knt. hereafter mentioned; secondly, Henry Savile, Esq; who married, about the year 1300, Ellen, daughter and heir of Thomas Copley, of Copley, in Yorkshire, Esq; and was ancestor to the Saviles, of Copley, of whom, in a lineal descent, was John Savile, Esq; created Baronet, July 24, 1662, who, by Mary, daughter of Clement Paston, of Barningham, in Norfolk, Esq; left one daughter, his sole heir, viz. Elizabeth-Mary, married to the Lord Thomas Howard, father of the Duke of Norfolk. And from a younger son of the said Henry, descended Henry Savile, of Bradley, Esq; who, by Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Ramsden, Gent. was father of three sons; 1. Sir John Savile, Baron of the Exchequer. 2. Sir Henry Savile. 3. Thomas. Sir John Savile, the eldest son, born at Bradley-Hall, in Stainland, in the parish of Halifax, 1545, became a Commoner of Brazen-nose college, in 1561, or thereabouts. When King James I. came to the Crown, he conferred on him, just before his Coronation, the honour of Knighthood, 23 July, 1603, being then one of the Judges that was to attend that solemnity. He died at London, Feb. 2, 1606, aged sixty-one. He married four wives: By his first wife, Jane, daughter of Richard Garth, of Morden, in Surry, Esq; he had one son, Sir Henry Savile, of Methley, in Yorkshire, knighted at the Coronation of King James I. and by the same King created a Baronet; but his issue male failing, that title became extinct. Sir John, by this Lady, had also two daughters; Elizabeth, married to Sir John Jackson, of Hickleton, in Yorkshire, Knt. and Jane, to Sir Henry Gooderick, of Ribstan, in the same county, Bart. Sir John married, secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Wentworth, of Elmshall, in Yorkshire, Esq; relict of Richard Tempest, of Bowling, Esq; by whom he had one son, John, (heir to Sir Henry, his half brother) ancestor to the Saviles, of Methley, (which ended in a daughter and and heir, married to the Hon. John Finch, Esq; brother to the Earl of Aylesford, who died Jan. 1739-40.) His third wife was Dorothy, daughter of the Lord Wentworth, of the South, relict of Sir William Widmerpool, and Sir Martin Forbisher, Knts. and his fourth, Margery, daughter of Ambrose Peate, citizen of London, and relict of Sir Jerom Weston, Knt. By the two last he had no issue.

The second son of Henry Savile, of Bradley, Esq; aforesaid, was the learned Sir Henry Savile, who was knighted by King James I. September 22, 1601. He married Margaret, daughter of George Dacres, of Cheshunt, in Hertfordshire, Esq; and had one son, Henry, and a daughter, Elizabeth, married to Sir John Sedley, of Aylesford, in Kent, Bart. About the year 1604, his son Henry dying, he bestowed great part of his estate in publishing books, particularly St. Chrysostom's works, in Greek, a noble edition of which he printed at Eton-College, 1613, in 8 vol. folio, to which he added his own learned notes, in which he was assisted by several learned men: The expence of this edition, including what he paid to some learned men whom he employed abroad to obtain the best copies of St. Chrysostom, cost him above 8000l. In 1619, he founded two Lectures, one in Geometry, and the other in Astronomy, in the University of Oxford, with a liberal salary to the Professors, named, in memory of him, SAVILIAN PROFESSORS: He was admired by all the learned men of that age, who give him the highest character. This worthy Knight and magazine of learning, died at Eton-College, Feb. 19, 1621-2.

Thomas Savile, the third and youngest son, and younger brother to the before-mentioned two great men, was born at Over-Bradley, near Halifax, and died, during the Proctorship of the University of Oxford, at London, Jan. 12, 1592-3.

III. having served in several Parliaments as Knight of the Shire, and was descended from Jordan de Thornhill. 16. Sir George Savile, Knt. eldest son and heir, was created a Baronet, 9 Jac. I. and High Sheriff of Yorkshire, the eleventh of the said reign. He married two wives; first, Mary, daughter of the Right Hon. Which Sir William Savile, Bart. married Anne, daughter of Thomas, Lord Coventry, Lord Keeper of the Great Seal; a Lady remarkable for her zeal and attachment to the royal cause, from the support of which no difficulties or dangers, nor even the fears of death itself, could deter her. Her heroic and martial spirit was equalled only by the piety and goodness of her heart.

Sir William died, Jan. 24, 1643; but by his aforesaid Lady had three sons, and three daughters; 1. William, who died young; 2. Sir George, his successor; 3. Henry Savile, Esq; a Gentleman of shining parts, and much in favour with King Charles II. to whom he was Vice Chamberlain: He was Representative in Parliament for Newark, in Nottinghamshire, in the reign of King Charles II. and died without issue. The daughters were, Anne, married to the Right Hon. Thomas, Earl of Plymouth; Margaret, and ———.

Sir George Savile, Bart. successor to his father, was, in consideration of his father's loyalty to King Charles I. as also his own merit, created Baron Savile, of Eland, and Viscount Hallifax, and afterwards, in 1682, advanced to the titles of Earl and Marquis of Hallifax, and, in the same year, constituted Lord Privy-seal. On King James's Accession to the Throne, he sent for him, and appointed him President of the Council.

Dying in 1695, he left behind him a great character for his wisdom, integrity, and conduct, and many other excellent qualifications. The reign of King Charles II. and King James II. when the Councils often changed, proved the integrity of the Courtiers, and very few but went in too much, either to the Prerogative of the Crown, or the Rights of the People; yet this noble Lord demeaned himself so well, that he was looked upon by common suffrage as a true Patriot, both to his King and Country.

He married two wives; 1. Dorothy, daughter of Henry, Earl of Sunderland, by whom he had three sons; 1. Henry, Lord Eland, who married Esther, daughter and co-heir to Charles de la Tour, Marquis of Gouvernet, in France, and died in his father's life-time without issue. 2. His second Lady was Gertrude, daughter of William Pierpoint, Esq; second son of Robert, Earl of Kingston, by whom he had a daughter, Elizabeth, married to Philip, Earl of Chesterfield. William, Marquis of Halifax, his eldest surviving son, married two wives; 1. Elizabeth, daughter and heir to Sir Samuel Grimston, of Gorbamby, in Hertfordshire, Bart. by whom he had one daughter, Anne, who was first wife to Lord Bruce; his second wife was, Lady Mary, only daughter of Daniel, Earl of Nottingham, by his first wife, the Lady Essex Rich, one of the daughters and coheirs of Robert, Earl of Warwick and Holland) by whom he left only two daughters, his coheirs, viz. 1. Lady Dorothy, married to the Earl of Burlington; 2. Lady Mary, married to the Earl of Thanet. His relict afterwards married John, Duke of Roxburgh, and had issue, the Marquis of Beaumont, who married Essex, daughter of Sir Roger Mostyn, Bart. This William, Marquis of Halifax, died Aug. 31, 1700; when, for want of issue-male, the Peerage became extinct.

But Sir George Savile, the first Baronet, (the sixteenth in descent from Sir John Savile, of Savile-hall) by his second wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Edward Ayscough, of South Kelsey, in Lincolnshire, Knt. relict of George Savile, of Wakefield, Esq; had issue three sons; 1. Sir John; 2. Richard, who died without issue; and 3. Henry Savile, of Bowling, Esq; and four daughters; of which, Mary, married John Archer, of Gray's-Inn, Esq; Sir John Savile, of Lupset, in Yorkshire, the eldest son, married two wives; 1. Elizabeth, daughter to John Armitage, of Kirklees, Esq; by whom he had only a daughter, married to William Hustler, of Cleaveland, Esq; His second wife was Anne, daughter of Sir John Soame, Knt. by whom he had two sons, Sir John and Thomas, who died without issue; and also two daughters; Mary, wife of — Jennifon, of Newcastle, Esq; and Anne, of John Harris, of London, Esq;

The line of Sir George Savile, Bart. from whence descended the Marquis of Hallifax, being extinct, Sir John Savile, son of Sir John Savile, of Lupset, aforementioned, by Anne, daughter of Sir John Soame, Knt. and grandson of Sir George, the first Baronet, inherited the title of Baronet, in 1700, on the Marquis's death; but dying unmarried, 1704, the title descended to Sir George Savile, Bart. in the following manner.

17. Henry Savile, of Bowling, in Yorkshire, Esq; third son of the first Sir George Savile, Bart. by his second wife, and brother to Sir John Savile, of Lupset, before-mentioned, married Anne, daughter of Robert Crewse, of London, merchant, by whom he had five sons, and three daughters; George, John, Henry, Robert, and Edward; all whom died without issue, except John. Of the daughters, Elizabeth, married the Count Monfelto; Anne, Sir Robert Forbes, of Scotland; and Mary.

18. John, only surviving son of Henry Savile, of Bowling, Esq; was rector of Thornhill, in Yorkshire; he married first, Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. Tully, by whom he had no issue; and secondly, Barbara, daughter of Thomas Jennifon, of Newcastle upon Tyne, Esq; (who died, June, 1734) by whom he had issue, Sir George Savile, his successor, (surviving heir-male to the first Sir George Savile, Knt. and Bart.) and two daughters, Anne, who married Sir Nicholas Cole, of Branspeth, in Durham, Bart. deceased; and Gertrude.

19. Sir George Savile, the next heir, represented the county of York, in the first Parliament of King George II. being elected on Sir Thomas Wentworth's being created Lord Malton. 13. WODEHOUSE, of Kimberley, Norfolk.

Created BARONET, June 29, 1611.

THERE have been several families of ancient extraction of this surname, that have been denominated according to the custom of former ages, from their possessions; the pedigrees of this family deduce them from Bertram, of Wodehouse-Tower, in Yorkshire; but hardly any accounts are to be depended on. Mr. Wotton, however, is of opinion, that they were surnamed Wodehouse, from a tenement and lands now in Windham, called Wodehouse, lying in Silfield, Norfolk. That they were Gentlemen of good rank in the time of King John, Peacham informs us, which appeared to him by many ancient grants and evidences of the family, which he had seen, and from which the pedigree was collected; but the following account of this ancient family is the only one which stands supported on sufficient authority.

1. Sir Constantine de Wodehouse, who married Isabel, daughter and heir of Boretort, in the beginning of Hen. I. who was succeeded by his son and heir,

2. Sir George de Wodehouse, who flourished in the time of Hen. I. whom he accompanied into Normandy, and was at the burning of Baieux, and taking of Caen castle. He married Winifrede, daughter and heir of Lacy, by whom he had,

In 1415, he attended the King's person to the battle of Agincourt, in France, where he won great renown, by his valiant prowess. For his gallant behaviour the King granted him an annuity of ten marks a year, out of his manor of Thetford, and made him Steward of all the dominion of the dutchy of Lancaster, in Norfolk, and Cambridgeshire, with a salary of 10l. per annum; and, as a perpetual augmentation of honour, assigned him the Crest of a Hand, issuing from the Clouds, holding a Club, and this Motto, Frappe forte, Strike strong, and the Savage, or wild man, holding a Club, which was the ancient crest of the family, was now omitted, and two of them placed as supporters to the arms, which had a further augmentation of honour added in the shield, viz. on the Chevron, Gutté de sang, as they are borne to this day. IT appears from the records of this family, collected in the reign of King Charles II. and printed at the charge of Henry, Earl of Peterborough, that Osbert le Mordaunt, a Norman Knight, was possessed of Radwell, in Bedfordshire, by the gift of his brother, which he had of William the Conqueror, for his services, and the service of his father, in the conquest of this kingdom.

Nicholas Hales, of Hales-place, had issue, Sir Robert Hales, who was Knight-prior of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, and Admiral of the North parts of England, in the reign of King Edward III. and was constituted Treasurer of England, 1 Feb. 4 Rich. II. but in the same year, had the hard fate, in the beginning of the insurrection under Wat Tyler, (called afterwards Jack Straw) to be dragged from his habitation, and suffer death on Tower-hill, and his house at Hybury, built like another paradise, was utterly destroyed in that popular fury.

The year following, Quad-Reader of the same Society, and was again Autumn-Reader 9 Eliz. in which year, on the 18th of June, he was called to the degree of Queen's Serjeant at Law, and soon after knighted; and the 14th of May, 14 Eliz. promoted to be one of the Justices of the Common-Pleas; and two years after, viz. the 8th of November, 16 Eliz. was constituted Lord Chief Justice of the Queen's-Bench. He was an upright Judge; for though he respected every man in his proper station, when he was off the Bench, when he was upon it, he had no such regard for the greatest of men, so as to bias his judgment. He died, May 8, 1592, after having sat on that Bench seventeen years, and filled it with great credit to himself, and satisfaction to others; his piety, probity, charity, and justice, rendering him revered by the greatest men of that age, and his death generally lamented. Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, had so just a sense of his merits and services, that she gave him the profits of her coinage, till he had built that noble house now remaining at Glentworth. He left issue, by Anne his wife, daughter of Nicholas Girlington, of Normanby, in Yorkshire, Esq; one son, William, and two daughters, Isabel, married first to Godfrey Foljamb, Esq; secondly to Sir William Bowes, Knt. thirdly, to John, Lord D'Arcy; and Frances, first married to Sir George St. Paul, of Snarford, Bart. and afterwards to Robert Rich, Earl of Warwick.

William, his only son, served in Parliament for Grimsby, in his father's life-time, was knighted by Queen Elizabeth, and elected Knight of the Shire for the county of Lincoln, in the last Parliament she called; and by King James I. was created a Baronet, 1712. He died the 13th of August, 1617, at Ashby, in the county of Lincoln. He had issue by his first wife, Lucy, eldest daughter of Sir Edward Montague, of Boughton, in Northamptonshire, Knt. (ancestor to the Dukes of Mountague and Manchester, and the Earls of Sandwich and Halifax) ten sons and five daughters.

Sir William, had by his second wife, Frances, relict of Sir Nicholas Clifford, and daughter to Sir William Drury, of Hawsted, in Suffolk, Knt. Lord Deputy of Ireland, and coheir to her brother, Sir Robert Drury, of the same place, Knt. two sons, Sir Christopher, hereafter mentioned, and Charles, who died in Spain; also a daughter, Frances, wife of Sir Anthony Irby, of Boston, in Lincolnshire, Knt. Of the sons of the first marriage, only Sir John, and Edward, survived to men's estate; the latter was Groom of the Bedchamber to King Charles I. and married Elizabeth, sole daughter and heir of Francis, Earl of Berkshire, and Baron Norris, of Rycot, in Oxfordshire; but having no male issue, only one daughter, Bridget, his sole heir, who married first, Edward Sackvil, Esq; second son of Edward, Earl of Dorset, by whom she had no issue; and secondly, Montague Bertie, Earl of Lindsey; James Bertie, Esq; (eldest son by the said marriage) had the title of Baron Norris allowed him, by descent from his mother, at the Resto-

Restoration of King Charles II. and was afterwards created Earl of Abingdon.

Sir John, (eldest son of Sir William Wray, by his first Lady) was knighted in the life-time of his father, and succeeded to the title, and the estate at Glentworth: He served as Knight of the Shire for Lincoln, in three several Parliaments, called by King Charles I. and by Griffil, daughter and heir of Sir Hugh Bethell, of Ellerton, in Yorkshire, Knt. had issue five sons, and three daughters; Sir John, Christopher, Theophilus, William, and Bethell; Frances, who married John Hotham, Esq; son and heir of Sir John Hotham, of Scarborough, in Yorkshire, Bart. Griffil, the wife of Anthony Thorold, of Marston, in Lincolnshire, Esq; and Theodosia, wedded to Sir Richard Barker, Knt.

Sir John Wray, (eldest son of the last Sir John) married, first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Willoughby, of Risley, in Derbyshire, Bart. and widow of Sir Simon D'Ewes, of Stowhall, in Suffolk, Bart. and she deceasing without issue, he took to his second wife, Sarah, daughter of Sir John Evelyn, of West-Dean, in Wilts, Knt. (who surviving him, remarried to Thomas, Viscount Fanshaw, and afterwards, to George Viscount Castleton) by whom he had an only daughter, Elizabeth, who was his heir, and married the Hon. Nicholas Saunderson, Esq; (eldest son of Sir George Saunderson, Bart. Lord Viscount Castleton, of the kingdom of Ireland) who had issue by her Wray Saunderson, who married Mary, eldest daughter of the Earl of Rockingham, and died without children; Elizabeth, his mother, surviving, who was possessed of the Glentworth estate on the death of her father, Sir John Wray, Bart. all his brothers dying without issue, so that the male line of the first marriage of Sir William (the first created to the title of Baronet) being extinguished, the said dignity descended to the heirs of the said Sir William, by his second wife, Frances, daughter of Sir William Drury, Knt. And,

Having already mentioned that Sir Christopher was the only surviving son of the said marriage, all that is farther to be observed of him, is, that he received the honour of Knighthood from King James, served in several Parliaments, and by his wife Albina, second daughter and coheir to Edward Cecil, Viscount Wimbledon, third son of the Earl of Exeter, had issue four sons, Sir William, Edward, Sir Drury, and Cecil, who married the daughter of — Cresly, of Brigfley, in Lincolnshire, Esq; by whom he had one son, William, and one daughter who died unmarried: William, his only son, married Isabella, one of the daughters and coheirs of John Ullithorne, of Flemingford, in the county of York, Esq; by whom he had

issue three sons; Sir John, hereafter mentioned; William, and Cecil, and four daughters.

Sir William Wray, of Ashby, the eldest son, born about the year 1625, was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, June 27, 1660, in the twelfth year of King Charles II. at which time he served in Parliament for Grimsby, and departing this life, 1670, had issue by his wife, Olympia, daughter to Sir Humphrey Tufton, Knt. and Bart. (a younger son to John, Earl of Thanet) six daughters, that became his coheirs; 1. Margaret, married to the Rev. Dr. Jeffries, Prebendary of Canterbury, brother to the Lord Chancellor Jeffries; 2. Tufton, married to Sir James Montague, Knt. Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, (and brother to Charles, Earl of Hallifax;) 3. Drury, married to Sir William Sanderfon, of Combe, in Greenwich, Bart. Usher of the Black Rod; 4. —, married to — Lewis; and two that died unmarried; and four sons, Sir Christopher, Edward, William, and Drury, who all died without issue.

Sir Christopher, the eldest, succeeded his father in the title and estate; and on the death of his cousin, Sir John Wray, of Glentworth, succeeded in that Baronetship; but dying without issue, the patent his father received from King Charles II. became extinct; and the title by the first patent, descended to his cousin, Sir Baptist-Edward Wray, son of Edward, (second son of Sir Christopher Wray, Knt. before-mentioned) by his wife, Dorothy, daughter and heir of Hannibal Horsley, of the Isle of Wight, Esq; and widow of the Hon. — Fane, Esq.

Which Sir Baptist-Edward Wray, died likewise without issue; whereupon the title came to his uncle, Sir Drury Wray, third son of Sir Christopher, eldest son (by the second venter) of the first Sir William Wray, Bart. before-mentioned.

Which Sir Drury Wray, Bart. was born in Lincolnshire, July 29, 1633, and married Anne, daughter and heir of Thomas Casey, of Rathcannon, in the county of Limerick, Esq; (by his wife Bridget, daughter and coheir of Sir John Dowdall, Knt.) he had issue by her three sons; Sir Christopher, William, (who died in the life-time of his father) and Sir Cecil, with several daughters. Sir Drury died the 30th of October, 1710.

Sir Christopher, his eldest son, succeeded to the title and estate. He was in arms for his Majesty King William, at the battle of the Boyne, and other actions in that kingdom; and afterwards served in the wars in Flanders, Spain, and Portugal, in the reign of Queen Anne, being Lieutenant-Colonel in Gen. Farrington's regiment, and eminently distinguished himself at the head of his regiment, at the attack of Ostend. In the year 1710, he was preparing to go again for Spain, and being at Portsmouth to embark with the fleet, died there, unmarried,

He married Mary, daughter of Edward Harrison, of Morely, in the county of Antrim, in Ireland, Esq; (by Johanna, his wife, daughter of the Right Rev. 26. ENGLEFIELD, of Wotton-Basset, Wiltshire.

Created BARONET, Nov. 25, 1612.

THIS very ancient family, according to Camden, surnamed from the town of Englefield, or Englesfeld, in Berkshire, are said to be possessed thereof, in the second year of the reign of King Egbert, 264 years before the Norman conquest, in the year of our Lord 803; at which time was an oratory, as appears by a terrier of the land belonging to the same, where it is called Cantaria de Englefeld. This family has been always reputed of Saxon extraction; as indeed, the ancient writing of the name, De Engelfelt, and their being fixed at Englefeld, aforesaid, in the Saxons time, seem to indicate: the writing thereof has varied, according to the variations in our spellings, and is found in the ancient records of the family, Engelfelt, Inglefeld, Englesfyld, Englefield, &c.

In several pedigrees, Hasculfus de Englesfyld is first mentioned, as Lord of Englesfyld, about the time of King Canutus, and also in the fourth year of Harold I. or Harefoot, and in the reign of Hardicnute, and died in the days of St. Edward the Confessor.

Guy, (son and heir of Hasculf,) lived temp. William I. and was father to Hely de Englefeld, temp. Will. II. who had
issue

issue two sons, William and Peter: this William had three sons; Sir William, who died without issue; Sir Alan Englefeld, and Thomas.

William, (son and heir to Sir Alan) is commemorated temp. Rich. I. and was father to John Englefeld, of Englefeld, who had issue, Sir William Englefeld.

Sir John de Englefeld, was son and heir of Sir William, and died 4 Edw. I. he was also Lord of Shiplake, Ascott, &c. whose son, Sir William, died in France, in the reign of King Edw. I. having had issue, Sir Roger Englefeld, Andrew, and William.

Sir Roger, aforesaid, was returned one of the Knights for Berkshire, in the parliament held 6 Edward II. and dying 36 Edw. III. left, by Joan, his wife, a daughter, Alice, married to Mortely; and two sons, Sir Philip, and William.

Sir Philip, as eldest son, enjoyed the ancient inheritance, and died 3 Rich. II. but from Joan, his wife, proceeded three sons; 1. Sir John; 2. Philip, of whom hereafter; and 3. Nicholas Englefeld, of Ricot, in Oxfordshire, Esq; Comptroller of the Household to King Rich. II. who married Jane, daughter and heir of John Clark, of Lanynton-Gernon, and died April 1, 1415.

Which Nicholas left only two daughters and coheirs, Cicely, married to William Fowler, and Sibil, to Richard Quatermains.

Sir John Englefeld, aforesaid, served in Parliament as Knight of the Shire for Berks, 21 of King Richard II. He had posterity to the third generation; but then the line expiring without issue male, the estate came to the descendant of his brother, Philip, who, by Alice, daughter and heir of Walter Rossale, sister and heir to Sir John Rossale, Knt. had the Isle of Rossel, Uddington, Eton, and Yeagden, in Salop; and had issue a daughter, Philippe, married to Edward Brudenel, of Ayno, in Northamptonshire, Esq; ancestor to the Earls of Cardigan; and two sons, Philip Englefeld, Esq; and Robert, of whom hereafter; Philip, the eldest son, was High-Sheriff of Berkshire 8 Henry VI. It is presumed he died unmarried, or without issue; for his brother, Robert, succeeded him in the Lordship of Englefeld, and died 13 Edw. IV. John, his eldest son, died in his life-time, leaving issue, by Joan, daughter to John Milborn, of London, one son, Thomas, heir to his grandfather.

Which Thomas, aforementioned, received, with many more, the honour of Knighthood on the marriage of Prince Arthur, son to Henry VII. having, anno 1496, been elected Speaker of the House of Commons, and was made Judge or Justice of Chester Aug. 20, 19 Henry VII. which he held till his death; and

and was Speaker of the first Parliament called by King Henry VIII. He married Margery, daughter to Sir Richard Danvers, of Prescot, Knt. Of his sons, I find Richard died without issue male; and Thomas succeeded to the inheritance; and of his daughters, Elizabeth, married Robert White; Joan, to Henry Lenham; Anne, to William Delabere, and Margaret, to John Lyngen, Esqrs.

Thomas Englefeld, eldest surviving son and heir, underwent the office of High-Sheriff of Berkshire, and Oxfordshire, 11 Henry VIII. and having been educated at the Middle-Temple, was, the next year, Autumnal Reader; and the year after, called to the dignity of the coif by the King's letters patent, dated (Decemb. 3, 15 Hen. VIII.) at Hampton-court. He had 100l. per ann. granted him for life; and three years after, was constituted one of the Justices of the Common-Pleas. He was knighted, and departed this life, 1537. He married Elizabeth, daughter to Sir Robert Throgmorton, of Coughton, in Warwickshire, Knt. who bore him three sons; Sir Francis; John, hereafter mentioned; and Thomas; and nine daughters; of which, Anne, married Humphry Coningsby, Esq; ancestor to the Earls of Coningsby; Susan, to Humphry Burdet, Esq; and Margaret, first, to George Carew, Esq; secondly, to Sir Edward Saunders, Knt. Lord Chief-Baron of the Exchequer, temp. Eliz.

Sir Francis, the eldest son, succeeded to the inheritance; and was High-Sheriff of the counties of Berkshire and Oxfordshire, at the death of Henry VIII. and the first year of Edward VI. and was knighted 22 Feb. of the same year: he was one of the chief officers in the Princess Mary's family; and was one of those sent for by the Protector and council, to forbid them hearing or saying mass in the Princess's house; but refusing to deliver such orders, and submitting rather to any punishment, he, together with Sir Robert Rochester, Sir — Walgrave, and Dr. Francis Mallet, her Chaplain, were committed many months to prison. Upon Queen Mary's accession to the crown, he was, in consideration of his faithful services, made one of her Privy-Council, and Master of the Wards, and had the manor and park of Fulbrook, in the county of Warwick, granted to him, to hold in capite; being part of the lands forfeited by the attainder of John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland. He was likewise Knight of the Shire for the county of Berks in every Parliament held by Queen Mary; but on Queen Elizabeth's accession to the throne, he, being extremely attached to his religion, and the interest of Mary, Queen of Scots, with some others, was obliged to leave the kingdom. In 6 Eliz. he was indicted, and afterwards attainted and convicted of high treason, treason, at the Parliament 29 Oct. 28 Eliz. and all his manors, lands, and vast possessions, &c. were declared forfeited to the Queen. The legality of some of the proceedings in this affair was, however, long debated in our courts of law; but the Queen, in the next Parliament, 35 Eliz. had a special act of Parliament to confirm the attainder, and establish the forfeiture of his manors, lands, &c. to her, her heirs, and assigns. By this act of power, the manor and estate of Englefield, which had now been upwards of 780 years in the family, were taken from the same, and forfeited to the Crown. Sir Francis retired to Valladolid, in Spain, where he was a bountiful benefactor to the English college; and being worn out with persecution and years, died, and was buried there, about 1592, where his grave is shewn with respect to English travellers going thither. He married Catharine, daughter and heir of Sir Thomas Fettiplace, of Compton-Beauchamp, in the Vale of Berks; but dying without issue, the family was continued by his brother, John Englefield, Lord of Wotton-Basset, in Wiltshire, who had issue one son, named Francis, by Margaret his wife, daughter of Sir Edward Fitton, of Gawsworth, in Chester, Knt. Lord-President of Connaught, in Ireland, and Mary his wife, daughter of Sir Guiscard Harbottle, of Horton, Knt. and Jane his wife, daughter of Sir Henry Willoughby, of Risley, in Derbyshire, Knt.

Francis Englefield, Esq; only son aforesaid, was of Wotton-Basset, in Wilts, (of which place his father was also nominated) as well as Englefield, in Berkshire.

In the tenth year of King James, he was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet. He married Jane, daughter of Anthony Browne, Esq; eldest son of Anthony, Lord Viscount Mountague, by whom he had ten children, seven sons, and three daughters; 1. Thomas, who married Mary, daughter of William Wollascot, of Shenfield, in Berks, Esq; but died before his father, without issue. 2. Sir Francis, his successor. 3. Sir Thomas, successor to his nephew. 4. John, who died before his father, unmarried. 5. Anthony, of White-Knights, near Reading, who married Susan, daughter of — Ryley, of Oxford, Esq; she died June 2, 1664. The sixth son of Sir Francis Englefield, Bart. was William, who left a daughter and heir, married to — Fettiplace, Esq; and died April 27, 1662. And 7. Henry, who had three wives; first, Elizabeth, daughter of — Pickford, of Cornwall, by whom he had no issue; secondly, Elizabeth, daughter to Sir Walter Blount, of Sodington, in Worcester-shire, Bart. by whom he had, Henry, who died unmarried, and

Created BARONET, Nov. 25, 1612.

THE ancient deeds and writings of this family being destroyed, when Aston-house was plundered, in the time of the rebellion, 1641, the first that I can discover, is Sir Henry Holte, father to Sir Hugh Holte, who married Matilda, daughter to Sir Henry de Erdington, baron of Erdington, (by Joan, his wife, daughter and coheir of Sir Thomas de Wolvey) and had issue by her a son, John Atte-Holte, and died, leaving her a widow, anno 16 Edw. II.

John, his son, had to wife, Alice de Castello, or Castell, daughter, and at length sole heir to Sir George de Castell, descended from the Castells, ancient lords of Withibroke, in the county of Warwick; and, by a female ancestor from Reginald de Asseles, Lord of Nechels: and, anno 4 Edw. III. Alice, (then widow of Sir George, niece and heir to Aliva, one of the coheirs to Simon de Asseles) in consideration of forty pounds, passed away all her inheritance in the manor, unto Simon del Holte, of Birmingham, and his heirs; which estate is still in the family.

This Simon del Holte was son of John, aforesaid; and, by his wife, Albreda de Bermingham, (a daughter of a noble and eminent house, progenitor to the earls of Louth, in Ireland) had issue two sons, John and Walter.

John Atte-Holte, called Senior, in respect of his son, was living 21 Edw. III. and had also two sons, John, and Walter, who died without issue. This John Holte, having had in marriage, Eleanor, daughter and coheir of William Durvassal, of Spennall, died childless, whereupon Walter Holte, his uncle, succeeded in the estate.

Which Walter, anno 49 Edw. III. and 1 Rich. II. underwent the office of escheator to the King, for the counties of Warwick and Leicester; a service, in those times, of great trust, and wherein none but persons of noted worth and quality were employed. In the latter of which years, he was the principal commissioner assigned in the county of Warwick, for levying and collecting a fifteenth and tenth, then granted to the King in Parliament; and departing this life, left issue three sons, John, Simon, and William: his wife, Margery, surviving.

John, the eldest son, was stiled of Yardley, and had issue, Audomar Holte, his son and heir, who was dispossessed of Aston, by his uncle, William Holte; but it was afterwards restored to him.

John, (son and heir of Simon Holt, by Matilda, his wife, daughter and heir of William Collyng, of Bruge-North, in Salop, Esq;) left issue, by Margery, his wife, daughter of Sir Richard Delabere, of Kynardsley, in Herefordshire, Knt. a daughter, Elizabeth, married to John Rudgeley, of Wigington, and one son, William Holte, Esq; who married Margaret, daughter of William Cumberland, of Cumberland, in Staffordshire, Esq; had a numerous issue, and left a son of his own name, William, who succeeded to the estate. Henry VIII. as also in commission for the peace in his county, the greatest part of that King's reign, and also in commission for the taking the surrender of religious houses in that county, he wedded Margery, eldest of the seven daughters and coheirs to William Willington, of Barcheston, in Warwickshire, Esq; who surviving him, afterwards became the wife of Sir Ambrose Cave, Knt. chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaster, temp. Eliz.

Edward Holte, (son and heir of the said Thomas) was constituted one of the Justices of Peace for Warwickshire, 14 Eliz. and and in the twenty-fifth of that reign, High-Sheriff of that county. By Dorothy, daughter of John Ferrers, of Tamworth-Castle, Esq; (by Dorothy, his wife, daughter of Francis Cokayne, of Ashborne, in Derbyshire, Esq; and Dorothy, his wife, daughter of Thomas Marrow, Esq; Serjeant at Law) he had three sons, Thomas, Francis, and Robert; and seven daughters; Anne, wife to Edward West; Lucy, to John Hugford; Catharine, to Humphrey Wyrley; Mary, to George Smyth, son of George Smyth, of Wotton, in Warwickshire, Esq; Dorothy, Margaret, and Frances, all died without issue.

THIS family, about the time of William the Conqueror, being possessed of Woodchurch, in Kent, were thence denominated.

Raphe, son of Anchitel de Woodchurch, is said to be Custos of the castle of London in the time of William Rufus, and father of Roger, who married Isabel, daughter of Richard de Wakehurst. Mr. Philpot, in his discourse on Woodchurch, gives an account, "That Woodchurch, in the hundred of Blackburn, in Kent, was the habitation of a family, of as deep root in antiquity, as any in this track; who extracted their surname, as well as borrowed their first original, from this place. Roger de Woodchurch, is the first who does occur; who, in the ancient evidences, and the deeds of this place, which are not cloistered within any date, finds a frequent mention; and from him, (as appears from an old pedigree of this family,) did it devolve to his grand-child, Sir Simon de Woodchurch, who is in the register of those eminent persons who accompanied Edward I. in his victorious and triumphant expedition into Scotland, where his victories entailed upon his memory, the character of Malleus Scotorum; but in this Sir Simon, the name, though not the male line, determined; for he, by matching with Susan, heir of Henry le Clerke, of Munfidge, brought a large inheritance to own the signiory of Woodchurch; and his successors, in gratitude to a family, which had added so much of splendor, and annexed so plentiful a revenue to this name, altered their paternal appellation from Woodchurch to Clerke: and so in all their deeds, subsequent to this match, have written Clerke, alias Woodchurch, ever since. But as all families have their descent and period, as well as gradation and ascent, so had this; for, after this manor had, for so many hundred years, continued in this family, which had been productive of men, which had been planted in places of the greatest eminence, by which they were obliged to perform their service to their country, it came down at last, last, to Humphry Clerke, Esq; who, about the year 1594, passed it away by sale, to Walter Harlackenden, Esq;” whose daughter and heir, Deborah, married Sir Edward Hales, Bart.

Thomas Woodchurch, son of Roger, beforementioned, married Anne, daughter of Sir Walter Harvy, Knt. Lord-Mayor of London, in the reign of King John; by whom he had Sir Simon Woodchurch, Knt. who, by Susan, daughter and heir of Henry Clarke, had issue two sons; 1. Simon, who married Isabel, daughter of Sir Robert Rockesly, of Horton-Kirkby, near Dartford, in Kent, Knt. and left only a daughter and heir, Isabell, married to Adrian Fortescue; 2. Clarke Woodchurch, heir to his mother’s lands, who married Benet, daughter and coheir of Robert Shert, of Woodchurch, and was father of,

Peter Clark, alias Woodchurch, who married Eleanor, daughter of Peter Rowling, and had two sons, John, and Henry, Bachelor in Divinity, who died without issue.

Sir John Clarke, Knt. eldest son, was at the battle of Poitiers, and winning of Calais: he married Margaret, daughter and heir of Delahay, and had a son, Henry Clarke, alias Woodchurch, who, by Maud, daughter of — Ichingham, of Ichingham, had issue, Robert Clarke de Woodchurch, who married Catharine, daughter of Richard Edingham, of Edingham, in Kent, by whom he had,

William Clarke, of Woodchurch, who had three wives; 1. Julian, daughter of — Roberts, of Glassenbury, in Kent; 2. Bennet, daughter of — Ashburnham, Esqrs. by neither of which had he any issue; 3. Elizabeth, daughter and heir of William Winterborne, of Sandhurst, in Kent, Esq; by whom he had two sons; 1. Robert, who married the daughter of Hales, of Halden, in Kent, but his issue failed; 2. John, who married Rabege, daughter and coheir of Thomas Godfrey, of Allington, Esq; by whom he became possessed of Fauconhurst. This William built the south isle at Woodchurch, and was there buried, 13 Edw. IV. 1473.

Humphry Clarke, son of John Clarke, of Woodchurch, by Margaret, his wife, daughter of John Maney, of Biddenden, in Kent, Esq; had issue four daughters that were married, viz. Margaret, to William Brockman, of Newington; Elizabeth, to Richard Tucke, of Aldington; Joan, first married to Reginald Knight, secondly, to Thomas Graunt, and thirdly, to Sir Walter Ascough, Knt. and Lettice, first married to Martyn Culpeper, M. D. and secondly, to Robert Purslow: and 2 sons; 1. Humphry Clarke, of Buckford, in Great-Chart; 2. Walter Clarke, of Ratcliffe, in Bucks, Esq; who married Elizabeth, daughter of Simon Edolph, of St. Radigans, in Kent, Esq; and had issue four sons; Simon, Martin, who died without issue,
John

John, who married Mary, daughter of Randall, of Dunkirk; and Humphry, who married Cicely, daughter of Nicholls: and a daughter, Anne, the wife of Abel Barnard.

Simon Clarke, Esq; the eldest son, married, 1. Margaret, daughter and coheir of John Alderford, of Abbots-Salford, in Warwickshire, Esq; (by Elizabeth, daughter of Peter Dormer, of Newbottle, Esq;) and was created a Baronet, 1617. He had issue by the said Margaret, five sons; Sir John, Walter, Thomas, Peter, a Captain in the Low-countries, and Woodchurch, (who married the daughter of Thomas D'Abitot, of Ridmarsly-D'Abitot, in Worcestershire, and left issue, Simon;) also a daughter, Elizabeth. His second Lady was Dorothy, daughter of Thomas Hobson, of Cambridge, Gent, relict of William Hay, Gent. by whom he had no issue.

Sir John Clarke, Bart. eldest son and successor to Sir Simon, married Anne, daughter of John Williams, of Marnehill, Esq; but had no issue.

Sir John, beforementioned, dying without issue, was succeeded by his nephew, Sir Simon Clarke, only son of Peter Clarke, Esq; (who was killed in 1639, by the Lord Morley) by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of — Corbyson, of Warwickshire.

Which Sir Simon Clarke, Bart. married Mercy, daughter of Philip Brace, of Doverdale, in Worcestershire, Esq; by whom he had two sons, Sir Simon, his successor, and Philip, (who left two sons, Sir Simon, hereafter mentioned, and Philip;) and two daughters, Elizabeth and Mercy: Sir Simon died Nov. 10, 1687.

Sir Simon Clarke, Bart. eldest son and successor to his father, married a daughter of the Rev. Mr. Castle, and left issue only one son,

Sir Simon-Peter Clarke, Bart. who first went to sea, with the King's letter, on board the Assistance man of war, and afterwards served in several different capacities at sea, but dying without issue, was succeeded by his cousin, Sir Simon Clarke, Bart. eldest son of Philip, second son of Sir Simon, by Mercy, daughter of Philip Brace, Esq; beforementioned.

The residence of this family being in Jamaica, deprives us at present of saying, with certainty, who now enjoys the title.

30. BOYNTON, of Barmston, Yorkshire.

Created BARONET, May 25, 1618.

THIS is a family of very great antiquity; and the first mentioned in the pedigree is Bartholomew de Boynton, who was seized of the manor of Boynton, (from whence the family were denominated) and lived 1067, and was succeeded in his estate by his son, Walter, who lived in the time of William Rufus, 1091. Some time after, we meet with Bruis de Boin-ton, a witness, with the Prior of Tinmouth, and others, to a donation in frank Almoigne, made by Ranulf de Merley, in 30 Henry I. 1129, confirming to the monks of Durham, Morvic, with the appurtenances, that his father, William de Merley, had before granted them : to whom succeeded, Sir Ingram de Boynton, Knt. seated at Aclam, in that county ; who had issue, Sir William, his son and heir, living in the reign of King Edward I. father to another Ingram de Boynton, who left issue, by Margaret, his wife, daughter of Sir Walter Grindal, Knt. Walter, his son and heir.

Which Walter de Boynton was knighted, and in 30 Ed. III. 1356, being in the service of Edward, Prince of Wales, in Britany, had the King's letters of protection, dated the 8th of February, the same year. He had issue, Sir Thomas Boynton, of Aclam, who had in marriage, Catharine, daughter and coheir of Sir Gifford Rossells, of Newton, under Gundsborough, in Cleveland. He was succeeded by a son of his own name, Thomas de Boynton, who was likewise a knight ; and, by Margaret, his wife, daughter of — Sawcock, left a son, Henry.

Contemporary with the said Sir Thomas, was Robert de Boynton, governor of Berwick-castle.

Henry de Boynton, (son and heir of Sir Thomas) seconded the interest of Henry (Percy) earl of Northumberland, and his son, who had taken arms against King Henry IV. For, in the fourth year of the reign of that Prince, (when the battle of Shrewsbury was fought) John Wokerington, Gerald Heron, and John Mitford, were commissioned to tender an oath to this Henry de Boynton, and others, to be true to the King, and renounce Henry, Earl of Northumberland, and his adherents ; yet, three years after this, he was concerned with the said Earl, Thomas Mowbray, Earl-Marshal, Richard Scroope, archbishop of Canterbury, and others, who had taken arms in 7 Henry IV. and flying to Berwick, was apprehended, on the surrender thereof to the King, and, with seven others, executed, being then a Knight. He had issue, by Elizabeth, his wife, (afterwards married ried to John Felton) two daughters, viz. Elizabeth, wife to Thomas Marton, of Marton, in Cleveland; and Jennet, wife to John Wydisworth; likewise two sons, Thomas de Boynton, who died without issue, and Walter; other pedigrees say, William.

Which Walter, or William, lived in the time of King Henry VI. and by his wife, Jane, the daughter of Simon Harding, left issue, Sir Thomas Boynton, Knt. his son and heir; who, by marriage with Isabel, daughter of Sir William Normanville, of Kilnwick, in Yorkshire, Knt. had issue two sons, Henry, hereafter mentioned, and Sir Christopher, progenitor to the Boyntons of Sadbury, in the liberty of Richmond, in Yorkshire, the eldest line whereof expired in one daughter and sole heir, Isabel, married to Henry, second son to Sir William Gascoigne, of Gawthrop, Knt. and from a second son of this branch, descended the Boyntons, who were settled at Willerby, and afterwards at Rawcliff; which likewise expired in heirs females, one of whom was mother to Boynton Appleyard, Esq; who bears the name of Boynton-Boynton, by right of substitution and adoption.

Henry Boynton, Esq; son and heir of Sir Thomas, before-mentioned, and elder brother to Sir Christopher, encreased his fortune very considerably, by marrying Margaret, daughter and coheir of Sir Martyn del See, Lord of Barmston, in Yorkshire, by Margaret, his wife, daughter and coheir of Christopher Spencer; for thereby he enjoyed a large estate of her inheritance, and principally the manor of Barmston, anciently possessed by John Mounceux; whose daughter and heir, Margaret, married to Bryan at See, brought it to Sir Martyn del See, son of the said Bryan; and from the aforesaid marriage with Boynton, it accrued to this family, and has been their principal seat ever since. The said Henry Boynton had a daughter, Isabel, espoused to Bryan Tonstall; and four sons, Thomas, Martyn, Cuthbert, and Henry.

Thomas Boynton, Esq; the eldest, succeeded at Barmston and Aclam, and taking in marriage, Cicely, daughter to Sir James Strangeways, of Smeton, in Yorkshire, Knt. had issue two daughters, (Anne, married to Robert Haldenby, of Haldenby; Jane, to Thomas Goldsborough, of Goldsborough, Esqrs.) and a son, Matthew.

Which Matthew Boynton, Esq; married Anne, daughter to Sir John Bulmer, Knt. and had issue a son, Thomas, and three daughters, viz. Margaret, wife to William Frobysher; Anne, to William, fourth son to Richard Norton, of Norton, in Yorkshire; and Cecilie, Maid of Honour to Queen Elizabeth, and afterwards married to Edmund Norton, third son of Richard.

Thomas

Thomas Boynton, Esq; (son and heir of Matthew) was Sheriff of Yorkshire, in 18 Eliz. and afterwards had the honour of Knighthood from the Queen, at Hampton-Court, in Jan. 1577. He had two wives, Frances, daughter of Francis Forbysher, of Doncaster, by whom he had his son and heir, Francis; and Anne, who married Francis Vaughan, of Sutton-Darwent, in Yorkshire. By his second Lady, Alice, daughter of Nicholas Tempest, of Holmeside, in the Bishopric of Durham, Esq; he had no issue; and she, afterwards marrying Sir Christopher Place, of Halnaby, in Yorkshire, Knt. had, among other issue, Dorothy, (at length sole heir of that family) who married the aforesaid Francis Boynton, Esq; eldest son and heir of Sir Thomas.

Which Sir Francis was Sheriff of Yorkshire, in 28 Eliz. and received the honour of Knighthood, at York, the 17th of April, 1603, when King James passed through that city, in his way from Scotland. He left issue by the said Dorothy, daughter and coheir of Sir Christopher Place, Knt. and Alice, his wife, relict of Nicholas Tempest, of Holmeside, and Anne, his wife, daughter of John Marley, Esqrs. a daughter, Dorothy, married to Sir Henry Bellingham, of Levinz, Knt. and a son named Matthew.

This Sir Matthew Boynton was knighted by King James I. at Whitehall, May the 9th, 1618, and on the 26th of May following, was farther advanced to the dignity of a Baronet. He served in Parliament for the borough of Heydon, in the reign of King Charles I. and was one of those the rebels chiefly entrusted in Yorkshire; for when Sir John Hotham, and his son, Captain Hotham, were contriving the surrender of Hull, to the King, this Sir Matthew Boynton had orders from the Parliament, to have an eye on them, and endeavour to preserve the town, if he perceived it in danger; pursuant to which, he contrived the seizing of him; and Colonel Boynton, his son, actually took Sir John prisoner. He died in the year 1646; and, by Frances, his wife, daughter of Sir Henry Griffith, of Agnes-Burton, Knt. and Bart. (and heir to her brother, Sir Henry) had seven sons, and four daughters; of whom, Mary, died unmarried; Dorothy, was wife to John Anlaby, of Etton, in Yorkshire; Elizabeth, to John Heron, son of Richard Heron, of Bockenfield, in Northumberland; and Margaret, to John Robinson, of Rither, in Yorkshire, Esqrs. Of the sons, Sir Francis, successor to the title and estate, will be mentioned hereafter; Matthew, second son, married Isabel, daughter to Robert Stapleton, of Wighill, in Yorkshire, Esq; and was slain at Wigan, in the advance of the army of King Charles II. out of Scotland, towards Worcester: he left issue two daughters, one of them married to the nominal Duke of Tirconnel, when Colonel Talbot; and the other to the celebrated Earl of Roscommon: 3. Marmaduke; 4. John;

5. Gustavus; 6. Cornelius, and 7. Charles; all died unmarried.

Sir Francis Boynton, Bart. (son and heir of Sir Matthew) aged forty-seven years, 1665, had to wife, Constance, daughter of William, Viscount Say and Seal, who bore him a daughter, Frances, married to George Witchcote, of Harpswell, in Lincolnshire, Esq; and three sons; 1. William; 2. Nathaniel, who died unmarried; 3. Henry, Rector of Barmston, who wedded, first, Dorothy, daughter of Alexander Amcotts, of the bishopric of Durham, Esq; and had issue, Sir Francis Boynton, of Beverly, of whom hereafter; and Elizabeth, who died young. He married, secondly, Margaret, daughter of — Robinson, of Newton-Garth, in the East-riding of Yorkshire, Esq; who died without issue.

William Boynton, Esq; (eldest son and heir apparent to Sir Francis, died in the life-time of his father, about the Year 1689, and by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter and coheir of John Bernard, of Kingston upon Hull, Esq; left issue, Sir Griffith Boynton, Bart. successor to his grandfather, and a daughter, Constance, married to Richard Kirshaw, D. D. Rector of Ripley, in Yorkshire.

Which Sir Griffith Boynton, of Burton-Agnes, Bart. married, first, Adriana, daughter of Mr. John Sykes, Merchant, at Dort; she died 1725, but had no issue.

Sir Griffith, married, Nov. 1728, to his second Lady, a daughter of John White, of Codgrave, in Nottinghamshire, Esq; he died, Dec. 22, 1731, without issue, and his Lady, Oct. 8, 1732, and was succeeded in dignity and estate by his cousin, Sir Francis Boynton, Bart. only son of Henry, Rector of Barmston, who was third son of Sir Francis Boynton, Bart. before-mentioned.

Which Sir Francis Boynton, Bart. was elected Member in Parliament for Healdon, in Yorkshire, and one of the Members of the House of Commons, who, by order of the House, in April 1736, was appointed to congratulate her late Majesty Queen Caroline, on the Nuptials of the Prince of Wales, with the Princess of Sax-Gotha: he was also appointed, by the House of Commons, to congratulate their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, upon the Birth of Prince Edward; and was Recorder of Beverley. He married Frances, daughter of James Heblethwayte, of Norton, in the East-riding of Yorkshire, Esq; (by Bridget, his wife, daughter of Sir William Cobb, of Beverley, in Yorkshire, Knt.) which Lady has been dead some years; by whom he had issue three sons, and three daughters, viz. Sir Griffith, his successor; Francis, living; and William, deceased: Constance and Adriana, and Dorothy, deceased.

31. BURDET, of Bramcote, Warwickshire.

Created BARONET, Feb. 25, 1618.

THE first of this family was Hugh Burdet, who came into England with William the Conqueror, Anno 1066. He left issue, William Burdet, Lord of Louby, in Leicestershire, who founded the priory at Aucote, near Seckington, in Warwickshire, temp. Hen. II. to expiate the murder of his wife, committed at his return from the Holy Land; the occasion of which is said to be thus: That the said William Burdet, being both a valiant and devout man, made a journey to the Holy Land, for subduing of the infidels in those parts, and that his Steward, whilst he was thus absent, solicited the chastity of his Lady, who resisted those his uncivil attempts, with much scorn; whereupon, he grew so full of envy towards her, that so soon as he had heard of his Master's arrival again in England, he went to meet him; and, to shadow his own foul crime, complained to him of her looseness with others; which false accusation so enraged her husband, that when he came home, and she approached to receive him with joyful embraces, he mortally stabbed her.

Sir William, grandson of the above Sir William, left issue three sons; Hugh, father of William: Sir Richard Burdet, Knt. Lord of Louseby and Newton, in Leicestershire, and William Burdet, from whom the Burdets, of Allington, were descended, whose heir general, Jane, married to Thomas Harvey, of Elms-

This William, had issue four sons; 1. Richard Burdet, of Newton-Burdet and Louseby, in Leicestershire, who died 6 Ed. I. (father to William, slain at Dundee, in Scotland, 11 Ed. I. father to John, father to Elizabeth, who, as heir general, conveyed, by marriage, the manor of Louseby to her husband, Thomas Ashby, Esq; whose descendants possessed the same.) 2. Hugh. 3. Robert Burdet, who died without issue, in 31 Ed. I. 4. William Burdet, of Shepey, and Cosby, in Leicestershire. He was one of the Knights of that Shire, in the Parliament held in 25 Edw. I. whose heir general, Agnes, about the reign of Richard II. or Henry IV. became the wife of William Shepey.

As for Hugh, Sir Robert Burdet, his son and heir, was the first that settled at Arrow, in Warwickshire, and married Elizabeth, daughter and heir to Sir Gerard de Camville. In 14 Ed. II. he served in the Parliament, held at Westminster, as one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Warwick; in 18 Ed. II. one of the Knights for Leicestershire, in the Parliament then held; in 19 Edw. II. again Knight for Warwickshire, in the Parliament held at Westminster; as likewise in 1, 2, and 4 Edw. III. for Leicestershire; he was, before the end of the following year of the last mentioned King, constituted Sheriff for both counties. He died 7 Edw. III. and left issue, Gerard, and Robert Burdet, both Knights; which Sir Robert married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir to Robert Garshale, of Ibstocke, in Leicestershire.

Gerard, in 20 Edw. III. served in the wars of France, being then of the retinue to Maurice de Berkley, an English Baron, and departed this life about 33 Edw. III. leaving, by Eleanor, his wife, (sister and heir to John, Veale, of Compton-Scorfin, in Warwickshire) John, his son and heir, under age.

Which John Burdet, by the death of John de Veale, (his uncle by the mother's side) without issue, in 34 Edw. III. was found to be one of his cousins, and next heirs; in 1 Richard II. being then a Knight, he served in Parliament for Warwickshire; and in 2 Richard II. was constituted one of the Commissioners of the said county, for taxing a subsidy, at that time granted the King; and having married Margaret, daughter to Thomas Fitton, of Gausworth, in Cheshire, Esq; was succeeded by,

Sir Thomas Burdet, Knt. his son and heir. He was constituted one of the Commissioners for the army, in 5 Richard II. served in Parliament as one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Warwick, in 16 Richard II. as also in 2 and 8 Hen. IV. In 3 Henry V. he was made Sheriff for the counties of Warwick and Leicestershire. In 6 Henry V. he was again one of the Commissioners of array, in Warwickshire; and the year following, jointly intrusted, with the Sheriff and others, to treat with the people for a loan of money to the King; and was in Commission for assessing and collecting a subsidy, in 9 Hen. V. He left issue, by Anne, his wife, (daughter and coheir to John Waldeif) Nicholas, his son and heir.

Which Nicholas, being one of those, who, bearing arms from his ancestors, had summons to attend the King in person, 7 Henry V. for defence of the realm; and shortly after, he was retained to serve the said King in his wars, having received of John Salvaine, Treasurer at War to the Duke of Bedford, for himself, two men at arms, and seven archers, 29l. 11s. 6d. for one quarter's wages. And continuing in those wars, in 3 Henry VI. he was one that defended the town of St. James de Beveron, in Normandy, upon the frontiers of Britany, on the siege thereof, by Arthur, Earl of Richmond, and Yverie, Constable of France; and making a couragious sally, seven or eight hundred of the enemy were slain, fifty taken prisoners, with eighteen standards, and one banner. In 15 Hen. VI. he was a Knight, and was afterwards slain at the battle of Pontoise, 18 Henry VI. at which time he was Chief Butler of Normandy, and Governor of Eurieux, in that Dutchy. By his wife, Joan, cousin and heir of Henry Bruin, (with whom he had the manor of Bramcote, in Warwickshire) he had Thomas Burdet, Esq; his son and heir.

Which Thomas, in 28 Henry VI. was employed in his country about levying the subsidy then granted to the King: He was a person of great note and figure there, and from the seventh to the fourteenth of Edward IV. was in Commission for conserving the peace: but, anno 17 Edward IV. having incurred the King's displeasure, for his good affections to the Duke of Clarence, so strict were the eyes and ears of his enemies, that an advantage was soon taken to take away his life; for hearing that the King had killed a white buck, in his park at Arrow, which buck he set much store by, he passionately wished the horns in his belly that moved the King so to do; for which words, he was arraigned and convicted of high treason, upon inference of a mischievous meaning to the King himself, and was beheaded for the same.

After the death of this Thomas, there arose great suits for his manor of Arrow, and other lands, betwixt Richard Burdet, his son, by Agnes, daughter of John Waldeif, a former wife, that had been, for nearness of kindred, divorced from him, 1464, and John Burdet, his son, by Margaret, a later wife, daughter of John Rodney: for the said Thomas, (by licence obtained from the Crown) 12 Ed. IV. had alienated his lands to his younger son, to the disherison of his elder; of which he became afterwards so sensible, that as he was drawn from the Tower to the place of his execution, espying his eldest son, in Westcheap, over-against St. Thomas Becket's hospital, (now Mercers-chapel) he caused himself to be staid, and there asked his said son forgiveness, and acknowledging the wrong he had done him, concluded that to be the cause of God's vengeance then against him.

But in the suit aforementioned, the said John, (the younger son) prevailed; for Margaret, his mother, held her estate therein for life, and married, secondly, Thomas Woodhill; however, the said Richard Burdet, so wrought with his brother John, as also with the said Margaret, and her husband, that they levied a fine of the manor of Arrow, Compton-Scorfin, with other lands, and generously gave the said Richard the present possession thereof; whereby he became vested in the said inheritance, with the remainder, to Thomas, his son; and for want of issue by him, to Robert, his other son, and the heirs of his body; and for his want of such issue, to the right heirs of the said Richard, for ever.

Which two sons died young, in their father's life-time, and Richard, himself, by Joyse, daughter of Sir Simon Montfort, Knt. (who survived him, and afterwards married Sir Hugh Conway, Treasurer of Ireland) left no heir male.

John Burdet, who was a Knight, died in 20 Henry VIII. leaving issue, by Anne, his wife, daughter of William Harewell, of that county, Thomas, his son and heir, John, William, and George; also four daughters, Joan, Osburna, wife to George Daston, in Gloucestershire; Elizabeth, to John Copland; and Anne, to John Hall.

Thomas Burdet, died about the 31st of Hen. VIII. leaving by Mary his wife, daughter to Sir Robert Throckmorton, Knt. Robert Burdet, Esq; his son and heir; Clement, a Clergyman; Humphrey, William, and Ethelbert; also three daughters, Blanch, wife to — Samborne; Catharine to — Ludlow; and Eleanor to — Willenscote.

Which Robert was elected one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Warwick, in the Parliament 1 Edw. VI. and died 11 Jan. 2 Edw. VI. and by Elizabeth his wife, daughter to Sir Tho. Cockaine, of Ashburne in Derbyshire, Knt. had issue, Tho. Burdet, Esq; his son and heir, Francis, George, William, Student in the Middle-Temple, and John; Thomas died 15 July, 33 Eliz. and having married Bridget, daughter of Thomas Curslon of Croxhall, in Derbyshire, Esq; had issue, Robert, Thomas, Lawrence, and John, which John, died without issue; also three daughters, Dorothy, wife to John Barwell, Barwell, of Sekingdon, Gent. and to ——— Sheffield, Gent. and Mary; and was succeeded by Robert Burdet, Esq; his son and heir, who took to wife Mary, daughter of Dr. Thomas Wilson, Dean of Durham, one of the principal Secretaries of State to Q. Elizabeth; and deceased 27 March, 1603.

They had issue Thomas, and six daughters, Bridget, wife to William Whelpdale; Anne, to John Bowes, of Elford in Staffordshire, Esq; Mary, to Richard Frampton, Esq; Elizabeth, to Anthony Hutton, of Penrith, in Cumberland, Esq; son of Sir William Hutton, Knt. Letice, wife to Richard Skelton, of Armenthwait in Cumberland, Gent. and Lucrecia, who died unmarried.

Thomas Burdet, of Seckington and Bramcote, Esq; son of the said Robert, born the 3d of August 1585, was by his Majesty King James advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, the 25th of February 1618. He added to his possessions the manor of Formark, and a good estate in Derbyshire, by marriage of Jane, daughter and heir of William Frauncys, Esq; nephew and heir to John Frauncys of Formark, aforesaid, Esq; which seat has, since that time, been the chief residence of this family.

This Sir Thomas was a good house-keeper, charitable to the poor, and ever ready to do all friendly offices, and his Lady was a very ingenious and learned person, as well as a pattern of all goodness.

They had issue three sons, 1. Sir Francis, his successor. 2. Robert, a Merchant and Alderman of the City of London, (who, by Mary his wife, daughter of Alderman Wright, left issue.) 3. Leicester, who died at Aleppo, unmarried. Likewise seven daughters, Catharine, married to Seabright Repington, of Amington in Warwickshire, Esq; Isabel, wife of Francis Merick, Merchant of London; Lettice, espoused to William Houncel, Merchant of London; Mary, wedded to George Bowes, of Elford in Staffordshire, Esq; Jane, betrothed to Gilbert Thacker, of Repton in Derbyshire, Esq; Dorothy, who died unmarried; and Bridget, wife to Thomas Gresley, Esq; son and heir of Sir George Gresley, of Drakelow in Derbyshire, Bart.

Sir Francis Burdet, Bart. born the 10th of September 1608, took to wife Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Walter, Knt. of Sarfden in Oxfordshire, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, a Lady of exemplary prudence and behaviour; and both have left an admirable character for their charity and hospitality, which proceeded from a principle of goodness, and not the least ostentation; for they were known rather to be austere than affected with any desire of shew or applause. The building from the ground, and endowing the church of Formark, is likewise a lasting monument of their piety and regard for religion ; which church, called St. Saviour's, was consecrated in the year 1662.

This Sir Frauncis, and his Lady, both lived to be very aged : She was born in September 1613, and died the 17th of April, 1701. Sir Frauncis, died Dec. 30, 1696.

He left issue nine children : 1. Sir Robert, his successor. 2. Francis, who died, unmarried, the 18th of April, 1709. 3. Walter, who died unmarried ; and during the pregnancy of Elizabeth, wife of his nephew, Robert Burdet, Esq; took upon himself the title of Baronet. 4. John, late of Donisthorpe, in the counties of Derby and Leiceſter, who married Anna, the daughter of Mr. Muggleston, of Paskington in Leiceſtershire, but died without issue. 5. Thomas, who died, unmarried, the 12th of Aug. 1698. Likewise four daughters, Dorothy, who died unmarried, September 4, 1718. Mary, born January 23, 1643, and died the 15th of April, 1701. 32. MACKWORTH, of Normanton, Rutlandshire.

Created BARONET, June 4, 1619.

MACKWORTH, in Derbyshire, gave name to this ancient family, seated there for many generations; one of which was of the retinue to the famous James, Lord Audley, Knight of the Garter, who was very instrumental in obtaining the glorious victory, at Poictiers, under the Black Prince, in

in 20 Edw. III. where the French, though much superior, received an overthrow, the King, and Dauphin of France, many of his Nobles, and innumerable common soldiers, being taken prisoners, as our historians write; and that this Lord Audley, acquainting the Prince, before the fight, with the vow he had made to be the first in the battle, craved his licence that he might accomplish it; to which the Prince accorded, and said, Sir James, God give you this day that grace to be the best Knight of all others: and thereupon, departing with his four Esquires, (Mackworth, being one of them) went to the foremost front of the battle, and, by his extraordinary valour, he broke through the French army, and caused much slaughter that day to the enemy.

His noble conduct and valour so infinitely pleased the brave Prince, that, as a testimony thereof, he settled 500 marks in land upon him, in England, of annual revenue, (a considerable estate in those days) which this Lord presently and frankly settled on his four Esquires; whereof the Prince being acquainted, demanded whether he liked not his bounty, or thought the gift beneath his acceptance; to which, when answer was given, That they deserved the same as well as himself, without whose assistance, says he, I, a single man, could have done but little; the Prince, thereupon, thanked him for so doing, and gave him 600 marks per ann. more. The posterity of all the four Esquires, have, in memory of this victory, added the said lord's coat armour to their own, as plainly appears, by the Cheveron Gules, Fretté, Or, bore by this family of Mackworth, Delves, Haukeston, &c.

A descendant of this family was, John Mackworth, LL. D. He succeeded John de Shepey, as Dean of Lincoln, 1412, and died 1451.

But the chief of this line, who first settled in the county of Rutland, was Thomas Mackworth, of Mackworth in Derbyshire, Esq; who served in Parliament as one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Derby, in 3 and 4 Henry VI. and marrying Alice, sister and heir to Sir John de Basings, (that died issueless, in 24 Henry VI.) became possessed of a fair inheritance, and principally of the towns and manors of Normanton, Empingham, and Hardwick, in Rutland, which first place, from thenceforth, became their capital mansion.

To the said Thomas Mackworth, succeeded Henry, his son and heir, who, fixing in the county of Rutland, was Sheriff thereof, in 18 Edward IV. and (John, his son and heir, dying in his life time,) was succeeded by his grandson, George Mackworth, Sheriff of the county of Rutland, in 12 Henry VII. and VIII. 14, 22, and 26 Henry VIII. departing this life, in 28 Henry

28 Henry VIII. 1536, leaving, by Anne, his wife, a daughter, Lucy, married to Francis Brown, of Stamford, Esq; and Francis, his son and heir.

Which Francis Mackworth, of Normanton, Esq; took to wife, Ellen, one of the eight daughters of Humphry Hercy, of Grove, in Nottinghamshire, Esq; by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Sir John Digby, of Kettelby, Knt. sister and coheir to Sir John Hercy, Knt. who died without issue 12. Eliz. He was Sheriff of Rutland, in 30 or 35 Henry VIII. also 3 Queen Mary; and died in 1 Elizabeth, leaving George, his son and heir, who was thrice Sheriff, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and, by Grace, his wife, daughter of Ralph Rokebey, Esq; Serjeant at Law, had issue, Thomas Mackworth, of Normanton, Esq; Sheriff of Rutland, in 41 Eliz. and 7 Jac. I. was advanced to the dignity of Baronet, by Letters Patents, bearing date the 4th of June, 1619. He married Margaret, daughter and heir of — Hall, of Gretford, in Lincolnshire, Esq; (sole heir to her mother, daughter and coheir of Francis Neale, of Tugby, in Lincolnshire, Esq;) who bore him four sons and a daughter, which last died young. The sons were, 1. Sir Henry. 2. Sir Francis, who died unmarried. 3. Peregrine, who took to wife, —, widow of — Moor, of Grantham, in Lincolnshire, Esq; Barrister at Law, but had no issue; and 4. Neale Mackworth, who died unmarried.

(successor to his father in title and estate) rebuilt the manor-house at Normanton, and having married Mary, daughter of Robert Hopton, of Wittam, in Somersetshire, Esq; second sister and coheir of Ralph, Lord Hopton, of Stratton in Cornwall, had issue by her two daughters and five sons; 1. Sir Thomas. 2. Robert, who married twice; first, Elizabeth, daughter of John Hatcher, of Empingham, aforesaid, Esq; and secondly, Martha, daughter of Edward Corbet, D. D. of the Edgmond line, in Salop, by both which he had issue, but none survived him by the last: he died, Feb. 1, 1717-8, aged ninety-five.

Sir Henry's two daughters were, Margaret, wife of Philip Young, of Keniton, in Salop, Esq; and Jane, first wife of Hugh Underwood, of Wittlesey, in the isle of Ely, Esq;

Sir Thomas Mackworth, Bart. (eldest son and heir of Sir Henry) had all the advantages of education, excellent temper, good natural parts, and a readiness to do all friendly offices. He was chosen one of the Knights for the county of Rutland, in all Parliaments, from the thirty-first year of the reign of King Charles II. to the time of his death, 1694; and having married two wives; 1. Dorothy, daughter of Captain George Darrel, of Cale-hill, in the county of Kent, had issue by her one son, Thomas, who died in the life-time of his father; and two daughters, Dorothy, who wedded John Wingfield, of Ticken-cote, in Rutland, Esq; and Utrechia, who died unmarried: but by Anne, his second Lady, daughter of Humphry Mackworth of Betton, Salop, Esq; he had issue four daughters, Mary, and Anne, who both died unmarried; Jane, married to Abraham Rys, of Lincolnshire, Gent. who left her a widow, but no issue, and Elizabeth, unmarried: likewise three sons, Humphry, and Hopton, that died unmarried, and Sir Thomas, who, upon his father's death, 1727, succeeded to the title and estate.

35. HICKES, of Beverston, Gloucestershire.

Created BARONET, July 21, 1619.

THIS family is descended originally out of the county of Gloucester, where some of them have been anciently seated, though they bear different arms. Robert Hickes was, I suppose, a younger brother, as appears by an old fine in Edward the Sixth's time, wherein Thomas Hickes, is mentioned to hold lands at Barkeley, in the county of Gloucester, for which there was a contest in law, but concluded by the Judges, (Edward Montague, William Shelley, Humphrey Brown, and and John Hynde) and Robert Hickes, was to pay 20l. to the said Thomas; on which consideration, he and his wife Margaret, (daughter and heir of James Atwood, and Alice his wife, daughter and heir of William Payne,) released and quit-claimed all their pretence to a certain house and lands. This Robert was a wealthy Citizen and Mercer of London, living in Cheapside, where, by his trade, he raised a considerable estate, and by Juliana his wife, daughter to William Arthur, of Clapham, in Surry, Esq; had issue three sons; Sir Michael, born 21 October, 35 Henry VIII. Francis, born 36 Hen. VIII. and Baptift.

Which Baptift, the youngest son, was brought up in his father's business; and upon King James's coming in, was sworn his servant, 1603, and soon knighted. Before his death, he was advanced to far greater honours; for, 4 Car. I. he was created a Peer of the realm, by the title of Baron Hickes, of Ilmington in Warwickshire, as also Viscount Camden, of Camden in Gloucestershire, with remainder, for default of issue-male, to Edward Lord Noel, (and his heirs male) who had married Juliana, his eldest daughter, 1605, from whom descend the Earl of Gainsborough, enjoying now, by virtue of the special entail, those titles of honour granted to this Sir Baptift; Sir Baptift's second daughter and coheir, Mary was matched with Sir Charles Morison, of Cashibury, in Hertfordshire, Knt. and from an heiress of that family, that estate is now in the Earl of Essex.

Sir

Sir Michael Hickes, (the eldest son of Robert,) the immediate ancestor of this elder branch of the family, having spent some time at Trinity-College in Cambridge, was taken into the service of the Lord Burghley, Lord High Treasurer of England, and Chief Counsellor to Queen Elizabeth; by that Lord he was preferred to be one of his Secretaries, and so continued during the Treasurer's life; he was well skilled in philological learning, and had read over the polite Roman Historians and Moralists; out of which Authors he made large collections, especially of their moral and wise sentences, with which he filled divers paper books, still remaining in the family. The other Secretary to the Lord Burghley, was Henry Maynard, Esq; whose son Sir William Maynard, was created Lord Maynard.

Sir Michael, by his ingenious education and good parts, became very polite and agreeable, and was admitted into a society of learned and eminent persons, having the accomplishment of a facetious wit to recommend him. Some of his chief acquaintance and friends were Sir Fulk Grevil, Sir Henry Glemham, Sir John Smith, (cousin-german to the Queen) Sir Francis Bacon, Sir Walter Raleigh, Mr. Camden, and others: but he was most dear to Sir Robert Cecyl, the Lord Treasurer's son, both when he was the Queen's chief Secretary of State, Master of the Court of Wards and Liveries, and Earl of Salisbury, and Lord High Treasurer, succeeding in his noble father's office; Sir Michael was ever at his right hand, and he was never better pleased than when he had his company and pleasant conversation; he also employed him in most of his business, and committed many of his secret affairs to him, knowing, by long experience, his faithfulness; and many persons, knowing what interest he had with Sir Robert, both when Secretary, and Lord High Treasurer, made him their friend, at any rate, to solicit their causes with him, who was ever (except necessarily obstructed) ready to gratify Sir Michael, especially where benefit was likely to accrue to him; he held a correspondence with the Earl of Salisbury, Sir Francis Bacon, Sir Walter Raleigh, and others the chief men of his time; as appeared by many letters, which were in the family.

When Sir Robert Cecil became Lord High Treasurer of England, and was created Earl of Salisbury, which was about the year 1605, Sir Michael congratulated his preferment, in a letter to him, where, among the rest of his wishes, he wished him Otium cum Dignitate; which the Earl took particular notice of, in a short answer, as an happiness seldom befalling persons in great place, thanking him for his congratulation, and especially for his good wish, though he feared, he said, he should not be so happy. Sir Michael, was a very witty jocose man, and his company much sought after by persons of rank and distinction.

Sir Michael, at the age of fifty-four, married Elizabeth, the daughter of Mr. Colston, a Merchant, whose country seat was upon the forest of Waltham, in the parish of Low-Layton, in Essex, called therefore the Forest-house, (late in the possession of Sir Gilbert Heathcote, Knt. and Bart. Alderman of London;) she was the widow and relict of Henry Parvish, or Parvis, Esq; (son of Thomas Parvis of Guildford, in Surry) an eminent Merchant of London, whose country-house was Ruckholts, a manor in the said parish of Low-Layton, which, coming by this marriage to Sir Michael, he there lived and died: such were the good accomplishments of this Lady, that soon after marriage, Sir Robert Cecil, in one of his letters, written in July, about 1595 or 1596, told him, that he even envied him; for, sending him a piece of venison, he gave his commendations to Mrs. Hickes; in whom, as he added, I envy your good fortune, but rest, for all that, your loving friend, Robert C.

He should have been knighted at the coronation of King James I. but he refused it then. However, the next year, it seems, he took the honour; for, in Aug. 1604, I meet with the Secretary, giving him the title of Sir Michael.

By this lady aforesaid, Sir Michael had issue, beside William, his eldest son, and Michael, a daughter, Elizabeth, so named, from Elizabeth, Countess of Derby, one of her godmothers, (the other being the Countess of Warwick) married to Sir William Armine, of Osgodby, in Lincolnshire, Bart.

He died at his house, at Ruckholts, 1612, aged sixty-five years, and was buried in the old chancel of the parish-church of Low-Layton, in Essex.

William, eldest son and heir of Sir Michael, was so named from the Lord Treasurer, his father's old master, (William, Lord Burghley) who, in esteem for the father, gave his own name, William, to the son, being godfather, and present at the baptism, at Sir Michael's London house, on St. Peter's-hill (which still belongs to this family.) His other godfather was the Lord Cobham; Lord Warden of the Cinque-ports, and Lord Chamberlain; and his godmother, the Lady Lumley.

On succeeding to his father's inheritance, he was created a Baronet, on the 21st of July, 17 Jac. I. being written of Beverston, in Gloucestershire, though he chose Ruckholts still, for his usual mansion, which his descendants for some time resided at. In the difficult times of the civil wars, he was always true to the royal cause, and the church of England, on which account, he was watched by some of his neighbours that favoured voured the other side : but by his caution, he preserved himself pretty clear of trouble, till the siege of Colchester ; when he, with several other loyalists of the county of Essex, privy to, and concerned in, that business, were kept in prison about six weeks ; and for farther punishment, his ancient grove adjacent to his house, which was very dear to him, was determined, by those that then governed, to be cut down for timber to supply the navy, lying so near and convenient for the ship-yards ; but by the means and intercession of his friend, the Earl of Holland, he at last obtained the favour to let it stand : which grove, Sir Harry, finding the trees decaying at the tops, thought fit to fell, and the seat was sold about the year 1720, to Benjamin Collier, Esq; who sold it to Earl Tilney, whose son, Lord Viscount Castlemain, was owner of it in 1741.

This Sir William, married Margaret, one of the daughters of William, Lord Paget, of Beaudefert; by whom he had issue, Baptist, Elizabeth, Sir William, Letitia, married to Arthur, Earl of Donnegal, in the kingdom of Ireland, Catharine, Francis, Sir Michael, and Elizabeth, whereof only three survived. He died at his seat at Ruckholts, and was buried honourably, according to his quality, with heralds attending his hearse to the parish church, where he was interred, the 22d day of October, 1680, aged eighty-four.

Sir William Hickes's second son surviving, was Sir Michael Hickes, Knt. who married Susan, youngest daughter to Sir Richard How, Knt. some time Sheriff and Alderman of London, and widow of Samuel Beaumont-Everard, of the Middle Temple, Esq; by whom he had ten children, but two only survived, viz. How Hickes, Esq; and Alice, married to William Somerford, in Wiltshire, Esq.

Sir William Hickes, Knt. and Bart. (son and heir of Sir William,) was Sheriff of the county of Essex, and served that office with much credit and splendor, the Lord Chief Justice Vaughan, and Sir Job Charleton, then Judges of the Assize, at Chelmsford : he was knighted by King Charles II. at Ruckholts, and so was his younger brother, Michael, (but at several times) when their father, Sir William, entertained his Majesty at dinner, after hunting in the forest. This Sir William died, April 22, 1703, aged seventy-three years, having married Marthagnes, eldest daughter and coheir to Sir Harry Coningsby, of North-Mims, in Hertfordshire, Knt.

This second Sir William, had a numerous issue by his said Lady, Marthagnes, viz. Mary, Sir Harry, Michael, Margaret, William, Robert, John, Michael, Elizabeth, Charles, and some others ; whereof four survived, viz. two sons ; Sir Harry, and Charles, who was of the Wild, in Hertfordshire, but afterwards wards of Kensington, in Middlesex, who married —, daughter of — Coningsby, Esq; and had one son, John Hickes, and one daughter. Of Sir William's two daughters, Mary, was wife to James Darcy, of Sedburgh, in the county of York, Esq; and Margaret, wife to Anthony Wharton, of Gillingwood, in the same county, Esq.

Sir Harry Hickes, eldest son and heir, succeeded his father in title and estate. He married first, Elizabeth, daughter to Sir John Holmes, Knt. (brother to Sir Robert,) some time Admiral of the royal navy; by whom he had issue, one son, Harry, and two daughters that died unmarried. The said Elizabeth, his first wife, dying in 1705, Sir Harry afterwards married, Barbara, the daughter of Joseph Johnson, of Walthamstow, in Essex, Gent. by whom he had issue, Robert, Ardina, Martha, and Elizabeth.

Sir Henry died Oct. 28, 1755, and was succeeded by his son, (by the second venter,)

Sir Robert Hickes, who dying unmarried, the title descended to

Sir John Baptist Hickes, (the present Baronet, eldest son of Charles Hickes, Esq; deceased) who now chiefly resides in London, and is unmarried.

34. DRYDEN, of Canons-Ashby, Northamptonshire.

Created BARONET, Nov. 16, 1619.

OF this family, the first we find mentioned was William Driden, or Dreyden, whose grandson,

John Dryden, or Dreyden (for so his name is sometimes written) was the eldest son of David Dryden, Esq; by Isabel, the daughter and heir of William Nicholson, of Staffe-hill, in the county of Cumberland.

By Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Sir John Cope, Knt. (and Bridget his wife, daughter of Edward Raleigh, of Farnbrough, in Warwickshire, Esq; and Anne, his wife, daughter of Sir William Chamberlain, Knt.) Mr. Dryden left issue, five sons and four daughters. He died the 30th of September, 1584, and was succeeded in his estate by Erasmus, his eldest son.

Erasmus Dryden, Esq; his successor, took his degree of Bachelor of Arts, in the University of Oxford, on the 17th of June, 1577, and was made Sheriff of Northamptonshire, in the fortieth year of Queen Elizabeth, as also in the seventeenth of King James I. in whose reign he was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, by letters patents, bearing date the 16th of November, 1619. He took to wife Frances, the second daughter and coheir of William Wilkes, Esq; of Hodnel, in Warwickshire, by whom he left issue three sons; 1. Sir John Dryden, his successor in the title and estate of Canons-Ashby, of whom hereafter. 2. William Dryden of Farndon, in Northamptonshire, Esq; who had two wives; by the first, a daughter of — Cave, of Leicestershire, Esq; he had Sir John, hereafter mentioned; but by his second, I do not find he left any issue; he died at Farndon, and was there buried. And, 3. Erasmus Dryden, of Tichmarsh, in Northamptonshire, Esq; who married Mary, daughter of John Pickering, D. D. Rector of Aldwinckle, by whom he had four sons and ten daughters; 1. John, the Poet-Laureat, of whom hereafter: 2. Sir Erasmus, who succeeded his nephew, as hereafter will be shewn: 3. Henry, who died at Jamaica, but left a son, Richard, living 1708: 4. James, who married Elizabeth, daughter of — Dunch, of London, Merchant, and dying 1694, left issue two daughters: of the daughters of Erasmus, of Tichmarsh, Agnes married Silvester Ernelyn (or Emelyn) of Stamford, in Lincolnshire, Gent. Rose, was wife to — Laughton, D. D. of Catworth, in Huntingdonshire; Lucy, married Stephen Umwell, of London, Merchant; Martha, to — Bletso, of Northampton, Gent. and Frances, the youngest, became the wife of Mr. Joseph Sandwell, of London, Merchant; she died aged near ninety, Oct. 10, 1736. The four daughters of Sir Erasmus, were, 1. Susan, married to Sir John Pickering, of Tichmarsh, in Northamptonshire, Knt. 2. Mary, the wife of Sir Edward Hartopp, of Freathby, in Leicestershire, Baronet; 3. Elizabeth, married to Sir Ralph Phillipps, of Picton Castle, in Pembrokehire, Bart. and the youngest, married — Salway, of Stanford, in Worcestershire, Esq.

Sir John Dryden, Bart. eldest son, and successor to the title and estate, was Sheriff of Northamptonshire, in 1634, 10 Car. I. and chosen Knight of the Shire, in 1640, 16 Car. I. He died in 1664, having had three wives; 1. Priscilla, daughter of James Quarles, of Rumford, in Essex, Esq; Clerk of the Greencloth to Queen Elizabeth, and sister to Sir Robert Quarles, of Rumford, Knt. 2. Anne, daughter of Henry Parvis, of Ruckholts, in Low-Layton, in Essex, Esq; by neither of which had he any issue; but by his third wife, Honor, daughter of of Sir Robert Beville, of Chesterton, in Huntingdonshire, Knt. (by Mary, his wife, daughter and heir of — Coles of Preston, in Northamptonshire, Esq;) he left issue six sons; 1. Sir Robert Dryden, of Canons-Ashby, his successor in the title and estate; 2. John Dryden, Esq; of Chesterton, who was several times chosen Member of Parliament for the county of Huntingdon, in the reign of King William, and died unmarried, in Jan. 1707. The third son of Sir John, was Erasmus Dryden, who lived a Bachelor, at Canons-Ashby; 4. Richard Dryden, who died unmarried, in the twenty-fourth year of his age; 5. Beville, died unmarried, and was buried at St. Bride's, in Fleet-street; 6. Benjamin, a citizen of London, who married an old woman, and died without issue. Sir John Dryden, had also four daughters, whereof, Elizabeth, died young; Honor, died unmarried; Frances, married Ralph Sneyd, Esq; eldest son of William Sneyd, of Keel-hall, in Staffordshire, Esq; and Anne, became the wife of Walter Pigot, of Chetwynd, in Shropshire, Esq; father of Robert Pigot, Esq; Knight of the Shire for Huntingdon.

Sir Robert Dryden, Bart. the eldest son and heir of Sir John, out-lived all his brethren, died unmarried, about seventy six years of age, and was buried in the church of Canons-Ashby, on the 30th of August, 1708.

The title of Baronet devolved on Sir John Dryden, the son and heir of William Dryden, of Farndon, the second son of Sir Erasmus Dryden, Bart. before mentioned, and elder brother to the said Erasmus Dryden, of Tichmarsh, Esq;

Which Sir John Dryden, Bart. married Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Luck, of Northamptonshire; and had issue one son, John, killed in his father's life-time, by a fall from his horse; and two daughters, Honor, the wife of Mr. Joseph Bateman, a Surgeon, in London, and Elizabeth, who died unmarried. Upon his decease the title came to Sir Erasmus-Henry, the third son of John, (the Poet-Laureat) who was the eldest son of Erasmus Dryden, of Tichmarsh, Esq; by Mary, his wife, daughter of Dr. Pickering.

But to proceed to the eldest of the sons of the said Erasmus Dryden, of Tichmarsh, Esq; which was John Dryden, Esq; Poet-Laureat, and Historiographer to King James II. (which places he lost, on the Revolution.) He was born at Aldwinkle, in the county of Northampton, brought up at Westminster school and thence elected scholar of Trinity-college, in Cambridge, in 1650. He wrote twenty-seven plays, and many other poetical performances. His dramatick works have been published by Mr. Congreve, and dedicated to his Grace, the late

Duke of Newcastle: who, in his dedication, tells us, ‘ That ‘ Mr. Dryden, had personal qualities to challenge both love ‘ and esteem from all who were truly acquainted with him.
 ‘ He was of a nature exceeding humane and compassionate, ‘ easily forgiving injuries, and capable of a prompt and sincere ‘ reconciliation with them who had offended him. Such tem‘ perament is the only solid foundation of all moral virtues and ‘ sociable endowments. His friendship, where he professed it, ‘ went much beyond his professions; and I have been told of ‘ strong and generous instances of it by persons themselves, ‘ who received them; though his hereditary income was little ‘ more than a bare competency. As his reading had been very ‘ extensive, so was he very happy in a memory tenacious of ‘ every thing that he had read. He was not more possessed of ‘ knowledge, than he was communicative of it. But then his ‘ communication of it was by no means pedantic, or imposed ‘ upon the conversation, but just such, and went so far, as by ‘ the natural turns of the discourse, in which he was engaged,
 ‘ it was necessarily promoted or required. He was extreme ‘ ready and gentle in his correction of the errors of any writer,
 ‘ who thought fit to consult him; and full as ready and pa‘ tient to admit of the reprehension of others, in respect of his ‘ own oversight or mistakes. He was of very easy, I may say,
 ‘ of very pleasing access. But something slow, and as it were ‘ diffident in his advances to others. He had something in his ‘ nature that abhorred intrusion into any society whatsoever.
 ‘ Indeed it is to be regretted, that he was rather blameable in ‘ the other extreme; for by that means he was personally less ‘ known, and consequently his character might become liable
 ‘ both to misapprehensions and misrepresentations. To the best ‘ of my knowledge and observation, he was, of all men that ‘ ever I knew, one of the most modest, and the most easily to ‘ be discountenanced, in his approaches either to his superiors ‘ or his equals.—As to his writings, I may venture to say in ‘ general terms, that no man hath written in our language so ‘ much, and so various matter, and in so various manners, so ‘ well. Another thing I may say was very peculiar to him;
 ‘ which is, that his parts did not decline with his years; but ‘ that he was an improving writer to the last, even to near ‘ seventy years of age; improving even in fire and imagination,
 ‘ as well as in judgment. Witness his Ode on St. Cecilia’s ‘ day, and his Fables, his latest performances. He was equally ‘ excellent in verse and prose. His prose had all the clearness ‘ imaginable, together with all the nobleness of expression, all
 ‘ the graces and ornaments proper and peculiar to it, without ‘ deviating into the language or diction of poetry. I make this ‘ observa-

observation only to distinguish his style from that of many poetic writers, who, meaning to write harmoniously in prose, do in truth often write mere blank verse. I have heard him frequently own with pleasure, that if he had any talent for English prose, it was owing to his having often read the writings of the great Archbishop Tillotson. His versification and his numbers he could learn of nobody; for he first possessed those talents in perfection in our tongue. And they who have best succeeded in them since his time, have been indebted to his example; and the more they have been able to imitate him, the better have they succeeded. As his style in prose is always specifically different from his style in poetry; so, on the other hand, in his poems his diction is, wherever his subject requires it, so sublimely, and so truly poetical, that its essence, like that of pure gold, cannot be destroyed. Take his verses, and divest them of their rhimes, disjoint them in their numbers, transpose their expressions, make what arrangement and disposition you please of his words; yet shall there eternally be poetry, and something which will be found incapable of being resolved into absolute prose: an incontestable characteristick of a truly poetical genius. I will say but one word more in general, of his writings, which is, that what he had done in any one species or distinct kind, would have been sufficient to have acquired him a great name. If he had written nothing but his prefaces, or nothing but his songs, or his prologues, each of them would have entitled him to the preference and distinction of excelling in his kind.

He married Elizabeth, eldest daughter of the Right Honourable Thomas Howard, Earl of Berkshire, and dying May 1, 1701, was buried in Westminster-Abby, where his Grace the Duke of Buckingham, out of his great liberality, and peculiar esteem for Mr. Dryden's merit, ordered a noble and sumptuous monument to be erected to his memory.

Mr. Dryden, had no monument erected to him for several years; which Mr. Pope alludes to, in his epitaph intended for Mr. Rowe, where he says,

Beneath a rude and nameless stone he lies,

In the note upon which verse, he tells us, that 'the tomb of Mr. Dryden, was erected upon this hint, by the Duke of Buckingham, to which was originally intended this epitaph:

' This Sheffield rais'd. The sacred dust below

' Was Dryden once; the rest who does not know?

‘ Which the author since changed into the plain inscription
 ‘ on it, being only the name of that great poet :

‘ J. Dryden,

‘ Natus Aug. 9, 1631.

‘ Mortuus Maii 1, 1701.

‘ Johannes Sheffield, Dux Buckinghamiensis, fecit.’

He left three sons ; Charles, the eldest of them, brought up at Trinity-college, in Cambridge, had a genius for poetry, as appears by a copy of his verses, printed before the Earl of Roscommon’s essay on translated verse, and might have done great things, if he had not been unfortunately drowned at Datchet-ferry, near Windsor. John, the second, went to Rome, and was entertained by the Pope, as Gentleman of his Bedchamber. He likewise, turned his thoughts to poetry, and wrote one play, The Husband his own Cuckold. He died at Rome, of a pleuritick fever, and was honourably interred there by the Pope’s command.

Sir Erasmus-Henry, brother to the said Charles, and John, succeeded to the title of Baronet, on the death of Sir John Dryden, Bart. beforementioned, his cousin ; but dying unmarried, he was buried at Canons-Ashby, in 1711, and the honour devolved on Sir Erasmus Dryden, Bart. his uncle, the second son of Erasmus Dryden, of Tichmarsh, Esq;

D. Prebendary of Westminster ; and Mary, the wife of John Shaw, of the Board of Green-cloth, Esq;

36. FOULIS,

36. FOULIS, of Ingleby, Yorkshire.

Created BARONET, February 6, 1619.

THOUGH this family, for many ages, inhabited in that part of Great-Britain, called Scotland, yet, in all probability, it was originally English, since one of the name made a considerable figure in Kent, before the Norman invasion, and that he, together with several others, who opposed King William I. being treated with much rigour and severity, fled into Scotland, with Margaret, the sister of Edgar Atheling, (afterwards married to Malcom Conmore, King of Scotland) and settled there, where his descendants flourish to this day.

After this removal, it is likely this family settled in the north of Scotland, and gave denomination to a town of their name, which now belongs to the Monroes: it is certain, that several thereof bore considerable offices under the Kings of Scotland; for William Fowlis was Keeper of the Privy-Seal to King James I. 1430, and left issue, William, his son and heir, who married Elizabeth, the daughter of Sir Walter Ogilby, Knt, by whom he had two sons; William, who died without issue, and James, who, by his wife, Margaret, the daughter of Sir Thomas Henderson, Knt. had issue a son, James, who was heir to his uncle, William. He was Keeper of the Register to King James V. of Scotland, 1530, and having married Barbara, daughter of — Brown, of Fordee, in Fyfe, was succeeded by Henry Foulis, his son and heir, who espoused Mary, daughter of — Hadden, of Glenargis, by a daughter of the Earl of Mar, by whom he had issue, 1. James; 2. David Foulis, and others.

This David, was agent from King James VI. of Scotland, to Queen Elizabeth, and after the death of that Princess, was knighted by his Royal Master, at the Tower of London, May 13, 1603, before his coronation; two years after which, waiting on his Majesty to Oxford, he had the dignity of a Baronet conferred upon him, by letters patents, bearing date February the 6th, 1619: he was Cofferer to Prince Henry, eldest son of the said King James, and after his decease, he bore the same office under Prince Charles, (afterwards King Charles I.) He was made one of his Majesty's council for the northern parts, and Custos Rotulorum, Deputy-Lieutenant, and Justice of the Peace for the north-riding of that county.

But as he appeared with some zeal, in 1632, against the commission which was issued to compel Gentlemen to compound for not

not having taken the honour of Knighthood, to which they were obliged, by an old obsolete law, and had let fall some expressions, reflecting upon Thomas, Lord Viscount Wentworth, Lord President of the Council in the North, for his proceedings therein; he and his eldest son, Henry, were censured for it in the court of Star-Chamber, in 1633; Sir David, was declared incapable of all the offices and places which he held, was committed prisoner to the Fleet, during his Majesty's pleasure, fined 5000l. to the King, and 3000l. to the Lord Wentworth; for the payment of which fines, he was forced to sell part of his estate. His son and heir, Henry, was also committed prisoner to the Fleet, during his Majesty's pleasure, and fined 500l.

This Sir David, married Cordelia, the daughter of William Fleetwood, of Great-Missenden, in Bucks, Esq; Serjeant at Law, and Recorder of London, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, by whom he had issue two daughters; 1. Anne, married to George Purvis, M. D. 2. Elizabeth, who died unmarried; and five sons; 1. Sir Henry, his successor in the title and estate; 2. Robert; 3. John; 4. Edward; and 5. William, who all died without issue: Sir David, died in 1642, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Sir Henry Fowlis, Bart. who married Mary, the eldest daughter of Sir Thomas Clayton, of Sexho, in Yorkshire, Knt. by whom he had issue four sons, and four daughters, viz. 1. Sir David, his successor; 2. Henry, who was fellow of Lincoln-College, in Oxford, and was the Author of the history of the wicked plots and conspiracies of the Presbyterians, in 1674, and the history of Romish Treasons, 1681. Anthony Wood, says, 'The products of his writings shew him to have been a true son of the church of England, a hater of Popery, Presbytery, and Sectarism. He was endowed with a happy memory, understood books, and the ordering of them so well, that with a little industry, he might have gone beyond the great Philobiblos Jamesius. He had also in him a most generous and noble spirit, a carelessness of the world and things thereof, (as most bookish men have,) a most becoming honesty in his dealings, a just observance of collegiate discipline, and a hatred to wrangles, and the French fooleries of his time.' He died Dec. 24, 1669, aged thirty-three; 3. Edward, who died unmarried; 4. Thomas, who was Captain of a man of war, and lost his life in the Dutch wars, in the reign of King Charles II. He left two sons, and a daughter, who all died without issue.

Of the daughters of Sir Henry, 1. Cordelia, died unmarried; 2. Mary, was wedded to Robert Shafto, of Benwell, in Northumberland, Esq; 3. Catharine, was wife to Sir Ralph Cole, of Brancepeth, in Durham, Bart. 4. Elizabeth, died unmarried.

Sir

Sir Davis Foulis, Bart. the second of that name, succeeded his father in the estate and title, and married Catharine, the eldest daughter of Sir David Watkins, of Middlesex, Knt. and had issue six sons, and five daughters, viz. 1. David; 2. Henry; 3. Sir William; 4. Thomas; 5. Charles; 6. John, who all died without issue, except Sir William, his third son.

The daughters were, 1. Honor, married to William Chaloner, of Gisborough, Esq; eldest son of Sir Edward Chaloner, of Gisborough, in Yorkshire, Knt. 2. Mary, married to William Turner, of Stainsby, Esq; second son of John Turner, of Kirkleatham, in Yorkshire, Esq; Serjeant at Law, kinsman and heir of Sir William Turner, Knt. Lord-Mayor of London. 3. Catharine, married to John Rudd, of the city of Durham, Esq; 4. Anne, to Sir Reginald Graham, of Norton Conyers, in Yorkshire, Bart. 5. Jane.

This Sir David served in Parliament for the borough of North-Allerton, in the first year of King James II. and departed this life the 13th of March, 1694, in the sixty-second year of his age, and was succeeded in title and estate by,

Sir William Fowlis, Bart. his third, but eldest surviving son, who married Anne, daughter of John Lawrence, of Westminster, Esq; widow of Sir Lumley Robinson, of Kentwell-Hall, in Suffolk, Bart. by whom he left issue only one son, Sir William, and died Oct. 1741, aged eighty-three.

Sir William Fowlis, only son and successor to his father in dignity and estate, married Mildred, the eldest daughter of Henry, Lord Viscount Downe, in the kingdom of Ireland, and of Cowick, near Snaith, in the west-riding of Yorkshire, by whom he had issue one son, William, and four daughters, Mildred, Anne, Catharine, yet unmarried; and Mary, married to Boynton Langley, of Wykeham Abbey, in Yorkshire, Esq; Sir Richard, dying in 1756, was succeeded in title and estate by his only son,

Sir William Foulis, the present Baronet, who, in 1758, married Hannah, the only daughter of John Robinson, of Buckton, in the East Riding of Yorkshire, by whom he has two sons, William and John-Robinson.

ARMS. Argent, three Laurel, or Bay Leaves, erect, proper.

SEAT. At Ingleby-manor, near Stokesley, in Cleveland, in the North-riding of Yorkshire.

united in him; one derived from Sir Clement Clopton, Knt. and the other from Sir Matthew de Gunton, Knt. who lived 22 Hen. I. 1122. He died 1584, having had a numerous issue, by Alice his first wife, daughter of Roger Appleton, of Comb, in Essex, and 38. PAKINGTON, of Ailsbury, Buckinghamshire.

Created BARONET, June 22, 1620.

THAT the family of this name is of great antiquity, is evident from unquestionable records; neither is it to be doubted but they were so called, from the place of their abode, from one of the Pakingtons, of Staffordshire, Warwickshire, or Leicestershire; for in each of those counties we meet with Lordships of that name, whose owners anciently wrote themselves, de Pakington: And that the family flourished in the reign of King Henry I. son of William the Conqueror, is manifest from the foundation of the monastery of Kenelworth, (see Dr. Hickes's prefatory epistle to his Saxon grammar,) and a learned antiquary has observed, that, Pakington (now Pakington) in Staffordshire, within two miles of Tame, was held of the Bishop, by Vetchel, in the twentieth year of William the Conqueror; in Henry III's time, by Robert de Pakington; and in the twenty-fourth of Edw. I. David de Pakington, held it of the Bishop, by the fourth part of a Knight's fee.

Richard de Pakington married one of the sisters and co-heirs of Robert de Kaily, Lord of Freseley, in Warwickshire, who lived in King Henry II's time; and there are now in the possession of Sir Herbert-Perrot Pakington, Bart. two ancient deeds, without date; one, of Robert Wittington, Clerk, signed and sealed in the presence of Peter Wyke, Hugh Pakington, and Alexander Abbetot, Knts. the other attested by Richard Spechell, and Hugh Pakington, Knts. the latest of which deeds is judged to be at least above 400 years old.

Thomas de Pakington was Prior of Burton-abbey, in Staffordshire, and presided in the same, thirty-six years. He died 33 Edw. I. 1305, and was buried there.

Another Thomas de Pakington, named of Brailsford, founded a chauntry in the chapel of Chelmscote, 1322.

Henry Abbot, of Lillefhill, grants lands to Roger de Pakington, and Agnes his wife, in Blackfordby, 13 Edw. III.

William de Pakington was a person of great note, temp. Edw. III. being Secretary and Treasurer to Edward, the Black Prince, in Galcoigne, and wrote a chronicle in French, from the ninth year of King John, to 1380, his own time. Some extracts from this Chronicle have been printed at Oxford, in Mr. Leland's Collectanea, tom. i. part 2. p. 455.

Robert Pakington, (the certain ancestor of the present Sir Herbert-Perrot Pakington, Bart.) lived in the reign of King Henry IV. and was father to John Pakington, Esq; recited in an office found before Robert Russel, Escheator of the county of Worcester, 14 Hen. VI. He had issue a son of his own name, John Pakington, Esq; who, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter and heir to Thomas Washbourne, of Stanford, in Worcestershire, Esq; had issue three sons, John, Robert, (ancestor to the branch we are to treat on,) and Humphrey.

John, the eldest, being brought up to the law, in the society of the Inner-Temple, was, in the twenty-fourth of Henry VII. constituted Chirographer of the Court of Common-Pleas, during life, with power to act by sufficient deputies; and, being learned in the laws, was, in 11 Henry VIII. elected Lent-reader, also in the twentieth of the same reign, Treasurer of the Society of the Inner-Temple; in which year, he had a memorable grant from the King, permitting him, for the time to come, come, to wear his hat in his presence, and his successors, and not to be uncovered on any occasion or cause whatsoever, against his will and good liking, and excused him from every kind of office or incumbrance. The many other honours conferred on this Gentleman are too numerous here to be repeated. At the time of his death, anno 2 Eliz. he was seized of thirty-one manors, and of other lands that he had purchased of seventy several persons, as appears from a large book concerning his estate, now among the evidences of the family, at Westwood.

His Lady was, Anne, widow of — Tychbourne, and of the family of Rolle, who dying the 22d of August, 1563, was buried in the east end of the chancel of St. Buttolph's, Aldersgate-street, London.

The great estate this Sir John Pakington left, was divided between his daughters, and his two younger brothers, Robert, and Humphrey. Ursula, his eldest daughter, married Sir John Scudamore, Knt. of whom descended the late Lord Viscount Scudamore, whose daughter and sole heir was the Duchess of Beaufort; and Bridget, married Sir John Lyttelton, of Frankley, in Worcestershire, Knt. ancestor to Sir Thomas Lyttelton, Bart.

Humphry Pakington, youngest brother of Sir John, was a Merchant of London; and left an only son, John, who was of Harvington, in Worcestershire; which line expired in two daughters, great heiresses; one of them married Sir John Yate, Bart. the other, Sir Henry Audley, Knt.

Robert Pakington, the next brother of Sir John beforementioned, was one of the Members of Parliament for the city of London, temp. Henry VIII. and barbarously murdered in the street, 1537, as he was going to church, for he then opposed the Papists, and was shot by them, and by his last will and testament, bearing date the 25th of Novemb. 1535, (the probat whereof is on the 24th of April, 1537,) it appears, that he forsook the superstitious errors of the church of Rome, in those times, when many suffered on account of their religion; the murderer was never discovered, but by his own confession, made when he came to the gallows, at Banbury, to be hanged for felony.

He had issue by Catharine, one of the coheirs of Sir John Baldwin, Knt. Lord Chief Justice of the Common-Pleas, and — his wife, daughter of William Dormer, of Wycombe, in Bucks, Esq; (by this match came the manor of Ailsbury, in Bucks, with other considerable lands) an only son, Thomas, and three daughters, viz. Elizabeth, wife of John Lane, Esq; and afterwards of Sir Richard Mallory, Knt. Alderman of London; Anne, wife of Richard Cupper, of Glympton, in Oxfordshire, Esq; and Margaret of Benedict Lee, of Burston, in Bucks, and afterwards, of Thomas Scot, of the county of York, Esqrs.

Thomas, son and heir to the said Robert, was in ward to the Lord Privy-Seal, in 37 Henry VIII. when Catharine, his mother, then twenty-three years of age, was found one of the coheirs to Sir John Baldwin, (who died the 22d of December, the same year;) he received the honour of knighthood from Queen Mary, and on the death of his uncle, Sir John, succeeded to a great estate. He was Sheriff of the county of Worcester, in 3 Elizabeth, and dying the 2d of June, at Bath-Place, in Holborn, 12 Eliz. 1571, was conveyed to Ailsbury, in great pomp, (the officers of the college of arms attending his corps) and buried in the parish-church there. His Lady, who survived him, was daughter of Sir Thomas Kitson, of Hengrave, in Suffolk, Knt. (and afterwards marrying Thomas Tasmagh, Esq;) died in the sixty-fifth year of her age, 1575. This Sir Thomas had five sons, of which, only John, the eldest, survived his father; and three daughters; Mary, married to Sir Walter Long, of Draycot, in Wilts, Knt. Catharine, to John Davis, of the same county, Esq; secondly, to Sir Jasper Moor; and lastly, to Sir — Mompesson, of Teddington, in Wilts, Knts. and Margaret, to Thomas Litchfield, Esq; Gentleman of the Privy-Chamber to Queen Elizabeth.

This Sir John Pakington, who was bred at Christ Church, in Oxford, under the tuition of Dr. Lewis, dean of Gloucester, became a great favourite of Queen Elizabeth's, and one of her Privy Council. She first took notice of him in her progress to Worcester, when she invited him to attend her court, where he lived, at his own expence, in great splendor and reputation, with an equipage not inferior to some of her greatest officers, though he had no other honour besides that of Knight of the Bath, which was conferred on him in the life-time of his father.

He was remarkable for his stature and comely personage, and, by his ability in all manly exercises, had distinguished himself to that degree, that he was generally called by the name of Lusty Pakington: of which, among many instances, it may not be amiss to mention this one; he entered into articles to swim against three noble Courtiers, for 3000l. from the bridge at Westminster, to the bridge at Greenwich; but the Queen, by her special command, prevented the putting it in execution.

It could not be otherwise imagined, but that by this expensive life, great debts must be contracted, which, in time, would bring him into difficulties. Of this he was so sensible, that he

he took a sudden and wise resolution of retiring into the country, and, as he said himself, would feed on bread and verjuice, till he had made up his extravagancies. The Queen soon had notice of it, and therefore, taking into consideration these his ill circumstances, which the zeal for her service had brought him into, gave him a grant of a Gentleman's estate, in Suffolk, of eight or nine hundred pounds per ann. besides goods and chattels, which had escheated to the crown: but Sir John, after he had been in the country to take possession, found too great a tenderness in his nature, (notwithstanding the bad condition of his affairs) to behold the miseries of that distressed family, without a due regard and compassion for them; and the melancholy spectacle of the sorrowful Lady and her children, so effectually wrought upon him, that, with the greatest generosity, he repaired immediately to court, and humbly beseeched her Majesty to excuse him from enriching himself by the calamities of that Gentleman, who fell by a combination of his enemies, and would not leave the Queen till he had obtained his request.

Soon after, he left the court, but before he parted from the town, he took care to satisfy all his creditors; and then, with great reputation and honour, he began his journey into the country, being handsomely attended with servants and tenants, to the number of sixty, well mounted and accoutred, who came purposely out of the country to pay him this complement, and waited at the court-gates, while he was taking leave of the Queen.

After his settlement in the country, her Majesty was not unmindful of him, for she, to repair his fortune, granted him, for sixty years (in the twenty-fifth year of her reign) several lordships, manors, and lands, that were come to the crown by forfeiture, &c. in seventeen different counties; also, when the Earl of Pembroke was made Lord-President of the marches of Wales, and Lord Lieutenant of the adjacent counties, he was put in the same patent, Lieutenant of Worcestershire, and upon the vacancy of the office of Custos Rotulorum, that was likewise conferred upon him: she also made him Bow-bearer of Malverne-chace, one of the best in England, which he held till he had finished his noble park at Hampton-Lovet, and then, that chace being at too great a distance from his dwelling, he obtained her Majesty's leave to dispose of it.

He was in her favour even to the last of her days. He was constantly the first named in all commissions of importance, and was the principal director in the government of his county, none being thought more worthy of an intire confidence, by the Queen and her Council, than himself. And as he took all imaginable care to answer their expectation, by his diligence and fidelity, so he was not wanting to convince his country, that their interest was always at his heart.

By his affability and obliging behaviour, he acquired the good opinion of his equals and inferiors; and by his courage and resolution, on all proper occasions, he had rendered himself awful, even to those who were above him: a memorable proof of which, he gave his country, when he executed the office of Sheriff; for the Lord Chief-Baron Periam, having committed a Gentleman at the Assizes, Sir John, sitting in his Sheriff's seat, called to him to stay, telling the Judge, he would answer for his forth-coming; neither could he be dissuaded, by all the menaces he received from the bench, from adhering to this resolution, boldly alledging, in his defence, that the Gentleman was his prisoner, and he, as Sheriff, was accountable for him. This brave reply, very much increased the esteem his country had for him, and gained a general applause throughout the kingdom.

His prudence and conduct did not only extricate him out of those difficulties, in which his Court-life had involved him, but, in a short time, put so much money into his pocket that he was enabled to become, what he intended to be, a great builder.

He bought at one time, so much timber of the Earl of Leicester, out of the forest of Wire, (which borders upon Worcestershire and Shropshire) that the very marking them, at 4d. per tree, one with another, amounted to 48l. This, Mr. Tomkins, Prebendary of Worcester, a Gentleman of good credit, who personally knew this Knight, and has left MS. memoirs of his life, (now in the family) from which this account is chiefly collected, affirms to have received from Sir John's own mouth, who, he assures us, was a person of too much honour to allow himself the least liberty in his discourse, which was not consistent with the strictest truth. Many of those trees he buried under ground, thinking thereby to keep out the fresh springs that broke in upon his brine-pits; but that undertaking did not answer his expectation, and the expence which his salt-pits and costly buildings had obliged him to, hindered him from making an addition to his estate by purchase, which (as my author writes) would undoubtedly have extended to a good part of the shire wherein he lived, had he thought fit to have employed his money to that purpose.

He did not seek after marriage till he had paid all his debts, and cleared his estate; and then he was so happy as to meet with a beautiful young widow, in London, and a great fortune, being the daughter of Mr. Humphry Smith, of Cheap-side, Queen Elizabeth's Silk-man, of an ancient family, yet flourishing, ing, in Leicestershire. She had been before married to Benedict Barnham, Esq; one of the Aldermen of London, who left her a very rich widow; and that consideration, together with her youth and beauty, made it impossible for her to escape the addresses, even of the greatest persons about the court: but Sir John was the only happy man who knew how to gain her, being recommended by his worthy friend, Mr. William Seabright, Town-Clerk of London. This Lady had, by her first husband (the Alderman) four daughters, which were very young when they lost their father, and therefore needed a faithful friend to manage and improve their fortunes; in which trust, Sir John acquitted himself so honourably, that they had 10,000*l.* each for their portion, when they came to marry; an immense sum in those days. One of these ladies was wedded to my Lord Audley; another, to Sir Francis Bacon, Lord Viscount St. Albans; a third, to Sir William Soames; and the fourth, to Sir William Constable. When he had done this service to his daughters-in-law, he took care to do a piece of justice to himself, which, indeed, was also a great argument of his wisdom, by getting his accounts passed in Chancery, and obtaining an effectual discharge there, which could not be otherwise esteemed, than as a public testimony of his honesty and integrity.

The design of this work obliging me to brevity, I cannot therefore transcribe all the memorable passages of his life, which Mr. Tomkins has recorded to his honour: but it appears that he had a spirit truly great and noble, which discovered itself upon every proper occasion; for, as his ends and designs were always generous, and such as became a man of honour, so he scorned to compass them by base and unworthy means; he had a regard to his reputation in every thing that he did, which had this inseparable effect, that the whole scene of his life was nothing else but a continued series of bright and laudable actions.

It is not to be denied, but his sense of injuries was somewhat too nice, and (which is a frailty the manliest tempers are often subject to) he knew not how to bear a neglect from his superiors with that submission which was usually expected. This was sufficiently evident from the following story: Upon the death of the Earl of Pembroke, King James appointed the Lord Zouch, his successor in the Presidentship of the Marches of Wales, &c. which Lord, as soon as he had obtained his commission, sent his letters of deputation, to the Gentlemen of Worcestershire, and among the rest, to Sir John Pakington, to be one of the Lieutenants of that county; but Sir John, finding that the Lord Zouch did not shew him the respect as his predecessor did, (for he had the honour to be particularly named a Lieutenant, in the same patent the Earl of Pembroke had) refused to take the letter of deputation from the messenger, telling him, That he had an estate as well as his master, and did not mean to venture it in mustering the King's subjects, with no better a warrant than that which was only signed by his Lord's hand. And though, on all other occasions, his bounty and generosity extended to the meanest, yet, on this, he never asked the messenger to eat or drink: but nothing could be a greater proof of the haughtiness of his stomach, than his behaviour in relation to his fish-pond.

As he had been at great expences in building his house very sumptuously, so he was desirous that every thing about it should be as noble, therefore, he caused a large pool, or canal, of 122 acres, to be made in his new park of Westwood, and brought a brook, or river, to run into it, cut through a considerable extent of ground: but the misfortune was, this great design could not be effected without making the highways part of the pond; which, indeed, the country very willingly consented to, Sir John, having taken care to provide a more convenient road for them. However, it appeared soon after, that this grant was defective in point of law, which one of his neighbours observing, and thinking either to mortify Sir John, or ingratiate himself with him, got an order from the Exchequer to destroy his pool, and restore the highway as it was before; yet at the time of serving the order, signified, that it was not his intention to give him any molestation; but, if he pleased, his pond might continue, without the least apprehension of disturbance from him. But Sir John, scorning to hold any thing of courtesy from such a neighbour, and that he might know how little he valued him, went immediately to the pool, caused the flood-gates to be torn up, and the banks to be thrown down, whereby the water went out with such rapidity, that surpriz'd the neighbourhood, dispersed great quantities of fish about the country, and the river of Severn, at Worcester, was discoloured for a week. Soon after, this matter was finally determined to Sir John's satisfaction, by referees of the first quality in the county, viz. Gervase, Bishop of Worcester, John Talbot, of Grafton, Esq; and Mr. Sheldon, of Beoly; he repaired his pool again, and left it in the condition in which it has continued ever since.

He was a Gentleman that knew how to value his time; and as he had the happiness of a good memory, he took care to improve it with observations in history and physick, which were parts of learning he most delighted in; and for that purpose, pose, he was provided with one to read to him, in those sciences, at his leisure hours.

This appetite after knowledge, naturally inclined him to love the conversation of learned men, which he often consulted in difficulties, and by that means, daily informed and perfected his judgment.

In the choice of his friends, he did not forget the Clergy; with the most eminent of which body, the neighbourhood of the city of Worcester gave him an opportunity of settling a lasting correspondence, which was evident from the frequent visits made him by the Bishop, the Dean, and Prebendaries of that church. These visits were far from being barely formal and ceremonious; for, upon such occasions, he would usually lament to them the ill condition of the church, the dangers that threatened it, as well from the Puritans as the Papists, and the subject of their discourse often was, how to provide remedies against those evils; for the interest of the established church was his grand concern; to this he was resolved to sacrifice every thing that was dear to him, and he scorned to enjoy the friendship of the greatest man living, upon terms that were not to her advantage.

It was one great part of his happiness, that there was a set of Gentlemen in his neighbourhood, worthy of his acquaintance and familiarity: with these he lived in a very friendly and hospitable manner, and he was never better pleased than when he had some of their company at his table. His ordinary house-keeping was such as became a Gentleman of a plentiful fortune; and in his entertainments, he loved to shew he valued his friends more than his money, for they were generally very costly and noble.

After he had finished his stately structure at Westwood, (a very delightful habitation, in the midst of a wood, from whence it took its name) he invited the Earl of Northampton, Lord President, and his Lady, to a house-warming; and as his Lordship was an honourable and jovial companion, a train of above an hundred Knights and Gentlemen accompanied him, who staid there some time, and, at their going away, acknowledged they had met with so kind a reception, that they did not know whether they had possessed the place, or the place them: the delightful situation of his habitation was what they had never before seen, the house standing in the middle of a wood, that is cut into twelve large ridings, and at a good distance, one ring-riding through all of them, and the whole encompassed with a park of six or seven miles, at the father end whereof, facing the house, is a pool, or canal, of 122 acres, which gives a noble noble lustre, the trees gracing the water, and the water the woods.

His most magnificent entertainment was that which he gave King James, and his Queen, (with the greatest train that ever accompanied them) at Ailsbury, when his Majesty honoured him with a visit, after his arrival from Scotland, and before his coronation; upon this occasion he set no bounds to his expence, thinking it a disparagement to be out-done by any fellow-subject, when such an opportunity offered; and the King and the whole court acknowledged, they never met with a more noble reception.

At length, this great man having lived to see his children's children, departed this life, at his house at Westwood, in the seventy-seventh year of his age, and was interred near his father, at Ailsbury, on the 18th of January, 1625. A year before his death, he was seized with a fit of the gout, which distemper, at last, put an end to his life; otherwise, he was very happy in a strong and excellent constitution of body, which had never met with any shock, till about the year before Queen Elizabeth died, and then she did him the honour to order her own Physicians to attend him, designing to have taken him again to court, which her death prevented.

His Lady survived him, and so noted for her riches, that it was difficult for her long to escape the snares laid for her by the Court, to engage her in another marriage. She had, first, the Lord Kilmurry, who lived about two years; then she married Thomas, Earl of Kelly, one of King James's favourites.

By Sir John Pakington she had one son, John, and two daughters; Mary, the youngest, was wife of Sir Robert Brook, of Nacton, in Suffolk, Knt. and Anne, the eldest, married Sir Humphry Ferrers, of Tamworth, Knt. and surviving him, was afterwards the second wife of Philip, (Stanhope) Earl of Chesterfield.

John Pakington, Esq; the only son of Sir John Pakington, Knt. beforementioned, had the estate at Ailsbury, settled on him by his father, soon after his marriage, (though he contracted it without the old Gentleman's consent) who likewise procured him to be created a Baronet, when he was but twenty years of age, by letters patents bearing date the 22d of June, 1620. He resided at Ailsbury, in Bucks, for which town he was elected in the Parliament, 21 Jac. I. was peculiarly esteemed, and dying generally lamented, in the twenty-fourth year of his age, was buried with his ancestors, at Ailsbury, the 29th of October, in the year 1624, leaving issue by the Lady Frances, his wife, daughter to Sir John Ferrers, of Tamworth, Knt. John, his only son, and a daughter, married first to Colonel Washington; and secondly, to Samuel Sandys, of Ombersley, in Worcestershire, Esq; The Lady Frances, their mother, was, by a second marriage, the wife of that noted General, Alexander Lesley, Earl of Leven.

Sir John Pakington, Bart. only son and heir of the last Sir John, succeeded in the title and estate, and resided at Westwood, after his grandfather's decease, who left him, in his minority, at the age of four years, four months, and six days, under the guardianship of Thomas, Lord Coventry, Keeper of the Great Seal of England, by whose vigilant care of his education, both by travel, and other advantages, he became an accomplished Gentleman, and gained the love and esteem of all who knew him.

He was elected one of the Knights for Worcestershire, in 15 Car. I. and when the rebellion broke out, was a Member in Parliament for the town of Ailbury; and having, on all occasions, given proofs, both of his fidelity to the crown, and and the rights of the subject, was entrusted by the King, in the year 1642, (on the Houses passing an ordinance for settling the militia in such hands as they could confide in) with a commission for arraying men for his service, in Worcestershire, to which his Majesty appointed none, in the several counties, but persons of the first quality, and unexceptionable to the public, having charged the ordinance beforementioned, to be against law.

Sir John Pakington endeavouring, with all his power, to execute this commission, was taken prisoner, and committed to the Tower, fined five thousand pounds, had his estate sequestred, and, for his loyalty and services in the King's cause, his house in Buckinghamshire, (one of the best of that county) levelled with the ground, and such great wastes committed in his woods, that the loss could never be computed. The estimate of his sufferings is in some measure demonstrated, by a particular account kept by his excellent lady, which makes it amount to 20,348l.

His zeal to the Royal Family never swerved; for notwithstanding he had suffered so much for his loyalty, he had the courage to go in, with a troop of horse, to King Charles II. at the battle of Worcester, and was taken prisoner there, yet was so entirely beloved in his own country, that when the rebels tried him for his life, by Commissioners appointed for that purpose, (upon an indictment of his raising and heading a troop at the battle of Worcester) they could not procure one witness to swear against him, by which means he was acquitted, and set at liberty, but was afterwards fined 7670l. and forced, for the said fine, to convey the market-house, the tolls, court-leet, and and certain grounds called Heydon-hill, parcel of his estate at Ailbury to Scot, (who was one of the King's Judges) and other trustees, for the use of the town, which they kept till after the restoration, when, by a special Act of Parliament, the said conveyances were made void.

His Lady was one of the daughters of the aforesaid Thomas, Lord Coventry, Keeper of the Great Seal of England, the most accomplished person of her sex for learning, and the brightest example of her age for wisdom and piety. Her letters, and other discourses still remaining in the family, and the hands of her friends, are an admirable proof of her excellent genius and vast capacity; and as she has the reputation of being thought the author of The Whole Duty of Man, so none that knew her well, and were competent judges of her abilities, could in the least doubt of her being equal to such an undertaking, though her modesty would not suffer her to claim the honour of it; but as the manuscript under her own hand now remains with the family, there is hardly room to doubt it.

By her great virtues and eminent attainments in knowledge, she acquired the esteem of all our learned Divines, particularly Dr. Hammond, Bishop Morley, Bishop Fell, Bishop Pearson, Bishop Henchman, and Bishop Gunning, who were ever ready to confess they were always edified by her conversation, and instructed by her writings.

Sir John Pakington, Bart. son and heir to the last Sir John, was, in his person, very comely and graceful, and no less considerable for the good qualities and perfections of his mind: his apprehension was quick, and his judgment naturally solid; which being well improved, and cultivated by a learned education, distinguished him early among his neighbours, and recommended him more particularly to the esteem of the Bishop, and Clergy, of the diocese of Worcester. Nothing would have been too hard for his abilities, had he thought the difficultest parts of learning worth his conquering; but delighting chiefly in a retired life, he was contented to be known but to a few, and being superior to most he conversed with, in wit and good sense, he had the less ambition to attain to an eminency, by any extraordinary acquisitions in knowledge. His death was generally lamented throughout Worcestershire, and as a testimony of their affection to the father, they chose his son, Sir John Pakington, their Knight for the county, when he was scarce nineteen years of age. He served in Parliament, in the reigns of King Charles II. and King James II. as one of the Knights for Worcestershire, and was steady to the establishment in church and state, as his answers, in writing, to the three queries proposed to him by the Lord Carrington, Lord Lieutenant

Lieutenant of the county of Worcester, in those trying times of the late King James, sufficiently shew.

This Sir John was buried at Hampton-Lovet, the 28th of March, 1688; and having married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Keyt, of Ebrington, in Gloucestershire, Bart. left issue his only son and heir, Sir John Pakington, Bart.

Created BARONET, July 26, 1620.

THIS family, on the marriage of Thomas Vincent, Esq; (in the beginning of the reign of Queen Elizabeth) with Jane, only daughter and heir to Thomas Lyfield, of Stoke-D'abernon, Esq; became possessed of that inheritance; which seat, of Stoke-D'abernon, has ever since been their principal residence, though they were, for ages before, eminent in the county of Leicester, and afterwards in the county of Northampton.

Some of the family were also at Swinford, in Leicestershire. For in 10 Edw. II. Miles Vincent was owner of much lands there, in the hundred of Guthlackston, upon the banks of the river Avon, which divides that county from Northamptonshire. He had issue two sons, John, and Robert Vincent, of Rothwell, living 49 Edw. III. father to John Vincent, of the same place.

John, the eldest son, seated also at Swinford, in 6 Edw. III. was, by the King's letters patent, made receiver of his rents and profits in the county of Pontive, in France, October 15, in the fourth year of his reign; about which he suffered imprisonment in the Tower of London, 8 Edw. III. until he had settled his accounts.

This John had issue, Sir Thomas Vincent, of Swinford, Knt. living 10 Henry IV. who added to his estate the Lordship of Bernake, by marriage with Joan, daughter and heir to Sir John Bernake, of Bernake, in Northamptonshire, Knt. son and heir of Geoffry Bernake, of the same place, by Ifolda, his wife, daughter and heir to Henry Paas of Bernake.

Son and heir to Sir Thomas, was John Vincent, of Bernake, and Swinford, who, by Margaret, his wife, daughter to Sir Baldwin Drayton, of Cranford, had issue Richard Vincent, Lord of the said manors, who was slain by Henry Killigrew, 12 Henry VI. having had, by Elizabeth, his wife, four sons; 1. John; 2. Robert, who had the lands in Swinford, from whom the Vincents, of Thingdon, in Northamptonshire, descended; 3. Richard, from whom the family at Sheppey, in Leicestershire, is derived; and 4. William, a Monk, in the Abbey of Crowland, who died March, 1437.

John Vincent, of Bernake, (eldest son and heir of Richard) married Margaret, daughter of John Jordain, of the county of Stafford, and had two sons, Robert, and Richard; from which Richard, those of the name, at Messingham, in Lincolnshire, and of Peckleton, in the said county, and of Smeeton, in Yorkshire, and those of Horpole, in Northamptonshire, are derived.

Robert Vincent, the eldest son, took to wife Catharine, daughter, and coheir of Thomas Semark, and was father of Thomas Vincent, who was seated at Bernake, in 1 Edw. IV. and having married twice, had issue only by his last wife, Cicely, daughter of Sir John de Causton, Knt. viz. John Vincent, of Bernake, temp. Hen. VII. who wedded Anne, daughter to Charles Hill, and was succeeded by David, his son and heir.

Which David Vincent, Esq; in 22 Hen. VIII. had a grant for life, of the Office of Keeper of the King's Wardrobe, within his manor of Richmond, and the next year, of Keeper of the Wardrobe, at Greenwich; also in 27 Henry VIII. had a grant for life of the office of Warden of the Mint, within the Tower, after the death or surrender of John Pate. In the reign of King Edward VI. he was one of the Gentlemen of the Bedchamber, and died 1565.

His first wife was Elizabeth, daughter of — Spencer, of the county of Northampton, Esq; by whom he had, Thomas, Henry, and Anne, who married Sir Edward Heron, Knt. one of the Barons of the Exchequer. His other wife was Jane, daughter to William Rotley, of Worcestershire, Esq; who had issue by him three daughters, Elizabeth; Mary, who died unmarried; and Jane, married to John Chaworth, of Crophill-Butler, in Nottinghamshire, Esq; and was mother to Sir George Chaworth, Knt. Viscount Chaworth, of the kingdom of Ireland.

His eldest surviving son, Thomas Vincent, Esq; married Jane, daughter and sole heir of Thomas Lyfield, of Stoke-D'abernon, Esq; by Frances, his wife, daughter and coheir of Edmund, Lord Bray; and in her right, was possessed of that estate which lies upon the river Mole, and for distinction, is called D'abernon, from the D'abernons, ancient Lords of that place.

Which said Thomas Vincent, Esq; fixing his residence at Stoke, as beforementioned, exchanged his manor of Bernake, with Thomas Cecil, Earl of Exeter, for lands in the county of Surry, that his estate might lie more contiguous. He lived in great

great reputation and esteem, and Queen Elizabeth, as a mark of her favour, gave him the honour of a visit, at Stoke, on the 25th of September 1601, at which time her Majesty conferred on him the honour of knighthood.

They had issue two sons, Francis, and Bray, who died unmarried; also a daughter, married to Sir Matthew Brown, of Beechworth-castle, in Surry, Knt.

By Sir Francis she had several sons, (who died without issue,) and two daughters; Elizabeth, married to John Ackland of Ackland, in Devonshire, Esq; and Margaret, to Sir Francis Gabell, of Cobham, in Surry, Knt. but of the sons, only Anthony, the youngest, survived his father.

Which Sir Anthony Vincent, Bart. born 1594, was Sheriff of the county of Surry, in the 12th year of the reign of King Charles I. which county, before that year, was united with Suffex, and one Sheriff served both. He behaved himself with all dutiful allegiance to his Prince, during the great rebellion in 1641, and suffered with other loyalists on that account. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Arthur Ackland, of Killerton, in Devonshire, Knt. and was succeeded in title and estate, by his son and heir, 41. TICHBORNE, of Tichborne, Hampshire.

Created BARONET, March 8, 1620.

THIS family, variously written Titchebourn, Tichbourne, and Tichborne, is presumed to be of Saxon original, deduced from Ticeburn. But to come to what is certain, it is found in ancient deeds, records, &c. that Sir Roger de Ticheburne, a valiant and daring Knight, was possessed of the Lordship of Tichburne, in the county of Southampton, temp. Hen. II. and, by marriage with Mabell, sole heir of the family of Lymerton, in the Isle of Wight, had also possession of that estate, and left issue by her two sons and a daughter; Sir Walter de Tichbourne, Knt. Geffery, and Phelippe.

Sir Walter, succeeded as Lord Tichbourne, and left issue, Sir Roger de Tichborne, Knt. of the same place, as also another son, named John. By his wife, Alicia Hake, or Hacket, he had no issue, so that John de Tichbourne, his brother, succeeded.

Which John had to wife, Margaret, daughter and heir of Roger Sipherwaft, the chief of a noted family. He had issue by her, two daughters, Catharine, and Margaret; as also two sons, Sir Roger, and John Tichbourne; which Margaret, surviving her husband, afterwards married Thomas Durant.

The said Sir John Tichbourne, was a person of great eminence: serving in the Parliaments of the ninth and tenth of King Edward II. as one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Southampton; he had (as usual in those days) his expences allowed. He was Sheriff of the same county, in 14 Edw. II. and at the same time (conjunctively with Adam Walrand,) was 198 TICHBORNE, of Tichborne.

Sheriff of Wiltshire, and Dorsetshire, which office had then great power and authority. He continued Sheriff of the two last counties, the two following years. In 1 Edw. III. he, and John de Warblyngton, having served in parliament as Knights of the Shire for Southampton, had 21l. 18s. for fifty-four days expences. In 8 Edw. III. he, and John Mauduit, were Sheriffs of Wiltshire; and, not long after, departed this life, having married Amicia —, by whom he had a daughter, Catharine, a Nun, at Whorwell, as also four sons; 1. Roger; 2. Richard, who took to wife, Alice, daughter and coheir of John de la Hode, of Tisted, and had issue, Richard, who assumed the name of Tisted, from the inheritance that came by his mother, and was ancestor to the Tisteds, of Tisted, that in the fourth generation terminated in heirs female; 3. Walter de Tichborne, who married Agatha, the other daughter and coheir of John la Hode; 4. Thomas.

Roger Tichebourne, (eldest son and heir of Sir John) married Catharine, daughter of Roger Loveday, sister and heir of Richard Loveday.

This Roger de Tichborne, died before his father; for, in 11 Edw. III. his son, Roger Ticheborne, was found to be twenty-three years of age, and cousin and heir to his grandmother, Margaret, late wife of Thomas Durant.

This said Roger, was succeeded by John, his son and heir, who, was knighted; and, by his wife, Cicely, daughter and heir of Sir Adam de Rake, had issue a daughter, Olivia, and a son, John.

Which John was Sheriff of the county of Southampton, in 6 Hen. IV. and in the tenth year of that King's reign. The same arms, crest, and supporters, that his descendants now bear, are appendant to a deed, wherein he is stiled, John Tichebourne, son and heir of John Tichebourne, Knt.

He married Margaret, daughter to John Moking, of London, of a family, surnamed from Moking, their capital residence, situate in Middlesex; and had issue by her, John, William, and Eleanor; of whom,

John Tichborne, Esq; the eldest, took to wife, Joan, daughter to Thomas Wandesford, Alderman of London, sister and coheir to William Wandesford, Esq; and had issue another John Tichborne, Esq; who was Sheriff of Hantshire, in 3 Hen. VII.

He had to wife Margaret, daughter and heir to Richard Martin, of Eden-bridge, in Kent, by Margaret, his wife, daughter and heir of Walter Wallis, of Cowden, in Suffex; and had issue by her, four sons; 1. William, that died without issue; 2. Nicholas; 3. Thomas; the fourth son was, Henry Tichborne, who married Anne, daughter of — Marvin, and had a numerous issue.

Nicholas,

Nicholas, the eldest son and heir, was Sheriff of the county of Southampton, in 1 Edw. VI. but dying soon after, left issue by his wife, Anne, daughter of Robert White, of Southwam-borough, in Southampton, Dorothy, married to John Sam-bourne, of Berkshire; Margaret, espoused to John Bruin, from whom the Bruins, of Farnham, descended; and Dorothy, who was the wife of Thomas Leigh, of Cheshire. He had also four sons, Nicholas, Bartholomew, Roger, and William.

Of which, Nicholas, the eldest, in 1 Queen Mary, was Sheriff of the county of Southampton; as also elected for the same county, one of the Knights of the Shire in the Parliament that Queen called to meet at Oxford.

By his first wife, Juliana, daughter and heir of Robert Fen-rother, Alderman of London, he had only a daughter, Juliana, who married Thomas Cresswell, of Odiam, in Southampton, Esq; but by his second wife, Elizabeth Rythe, of Rythe, (sole heir of her brothers, Thomas, William, and James,) proceeded five sons, and three daughter, viz. Constance, the wife of Robert Knight, of Lyford, in Berks; Anne, of John Beronsam; and another, who married — Bend, of Suffex. The five sons were, Benjamin, Gilbert, Ambrose, Martin, and Jeremy, whereof the eldest succeeded to the estate.

Which Benjamin Tichborne, of Tichborne, Esq; was Sheriff of the county of Southampton, in 21 Eliz. as also in the last year of the reign of that Queen, whereby he distinguished himself in a very particular manner; for, as soon as he had notice of the death of his Sovereign, he (without any order from the administration,) immediately proclaimed at Winchester, and through the whole county of Southampton, the happy accession of King James I. to the crown of England: which zeal was so acceptable to his Majesty, who was informed of the great interest he had in his country, that he conferred the honour of knighthood on him, and his four sons; and for other his faithful services, granted the Castle of Winchester, in fee farm, to him and his heirs for ever; as also a pension of 100l. per ann. during his own life, and the life of his son, Sir Richard. His said Majesty likewise honoured him with several visits, at his seat, at Tichborne. At one, in the year 1618, he knighted his third son, Benjamin; and, that an hereditary dignity might be in his family, Sir Benjamin was advanced to the title of Baronet, two years after. He married Amphilis, daughter of Richard Weston, Esq; one of the Justices of the Common-Pleas, and had four sons, Sir Richard, his successor in title and estate, hereafter mentioned; Sir Walter, Sir Benjamin, and Sir Henry, all three Knights; and three daughters; and departed this life, 1621.

He was a Gentleman of great honour, and of an excellent repute in his country; who, on all occasions, shewed himself a true patriot thereof, both as a Magistrate, and in the Parliament, being elected thereto in 35 Eliz. as one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Southampton. In his private capacity he was a most tender husband, indulgent father, and a kind master, and of such an admirable frame of temper, that made all easy about him.

Of his daughters, Elizabeth, married Robert Garth, and after his decease, William Owen, Esqrs; Anne, wedded, first, William Brock, Esq; and secondly, Sir William Timperly, Knt. and Amphillis, his youngest daughter, espoused William Gratwick, Esq;

Sir Walter, his second son, knighted at Whitehall, the 16th of Nov. 1604, married Mary, daughter and coheir to Robert White, of Aldershot, in Hants, Esq; (by the daughter of — Foster, the heir of Bradley, of the county of Derby) son of Sir John White, Lord-Mayor of London. And from this Sir Walter, descended James Tichborne, of Frimley, in Surry, and of Aldershot, aforesaid, Esq; likewise, by a second son of the said Sir Walter, descended Sir Benjamin Tichborne, of Rickmansworth, in Hertfordshire, Knt.

Sir Benjamin, his third son, knighted at Tichborne, 29 Aug. 1618, and elected for Petersfield, in two Parliaments, in the reign of King Charles I. died without issue.

Sir Henry Tichborne, his fourth son, distinguished himself by many brave actions, and an unshaken love to his country, in which respect, I shall distinctly treat of him and his descendants, before we proceed to the elder branch. This Sir Henry, born in the year 1581, (24 Eliz.) having a martial spirit, was, from his youth, trained up in military discipline in Ireland, and the Low-country wars, and was by King James I. preferred to the command of an independent company of foot, in Ireland, and constituted Captain and Governor of the Castle of Lifford. After which, his Majesty conferred on him the honour of knighthood, at his (late) father's seat, at Tichborne, the 29th of Aug. 1623. He was Colonel of a regiment of foot, at the breaking out [the 3d of Oct. 1641] of the horrid rebellion and cruel massacre of the Protestants in Ireland; and being then esteemed the best officer in that kingdom, was appointed, with his own regiment of 1000 men, Sir Thomas Lucas's, and Sir Adam Loftus's troops of horse, to secure the town of Drogheda, and to be Governor thereof; which town, situate on both sides the river Boyne, about three miles distant from the sea, was become the rebels chief aim; and of such importance, that, next to Dublin, it was the chief care of the state to preserve; and, with Cerk

Cork and Carrickfergus, were the only places the Protestants could then keep in that kingdom.

Sir Henry Tichborne arrived at Drogheda with his forces, the 4th of November, 1641; but was so coldly received by the Popish inhabitants, that he waited in the streets from two o'clock till nine, before he could get a lodging, and then was forced to take one by his own authority. He found the town without bulwark, rampire, or any other fortification, than an ordinary ditch, and an old wall; yet, by a diligent application in repairing those defects, he sustained a siege of three months, against the whole power of the rebels, (who, with 14,000 men, sat down before the place in three weeks after he came) notwithstanding he had many traitors within the town, who plotted to deliver it up; as also, his garrison pinched with the hardships of famine, to the degree of eating horses, dogs, and cats. He shewed in these extremities, a peculiar constancy of mind, an uncommon intrepidity, and excellent conduct. In one skirmish, wherein 2000 Irish (having notice from some of the townsmen) had surprised just without the gates, 350 foot, and two troops of horse, and put them in great confusion (by means of a fog, and so loud a shout, as proclaimed their number to be very great) were yet, by the valiant deportment of the Governor, who presently came to their assistance, put into such order, that charging the rebels briskly, they retreated, with the loss of two hundred men, and were pursued for a mile. And, at another time, when, with the assistance of their Popish friends, the rebels had made a breach in the wall, in an obscure place, whereby, at four o'clock in the morning, 500 of them had marched so far into the town, that, thinking it their own, they made a great shout; Sir Henry Tichborne, with only his pistols in his hands, ran down stairs, was the first that caused a drum to beat, and having got some soldiers about him, and the Lord Moor coming in seasonably with some horse, those rebels were put to flight, with the slaughter of above two hundred of them, and some of their best officers. These advantages, and other successful sallies, so dispirited the enemy, that at length they drew off with great loss, before the Earl of Ormond (who intended the raising the siege) marched out of Dublin.

Sir Henry, being afterwards reinforced, defeated the rebels in several encounters, and forced those of the pale into Ulster; in consideration of which services, he was sworn of the Privy Council; and on the 12th of May, 1642, one of the Lords Justices of Ireland, in the room of Sir William Parsons; for which alteration, no reproach could be fastened on the King, as my Lord Clarendon asserts, 'Sir Harry Tichborne, being a man of so excellent a fame, that, though the Parliament was heartily 'angry

' angry at the removal of the other, and knew this would never be brought to serve their turn, yet they had nothing to object against him.'

He continued one of the two Lords Justices, till the Marquis of Ormond was sworn Lord Lieutenant; and during his administration, (which was two years) endeavoured, by all ways, to support and relieve the distressed protestants, with such zeal and disinterestedness, that he preserved the good opinions both of the King and Parliament; for when the royal cause was quite ruined, and the Marquis of Ormond had surrendered Dublin to the Parliament forces, and their Commissioners had reduced some regiments, they yet kept Sir Henry Tichborne in pay, as also continued him in his government of Drogheda; and he, joining their General Jones, was a means of gaining the great victory at Dungan-hill, (that happened on the 18th of August, 1647) 6000 of the rebels being killed on the spot: but after the murder of King Charles I. he forsook the service, and contented himself with living retired, till such time as the confusions among those who had usurped the Government of these nations, had given opportunity to the well-wishers of the Royal Family to shew themselves; and then he was with the most forward in that work, and had a chief hand in disposing the kingdom of Ireland, to their early appearance for a restoration of the old constitution.

Which services, his Majesty King Charles II. had so just a sense of, that, on the enjoyment of his crowns, he constituted him Field Marshal of his forces, in the kingdom of Ireland, which honourable post, Sir Henry held till his death, 1667, when he was in the eighty-sixth year of his age. He lies buried at Drogheda, with Jane, his wife, daughter of Sir Robert Newcomen, of Ireland, Bart. who lived with him many years, and died about the year 1664. They had five sons, and three daughters.

Benjamin, their eldest son, a Captain of horse in the service of King Charles I. was killed by the rebels, at Belruddery, in Dublin, in the twenty-first year of his age, unmarried; William, second son, succeeded to the estate of his father; Richard, third son, was Major of the Horse-guards, in Ireland, both to King Charles II. and King James II. and died unmarried; as did likewise Henry, fourth son; and Samuel, fifth son, died young. Of the daughters, Dorcas, married William Toxteth, of Drogheda, Esq; a native of Lancashire; Amphillis, married Richard Broughton, Esq; Major of the Foot-guards in Ireland, in the reign of King Charles II. younger brother of Sir Edward Broughton; and Elizabeth, espoused Roger West, of the Rock, in Wicklow, Esq;

William

William Tichborne, eldest surviving son and heir, beforementioned, resided at Beaulieu, in Louth, was knighted by his Majesty King Charles II. and, by Judith, his wife, daughter and one of the coheirs of John Byffe, Esq; Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, in Ireland, (a branch of the family of Byffe; of Somersetshire,) had six sons, and one daughter; Margaret, who married Stephen Stanley, of Grange-Gorman, in Dublin, Esq; father of Sir John Stanley, Bart. The said Sir William Tichborne, died in the fifty-eighth year of his age, on the 12th of March, 1693.

His six sons were, 1. Henry, Lord Tichborne, of Ireland; 2. Benjamin, who was killed in the thirty-ninth year of his age, at the battle of Hocstet, in Germany, 1704, and, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Major Edward Gibbs, of the city of Gloucester, left only three daughters, whereof, Judith, married, first, Charles, Earl of Sunderland; secondly, Sir Robert Sutton, Knt. of the Bath; William, third son, a Captain in the sea service, in the reign of King William III. was cast away off Plymouth, 1692, in the twenty-third year of his age, unmarried; John Tichborne, fourth son, was a Colonel, and also Governor of Athlone, in Ireland; Richard, fifth son, was master of arts of Trinity-college, Dublin, and sometime of Magdalen-College, Oxford, and died unmarried, in 1692, in the twenty-first year of his age; Byffe, youngest son, was a Captain of foot, and lost his life in the defence of Gibraltar, 1704.

Henry Tichborne, Esq; eldest son and heir, born in the year 1663, succeeded his father, at Beaulieu, in Louth, Ireland, and, in consideration of his services on the Revolution, was knighted by his Majesty King William, in 1694, and created a Baronet of England, in the ninth year of his reign, by letters patents, bearing date the 29th of July, 1697; also on the accession of his late Majesty King George, was advanced to the dignity of a Peer of the kingdom of Ireland, by the title of Baron Farrard. He was married at Cumbermere, in Cheshire, 1683, to Arabella, sixth daughter of Sir Robert Cotton, of Cumbermere, Knt. and Bart. by whom he had three sons, Henry, William, and Cotton, which last died young; also three daughters, whereof only Salisbury lived to maturity, and married William Aston, of the county of Louth, Esq; Henry, eldest son and heir, born the 20th of April, 1684, took to wife, Mary, daughter and sole heir of John Fowke, of Atherdee, Esq; and coming to England, in the year 1709, was unfortunately cast away in the bay of Liverpool; leaving his wife with child, who was after delivered of a daughter, named Elizabeth, who died young; William, second son, married Charlotta-Amelia, second daughter of Robert, late Lord Viscount Moleworth, of the kingdom of Ireland; land; by whom he left no issue; so that, upon Lord Farrard's death, the Peerage in this family became extinct.

I now return to Sir Richard Tichborne, Bart. eldest son and heir of Sir Benjamin Tichborne, Knt. and Bart. which Sir Richard, had the honour of knighthood conferred on him at the Charter-House, the 11th of May, 1603; and on his father's decease, succeeded to the title of Baronet. He was sent by King Charles I. Ambassador to the Queen of Bohemia; and when that Prince was oppressed by his rebellious subjects, he assisted him to the utmost of his power; securing for him Winchester-Castle, of which he was owner; and by his interest, a garrison was brought into it, under the command of Lord Ogle, that made a brave defence, and did not surrender, till the King's affairs were quite ruined. He had two wives; his first Lady was Ellen, another daughter and coheir of the beforementioned Robert White, of Aldershot, Esq; by whom he had only a daughter, Amphillis, espoused to Sir Laurence Hyde, Knt. Serjeant at Law. By Susan, his second Lady, daughter and coheir to William Waller, of Oldstoke, Esq; (of which family was Richard Waller, of Groombridge in Kent, Esq; who, serving in the wars of France, temp. Hen. V. took prisoner, Charles, Duke of Orleans, father to King Lewis XII. and kept him in England twenty-five years.) He had three sons, and as many daughters, viz. Anne, married to Charles, son and heir of Sir John Tasborough, of Flixton-hall, in Suffolk, Knt. Susan, who died unmarried; and Elizabeth, the wife of Sir James Philips, of Stoke-Charity, in Southampton, Bart. Of the sons, Richard, and John, died infants; and Sir Henry, succeeded to the title and estate.

Which Sir Henry Tichborne, Bart. took early to arms, in defence of King Charles I. and hazarded his life in several enterprizes. He was in the battle of Cheridown, in Hampshire, and with the Lord Ogle, in Winchester Castle, wherein he behaved with great conduct and bravery; which drew on him the malignity of the usurpers, who sequestered his estate, and forced him to live in an obscure condition, till the restoration of the Royal Family. His Majesty King Charles II. made him Lieutenant of New-Forest, in Hampshire, and King James II. constituted him Lieutenant of the Ordnance. He departed this life, in the year 1689; and, by Mary, his wife, daughter of William Arundel, Esq; brother to Thomas, Lord Arundel, of Wardour, had issue three sons, Sir Henry-Joseph, his successor in title and estate; John, and Charles, who died young; and three daughters; Winifred, who died an infant; Lettice, who married Henry Whettenhall, of Peckham, in Kent, Esq; and Mary, who veiled herself a Nun.

Sir Henry-Joseph Tichborne, who succeeded his father in title and estate, married, in 1689, Mary, daughter of Anthony Kemp, of Slyndon, in the county of Suffex, Esq; and by her was the father of three sons, Henry, Henry-John, and John, who are all deceased; and three daughters, Mary-Agnes, married to Michael Blount, of Maple-Durham, in Oxfordshire, Esq; Frances-Cicely, to — Doughty, of Henley, upon Thames, in the same county, Esq; and Mabella, who married John Webb, Esq; eldest son of Sir John Webb, of Hatherthorp, in Gloucestershire, Bart. and died, Sept. 1727. Sir Henry-Joseph, died in July, 1743, and was succeeded by

Sir James Tichborne, Bart. who descended from Sir Walter, second son of Sir Benjamin, the first Baronet, but dying, without issue male, the title and estate descended to

Sir Henry Tichborne, the present Baronet, who is married to Mary, the daughter of Michael Blount, of Mapledurham, in Oxfordshire, Esq; by Mary, the daughter of the late Sir Henry-Joseph Tichborne, and by her has one Son, Henry, born in the year, 1757.

42. PALMER, of Wingham, Kent.

Created BARONET, June 29, 1621.

THIS is a family of great antiquity; the surname of Palmer, owes its rise to that zeal for the Holy Land, which, for some ages, was very warm in Christendom; and drew many persons of distinction, from divers countries, to embark in the crusades, for carrying on the holy war. The soldiers, who returned home, frequently brought a branch of Palm, of the growth of Palestine, and wore it as a sacred badge and token, that they had performed their vows of fighting against the infidels; and from this, they were called Palmers, as Sir Henry Spelman, tells us. In the number of these warriors, were some of the ancestors of this ancient and worthy family: at the head whereof, after the English military expeditions to Jerusalem were dropped, on the death of our King Edw. I. we find,

Ralph

Ralph Palmer, possessor of a great estate in the county of Suffex, in the reign of Edw. II. 1307, whose son,

John Palmer, married a daughter of Sir John Pelham, Knight of the Bath, Sheriff of Suffex and Surry, by whom he had,

Adam Palmer, who matched with one of the coheirs of John Sedinghouse, and by her left a son,

Robert Palmer, of Steyning, in Suffex, Esq; He married Isabel, daughter and coheir of William Stopham, of Stopham, Esq; in that county; and left his son,

Robert Palmer, of Angmerin, Esq; and from him descended his son and heir,

John Palmer, Esq; who, by Joan, daughter of — Julian, Esq; was the father of another

John Palmer, Esq; who married Isabel, sole heiress of Edward Bilton, Esq; and by her had three sons, Edward, (who was knighted) Robert, and Thomas. The youngest of these, came to be Sir Thomas Palmer, of Calais, in France, that died without issue. Robert, the second son, married Beatrix, sole heiress of John Wesse, and became the head of a younger branch of the family, seated at Parham, in Suffex, whose second son, Robert, married Mary, daughter of James Audley, Esq; younger brother of the Lord Audley; but his eldest son was Sir Thomas Palmer, of Parham, Knt. that had two wives; first, Bridget, daughter of — Caryll, Esq; Serjeant at Law, by whom he had only three daughters, Elizabeth, married to John Leeds, of Steyning; Mary, to Thomas Palmer, of Angmerin; and Dorothy, to Henry Roberts, Esq; and by his second wife, Catharine, daughter of Sir Edward Stradling, of St. Donats, in Glamorganshire, Knt. left a son, John; and he by Elizabeth, daughter of Hugh Verney, of Fairfield, in Somersetshire, Esq; left another Sir Thomas Palmer, Knt. that died in Spain, leaving, by a daughter of John Mallet, Esq; a son, William Palmer, Esq; who settled at Fairfield, in Somersetshire.

Sir Edward Palmer, Knt. the eldest son, continued on the succession of the family, at Angmerin: he married one of the sisters and coheirs of Sir Richard Clement, of the Moat, in Ightam, in Kent, Knt. and by her had three sons, born on three Sundays successively, who all lived to be eminent in their generation. John, the eldest, was twice Sheriff of Suffex, and Surry, 25 and 35 Hen. VIII. and marrying Mary, daughter of William, Lord Sandys, left Sir Thomas Palmer, Knt. who, marrying Mary, daughter of Sir Thomas Palmer, of Parham, Knt. was the father of another Sir Thomas Palmer, Knt. that first married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Parker, Knt. son of Archbishop Parker, and after her death, with a daughter of Sir Miles Sonds, Knt. but left no issue.

Thomas,

Thomas, the youngest of the three brothers, made his fortune at the court, under Hen. VIII. and Ed. VI. and was knighted; but unfortunately taking part with John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, in favour of the Lady Jane's title to the crown, by virtue of King Edward's will; he was, upon Queen Mary's accession to the throne, beheaded, with the Duke, upon Tower-hill, where he had the christian courage and constancy upon the scaffold, to own his religion to be protestant.

The second of the three brothers was advanced, likewise, to the honour of knighthood, and came to be,

Sir Henry Palmer, of Wingham, in Kent, Knt. which estate he became possessed of soon after the suppression of the monasteries, and where his family continued for many years. This gentleman followed the camp, and made some addition to his paternal fortune by the sword. He was Master of the Ordnance, at Guisnes, in Picardy; and in 30 Hen. VIII. was constituted Supervisor and Warden of the forest of Guisnes, during life; and the year following had a grant of the office of Bailiff, or Steward, of the county of Guisnes, during life. In 36 Hen. VIII. he was at the taking of Bullogne, had his arm broke when he was old, in a rencounter with the French; and when their forces, under the conduct of the Duke of Guise, first made themselves masters of the important fortress of Calais, at the latter end of the reign of Philip and Mary, and then, with their victorious army, sat down before Guisnes, this brave man, (whose motto was, Vie pour mon Prince) in the noble defence thereof lost his life, at above seventy years of age; and that castle quickly followed the fate of Calais; both which places had been above two hundred years in the possession of the English. He married Jane, daughter of Sir Richard Windebank, of Guisnes, Knt. and by her left three sons, Thomas, Arnold, and Edward.

45. JERNEGAN, OR JERNINGHAM, of Coffey, Norfolk.

Created BARONET, October 16, 1621.

THE ancient family of the Jernegans have been seated in Norfolk, ever since the grant of Queen Mary, to Sir Henry Jernegan, Knight, her Vice-Chamberlain, and are a younger branch of the Jernegans, of Somerley-town, in the island of Lothingland, in Suffolk; but that eldest branch being extinct, this became the eldest surviving branch, and so continues.

The first that I meet with of this family was called,

1. Hugh, without any other addition, whose son was named,
2. Jernegan, and was always called, Jernegan Fitz-Hugh, or the son of Hugh; he is mentioned in the Castle-acre register, as a witness to a deed without date, and died about 1182. He married Sibill, who, in 1183, paid 100l. of her gift, into the Exchequer, after her husband's death ; his son was called,

3. Hugh, or Hubert, son of Jernegan, who gave a large sum of money to King Henry II. and paid it into the treasury, in 1182 ; he married Maud, daughter and coheir of Thorpine, son of Robert de Watheby, of Westmorland : he is mentioned by the name of Hubert de Jernegan, in the black book of the Exchequer, published by Mr. Herne, at Oxford, 1728, and died in 1203, and the King granted the wardship of all his large possessions, and the marriage of his wife and children, to Robert de Veteri Ponte, or Vipount, so that he married them without disparagement to their fortunes.

4. Sir Hubert Jernegan, of Horham, in Suffolk, Knt. his son, succeeded, who had been a rebel against King John ; but on the accession of Henry III. to the crown, submitted himself, and obtained his pardon.

5. Sir Willian Jernegan, son and heir of Hubert, married Julian, daughter and coheir of Gynningham, of Burnham ; and Hugh de Polsted, married Hawise, the other coheir. He died without issue, and was succeeded by,

6. Sir Hugh Jernegan ; his younger brothers, Godfrey, and Robert, being dead. He married, for his second wife, Ela, or Ellen, daughter and coheir of Sir Thomas de Ingaldsthorp, Knt. who survived him.

7. Sir Walter Jernegan, his son, married Isabel, daughter, and at length heir of Sir Peter Fitz-Osbert, or Osborne, of Somerley-town, in Suffolk, Knt. (relict of Sir Henry Walpole, of Houghton, in Norfolk, Knt.) who, it seems, died before him, leaving,

8. Sir Peter Jernegan, his son, who became heir to his father and grandfather, and also coheir to the Fitz-Osbert's estate, in right of his mother. He first married Alice, daughter of Hugh Germanyn, and Basil, his wife, by whom he had no issue. The pedigree says, he married a daughter of Sir — Harling, of East-Harling, in Norfolk, Knt. for his second wife, which seems true, by the quarterings of the Jernegan's, as they were to be seen in Horam church, anno 1663, being put up by Sir John Jernegan, who married Isabel, daughter and heiress of Sir Jervase Clifton : 1. Jernegan. 2. Inglethorp. 3. Fitz-Osbourn. 4. Harling. 5. Mortimer. 6. Gonville ; these two are Harling's quarterings. 7. Kelvedon, or Keldon. 8. Clifton. And for his third wife, Ellen, daughter of Sir Robert Huntingfield, of Huntingfield, in Suffolk, Knt. He was succeeded by,

9. Sir John Jernegan, senior, his son and heir, who married Jane, daughter and coheir of Sir William de Kelvedon, relict relict of — Lowdham. He died on the Thursday before the feast of the Annunciation in 1375.

10. In 1374, John Jernegan, junior, his son and heir, married Margaret, daughter of Sir Thomas Vise de Lou, Knt. and had Thomas, and Humfry, buried at Somerley-town, 1446.

11. Sir Thomas Jernegan, their son and heir, married Joan, daughter of William Appleyard, of Dunston, in Norfolk, and had,

12. John Jernegan, senior, Esq; who married Agnes, daughter of Sir John Darell, of Kent, Knt. who died before him, and was buried in St. Mary's Chapel, in the Priory of St. Olave's, at Heringfleet, in Suffolk, (now called St. Tooley's bridge.) This John, married Isabel, daughter of Sir Gervase Clifton, in 1459; in 1473, made his will, and died 1474. He had two sons, John and Osbert, and three daughters, Anne, Thomasine, and Barbara; he had also another daughter, Elizabeth, married to John Denton.

13. John Jernegan, Esq; his son, succeeded, and died in 1503, leaving, by Isabel, his wife, daughter of Sir Gervase Clifton, Knt.

14. Edward Jernegan, Esq; his son and heir, who was afterwards knighted; he had two wives, first Margaret, daughter of Sir Edmund Bedingfield, of Oxborough, in Norfolk, Knt. by whom he had Sir John Jernegan, of Somerley-town, in Suffolk, Knt. who married, first, Bridget, daughter of Sir Robert Drury, of Hawsted, in Suffolk, Knt. from whom the Jernegans, of Somerley-town, in Suffolk, descended. And for his second wife Mary, daughter of Richard, Lord Scroop, of Bolton, in Yorkshire, and coheir to Stephen, her brother, (who survived him, and remarried to Sir William Kingston, Knight of the Noble Order of the Garter,) by whom he had Sir Henry Jernegan, of Huntingfield, Knt. the founder of the Cossley family; Edmund, who died Feb. 9, 1546, and Edward, born after his father's decease; Frances, who died without issue, and Elizabeth, Maid of Honour to Queen Mary: Sir Edward, died Jan. 6, 1515.

15. Sir Henry Jernegan, or Jerningham, of Huntingfield, in Suffolk, eldest son and heir of Sir Edward, by his second wife, was a great favourite of Queen Mary I. being the first that appeared openly for her, after the death of Edward VI. being with her at Kenninghall-place, or castle; and continued her trusty friend, for which services she made him Vice-Chamberlain, and Master of her Household. He married Mary, daughter of Sir George Baynham, of Cloriwell, in Gloucestershire, Knt. (by — daughter and heir of Sir Anthony Kingston, ston, Knt.) and had issue, Henry, William, and two daughters, Jeronyma, married to Charles Waldegrave, of Stanninghall, in Norfolk, Esq; (ancestor to the present Earl of Waldegrave,) and Margaret, wife of Sir Thomas Southwell, of Rising, in Norfolk, Knt. he died in 1571.

16. Henry Jerningham, or Jernegan, Esq; their son and heir, married two wives; 1. Eleanor, daughter of William, Lord Dacres, of Gillefland, (and Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of George Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury, and Anne, his wife, daughter of William, Lord Hastings, Chamberlain to Edward IV.) by whom he had, 1. Henry; 2. William; 3. George, married to Eleanor, daughter of Sir George Philpot, of Hampshire, Knt. 4. Thomas, who died without issue; and 5. Edward; and a daughter, Anne, married to John, son and heir of Sir John Arundell, of Lanherne, in Cornwall, Knt. His second wife was, Frances, daughter of Sir John Jernegan, of Somerletown, Knt. widow of Thomas Bedingfield, of Oxborough, Esq; He died June 15, 1619, and was buried in St. Margaret's Church, Westminster.

17. Henry Jerningham, or Jernegan, Esq; his eldest son, was created a Baronet, 16 October, 1621: he married Eleanor, daughter of Thomas Throckmorton, of Coughton, in Warwickshire, Esq; by whom he had three sons, 1. John; 2. William, who had two wives, first, the relict of Lee; and secondly, the relict of Young. I suppose he was knighted, for he is often called, Sir William; 3. Thomas, who, I suppose, was knighted also, for I meet with him, called Sir Thomas; the said Henry had also two daughters, Anne, who died single, and Catharine, married to Francis Saunders, of Shankston, in Leicestershire, Esq; and died September 5, 1646.

18. John Jerningham, or Jernegan, Esq; the eldest son, died in his father's life-time, in 1619; he married Anne, daughter of Sir Francis Moore, of Fawley, in Berkshire, Bart. and left two sons, Sir Henry, successor to his grandfather; and Francis, married to Philippa, daughter of — Crambleton, of Newthorn, in Yorkshire, Esq;

48. WAKE, of Clevedon, Somersetshire.

Created BARONET, Dec. 5, 1621.

THE Wakes are mentioned by Brompton, among the Nobles and others, who came over with William the Conqueror. As to the first rise of the name of Wake, it is observed by Dr. Patrick, that Herewaldus, or Hewaldus, was surnamed De Wake, or le Wake. He was one of the bravest heroes of his age and country, whose actions are celebrated by Ingulphus, and was the last who submitted to the Conqueror.

His daughter and heir was married to Hugh Evemur, whose grand daughter, Adelhidis, was wedded to Baldwyn Fitz Gilbert, brother to Walter, the father of Gilbert de Gant, the first Earl of Lincoln, of that race. By which Baldwyn, she had a daughter, Emme, who was heir to him, and the before-mentioned Herewald, and took the name of Wake, as appears from an ancient charter of the Abby of Brunne. The lordships of Brunne, and Deeping, in Lincolnshire, were, at this time, and long afterwards, in the family of the Wakes. In the time of Henry I. Emme is mentioned to be the wife of Hugh le Wac; and it is agreed, that she settled her name on her husband. They left issue, Baldwyn le Wac, so called from his grandfather (by his mother's side) Baldwin Fitz Gilbert. Which Baldwyn Wake was one of the Barons at the coronation of King Richard I. and temp. Henry III. was one of the chief Barons in arms against the King. John, his son, was in the wars of Gascoigne, 26 Edw. I. and afterwards in those of Scotland. He had summons to Parliament, as Lord Wake, of Lydell, in Northamptonshire, from 23 to 28 Edward I. His son, Thomas, was appointed Constable of the Tower of London, and Justice in Eyre of the forests South of Trent, by Queen Isabell, in opposition to her husband, King Edward II. After whose depōsal, he had Hertford Castle committed to his government. But in the succeeding reign, had his lands seized, on suspicion of his adherence to Edmond, Earl of Kent; but acquitting himself thereof, was restored, made Governor of Guernsey, and Guardian of the Lincolnshire coast. He had summons among the Barons to Parliament, from 22 Edw. II. to 22 Edw. III. and died soon after without issue, by his wife, the Lady Blanch Plantagenet, sister to Henry, Duke of Lancaster; whereupon the inheritance passed with his sister and heir, Margaret, by marriage to Edmund, of Woodstock, Earl of Kent, (youngest son to King Edw. I.) by whom she had issue, Joan, (after the death of her two brothers) Countess of Kent, and for her beauty called the fair maid of Kent; who, marrying Sir Thomas Holland, second son of Sir Robert Holland, of Lancashire, one of the first founders of the Garter, he thereupon had the titles of Earl of Kent, and Baron Wake, of Lydell, allowed him. This Joan, afterwards, by marriage with Edward, the Black Prince, became mother of King Richard II.

In one of the church windows at Chesterfield, in Derbyshire, are the arms of Edmund Plantagenet, and Margaret Wake, above mentioned, impaled together.

Sir Hugh, younger son of Baldwyn, the last Baron of that name, and brother of John, Baron Wake, beforementioned, had, by gift of his said father, the lordship of Deeping, in Lincolnshire, and Blyfeworth, in Northamptonshire; was one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Northampton, in 30 Ed. I. and 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 Edw. II. and in 34 Edw. I. one of the Knights in Parliament for Wilts. The same year he was in the Scottish wars; as also, in 4 Edw. II. and died in 9 Edw. II. leaving issue, by Joan, daughter and coheir of John de Wolverton, Thomas, his son, who was among the Knights of the county of Northampton, that were returned into Chancery 17 Edw. III. He died in 20 Edw. III. 1345.

This Sir Thomas Wake, was a great warrior, and gallantly distinguished himself with the Black Prince, particularly in the battle of Najara. He was Sheriff of Northamptonshire, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15 Edw. III. 49. HOTHAM, of Scorbrough, Yorkshire.

Created BARONET, Jan. 4, 1621.

THE family of Hotham, is descended from Sir John de Trehouse, Lord of Kilkenny, in Ireland, who served under William the Conqueror; and for his good services at the battle of Hastings, had a grant of the castle and manors of Colley-Weston, in Northamptonshire, and Hotham, in Yorkshire.

II. and King Edw. III. King Edw. II. made him, first, his domestick Chaplain, and, after employing him in several weighty affairs, constituted him Bishop of Ely, Treasurer of the Exchequer, and Lord Chancellor of England. And he was also Lord Chancellor of England, in the reign of King Edw. III.

In consequence of which Sir John was taken prisoner, and brought before the Court Martial at Guildhall, Nov. 30, 1644, where upon the proof of thirty witnesses, whose evidence tended to accuse him of many capital crimes against the Parliament, and after leave being given him to make a full defence, on the 7th of December, he received this sentence: That he should suffer death, by having his head cut off, on Monday, the 16th of December; but, on his Lady's petition for time to settle his estate, the execution was deferred.

His son, Captain John Hotham, came to his trial before the same Court, charged with crimes of much the same nature as his father's; and, being convicted thereof, received sentence to be beheaded on the 24th of December.

These two unfortunate Gentlemen, who seem, in the opinion of different Authors, to have embarked too hastily in a cause which proved their ruin, suffered death on Tower-Hill, pursuant to their sentence. My Lord Clarendon says, Sir John was master of a noble fortune, rich in money, of very ancient family, and well allied; his affections to the government very good, and that no man less desired to see the nation involved in a civil war than he, not imagining, when he accepted this employment from the Parliament, it would engage him in a rebellion.

Sir John Hotham, Bart. who succeeded his grandfather in title and estate, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sapcoat, Lord Viscount Beaumont, of Swords, in the kingdom of Ireland, by whom he had two sons, Sir John, his successor, and Robert, who died without issue; and two daughters, Elizabeth, married to William Gee, of Bishops Burton, in Yorkshire, Esq; and Bridget; and dying in the year 1689, was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir John Hotham, Bart. who died without issue male, 1691; whereupon the title and estate devolved on Sir Charles Hotham, Bart. eldest son and heir of Charles Hotham, Rector of Wigan, (by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Stephen Thompson, of Humbleton, in Yorkshire, Esq; beforementioned,) third son of Sir John Hotham, the first of this family that was created to the dignity of a Baronet.

50. MANSEL, of Muddlescombe, Carmarthenshire.

Created BARONET, Jan. 14, 1621.

THIS ancient and honourable family is descended from Philip Mansel, who came into England with William the Conqueror, and was nephew to Sir Henry Harley Knt. who, out of the large possessions he held in South-Wales, gave to the said Philip, the manor of Oxwick, or Oxmucho, in the county of Glamorgan, where he built a very fine mansion-house, which became the residence of his family, for many generations. This Philip, married —, daughter to — Mountforrell, and had issue by her, Henry, Andrew, Robert, Michael, and Philip. From Henry, the eldest son, descended Sir John Mansel, Knt. who, in 26 Henry III. had the King's precept to pay Sir Peter Alard, Knt. such wages as he paid other Knights in his Majesty's service. In 37 Henry III. being at that time Chancellor of London, and Provost of Beverley, he was appointed, with others, to go to the King of Castile, to make a league between him and the King of England. In 38 Henry III. he was sent, with others, on an embassy to the King of Scotland, with power to take into their protection such of the Scots, as are inclinable to adhere to them. And the next year was appointed to take possession of the kingdom of Apulia, which the Pope had granted to him, and Edmund, his son. In 40 Hen. III. being at that time a Knight, and in Wales, he sent advice to the King, of the rebellion of Lewellin, Prince of Wales, and that on the approach of Sir John de Grey, and others, they dispersed and fled to the mountains. In 40 Hen. III. he was sent into the marches of Scotland, to take care of the King's affairs; and the next year was sent, with others, by Edmund, King of Sicily, on an embassy bassy to the Pope, to procure better terms, in relation to the grant of that kingdom, with power, if they thought fit, to give up the same kingdom: and was also one of the twelve who were appointed to reform the state of the kingdom. In 42 Hen. III. being at the same time Treasurer of York, he was appointed, with others, to treat of a peace in Scotland. In 46 Henry III. there being some apprehension of his stirring up strife between the King and his Peers, the King wrote to the Pope and Cardinals, that he was innocent. He was Lord Chancellor to King Henry III. and is said, by the pedigrees of this family, to have had issue, by Joan, his wife, daughter of Simon Beauchamp, Baron of Bedford, Sir Thomas Mansel, Knight Banneret, who was, (as Hollinshed writes) taken prisoner in the Barons wars, in 48 Henry III. at Northampton. This Sir Thomas had issue, Henry Mansel, who, in the reign of King Edward I. settled in Glamorganshire, and was father of Sir Walter Mansel, Knt. He was succeeded by Sir Robert Mansel, Knt. his son and heir, father of Robert Mansel, Esq; who had issue, Richard, his son and heir.

Which Richard Mansel, Esq; marrying Lucy, daughter and sole heir to Philip Scurlage, Lord of Scurlage-castle, in the county of Glamorgan, left issue, Sir Hugh Mansel, Knt. whose wife was, Elizabeth, daughter and heir to Sir John Penrys, Knt. and by her he was father to Richard Mansel, of Oxwick, who, by Elizabeth his wife, daughter to Hamon Turberville, of Penline, in Glamorganshire, had issue John Mansel, of Oxwick; and he by Maud, daughter to William ap Llewellyn, ap Howel ap Poclin, Esq; was father of Philip Mansel, Esq; who was slain in the wars between the houses of York and Lancaster, and attainted. He married Mary, daughter to Griffith ap Nicholas, of Newton, in the county of Carmarthen, Esq; by whom he had, Jenkin Mansel, his son and heir.

Which Jenkin, procured a repeal of his father's attainder, and a restoration in blood and estate. He married Edith daughter and coheir to Sir George Kyme, (or Keene) of the county of Kent. Knt. and had issue three sons; Rice, who succeeded him; Hugh, who took to wife, Jane, daughter and coheir to Richard Owgan, of Kent, (and left issue, Robert Mansel, Esq; Groom of the Bed-chamber to King Henry VIII.) and Philip, who married Anne, daughter of William Dabridgecourt; also four daughters; Alice, married to John Drew, of Bristol; Anne, to David ap Rees Wynn, of St. Cothens; Jane, to John Wynn ap Jenkin ap Richard; and Elizabeth, to Christopher Flemyng.

Rice, the eldest son, received the honour of Knighthood, before the twenty-seventh of Henry VIII. in which year he was sent with a supply of soldiers into Ireland, to assist the Lord-Deputy

Deputy in suppressing a rebellion raised in that kingdom, by the Earl of Kildare. In 28 Henry VIII. he had a grant for life of the office of Chamberlain of the county palatine of Chester; and in 32 Henry VIII. a grant of the site of the monastery of Margam, in Glamorganshire, and the royalty of Avon Water, to him and his heirs. His last will and testament bears date on the 10th of December, 7 Eliz. 1588, and the probate thereof, the 10th of May, 1589.

He was an inhabitant of Clerkenwell parish, in London; was bountiful to his servants, charitable to the poor, and left several sums to distressed householders of many parishes.

This Sir Rice Mansel, Knt. married three wives; by his first, Elianor, daughter and sole heir to James Bassett, of Beaupre, in Glamorganshire, Esq; he had no issue that survived to maturity. By his second, Anne, daughter of Sir Giles Bruges, of Corberley, in Gloucestershire, Knt. ancestor to the Duke of Chandos, he had three sons, who all died in his life-time, and three daughters, whereof only two survived, viz. Catharine married to William Bassett, of Beaupre, Esq; and Elizabeth, married to William Morgan, of Llanternan, in Monmouthshire, Esq; but by his third wife, Cicely, daughter to William Dabridgcourt, Esq; he had, Edward, who succeeded him in his estate; Anthony, married to Elizabeth, daughter of John Bassett, of Lanthrithed, Esq; and Mary, wife of Sir Thomas Southwell, of Uprising, in Norfolk, Knt.

Edward, his eldest surviving son and heir, received the honour of Knighthood, in the year 1572, was chamberlain of Chester, and a man of great honour, integrity, and courage, distinguishing himself in many services during the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Of his sons, Sir Thomas, was ancestor to Lord Mansel, of Margam; Sir Francis, (ancestor to Sir Richard Mansel, Bart. of Ischoed, in Carmarthenshire, and Sir Edward Mansel, of Trimfaran, Barts.) and Sir Robert Mansel, was knighted by the Earl of Essex, for his valour, in the taking of the town of Cales, anno 1596; and after having signalized himself in several encounters, was made Vice-Admiral of the fleet, by King James I. in which station he was continued by King Charles, and lived to a very old age, much esteemed for his great integrity, personal courage, and experience in maritime affairs.

Francis Mansel, Esq; second son of Sir Edward, beforementioned, being advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, 19 Jac. I. married two wives, first, Catharine, daughter and heir of Henry Morgan, of Muddlescombe, in Carmarthenshire, Esq; by whom he had four sons; 1. Walter, who left no issue; 2. 56. PLAYTERS, of Sotterley, Suffolk.

Created BARONET, Aug. 13, 1623.

THIS family hath been of good antiquity in the counties of Norfolk, and Suffolk, as appears by old deeds, and records, relating to the family.

The first we find mentioned in their pedigree is, Thomas Playters, of Thorndon, in Suffolk, Esq; who was father of Thomas Playters, of Thorndon, and Sotterley, Esq; who died Sept. 21, 1479; he held Welborne manor and advowson, in Norfolk; Sotterley, and Ugghall manor, in Suffolk; and lies buried in Sotterley church. By Anne, sister and heir of Roger Denny, of Tatington, in Suffolk, Esq; he left issue, William Playters, Esq; his son and heir, who lived 22 Ed. IV. 1483, and died Nov. 11, 1512. He married Jane, daughter of Sir Edmond Jenny, of Knotshall, in Suffolk, Knt. and had five sons; four died unmarried; Christopher, the fifth, who lived 7 Hen. VII. 1492, and died Sept. 11, 1 Edw. VI. He married two wives, first, Dorothy, sister and coheir to William Aslack, of Carrow, in Norfolk, Esq; by whom he had one son, Thomas: secondly, Anne, daughter of William Read, of Beccles, in Suffolk, Esq; by whom he had several children.

Thomas, his son and heir, living 32 Hen. VIII. died September 9, 1572; by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Sir Thomas Jermyn, of Rushbrooke, in Suffolk, Knt. (and Anne, his wife, daughter of Thomas Spring, of Lanham, in Suffolk, Esq;) he had issue, William Playters, of Sotterley, Esq; who died June, 1584. He had four wives, 1. Thomasine, daughter of George Duke, of Frense, Esq; 2. Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Timperley, of Hintlesham, in Suffolk, Esq; (and Audrey, his wife, daughter of Sir Nicholas Hare, Knt. Master of the Rolls;) 3. Thomasine, daughter and coheir of Edmund Tirrell, of Beches, in Essex, Esq; and 4. Mary, daughter and coheir of William Drake, of Hardley, in Norfolk, Esq; two of which left no male issue, and the issue of the fourth failed, after two descents; but by his second wife, (Elizabeth Timperley,) he had issue, Sir Thomas Playters, High Sheriff of Suffolk, 1605, knighted at Newmarket, Oct. 19, 1606, and advanced to the dignity of Baronet, 21 Jac. I.

This Sir Thomas married two wives; first, Anne, daughter of Sir William Swan, of Southfleet, in Kent, Knt. by whom he had, Sir William, his successor, Thomas, and Elizabeth, who died infants, and Frances, married to Hamond Bozown, Bozown, of Wifingset, in Norfolk, Esq; Sir Thomas's second wife was, Anne, daughter of Sir Anthony Browne, of Elfsinge, in Norfolk, Knt. by whom he had several children, viz. Anthony, Francis, and William, who died young; Thomas, married to Mary, daughter of Sir Augustine Palgrave, of Norwood Berningham, in Norfolk, Knt. and died without issue; (his relict married, secondly, Thomas Well, Esq;) Sir Lionel, of whom hereafter; Anthony; and Roger, who died without issue; John, married to Camilla, daughter of Thomas Browne, of Elfsinge, Esq; Elizabeth, married to Sir Stephen Soame, of Haidon-hall, in Essex, Knt. Judith, wedded to Richard Mosely, Esq; Lydia, to Henry Warner, of Mildenhall, in Suffolk, Esq; Parnel, to John Harbonne, of Barsham, Esq; Anne, to Edward Barnwell, of Hylamn, Esq; and Anne, to George Gent, of Bumstead, in Essex, Esq; besides others that died young or unmarried. Sir Thomas, died, June, 1638, and was succeeded in dignity and estate by his eldest son by the first marriage,

Sir William Playters, Bart. who was Deputy-Lieutenant, Vice-Admiral of the county of Suffolk, and Colonel of a regiment of foot, till turned out by the rebels: he married Frances, daughter and heir of Christopher Le Grys, of Billingsford, in Norfolk, Esq; by whom he had only one son, Sir Thomas, his successor.

Sir Thomas Playters, Bart. only son and heir, was High Sheriff of Suffolk, 1646, and made Colonel of a regiment of cuirassiers, of five hundred horse, 19 Car I. He was also Admiral of six English ships, the Eagle, Lion, Spahee, Hunter, Fortune, and another, commissioned by Don Juan de Austria. He married Rebecca, daughter and coheir of Thomas Chapman, of Wormley, in Hertfordshire, Esq; (who surviving him, was first remarried to Richard Lucy, Esq; a younger branch of the Lucy's, of Charlecote, in Warwickshire, and afterwards, to Sir Rowland Lytton, of Knebworth, in Hertfordshire, Knt.) by whom he had no issue, and dying at Messina, in Sicily, 1651, aged thirty-five, was succeeded by his half brother, Sir Lyonel, only surviving son of Sir Thomas, by his second marriage.

Which Sir Lyonel Playters, Bart. when the title and estate came to him, was Rector of Ugthall, in Suffolk, and of whom Mr. Walker says, ' His troubles began with the rebellion; ' for, in 1642, they brake open his stable-doors, plundered ' him of two very good horses; and when he had the confidence to demand by what authority they did it, they replied, ' Pistol the Parson, and fired two or more pistols at him. ' June 20, 1644, articles were exhibited against him before ' the the Sequestrators, under the Earl of Manchester ; the substance of which, as entered in the proceedings of those Sequestrators, was his observing the rules and orders prescribed by the church, preaching up submission to his Majesty, inveighing earnestly against the rebellion, refusing the covenant, keeping company with one, who afterwards, as it was reported, went to the cavalier, popish army, and saying, that he had a parcel of hemp to sell, and hoped it would bear a good price ; because, if the times continued, a great many would want hanging ; and that, rather than fail, he would give it to the King, to hang up the round-heads.

The sentence of sequestration passed upon him, if I mistake not, the same day that those articles were exhibited ; on the 24th of July following, it was served upon him, when Mr. Playters, asking the Sequestrators what time they would give him to remove his family ? they answered him, not an hour's time ; and accordingly, himself, his wife, and four children, were turned out of doors. The 30th of the same month, they entered on the Parsonage-barn, the tythe-hay, and corn therein ; as likewise upon the glebe, (part of which was sown with barley, flax, pease, and other grain, with a crop of grafs ready to be cut,) and upon all the tythe of the parish not then gathered in : all which they seized into their own hands, and converted to their own use for two years together, without ever giving any account, or paying Mr. Playters, the fifths, out of it ; but instead of that, they took care to levy the taxes of the months of May, and June, upon him, notwithstanding they had seized almost the whole produce of that year, either in his barns, or in the fields. Besides which, the poor Gentleman had another misfortune befel him : for having buried several of his children in the chancel, he hid in one of their graves, on prospect, without question, of those troubles which afterwards came upon him, about 200 pieces of gold, which these godly reformers, as they were tearing up the rails, and levelling the chancel, happened to discover ; and, as zealous as they were against superstition, and idolatry, made no conscience of committing a robbery very near allied to sacrilege, carrying away every penny of it. He had likewise a temporal estate of about 200l. a year, which they either put under sequestration, or, what was as bad, forbid the tenants to pay the rent ; whereupon some of them quitted their farms : and although by that means the estates lay untenanted for two years together, yet they compelled him to pay the taxes even of those unoccupied estates. About the year 1646, one Henry Younger succeeded in the living ; but it pleased God that Mr. Playters, lived to receive it of him again,

‘ again, on the restoration, and enjoyed his living, as well as ‘ the title and estate of his family, for many years after, and ‘ constantly preached in his church, till the day of his death.
 ‘ He was a person of a meek and peaceable temper, and of a ‘ regular conversation. I had almost omitted to say, that the ‘ Sequestrators let several of the out-houses belonging to the ‘ Parsonage, fall quite down to the ground.’

Sir Lionel married Elizabeth, daughter of John Warner, of Brandon, in Norfolk, Gent. (she died, Sept. 1699,) and had issue, Sir John, his successor; Sir Lionel, successor to his brother; Elizabeth, married to Thomas Edgar, of Glemham, in Suffolk, Esq; Anne, and Lydia, who died unmarried; and dying 1679, was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir John Playters, Bart. who had two wives, first, Jane, daughter of Thomas Read, of Berdwell, in Suffolk, Esq; by whom he had no issue; secondly, Isabel, daughter and sole heir of Thomas Hall, of London, Merchant, by whom he had issue, one son, and a daughter, who both died young; whereupon, he was succeeded by his brother, Sir Lionel Playters, Bart. who married Martha, daughter of Talmash Castel, of Raveningham, in Norfolk, Esq; and died Oct. 1699, and left issue, 1. Sir John, his successor; 2. Richard, who died at sea, unmarried; 3. Lionel, who married one of the daughters and coheirs of Dr. Gould, a Physician, and died Jan. 1722-3, at Sotterley, leaving issue; 4. Thomas, who died unmarried; also Carolina, married to John Norris, of Witton, in Norfolk, Gent. and Anne.

Sir John Playters, the present Baronet, eldest son and successor to his father, married Elizabeth, daughter of John Felton, of Worlingham, in Suffolk, Esq; brother to Sir John Felton, Bart. by whom he had several children; but they are now all dead.

John Playters, Esq; Sir John's last surviving son, married Anne-Carolina, second daughter of John Turner, Esq; and grand daughter to the late Sir Charles Turner, of Warham, in Norfolk, Bart. who likewise died without issue.

59. DERING, of Surenden-Dering, Kent.

Created BARONET, Feb. 1, 1626.

THIS family is of Saxon extraction, and flourished in the county of Kent long before surnames were in use, as plainly appears by the Domesday-Book, and the Textus Roffensis, and by several Saxon deeds still in being. The name Dering, is a Saxon word, and signifies terror; and the horse, which is the crest of the family, was the arms of the chief Saxons, and particularly of Hengist himself, and of all the Kings of Kent successively. In the Textus Roffensis we find, that Diering Miles was a witness to a deed, by which King Etheluff gave certain lands in Cucolastone, to the church of Rochester, 880. And he is said to be descended in a direct line from Ethelwald, King of Diera, whose father Oswald was slain by Penda the Mercian, 642. And Ethelwald, being then an infant, not four years old, was defeated of his kingdom by Osway, his bastard uncle, and forced to fly into Kent, where his posterity were called the Dierans, as coming from that country. From this Diering Miles, to the Norman invasion, are reckoned seven generations; the last of which was called Dering filius Syredi, and was slain with King Harold, at Battel, in Suffex. He was father of Syred de Ferningham, who was the father of Leofget, who, upon the death of William the Norman, took up arms with Odo, Bishop of Baieux, in behalf of Duke Robert; but being over-powered, he retired with his family into Normandy, where he had two sons born, viz. Normanus Dering, so called from the place of his birth; and Robert, so called from Robert, Duke of Normandy. This Normanus Fitz-Dering married Matilda, only sister and heir to William de Ipres, Earl of Kent, and King Stephen's General, and was himself Vice-Comes Cantii, a place of the highest trust and honour in those times.

At the battle of Lincoln, where King Stephen was taken prisoner, this Gentleman was slain near the King's person, endeavouring to rescue his Majesty; and being found after the battle with his shield covered with blood, his posterity were allowed to add to their paternal coat of arms, three Torteauxes in chief, in memory of his loyalty and bravery. Mr. Philpot says, Norman Fitz Dering was Sheriff of Kent, under King Stephen.

From this Normanus Fitz-Dering, by a clear and uninterrupted succession of worthy Gentlemen and Ladies, (many of which Gentlemen attained the honour of Knighthood, and most of the Ladies were heiresses of the best families of their times) was descended,

John Dering, of Surenden-Dering, Esq; who married Margaret, daughter, and at length sole heir of John Brent, of Charing, in Kent, Esq; (and Anne, his wife, daughter of Sir Edward Berkley, Knt.) by whom he was father of Richard Dering, of Surenden, Esq; who by Margaret, daughter of William Twifden, of East Peckham, in Kent, Esq; was father of Sir Anthony Dering, of Surenden, Knt. who married two wives, 1. —, daughter of Goring, by whom he had only one daughter, that died unmarried; 2. Frances, daughter of Sir Robert Bell, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, by whom he had,

Sir Edward Dering, who was knighted by King James I. and advanced to the dignity of Baronet, 2 Car. I. He was Knight of the shire for Kent, in 1640, and a Gentleman of great parts and learning, who published a volume of his speeches that he made in the House of Commons; though my Lord Clarendon, (who seems to have a pique against him) says, 'He was prevailed with to present to the House of Commons a bill for extirpating Bishops, Deans, and Chapters, which he did from the gallery, with the two verses of Ovid, the application whereof was his greatest motive,

'Cuncta prius tentanda, sed immedicabile vulnus

'Ense recidendum est, ne pars sincera trabatur.'

Which bill was afterwards laid aside: He says farther of him, 'That he was a man very opposite to all their (the Parliament's) designs; but a man of levity and vanity, easily flattered by being commended.'

Mr. Nalson, in his historical collections, says of him, 'This unfortunate Gentleman I cannot name without compassion, considering his great parts and abilities, had they been rightly informed, and not over-born by the popular torrent, which though he at first helped to swell above its banks, he was not able to stem, when he endeavoured to oppose it, but was himself over-born and sunk by it; and how dangerous a thing that

‘ great privilege of freedom of speech was then in that house, he remains a sad example.’

Mr. Rushworth, in his historical collections, says of Sir Edward, ‘ That he retired in some disgust (especially taken for his not complying against Episcopacy), to his house in Kent, and there lay private the months of May and June, 1642, in which time receiving several expresses from some of his Majesty’s Ministers, then at York, to invite him to Court, he at last consented; and, passing through Surry, and Oxford, went to his Majesty at Leicester, and with him to Coventry, and so to Nottingham, before the Standard was set up; and thenceforwards continued a constant attendant, till he came into the protection of the Parliament, under the favour, and pursuant to the declaration of both kingdoms, promising indulgence to such as should return upon certain terms, and within such a time; he came all the way from Oxford by a counterfeited name, until he arrived at the out-works of the City of London; and there discovering himself, was brought by the Captain of the guard to Westminster, examined, for the present committed, and afterwards discharged, upon his petition to the House of Commons.’

This Sir Edward married three wives; 1. Lady Elizabeth Tufton, daughter of Nicholas, Earl of Thanet, by whom he had one son, Anthony, who died, aged fourteen. 2. Anne, daughter of Sir John Ashburnham, of Ashburnham, in Suffex, Knt. by whom he left one son, Sir Edward, his successor, and a daughter, Elizabeth, married to Sir John Darell, of Cale-hill, in Kent, Knt. His third Lady, was Unton, daughter of Sir Ralph Gibbes, of Honington, in the county of Warwick, Knt. by whom he left two sons, and two daughter, 1. Henry, of Pevington, in Kent, Esq; who married Damaris, daughter of Thomas Peke, of Hills Court, in Kent, Esq; by whom he had two sons, (Edward, of Pevington, and 2. Unton, who married the daughter of Mr. Aris,) and a daughter, Catharine. The second son of Sir Edward, by his third Lady, was Sir Edward Dering, knighted at Whitehall, January 6, 1679-80, who married Dorcas, daughter of Sir Robert Barkham, of Wainfleet, in Lincolnshire, Bart. relict of Sir William Delaune, of Sharsted, in Kent, Knt. by whom he left no male issue. The two daughters of Sir Edward, were, Dorothy, married to Thomas English, of Buckland; and Frances, to Thomas Cooper, of Maidstone, both in Kent, Esquires. Sir Edward Dering, Bart. died June 22, 1644, and was succeeded in title and estate by his only son, by his second Lady,

Sir Edward Dering, Bart. who represented the county of Kent, in several Parliaments, temp. Car. II. in which reign he was

Mary, married to Sir Thomas Knatchbull, of Mertham, in Kent, Bart. 3. Anne, married to Wortley Whorwood, of Denton, in Kent, Esq; 4. This Sir Cholmley was unfortunately killed in a duel, in Tothill-fields, Westminster, by Mr. Thornhill, May 9, 1711, and was succeeded in title and estate, by his eldest son, 60. STYLE, of Wateringbury, Kent.

Created BARONET, April 21, 1627.

THIS family were originally seated in Suffolk, and are descended from William Style, of Ipswich, father of John Style, which John Style was employed in several embassies to different courts by Henry VII. about the year 1500; by whom also he was sent to Naples to treat of a marriage between that Prince and the Dowager Queen of Naples, mentioned in Lord Bacon's history of Henry VII. By Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of Sir Guy Wolstan, of London, Knt. he had issue, Sir Humphry Style, of Langley, in Kent, Knt. who was Sheriff of Kent, 35 Henry VIII. and by his first wife, Bridget, daughter of Sir Thomas Baldrey, Knt. had issue three sons, 1. Edmund Style, of Langley, Esq; 2. Oliver Style, Esq; who was Sheriff of London, temp. Jac. I. ancestor to the present Sir Thomas, of whom hereafter; and 3. Nicholas Style, Esq; Alderman and Sheriff of London, temp. Jac. I. who died Nov. 16, 1615.

Edmund Style, of Langley, Esq; the eldest son, by Mary, daughter of John Berney, of Reedham, in Norfolk, Esq; was father of William, who had two wives. 1. Anne, daughter of John Eversfield, of Den, in Sussex, Esq; and 2. Mary, daughter of Robert Clarke, Esq; one of the Barons of the Exchequer: By the first wife he had Sir Humphry Style, of Langley, in Beckingham, in Kent, Cup-bearer to King Charles I. and created a

Baronet,

Baronet, May 20, 1627. He was also, by the same King, made Colonel of all the trained-band horse of the county of Kent. Sir Humphry died in the year 1659. His services are best expressed in the following copy of a paper in the collections of Peter Le Neve, Esq; late Norroy King of Arms.

‘ About eleven or twelve years since, the late King, for, and
 ‘ in consideration of the long and faithful service done by Sir ‘ Humphry Style, Knt. and Bart. both to his father and to him‘ self, and in recompence of his great expences therein, as ‘ also for his service in the protestant wars in France, granted ‘ unto the said Sir Humphry Style, by Letters Patents under the ‘ then Broad Seal of England, all the incroachments made within ‘ and upon his palace of Westminster, reserving to himself and suc‘ cessors a clear full fourth part of all the profits that should ac‘ crue thereby.

‘ Sir Humphry Style, in pursuance of this grant, and the better
 ‘ to discover how much was incroached upon the said palace, pro‘ cured a Jury of Middlesex to be impannelled, by whom the ‘ bounds and limits of the said palace were, by their verdict, upon ‘ the testimony of witnesses then sworn and examined, found and ‘ discovered, and an exact and perfect map thereof was drawn,
 ‘ which is now in the custody of the said Humphry Style. After ‘ the verdict of the said Jury, Sir Humphry Style proceeded by ‘ Law in the Exchequer, against some of the incroachers, where,
 ‘ after a long suit, and much charge, at a full hearing, he ob‘ tained the judgment of the court against the said incroachers;
 ‘ whereupon the late King granted a commission, under his broad ‘ seal, to divers Lords, giving them power to compound, at rea‘ sonable rates, with such persons as had so incroached upon his ‘ said palace.

‘ Sir Humphry Style humbly desires your opinion, whether it be ‘ not necessary for him to present this his case to the judgment
 ‘ of the Parliament, the fourth part reserved by the King now
 ‘ accruing and belonging to them, without whose approbation ‘ and direction he will not do any thing.’

Whose opinion it was that is here asked, is not mentioned by Mr. Le Neve; or any farther account of this affair.

62. ISHAM, of Lamport, Northamptonshire.

Created BARONET, May 30, 1627.

NOT tradition alone, but a concurrent testimony of the most authentic records, sufficiently prove, that this family has, for many ages, been seated in Northamptonshire, and likewise seem to evince a certainty of their being denominated from Isham, a town of the said county in the hundred of Orlingbury. Such authority, supported by variety of corroborating circumstances, gives us encouragement to begin at the Norman epocha, from which æra we shall attempt to deduce them to our days, in as uninterrupted a series at this distance of time, and the many casualties incident to it, will admit.

Either Azor, or Azo, (who lived at the time when William the Conqueror made his general survey,) if they were different men, which the small variation of a letter would incline one to think they were not, was probably the person, who is recorded to be father to Roger de Isham, one of the first benefactors to the Priory of St. Andrew, in Northampton, giving thereto two parts of the tithe of all his demesnes in Isham.

Henry de Isham next occurs in the records of the said Priory, as a witness to the grant of Henry de Harwedon, son of Simon de Harwedon, of all the tithes of his fee in Isham; very likely Roger was father to this Henry, to whom are attributed two sons, Henry, and Thomas; from which last, the existing branch of the family derive their descent.

That Henry had a son, who bore his name, is very clear, for Henry, son of Henry de Isham, presented Master Hervey de Fackham, to one mediety of the church of Isham, in the year 1237. It is also certain, that this last Henry, was likewise succeeded by a son, after his own name, a minor. We also meet with William de Isham, whose daughter and heir, Elizabeth, was the wife of William Bernake, of Bernake; which

William de Isham, whose daughter and heir, Elizabeth, was the wife of William Bernake, of Bernake; which William leaving likewise by her an heir female, the estate in Isham passed into the house of Luffewick, of Luffewick, and from thence was conveyed the same way into that of Pickering.

Having thus brought the eldest branch to a period in an heir general, we shall now proceed, according to the best light we have at present, in the account of the younger branch: In order to which, it will be necessary to reascend to Thomas de Isham, second son of the first Henry; which Thomas was father of Robert de Isham, living 45 Hen. III. and he of Henry de Isham, who was impleaded by William, son of John de Wylies, 3 Edw. III.

Robert de Isham we take to be son of Henry, and find him frequently mentioned towards the latter end of Edw. III. He is supposed to be father of Robert Isham, the first we observe to have de left out before his name.

Contemporary with Robert, perhaps his brother, was John Isham, Prior of Wymondham, in Norfolk. This Robert died 13 March, 2 Hen. VI. 1424. leaving a son named Robert, of the age of twenty-two years. He married Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir to — Aston, of Knofton, alias Knufton, near Irchester, in Northamptonshire. He died about the 14th of Edw. IV. leaving behind him, William, his eldest son, of whom hereafter; Robert, who was Prebendary of Lincoln, from 1467 to 1501; Richard, and John.

Richard, son and heir of John Isham, was the husband of Isabella, daughter to Drugo Brudenel, Esq; William Isham, the eldest son of Robert, was one of those Gentlemen of Northamptonshire, to whom Richard III. sent a Letter, requiring a loan of forty pounds: his name likewise occurs upon other accounts, on the lists of the Nobility and Gentry of the county. He married Elizabeth, daughter of —, widow of Thomas Braunsparth, who died 20th Sept. 18 Edw. IV. and he died 13 June, 2 Hen. VIII. 1510. leaving Thomas Isham, of Picheley, Esq; their son. He married Elena, daughter of Richard Vere, of Addington, Esq; (by Isabella, his wife, daughter, and at length heir, to John Green, of Drayton, Esq;) and sister to Sir Henry Vere, Sheriff of Northamptonshire, 1 Hen. VII. who being the last heir male of that ancient and martial family, descended from Sir Robert de Vere, second son of Aubrey de Vere, Chief Justiciary of England, and brother to Aubrey de Vere, first of the name, Earl of Oxford; his eldest daughter and co-heir, Elizabeth, became the wife of John, the first Lord Mordaunt, ancestor to the Earl of Peterborough.

The issue that came of it were, Euseby, John, and, according to circumstances, Henry. Henry Isham was in that unfortunate expedition of the Emperor Charles V. to Algiers, 1541. He married Anne, relict of William Scot, daughter and co-heir to Thomas Fogge, Serjeant Porter of Calais, by whom he had Edward Isham, whose daughter and heir, Mary, was the wife of Sir George Parkins, of Bunny, in Nottinghamshire, Knt.

Euseby Isham, the eldest son of Thomas, matched with Anne, eldest daughter of Gyles Pulton, of Desborough, Esq; and Catharine, his wife, daughter of Thomas Lovet, sen: of Aftwell, Esq; By her, in one and twenty years, he had twenty children; the names of ten of whom, five sons, and as many daughters, the rest dying young, and unmarried, are transmitted down to us, viz. Gyles, Robert, Gregory, John, ancestor of the Lamport line, and Henry; Catharine, wife to Richard Pagitt, of Cranford, Student of the Law, (from whom descended, by the eldest son, James Pagitt, one of the Barons of the Exchequer, in the reign of Charles I. and by Euseby, a Clergyman, old Father Ephraim Pagitt, above forty years Rector of St. Edmund, Lombard-street;) Eleha, first married to Thomas Hoyse, and, secondly, to Thomas Boleworth, of Great Oakley; Ely, wife to Henry Bellamy, Citizen, and Mercer, of London, afterwards of Hadley, near Barnet, in Middlesex; Edith, to Richard Slatier, of Braunston; and Isabella, to Thomas Barker, Merchant, whose sister was married to his wife's brother, John Isham.

Gyles Isham, Esq; the eldest son, was brought up to the study of the Law, wherein he made great proficiency; and settling at Picheley, upon the death of his grand-mother, was put into the Commission of the Peace. In the first year of the reign of Queen Mary he was elected for the City of Peterborough, to the Parliament, summoned to meet at Oxford; and again to that held at Westminster, 4th and 5th of Philip and Mary. He died the last of August, 1559, leaving, by Mary, his wife, who survived him not a year, three infant daughters, all in time disposed of in marriage to Gentlemen of good families; Anne, to Edward Thorne, of Syresham; Jane, to Leonard Barker, and after him to Nicholas d'Arcy, of Kew, in Surrey, Esq; and Margery, to Edmond d'Ayrell, of Langport, alias Lamport, in Buckinghamshire.

Robert Isham, second son, was of Christ College, in Cambridge, where he proceeded Master of Arts; after which he was promoted to be one of Queen Mary's Chaplains; and being, besides his spiritual Preferments, possessed of a good temporal estate, departed this life, unmarried, May 5, 1564, 6 Eliz.

Gregory

Gregory Isham, third son, died Sept. 4, 1558, last of Philip and Mary. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Matthew Dale, of Bristol, who, after his decease, had to her second husband, William Roswell, Esq; Solicitor General to Queen Elizabeth. By her he was father of Sir Euseby, Thomas, Mary, the second wife (and by whom he only left issue) of Thomas Andrews, of Charwelton, Esq; who seems to be the Sheriff of Northamptonshire, according to Camden, that attended on Mary, Queen of Scots, to her execution, at Fotheringhay-Castle; and Elizabeth, married to Henry Cave, of Ingarby, in the county of Leicester, Esq;

Sir Euseby Isham, of Picheley and Braunston, Knt. received the honour of Knighthood from King James I. at the Charter-house. He died June 11, 1626, and, as tradition delivers it, in no very good circumstances, tho', in all appearance, his children were well provided for, of whom he had a good number by his lady, Anne, the daughter of John Borlase, of Marlow, in Buckinghamshire, Esq; The sons were, 1. John Isham, Esq; who was twice married; first, to Anne, daughter to Sir William Fitz-Williams, of Milton, Knt. by whom he had Anne, his only daughter and heir, the wife, first, of William Lane, of Horton and Glendon, Esq; and after his decease, of Pierce Walth, Esq; secondly, to Elizabeth, daughter of Edmond Dunch, of Wittenham, in the county of Berks, Esq; who brought him no issue: He deceased Dec. 9, 1626, and this last wife Aug. 6, 1657. 2. Euseby, who married Susanna, relict of Daniel Kecken; 3. William, who, by Mary his wife, had issue Euseby, and Anne; 4. Gregory; 5. Thomas, who had to wife Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Denton, of Hillersdon, in Bucks, Knt. by whom he had Thomas Isham, of the Middle Temple, who died a bachelor, July 17, 1676, besides a son and daughter that died young; 6. Anthony. Sir Euseby's daughters were, Anne, who died an infant; another Anne, married to Edward Glover, of Baxterley, in Warwickshire, Esq; Mary, first the wife of Edward Reede, of Cottelbrook, Esq; and afterwards of Sir Fleetwood Dormer, of Leegrange, in Buckinghamshire, Knt. Sarah, married to Henry Turville, of Thurleston, in the county of Leicester, Esq; Susanna, to John Faldo, of Goldington-green, in the county of Bedford, Esq; and Elizabeth.

Here, in course, we should proceed to treat of John Isham, of Lamport; but first it will not be improper to say something of his younger brother, with whom we shall conclude the collateral branches.

Henry Isham, fifth and youngest surviving son, we find Comptroller of the Customs, temp. Eliz. and that he married

Jane,

Jane, daughter to Mr. Breefly, and by her had issue, 1. Gregory; 2. Nathanael; 3. Zaccheus; and 4. Matthias.

Gregory Isham, of Barby, Esq; had, by his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Catelnye, of Raundes, Gent. a numerous progeny, viz. Robert, Henry, Henry, Richard, James, Gregory, John, William, Edward, Arthur; Anne, wife of John Pey; Eliza; Eleanora, who died unmarried, aged eighty; Penelope; Catharine; Elizabeth, married to Thomas Burrard, of Lymington, in Hampshire, Esq; Jane, to Lodge, one of which was the second wife of Sir Sidney Mountagu, father to the first Earl of Sandwich.

Zaccheus, the third, but second surviving son, had to wife Jane, daughter of Francis Sturtivant, of Carlton upon Trent, in Nottinghamshire, and by her had Edward, of Willey, in the county of Warwick; Mary, married to Wren; Jane, to Duckett; and Elizabeth; as also Thomas, Bachelor of Divinity, Rector of Barby, father of that learned and eminent Divine, Zaccheus Isham, D. D. Rector of St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, in London, which he resigned upon being presented to the living of Solyhull, in Warwickshire, Prebendary of Canterbury and St. Paul's, and several times Proctor in Convocation for the City of London, who died at Solyhull, July 5, 1705, leaving issue by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Thomas Pittis, D. D. Chaplain to King Charles II. (who was his predecessor as Rector of St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, aforesaid) by Elizabeth his wife, sister of Sir William Stephens, of Barton, in the Isle of Wight, Knt. Thomas, Justinian, Henry, Francis, and Elizabeth, who all died young, or unmarried; Mary, married to Arthur Brooke, Gent. (who had issue two daughters, Mary and Dorothy) and Jane. The aforesaid Thomas was likewise father to Francis Isham, of Sudborow, who was elder than the Doctor, and died without issue. Matthias, the third surviving son of Henry, by his wife, Meril Tisdale, had issue Gregory, Elizabeth, and Jane: Besides these sons, Henry Isham had the following daughters, Susanna, the wife of Edmond Borlase, and mother of Sir John Borlase, Bart. one of the Lords Justices of Ireland in the years 1640, and 1643. Apollonia, married to Rowland Leigh, and Mary, to Gyles Parfio, both of the city of London.

Of the children of Euseby and Anne Isham, there only now remains an account to be given of John Isham, of Lamport, Esq; their fourth son, and the direct ancestor to the Baronets. Ringsted was the place of his birth, and August 1525, 17 Hen. VIII. the month and year of it. As he was brought up to merchandize, he was, 5 Edw. VI. made free of the city of London, and of the Mercers Company, to which he was often Warden;

Warden; the first time he bore that office was in 1567; in the year 1581, he served the office of Sheriff; and departed this life, March 17, 1595, in the seventy-first year of his age, leaving behind him the character of a wise, just, and good man. In his younger years he matched with a widow of a plentiful fortune, Elizabeth, the daughter of Nicholas Barker, of the house of Sunning, in Berkshire, and relict of Leonard Barker, Citizen of London, whom he outlived only something above a twelvemonth. The children they had by each other, were, Anne, wedded to Richard Saunders, of Agmondesham, in Bucks, and Elizabeth, to George Pulton, of Desborough, Esquires, both dying before their father; Thomas, Robert, that died young, Henry and Richard, who by their wives, Elizabeth Cauntton, and Barbara Webster, had many children; the first, Euseby, Edward, who left posterity, Thomas, Richard, John, Henry, Barbara, Mary married to George Neale, Mercer; and Anne, to Thomas Bunning, Rector of Lamport; Richard, had Thomas, Augustine, Richard, Anne, Elizabeth, the wife of William Trefham, of Old, Gent. Susanna, and Mary.

Thomas Isham, Esq; succeeded his father, and had the misfortune to lose his sight, when very young, by a fit of sickness, notwithstanding which, having an excellent memory, he retained what was read to him, and became well versed in divinity and history: He died December 3, 1605, aged 50, leaving by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Christopher Nicholson, of Cambridge, Gent. who survived him till August 9, 1621, one son, John, and three daughters; Elizabeth, first married to Sir Anthony Denton, of Tunbridge, in Kent, secondly, to Sir Paul d'Ewes, of Stow Hall, in Suffolk, Knights; Susanna, the wife of Sir Martin Stutville, of Dalham, in Suffolk, Knt. and Jane, who had for her husband John Ardys, of Rouhall, in the county of Bedford, Esq;

John Isham, Esq; afterwards Knight and Baronet, the only son, was twenty-three years of age at the time of his father's decease, being born July 27, 1582. He was knighted by King James I. at Whitehall, March 29, 1608, and the ninth of the said King made Sheriff of Northamptonshire, where, acting as Justice of the Peace, he bore a great sway, until the unhappy troubles, being, for his knowledge in the laws, and impartial determinations, esteemed an eminent and upright Magistrate. King Charles I. advanced him to the dignity of a Baronet, by patent bearing date May 30, 1627. He took to wife, 1607, Judith, daughter of the learned William Lewyn, of Ottringden, in Kent, Doctor of Law, some time Official Principal of the Arches, and Judge of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury,

&c. and sister to Sir Justinian Lewyn, of the same place, Knt. By this Lady, who died June 25, 1625, aged thirty-four, Sir John had one son; and two daughters, Elizabeth and Judith, who both died unmarried, and he himself giving way to fate, July 8, 1651, was buried at Lamport with his Lady. He was succeeded in honour and estate, by

Sir Justinian Isham, Bart. his only son, born the 20th of January, 1610. Having made a sufficient progress in classical learning, he was sent from school to Cambridge, and admitted Fellow Commoner of Christ College, April 18, 1627. As nature had furnished him with excellent parts, so the advantage of such an education, improved afterwards by that of travel into foreign countries, rendered him one of the most accomplished persons of his time, being a Gentleman not only of fine learning, but above all famed for his singular piety, and exemplary life. During the time of the grand rebellion, he adhered firmly to the royal cause, for which he suffered in several respects, both in his person and his estate, his person having been put into prison, and was obliged to compound for the estate he enjoyed in his father's life-time, at Shangton, in Leicestershire, at no less than 1106l. notwithstanding which, he was remarkably liberal to the pious and learned orthodox Clergy, whom he generously assisted in their greatest necessities. Thus distinguished, by his loyalty and other happy virtues, his country, upon the happy restoration of the church and monarchy, judging him to be a person most fitly qualified to represent them, elected him one of their Knights to the Parliament which met May 8, 1661, and continued to sit to the period of his life. He was twice married; first, to Jane, daughter of Sir John Garrard, of Lamer, in Hertfordshire, Knt. and Bart. and Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Sir Edward Barkham, Knt. by whom he had four daughters, Jane, Elizabeth and Judith, twins, and Susanna; the first and third died unmarried; Elizabeth was the second wife of Sir Nicholas L'Estrange, of Hunstanton, in Norfolk, Bart. and Susanna, the only one of Sir Nicholas Carew, of Beddington, in Surry, Knt. besides these he had one son, John, who being born before the time, lived only some few days, his mother also dying in childbed of him, March 3, 1638. After her death, Sir Justinian continued a widower many years, and then, in 1653, took to his second wife, Vere, daughter of Thomas, Lord Leigh, of Stonely, by Mary, his wife, daughter and coheir to Sir Thomas Egerton, eldest son of Thomas, Lord Ellesmere, Viscount Brackley, High Chancellor of England. This Lady, who deceased October 29, 1704, brought him six sons and two daughters; 1. Thomas; 2. Justinian; 3. John, who died October, 1746; aged eighty-seven: He was Under-Secretary each time the Earl of Nottingham was one of the Principal Secretaries of State, and in the latter end of King William's reign, a Commissioner for the forfeited estates in Ireland; he married Frances, daughter and coheir to Sir Richard Ashfeild, Bart. this Lady died April, 1755, aged seventy-two. By her he had two sons and a daughter; Justinian, who died April, 1743, aged thirty-six. He married Mary, daughter of Sir Stephen Anderson, of Eyworth, in Bedfordshire, Bart. John and Frances, dead; 4. Charles, who died in the eleventh year of his age; 5. and 6. Ferdinando and Henry, both died very young men. Mary, the first wife to Sir Marmaduke D'Ayrell, Knt. late of Castle Camps, in Cambridgeshire, and Vere, young Ladies that were learned beyond their sex and years, the first in the Latin tongue, the latter in Mathematicks, and Algebra. Sir Justinian being at Oxford to place one of his sons in Christ Church, was seized with a fit of the stone, which deprived the world of this valuable man, March 2, 1674, in the sixty-fifth year of his age.

Sir Thomas Isham, Bart. then within age, succeeded him; a young Gentleman of a beautiful person, and a sweet disposition, who having finished his travels in France and Italy, and being on the point of entering into the state of matrimony, was, July 26, 1681, snatched away by death, at London, in the very flower of his youth, being but twenty-four years old; upon which, the title and estate descended to his next brother,

Sir Justinian Isham, Bart. who met with the news of his brother's death as he was returning to England from France. In 1685, 1 Jac. II. he was elected a Burgess for the town of Northampton; after which, when our religion and laws were struck at in that unfortunate reign, upon the landing of the Prince of Orange, he appeared in arms at Nottingham, where several Lords, and a good number of Gentlemen of the best quality and fortunes, having formed themselves into a troop, as a guard to the Princess Anne, most of them were for conferring the command of it upon him, which he modestly declining, the choice fell on the Right Rev. Dr. Compton, Bishop of London, whom he proposed, and he contented himself with being their cornet, the standard he bore having this motto in letters of gold, Nolumus leges Angliæ mutari; without doubt, the true motive he engaged upon; for it is apparent by his behaviour, in the Convention that ensued, he had little thoughts of running the lengths of some people, notwithstanding he stood as fair for preferment as most, and had even good offers, particularly, as we are informed, that of a commission to raise a regiment of foot. His being bail for a certain Peer, his friend and neighbour, who had fallen under the displeasure of the Government, was the chief occasion he was not returned for the town of Northampton at the opening of the Parliament that met March 20, 1689; but a vacancy happening, through the death of one of the members, he came in the very first session, and served for the same place in the two following Parliaments. In 1698, he was elected, by the almost unanimous voice of the county of Northampton, one of their Knights of the Shire, and continued to represent the said county to the day of his death. He served in four Parliaments for the town, besides that of the Convention, and in ten for the county of Northampton. He married July 16, 1683, Elizabeth, only daughter to Sir Edmond Turner, of Stoke Rochford, in the county of Lincoln, Knt. by Margaret, his wife, daughter of Sir John Harrison, of Balls, in Hertfordshire, Knt. who died August 22, 1713. Sir Justinian died, aged seventy-two, May 13, 1730.

By this Lady Sir Justinian had fourteen children, eight sons, and six daughters, viz. 1. Sir Justinian, who succeeded him; 2. John, Fellow of All Souls, Oxon, and deceased there, Nov. 17, 1716, aged twenty-eight; 3. Edmund, who died in his infancy; 4. Sir Edmond, successor to his brother, of whom hereafter; 5. Thomas, brought up to the sea. He married, in 1734, Mary, daughter of Thomas Kenton, Rector of Bugbrook, in Northamptonshire, by whom he had one daughter, Mary, lately deceased. This Thomas died April, 1743, aged fifty-one; 6. Henry, died an infant; 7. Euseby, late Rector of Lamport and Haselbeach, and Rector of Lincoln College, Oxon, in May, 1739, married Elizabeth, daughter of Matthew Panting, D. D. late Master of Pembroke College, Oxon, and died June 17, 1755, aged fifty-seven, leaving three sons; Justinian, born July 18, 1740; Euseby, born June 17, 1742; Edmund, born Feb. 17, 1743-4; and one daughter, Philippa, born April 3, 1753, all at present living, and unmarried; 8. Charles, who, in 1744, married Elizabeth, one of the daughters and coheirs of Edward Cuthbert, Esq; Counsellor at Law, and Deputy Recorder of Northampton, by whom he has no issue. Of the daughters, two Elizabeths died in their infancy; Vere died June 30, 1760, aged seventy-four; Edmunda died April 28, 1766, aged sixty-seven; Susanna died at Bath, June 5, 1726, unmarried; and Hester, widow of Francis Raynsford, of Brixsworth, Esq; died Nov. 14, 1763, aged sixty-eight.

Sir Justinian Isham, Bart. succeeded not only to the title and estate of his father, but to his seat in Parliament. Some of his younger years he spent in foreign parts. Anno 1711, he was constituted one of the Commissioners of the then new erected office of the Duty on Hides, &c. as also Commissioner for the affairs of the Land Tax and Windows ; but his commission being superseded the first of King George I. some time after he took a tour into the Netherlands, France, and Italy, and after his return, married Mary, only surviving child of the late L'Isle Hacket, of Moxhull, in the county of Warwick, Esq; and born of his second wife, Dorothy, daughter to Sir John Bridgeman, of Castle Bromwich, in the said county, Bart. which L'Isle Hacket, Esq; was eldest son to Sir Andrew Hacket, by Mary, his wife, first daughter and coheir to John L'Isle, of Moxhull, Esq; descended of a family that had been owners of the said place upwards of five hundred years, and in those days esteemed of the superior rank in Warwickshire. Sir Justinian was a Gentleman of great skill in heraldry and antiquity, a lover of letters, and well versed in several languages ; he made great improvements to his seat at Lampport, and particularly in building there a fair and costly library. He died suddenly without issue, March 5, 1736, in the fiftieth year of his age, as he was attending his duty in Parliament, being much lamented by all who had the satisfaction and pleasure of his acquaintance. He was succeeded in honour and estate, and likewise in his seat in Parliament, by his next surviving brother, Sir Edmund Isham, the present Baronet, who was bred up in the University of Oxford, chose Fellow of St. Mary Magdalen College, in 1720, and taking the degree of Doctor of Law in 1723, removed to the College of Civilians, in London, and was there admitted into the number of Advocates. He was at length appointed Advocate for the Admiralty, which he resigned in 1742, and has been constantly elected Knight of the Shire for Northampton in all the Parliaments held from his enjoying the title to the present time. He married, first, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Edward Wood, of Littleton, in Middlesex, Esq. This Lady died July 19, 1748, aged forty-eight ; and Sir Edmund remarried, in May, 1751, Philippa, only daughter of Richard Gee, of Orpington, in Kent, Esq; but has no issue from either marriage.

63. BAGOT, of Blithfield, Staffordshire.

Created BARONET, May 30, 1627.

THIS is a family of great note and antiquity, being found in Doomsday-book, possessors of Bagot's Bromley, in this county, at the time of the Conqueror's survey, when they held it of Robert de Stafford, ancestor of the ancient Barons Stafford, whose male line determining about the time of Richard I. in Robert de Stafford, his sister and heir, Millicent, conveyed this Barony by marriage to Hervey Bagot, a younger branch of this family, who thereupon assuming the surname, as well as title, of Stafford, became progenitor to the succeeding Barons and Earls of Stafford and Dukes of Buckingham.

The first we find mentioned in the pedigree, which is well supported by deeds, and other evidences, is Bagod, Dominus Medietatis de Bramele, which he held of Robert de Stadford, as mentioned in Doomsday-book. He had a son, Bagod, who was father of Bagot, whose son, Simon, is proved by a deed without date. He had two sons; Sir Hugh Bagot, Knt. Dominus de Bromley, and Sir William Bagot, Knt. whose issue failed.

Sir Hugh, by Alicia, his wife, had issue Sir Richard Bagot, Knt. Lord of Bromley, who, by Christian, his wife, had issue two sons, William, and Robert, whose issue failed.

William, the eldest son, we find was a Knight, and Lord of Bromley Bagot, and died temp. Edw. I. 1296. He had two sons, John and William, and a daughter, Sibyl, married to William, son of Alured de Sulney. John Bagot, son and heir, Dominus de Bromley Bagot, 17 Edw. I. by his wife Lucia, had issue Sir John, who took to wife Eglima, daughter and co-heir of Sir Anchitel Malory, of Kirkby Malory, in Leicestershire, Knt. He had issue Sir Ralph Bagot, Knt. who married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Richard de Blithfeld, Lord of Blithfeld and Luttelhay, whereby he became possessed of those estates, and had issue Sir John Bagot, Knt. one of the Privy-council to King Henry IV. and Lieutenant of Calais.

About this time lived Sir William Bagot, Knight, a very considerable person, of whom Sir William Dugdale, in his Antiquities of Warwickshire, treating of Bagington, says, 'Sir William Bagot, a branch of the ancient family of the Bagots, of Staffordshire, in 6 Ric. II. wrote himself of this place; and, the next year following, was constituted Sheriff of these counties. In 11 of that King's reign, he served in the Parliament liament held at Westminster, as one of the Knights for this shire, and in 12 in the Parliament held at Cambridge. So also in 14 again, at Westminster, in which year he was likewise in commission for conservation of the peace in this county; and the next year following, a commissioner of Array. In the several Parliaments, viz. of Winchester in 16 R. II. of Westminster, 17, 18, and 20 R. II. he served again as one of the Knights for this shire; and in that notable Parliament of 21 R. II. In 4 Hen. IV. he served in the Parliament at Westminster, as one of the Knights for this shire. But after this he lived not long; for on the 6th of September, 1407, (8 Hen. IV.) he departed this world, as may seem by that part of his monumental inscription here at Baginton, where he lies interred with Margaret, his wife, the sister and heir of Robert de Whatton, of Nottinghamshire; leaving issue, Isabel, his only daughter, married to Tho. Stafford, of Pipe, in Staffordshire.

But to return: Sir John Bagot, Knt. Lieutenant of Calais, before mentioned, who married Beatrix, daughter of Sir John Villers, Knt. and dying 1437, was buried at the St. Augustine Fryers, in Stafford, near Ford-bridge. He left issue one son, Richard; and three daughters; Margery, married to Henry Bradburne; Joan, to John Curson, of Kedleston, in Derbyshire; and Elizabeth, to — Kniveton, of Bradley, Esqrs; Richard, the only son, married Isabella, daughter of Sir Robert Aston, Knt. (son and heir of Sir Roger Aston, Knt.) by whom he had only one son, John Bagot, Esq; who died Jan. 24, 1480. He married, first, Isabel, daughter of John Curson, of Essex, Esq; relict of Richard Eaton, Esq; by whom he had one son, Lewis; and three daughters; Anne, married to Robert Knyveton; Maud, to Richard Arblaster, of Longden; and Elizabeth, to William Dunham, Esqrs. This Isabel, by her first husband, John Eaton, Esq; had a daughter Isabel, married to Sir Robert Tyrrell, Knt. as appears by a deed, recited in the Bagots pedigree. This John Bagot, Esq; married, secondly, Agnes, daughter of — Kniveton, Esq; by whom he had only one daughter, Eleanor, married to Robert Cawarden, Esq;

Sir Lewis Bagot, Knt. the only son, was of the Body to King Hen. VII. He married, first, Emme, daughter of — Kniveton, Esq; by whom he had a son, John, who married Eleanor, daughter of Sir Thomas Butler, of Beaufy, in Lancashire, Knt. but died with issue, 1512, in the life-time of his father; and four daughters; Jane, married to James Thirkeld, of Callengwood; Eleanor, to Thomas Mevel, of Boldehall; hall; Elizabeth to — East, of Yardly; and Anne, to John Bedell, Esqrs.

Thomas, his son and heir, married Joan, daughter of Richard Astley, of Patishull, in Staffordshire, Esq; by whom he had a daughter, Margaret, married to Ralph Adderley, Esq; and one son, Richard. He died May 13, 1541.

Hervey, the eldest surviving son, and heir, was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, 3 Car. I. He was a strenuous assertor of the rights of his Sovereign, and was fined upwards of 1000l. for his loyalty to his Prince. He married two wives; 1. Catharine, daughter of Humphry Adderley, of Weddington, in Warwickshire, Esq; she died Feb. 16, 1622; 2. Created BARONET, July 23, 1627, Whose grandson and heir, Sir James Bowyer, Bart. by another patent, dated May 18, 1678, got the honour intailed, after his decease, upon Henry Goring, of Highden, in the same county, Esq; with precedence according to his grandfather's patent, and was accordingly succeeded therein by the said Henry.

THE family of Goring is of good note and antiquity in this county, being surnamed from Goring, in the rape of Arundel; of which was, John Goring, of Burton, who married Margaret, daughter and coheir of Sir Ralph Radmill, of Radmill, in Suffex. Their great grandson, Sir William Goring, Knt. was one of the Gentlemen of the Privy-Chamber to Edw. VI. and married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of John Covert, of Slaugham, in Suffex, Esq; and had issue two sons, Sir Henry, and George, of Hurst-Pierpoint, in Suffex, whose son, George, was (by Anne, sister to Edward Denny, Earl of Norwich,) father of George Goring, Esq; who was created Baron Goring, of Hurst-Pierpoint, 14 Car. I. and the 20th of that reign, Earl of Norwich, who was General of Horse to King Charles I.

Sir Henry, the eldest son, married Dorothy, daughter and coheir of William Everard, of Suffex, Esq; and had Sir William Goring, of Burton, Knt. (ancestor to Sir William Goring, of Burton, who was created a Baronet by King James I. May 14, 1622, which title became extinct, on the death of the late Sir William, 1725,) and Edward, from whom those of Highden, that we are now to treat of, are descended; which Edward, by Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of — Wiseman, of Essex, Esq; was father of Henry Goring, of Highden, Esq; who married Mary, daughter of Sir Thomas Eversfield, of Denn, in Suffex, Knt. whose son, Sir Henry, on the decease of Sir James Bowyer, Bart. succeeded him in his honour, as before mentioned; and having married Diana, daughter of Sir Edward Bishopp, of Parham, Bart. (by Mary, his wife, fourth daughter to Nicholas Tufton, Earl of Thanet,) had issue two sons; 1. Capt. Henry Goring; 2. — Goring, Doctor of Laws, who married a daughter of — Bridger, of Oakham, near Lewes, in Suffex, Esq; and died issueless.

Captain Henry Goring, died in his father's life-time. He had two wives; first, —, by whom he had Sir Charles, the succeeding Baronet; and by his second wife, the daughter of Sir John Covert, of Slaugham, in Suffex, Bart. he had Sir Harry, hereafter mentioned.

Sir Charles Goring, successor to his grandfather, married a daughter of — Bridger, of Oakham, near Lewes, in Suffex, Esq; and dying without issue, was succeeded by his half-brother,

Sir Harry Goring, Bart. who served in several Parliaments in the reign of Queen Anne, for Steyning, in Suffex, and married one of the daughters and coheirs of Sir George Matthews, of Southwark, Knt. and had issue nine sons, and two daughters; of which, Frances, married Dr. Ballard, Rector of Langford Magna, in Wilts. Sir Harry, died November, 1731, at Horsham, in Suffex, and was succeeded in dignity and estate, by his eldest son,

Sir Charles-Matthews Goring, the present Baronet, who married, July, 1731, Mary, youngest daughter of William Blackburne, of High Ongar, in Essex, Esq; (High Sheriff of that county, 1 George I.) by whom he had one son, Harry, who married, September 9, 1767, to Miss Anne Foster; and two daughters, one of them married to Colvill Bridger, Esq. His second Lady is Elizabeth, daughter of — Tagg, Esq.

ARMS. Argent, a Chevron, between three Annulets, Gules.

CREST. On a Wreath, a Lion rampant, guardant.

SEAT. At Highden, in Suffex.

67. STONHOUSE, of Radley, Berkshire.

Created BARONET, May 7, 1628.

WHETHER this family took their surname from Stonhouse, in Gloucestershire, which was the habitation of the Mildmays, (temp. Rich. II.) is a point not easy to be determined. But they were gentilitial in Surry, near a century before Henry Stonhouse was returned for Guildford, (temp. Edw. II.) to the Parliament held at Rippon, in Yorkshire.

Robert Stonhouse, of Barsted, in Kent, married Rose, daughter of — Royden, of Essex, and had issue, George Stonhouse, of Little Peckham, in Kent, Esq; who was one of the Clerks of the Green-Cloth to Queen Elizabeth, and purchased the estate at Radley, in Berks. He died 1575, having had two wives, 1. Elizabeth, daughter of Nicholas Gibson, of Kent, Esq; 2. Elizabeth, daughter to Davy Woodcroft, Alderman of London, relict of Walter Lawfon, Esq. By this last he left a daughter, Dionysia, married to Sir Edward Hexto, in Somersetshire, Knt. and four sons, William, Nicholas, Walter, and James, who was of Amerden-Hall, and created a Baronet; but his male issue failing, that title became extinct.

William, the eldest, was created a Baronet, 4 Charles I. He married Elizabeth, sole daughter and heir of John Powell, of Wales, Esq; and had by her several children, whereof four died infants; but three sons, Sir John, Sir George, and William, of Cockthorp, in Oxfordshire, (who married, and had issue,) as also five daughters, survived him; of which, Elizabeth, married Edward Perrot, of Hinky, in Berks, Esq; Mary, to William Langton, D. D. Urfula, to John Denton, of North Aston, in Oxfordshire; Anne, to George Windfor, of Bentley, in Hants, Esqrs. and Dionysia, to Sir Cornelius Fairmeadow, Knt. Sir William died Feb. 5, 1631, aged seventy-six, and lies buried in Radley Church, in Berkshire, where, against the south wall of the chancel, is a very fair arched monument raised, whereon lies the portraiture of Sir William Stonhouse, in armour, with his Lady, in the same posture near him. At the head of the monument is the figure of a man in armour, and on the sides are sons in long mourning cloaks; four young children in their swaddling clothes, and five daughters.

Sir John, the eldest son, succeeded to the title and estate, having been knighted, August, 1629, but died unmarried in about four months after the death of his father, viz. June 14, 1632, aged thirty-one.

Sir George, his next brother, succeeded him in title and estate. He was fined for his loyalty to King Charles I. and paid 1460 l. composition for his estate to the Sequestrators. He married Margaret, daughter of Richard, Lord Lovelace, and by her was father of three sons, Sir George, Sir John, and James; also of one daughter, Elizabeth, married, first, to Sir Richard Stidolf, of Norbury, in Surry, Bart. and afterwards to the Lord Byron.

This Sir George surrendered his father's patent of creation, and had a new one granted him, dated May 5, 22 Char. II. 1670, of the title to himself for life, with remainder to his second son, John, and his heirs male; and, in default thereof, to James, his third son, and his heirs male, with precedence, according to the former patent, intending to exclude thereby his first son.

Sir George, his eldest son, however, claimed and enjoyed the title, according to the first patent, and marrying Mrs. Anne Scarlett, of an ancient family, but no fortune, had issue two daughters, Susanna, and Anne, and one son,

Sir George Stonhouse, Bart. his successor, who married Anne, daughter of James Ashton, Esq; of an ancient family in Lancashire, by whom he had sixteen children: Whereof George, the eldest, lived to be a Captain of Foot; but all that survived him, were only one son, Sir John, and a daughter, Margaret.

Sir George, died in Fetter-Lane, London, Feb. 24, 1736-7, and was succeeded in the title, by his only son, Sir John Stonhouse, Bart. who died unmarried, July, 1740, whereupon this title became extinct.

Sir John, the second son of Sir George, (the eldest Sir George, above named, being disinherited,) succeeded him in the estate, and title, granted by the latter patent: He married Martha, daughter and sole heir of Robert Brigges, of Derbyshire, Esq; brother of Sir Humphry Brigges, of Haughton, in Salop, Bart. and relict of Richard Spencer, of London, Turkey Merchant; and was succeeded by his son,

Sir John Stonhouse, of Radley, Bart. who served as Knight of the Shire in several Parliaments for the county of Berks, and married, first, Mary, daughter and sole heir of Henry Mellish, of Sandersteed, in Surry, Esq; by whom he had two daughters, Martha, (married to Arthur Vansittart, of Shottesbrooke, in Berks, Esq;) and Mary. His second Lady was, Penelope, daughter of Sir Robert Dashwood, of Northbrooke, in Oxfordshire, Bart. by whom he had nine children; Penelope, married, first, to Sir Henry Atkins, of Clapham, in Surry, Bart. and, surviving him, afterwards married the Right Hon. the Lord Gower, and died at Trentham, in Staffordshire, August, 1734; Catharine, married May 29, 1745, to the Hon. Robert Lee, uncle to the present Earl of Litchfield. By this marriage she had a daughter, which died died soon after it was born ; Anne, married Sir William Bowyer, of Denham, in Bucks, Bart. Sir John, his successor ; Margaret, who died June 30, 1746 ; William ; Dionysia, married July 11, 1751, the Rev. Mr. Benet, but has no issue ; James, the present Baronet ; and Susanna, married in 1744, to Peter Serle, Esq; of Testwood, near Southampton, who has had several children, all of which died young, except a daughter, now married to Sir William Oglander, of Nunwell, in the Isle of Wight. This last daughter of Sir John's is since dead.

Sir John, died Oct. 10, 1733, and was succeeded in dignity and estate by his eldest son,

Sir James Stonhouse, the present Baronet.

68. WREY, of Trebitch, Cornwall.

Created BARONET, June 30, 1628.

FROM an old pedigree of this family, I find Robert le Wrey living the second of King Stephen, A. D. 1136, and by the prefixed adjunct, they seem to take their name from some office. Others denominate them from their habitation and possession, of Wrey, in Devonshire.

This Robert, married Sibyl, daughter to Ralph Abbot, and had issue William le Wrey, of Wrey, who by his wife Alice, daughter to John Kelley, of Brodewood, was father to Elias, and he, to another of the same name.

Which last Elias, or Elye, married Joane, daughter and heir of Nicholas Holwaye, and left issue Richard, who had to wife Joane, sister and heir of John Norris, and was father to Stephen le Wrey, father of Thomas le Wrey.

About which time, or not long before, was Roger Wrey, who held a fourth part of a Knight's fee in Wyke Chalveligh, in Devonshire, of the Barony of Okehampton, in 19 Edward III. which Walter le Wrey formerly held.

Thomas Wrey, aforementioned, married Elizabeth, daughter to Robert Yeo, and had issue John and Walter, and Alice, married to John Glanville ; John, by his wife, Constance, the daughter ter of — Hatch, left issue only a daughter, Constance, wife of William Shylston, so that Walter, his brother, was next heir.

Which Walter, married Constance, daughter to John Shylston, and left issue William Wrey, of North Russel, who had issue Walter, and Thomas.

Walter, had issue Robert Wrey, of North Russel, and his sons were, Walter, Thomas, and William, whereof Walter succeeded his father at North Russel; and having married Bridget, daughter to Robert Shylston, had issue a daughter, Jane, married first to John Wikes, of Cocktree; secondly, to Thomas Welcote; and thirdly, to Robert Fry; also a son, John Wrey, Esq;

Which John, married Blanch, daughter and heir to Henry Killigrew, of Wolfston, in Cornwall, Esq; by whom he had large possessions, and the Lordship of Trebitch, in the parish of St. Ives, in that county, which became thenceforward their capital mansion. He was High Sheriff of the county of Cornwall, anno 28 Eliz. and had issue two daughters, Philippa and Jane, wife of Peter Coryton, Esq; and six sons; first, John, who married Eleanor, daughter and heir of Bernard Smith, of Totness, Esq; relict of Sir John Fulford, of Fulford, in Devon, Knt. and died without issue; 2. William; 3. Edward, (who married Jane, daughter to Price ap Howel;) 4. Arthur, (who married Joyce, daughter and heir to Tristram Harris, of Hayne;) also Robert and George, who died without issue.

William, the eldest son, succeeded his father at Trebitch, and was High Sheriff of Cornwall, 41 Elizabeth. Mr. Carew, in his Survey of that county, characterizes him as a man of hospitality, and a general welcomer of his friends and neighbours. He was honoured with Knighthood at Whitehall, 27 July, A. D. 1603, before the Coronation of King James I. and died in June, A. D. 1636, leaving issue by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter to Sir William Courtenay, of Powderam, in Devon, Knt. a son of his own name, aged twenty years, A. D. 1620.

Which William, about the twenty-second year of King James I. married Elizabeth, daughter to Sir Edward Chichester, (then of Eggesford, in Devon, Knt.) Earl of Donnegall, in the kingdom of Ireland; and having received the honour of Knighthood, was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet in the fourth year of King Charles I. He died in August, 1645, having had issue three daughters; one, married to — Bluet, Esq; the second, married to — Erisey, in Cornwall; and another, wife of — Nichols, Esqrs.

His only son and heir, Sir Chichester Wrey, of Trebitch, Bart. was born 1628; he faithfully adhered to his Majesty King Charles I. in the time of his troubles, and took up arms in his cause, wherein he behaved himself with much bravery. About the year 1652, he married Anne, Countess Dowager of Middlesex, relict of James, Earl of Middlesex, third daughter and coheir of Edward Bouchier, Earl of Bath, by whom he became possessed of a great estate in the county of Devon, and the noble seat of Tawstock, where the family now resides. After the Restoration of the Royal Family, he was made Colonel of the Duke of York's regiment, and Governor of Sheerness, and served in Parliament for Lestwithiel, in Cornwall, 13 Car. II. and departed this life in May, 1668, having issue a daughter, Anne, wife to Sir Francis Northcote, of Nimpton, in Devon, Bart. and four sons; 1. Sir Bouchier; 2. Chichester, a Colonel in her Majesty's armies, who was killed in the defence of Fort Montjouic, near Barcelona, 1706; 3. Edward; 4. John, who was killed before Tangier, at nineteen years of age.

Sir Bouchier Wrey, the eldest son, succeeded his father in title and estate; he was created one of the Knights of the Bath, at the Coronation of King Charles II. and soon after was a Captain in the Duke of York's regiment, of which his father was Colonel. He served under the Duke of Monmouth at the siege of Maastricht, and other places in the Netherlands. After the late Revolution he commanded a regiment of horse; and in 1690 was with that regiment in Torbay, where he was very instrumental in preventing the landing of the French, who then appeared with their fleet on the western coasts. He served as Member of Parliament for Lescard, in Cornwall, all the latter end of his life, and died July 28, 1696, leaving issue, by Florence, his Lady, daughter to Sir John Rolle, of Stevenstone, in Devon, Knight of the Bath, a daughter Florence, wife to John Cole, Esq; son of Sir Michael Cole, of Inniskillin, in the county of Fermanagh, in the kingdom of Ireland; also two sons, Sir Bouchier, and Chichester, Rector of Tawstock.

Sir Bouchier Wrey, of Tawstock, in Devon, Bart. successor to the title and estate, represented the borough of Camelford, in Cornwall, in Parliament, 10 and 12 Queen Anne, took to wife Diana, daughter to John Rolle, of Stevenstone, Esq; (eldest son of the said Sir John Rolle,) by the Lady Christian, daughter of the late Earl of Aylesbury, sister to the late John Rolle, of Stevenstone, Esq; (and widow and relict of John Sparkes, of the Fryery, in Plymouth, Esq;) Sir Bouchier, died 1726, and left issue Sir Bouchier, his successor, John, Chichester, and Charles, (since dead,) also Diana, married to John Stafford, of Roborough, in Devon, Esq; Florence to Edward Pans, Esq; Collector of the Customs at Biddeford, in Devonshire; Christian and Catharine. He was succeeded in dignity and estate, by

Sir Bouchier Wrey, the present Baronet, who has been twice married, first, in 1749, to Mary, daughter of John Edwards, wards, of Highgate, Esq. She died August 23, 1751, aged twenty-seven; on which occasion, an elegant copy of Latin verses was composed, not designed as a monumental inscription, but to preserve to posterity the character of so excellent a Lady. Sir Bouchier married, secondly, May 1, 1755, a daughter of — Thresher, Esq. In 1748, Sir Bouchier was elected Representative to the ensuing Parliament, for Barnstaple, in the county of Devon, and in 1759, was appointed Colonel of the Devonshire Militia.

69. TRELAWNEY, of Trelawney, Cornwall.

Trelawny, Trelany, Trelone, Trilone, and, as in Domesday-Book, Treloen, a Lordship situate in Althernon, in the county of Cornwall, gave denomination to this ancient family that flourished in the said county before the Conquest; Eduni held the same in the time of King Edward the Confessor. Hamelin his son, (as it is presumed,) was likewise the possessor after the Norman invasion, by a tenure from the Earl of Mortain, as found in that great assessment made in the reign of King William I. at which time it was rated at two carves and half, two servants, and ten acres of wood, with ten of pasture, &c.

A descendant from Hamelin was Richard de Trelony, who by deed without date, gave to Pagan, son of Cleke, half an acre of land in Caron, parcel of the Manor of South Caron. He left William, his son, who was seized in his demesne as of fee of a fourth part of a Knights fee in Tregenelek. He was father of John, his son and heir, who married Joan, daughter to Reginald de Botrell; by this Joan, he left issue William, his son and heir, who married Joan, daughter of Stephen Trewynick.

nick. He left issue John de Trelony, living 9 Edw. I. who married Lucy, daughter to Sir Richard Serjeaux, Knt. and had issue a daughter Mary, married to Sir John Moeles, Knt. by whom descended Courtenay, and Peverell; and William, his son and heir.

The said William de Trelawny, was one of the Burgeffes returned for Launceston, to serve in the Parliament at Westminster, 19 Edw. II. He married Margery, daughter to John de Rypariis, or Rivers.

Son and heir of William, was another William, who married Joan, sole sister and heir to John, and daughter to Richard Doyngnell, and left issue John, his son and heir.

Which John, upon his father's death, became possessed of the ancient patrimony, and had the honour of Knighthood. He was living 8 Hen. IV. at which time a fine was levied by him and his wife Matild, daughter to Robert Mynwenyke. He and his Lady were both living 19 Rich. II. (About this time, viz. 12 Hen. IV. one Richard Trelenay, was one of the Members to serve in Parliament for Launceston.) He had issue a son of his own name.

Which John, received the honour of Knighthood, and was one of the Knights of the Shire for Cornwall. He was in the sixth year one of the Coroners of that county, and being in the King's service in Normandy, and thereby not able to attend that place, a writ issued for electing another. This office of Coroner was formerly conferred only upon the wisest Knights of the county, who could attend thereon, (Stat. Westm. c. x.) and it appears from the register of writs, that if the person chosen to this office was not a Knight, and had not 100 solid. of rent of freehold; he was to be removed.

In the 4th of Hen. VI. he, (with Sir William Cheyne, and others,) was Commissioner of Oyer and Terminer, and he attests a deed dated 29 July, enrolled in the Tower. He so eminently signalized himself in the wars of France, that King Henry V. on the 27th of September, in his seventh year, at Gisors, in Normandy, (as a just recompence of his signal services,) granted him twenty pounds yearly for his life. And his successor, King Henry VI. was pleased to confirm it to him again in the first year of his reign, and granted him, (as it is said,) in augmentation to his arms, the coat of the three oaken or laurel leaves, the symbols of conquest. Certain it is, that he was the first of this family who bore that addition. Under the picture of the former of these Kings, which stood formerly over the great gate at Launceston, was this obsolete rhyme:

He that will doe ought for mee,
Let hym love well Sir John Tirlawnee.

He was living 12 Henry VI. as appears by an indenture made by Robert Whyttingham (Receiver-General of the Duchy of Cornwall) and John Lower, of the profits of the said county, wherein mention is made of the payment to the said Sir John, of the annuity aforesaid for Michaelmas term that year. He married Agnes, daughter to Robert Trogodeck.

This Sir John is often named, as residing at Tresferret, and had issue Joan, wife of Thomas Upton, of Treloish, and Isabel, married to Stephen Trenewith, to whom, and the heirs of their body, he gave lands in Trenthill, &c. and two sons, Sir Richard, and John. Sir Richard, in the life-time of his father, was one of the Burgeffes for Liskeard, in the Parliament 9 Hen. V. and on July 1, 2 Hen. VI. Sir John, the father, settles several lands in trustees, for the use of himself for life, then of Richard, his son, the remainder to John, his second son, &c.

This Richard died without issue male, 27 Henry VI. leaving by one Agnes Henwood, two daughters, from one of which descended Arundel, of Talferne, by the match of Penpons; from the other daughter, are descended, as heirs-general, Wrey, and Smith, of St. Germain's; who by virtue of a settlement, and an award after a long suit, had divers of the ancient manors belonging to the family.

John Trelawny, Esq; was Burgefs for Truro, in the Parliament held Feb. 12, 27 Henry VI. He married Joan, daughter and heir to Nicholas Helligan, and had a son, John.

This John, by the name of John Trelawny, of Tresferrett, had a general pardon granted him. In September, 1 Edw. IV. he was Sheriff; and in 14 Edw. IV. had a quietus for collecting the tenths and fifteenths in Cornwall, granted by Parliament.

Thomas, Earl of Devon, in consideration of the annuity of ten marks yearly, granted him by this John Trelawny, covenants to be a firm and sure Lord to him in all things which appertain to his lands, as far as the law shall permit, 33 Hen. VI.

This person is often stiled John Trelawny, of Brightorre, and sometimes of Wolston, in St. Ives parish.

John, the son, was a Knight, temp. Hen. VII. and augmented his patrimony by a double marriage; his first wife was Blurch, (in the deeds often named Candida,) daughter and coheir to John Powna, of Powna, the heir general of Noddetone, and Crooke, heir of Paderda, Pyncerna, and Devyoch. They were married in or before the 29th of Henry VI. as is manifest from a feoffment dated that year by the said Powna. His second wife was Jane, daughter and coheir to Robert Holland, (widow of John Kendall,) by whom he had issue a daughter, Jane, married to John Wideslade.

306 TRELAWNEY, of Trelawney.

By his first Lady he had issue a daughter, married to Thomas Flammock, son and heir of Thomas Flammock, of Bocara, in 4 Hen. VII. who in that year settled on her his land in Heligan; and five sons; 1. John Trelawny, his eldest son; 2. another John Trelawny, of St. Germain's, (who married first, Joan, daughter and coheir of Thomas Clemens, of Liskeard; and surviving her without any issue, he married, secondly, Margaret, daughter to Richard Buckton, of Buckton, whose posterity now remain at Coldrinnick, seized of a considerable estate;) 3. Roger Trelawny, of Brightorre, (whose daughter and heir was married to Hawkins;) 4. Richard Trelawny, of Launceston, (who had issue;) and 5. Thomas, who died unmarried.

John, the eldest son and heir, succeeded his father, Sir John, in the bulk of his estate. He was, with others, commissioned by King Henry VII. to hear the controversies between the Prior of Bodmyn, and others; and having had in marriage, Florence, fourth daughter to Sir Hugh Courtenay, of Boconnock, (and sister to Edward, Earl of Devon, upon the extinction of which line, she, with her sisters, became coheirs of that noble family,) by her had three sons; 1. Walter; 2. Alneth, (to whom Catharine, Countess of Devon, granted the Bailiwick of Exintond, and the West-gate of the city of Exeter for his life, 3 Hen. VIII.) He died at Tournay, 1515; and 3. Edward; the two latter died without issue.

Walter, the eldest son, succeeded to the inheritance, and had a grant of the Constableship and Bailiwick of the Honour and Hundred of Plympton, during his life, by patent dated Nov. 10, 1 Henry VIII. to whom, and Catharine, Countess of Devon, daughter to King Edward IV. he wrote several letters, now remaining.

By Isabel, his wife, daughter to John Towse, of Taunton, in Somersetshire, by Jane his wife, (afterwards married to Sir Thomas Grenville,) who entered into covenants with John Trelawny, father of this Walter, upon this marriage, 20 Hen. VII. He had issue two sons, John, and Richard, which latter died without issue. This Lady survived her husband, who died before 1518, as appears by letters full of kind expressions sent to her from Henry Courtenay, Marquis of Exeter.

John, the eldest son, succeeded to the inheritance; and was Burgefs in Parliament for Liskeard, in 6 Edw. VI. and had two wives; 1. Margery, daughter and heir of Thomas Lamelion, of Lamelion, and by her he had issue John, his son and heir. His second wife was Lora, daughter and heir to Henry Treccarrel, who survived her husband. By her he had issue another John, who married Beatrice, daughter to Hugh Treva-nion. He was found to be one of the heirs to the Earl of Devon,

TRELAWNEY, of Trelawney. 307

Devon, in the 4th and 5th Phil. & Mar. and his will bears date 5 Eliz.

John, his eldest son, by the first wife, succeeded, being sometime denominated of Pool. He was two years and six months old in the 28th of Hen. VIII. at the death of his mother's father, Thomas Lamelion, Esq; to whom he is found, by an inquisition then taken, to be heir, as son of John Trelawney, by Margery, his wife, daughter and heir of the said Thomas. Anno 1 Eliz. he was Burgefs for Lestwithiel, and was Deputy Lieutenant of Cornwall, under the Earl of Bedford, and then paid 6l. for not taking the Order of Knighthood; 2 Eliz. he was High Sheriff of Cornwall; and in the 5th year one of the Knights of the Shire for that county.

In the 9th of the said Queen's reign, he was again High Sheriff of Cornwall. He married Anne, the fifth daughter and coheir of William Reskymer, Esq; by whom he had a daughter, Mary, wife, first, of John Spring, Esq; son of Sir William, of Lavenham, in Suffolk, Knt. and afterwards of Sir Robert Gardiner, Knt. and two sons, John and Jonathan. He departed this life A. D. 1568, having made his will 10 Eliz. wherein he proposes an establishment of his inheritance on his name and family; leaving John, his eldest son, heir to his estate, who died an infant soon after, viz. 1570, whereupon Jonathan, his brother, was the next heir, who was born at Foy, 17th Dec. 1568, being eight weeks after the death of his father. His Lady survived him, and was re-married to Sir William Mohun.

This Jonathan was Member of Parliament for the borough of Liskeard, in 28, 31, and 35 Eliz. of which he was chosen Recorder 39 Eliz. and anno 35 Eliz. had a quietus for collecting the Queen's subsidies in Cornwall; 37 Eliz. he was Sheriff of that county; and Knight of the Shire of Cornwall, in 39 Eliz. and chosen Steward of the borough of Westlow, 1600.

He was knighted A. D. 1597, being again chosen Knight of the Shire in the first of James I. in which year he made his will, and died during the session, on the 21st of June, 1604. He was a person of great honour and interest, a Knight well spoken, staid in his carriage, and of thrifty providence. The House of Commons, to shew their respect to him, attended his funeral at St. Clement's Danes, where he was interred, as appears by what follows from their Journal:

‘ Die Ven. 22 June, 1604.

‘ It was informed, that Sir Jonathan Trelawney, one of the ‘ Knights of the Shire for Cornwall, died yesterday, being sud‘ denly suffocated with a flux of blood, which came by breaking
 ‘ a vein with vehement coughing, and was said to be found sick

308 TRELAWNEY, of Trelawney.

‘and dead in a quarter of an hour ; and thereupon moved by ‘ Sir John Hollis, that the Members of the House do attend his ‘ burial to-morrow in the afternoon ; which was so ordered.’

‘ He married Elizabeth, second daughter to Sir Henry Killigrew, Knight, and had issue three daughters, Elizabeth, born 1590; Anne, 1600 ; and Cordelia ; and two sons, John, and Edward, born 1595.

John Trelawney, Esq; the eldest son, was born at Hall, by Fowey, 27 April, 1592, and created Baronet by his Majesty King Charles I. He was High Sheriff of Cornwall, 6 Charles I. and married Elizabeth, daughter to Sir Reginald Mohun, of Boconnock, in Cornwall, Baronet, by whom he had five sons, and eight daughters ; 1. Sir Jonathan, his successor, of whom hereafter ; 2. John ; 3. Edward, who both died unmarried ; 4. ‘ Sir Jonathan Trelawney, Bart. eldest son, who succeeded to the title and estate, married Mary, daughter of Sir Edward Seymour, Bart. (eldest sister to his brother Francis’s wife,) by whom he had seven sons, 1. John, who died in his father’s life-time, having married Catharine, third daughter and coheir of James Jenkyn, Esq; by whom he had no issue ; 2. Jonathan, who died an infant ; 3. Sir Jonathan, of whom hereafter ; 4. Major General Charles Trelawney, who represented the town of Plymouth, in several Parliaments, in the reign of Queen Anne, who married, first, —, and secondly, Anne, daughter and coheir of Richard Lower, of London, M. D. He died Sept. 1731, aged 78, and was buried on Friday, the 8th of October, at Plynt, in Cornwall, of whom we find this character :

‘ A Gentleman of an ancient and honourable family, which ‘ he also ennobled by his virtues. His first appearance in the ‘ field was about the year 1672, under the famous Turenne, a ‘ Marshal of France ; and his gallantry and experience in military affairs spoke him worthy of so great a master. His ‘ public actions in several instances redound to his honour, but ‘ are not so particularly and perfectly known, as a public relation of them may require ; those who served with him can ‘ give the justest eulogium ; his modesty was too delicate to recite his actions. He was so far from courting the applause which was due to his behaviour, that he very rarely made mention of the one, lest it should demand the other. He served in the troops which King Charles II. sent to the assistance of France, when they and their country gained the greatest reputation, by covering the retreat of the French, and repulsing the Germans; an action of that signal service, that it merited the publick thanks of the King of France. This may be said to his and the nation's honour, that the armies of France have been protected as well as conquered by the English. Nor did he shine less in his private than in his active life: the reputation he acquired in publick services he adorned with affability, tenderness, and charity to all about him: the bravery of the soldier was tempered with the politeness of the most accomplished gentleman. In short, so generous and noble a spirit attended his whole course of life, and so much patience and resignation his last most painful and lingering illness, that he appeared in both equally the hero, and died great as he had lived. He was very instrumental in bringing about the late Revolution; though he was sorry that his country required it: he loved his King, but his country more: interest would have inclined him to support the King and absolute power; his honour, and the love of his country commanded his service for the constitution, the laws, and liberty: he served then with reluctance as against the King, but he could not serve the King when against his country. In the great and famous battle of the Boyne, he shared the glories of the field; and in confidence of his bravery and honour, the important city of Dublin was recommended to his care; an eminent sign of the high esteem he merited, when the metropolis of Ireland was thought safest under his government. As his arms were serviceable against the enemies of his Majesty, so was his administration in protecting his subjects: he preserved the city from the violence of the soldiers, and generously despised the advantages of safeguards and contributions: when he left it, the sad effects of both broke in upon it. As he maintained his post with honour, so he retired out of a point of honour; but his retirement was distinguished by particular marks of royal favour; King William sent a commission, appointing him Governor of Plymouth. How his great qualities endeared him to the inhabitants of that place, their universal esteem and publick acknowledgments of his merits abundantly testify. — William Trelawney, the fifth son of Sir Jonathan, died unmarried. 6. Chichester, unmarried, 1694. 7. Henry, Colonel of a regiment in the service of King William, who married

310 TRELAWNEY, of Trelawney.

Rebecca, daughter and coheir of Matthew Hals, of Efford, in Devonshire, Esq; by Rebecca, his wife, daughter and coheir of Charles Specott, of Thornbury, in Devonshire, Esq; by whom he had several children, one of which was Sir Harry, who succeeded to the title on the death of Sir John, without issue. What daughters Sir Jonathan had, I do not find; but in Wincester cathedral is an inscription, as I take it, for one of them, who is there called Madam Mary Davies, daughter of Sir Jonathan Trelawney, of Trelawney, in the county of Cornwall.

Sir Jonathan Trelawney, Bart. eldest surviving son, and successor to his father, in title and estate, was educated at Westminster-school, entered into Christ Church Coll. Oxon. in Mich. term 1668, aged eighteen years, and in the year following was made Student thereof. Afterwards he took the Degrees in Arts, Holy Orders, and had one or two Benefices in his own country conferred on him by his relations. In 1680, his eldest brother died, and thereupon, though the title of Baronet, and the paternal estate of his family was to come to him after the death of his father, yet he stuck to his Holy Orders, continued in his function, and, upon the translation of Dr. Lake to the see of Chichester, was nominated, by his Majesty King James II. to succeed him in Bristol; whereupon (after he had been diplomated Doctor in Divinity) being consecrated thereunto in the Archbishop's Palace at Lambeth, Nov. 8, 1685, he was introduced into the House of Lords with Bishop Ken, the 11th of the same month; on June 8, 1688, he was one of the six Bishops, besides the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Sancroft, that was committed to the Tower of London, for subscribing a Petition to his Majesty, wherein he, and the rest of the said Bishops, showed the great averfedness that they found in themselves to the distributing and publishing in all their churches, his Majesty's late Declaration for liberty of conscience, &c. where continuing till they were publicly tried in Westminster Hall for a Libel, and acquitted, were, to the great joy of the true sons of the Church of England, released thence on the 15th of the same month. On the 13th of April, 1689, he was by his Majesty, King William III. as a reward for his services, translated to the see of Exeter, in the room of Dr. Lamplugh, translated to the Archbishoprick of York; and from thence, in 1707, was, by her Majesty Queen Anne, translated to the see of Winchester, in the room of Bishop Mew, deceased; and dying July 19, 1721, was buried at Plint, or Plenint, in Cornwall, with his ancestors. He married Rebecca, daughter and coheir of Thomas Hele, of Bascomb, in Devonshire, Esq; (by Elizabeth his wife, daughter and coheir of Matthew Hals, of Efford, in Devonshire, and Rebecca, his wife, daughter and coheir of Charles Specott, of Thornbury, in the same county, Esqrs.) by whom he left, 1. Sir John, his successor; 2. Edward, who, in the last Parliament of King George I. was elected Member of Parliament for Westflow, in Cornwall, and appointed one of the Commissioners of the Victualling-Office, and in the first Parliament of King George I. he was chosen again for the same place; and in the second Parliament, which met June, 1734, he was chosen for two places, viz. Eastflow and Westflow, in Cornwall; but his seat was vacated, being then one of the Commissioners of his Majesty's Customs; and afterwards Governor of Jamaica. He married, in 1737, Mrs. Crawford, daughter of John Crawford, Esq; but died without issue. 3. Hele Trelawney, D. D. Rector of the parishes of South-hill, and Lanreath, in Cornwall, and one of the Proctors for the Clergy of the diocese of Exeter, who died without issue, June, 1740, leaving behind him a most amiable character both in publick and private life, a zealous advocate for the Christian religion, and one who humbly followed the doctrines of it in his life and conversation; of great innocence and simplicity of manners, and courteous meekness of behaviour, who lived beloved, and died lamented, leaving an example worthy of imitation. 4. Charlotte, died unmarried; 5. Mary, married to — Allison, Esq; 6. Rebecca, married to John Bullen, of Morval, Esq; 7. Letitia, married to her first cousin, Harry Trelawney, Esq; afterwards Sir Harry; 8. Anne, who died unmarried.

Sir John Trelawney, eldest son of the Bishop, succeeded his father in title and estate. He was elected a Representative in Parliament for the borough of Lescard, in Cornwall, in the first Parliament of K. George I. and for Westflow, in the second; and in the first Parliament of his late Majesty, was elected again for the same place. Sir John lived a very retired life, and married Miss Blackwood, of Scotland, who is still living in Edinburgh. Sir John, who died about the year 1755, left no issue, and his younger brother being dead before him, without issue, the title and estate descended to his first cousin,

Sir Harry Trelawney, Bart. who was married, as before mentioned, to Letitia, fifth daughter of the Bishop; by whom he had two daughters; Letitia, married to her first cousin, Sir William Trelawney, the present Baronet; and Anne, yet unmarried. Sir Harry had a brother, William, a Captain in the Army, who left issue four sons; Charles, who died without issue; Sir William; Harry, a Colonel in the Guards; and Thomas, unmarried. Sir Harry, in the beginning of his life, was Aid de Camp to the Duke of Marlborough, and was in Parliament two or three Sessions; but at last retired, and lived very privately, at Betshead, in Devonshire. He was a Gentleman of exceeding good sense, and great learning, and dying in a very advanced age, in the beginning of the year 1762, he was succeeded by his nephew, Sir William Trelawney, the present Baronet, who is now Governor of Jamaica, and a Captain in the Royal Navy. Sir William has a daughter, and a son, Harry, about twelve years of age.

71. ASTON, of Aston, Cheshire.

Created BARONET, July 25, 1628.

THE town of Aston, in Cheshire, gave name to the family of the Astons, who have been seated there for a long time.

In the record of Doomſday book, we find, that Odard held this town under William Fitznigell, Baron of Halton, sub anno Christi 1086, where we find only one Aston, named; for Aston juxta Sutton, and Aston Grange, as now they be severed and distinguished, I conceive were then but one town.

About the reign of Henry the second, I find one Gilbert de Aston certainly possessed of this town of Aston juxta Sutton: in which line and family it hath continued ever since to this day.

1. Gilbert de Aston was Lord of Aston juxta Sutton, and lived in the time of King Henry II. Richard the first, and part

part of King John, at least. This I take to be clear out of ancient deeds, and he had issue Richard, son and heir. This Gilbert probably was the son of Richard de Aston, who released all his right to Robert, Abbot of Chester, in Villa de Aston, which Thomas, son of Ernald, some time held, about the reign of Henry II. This was Middleton Grange, as I take it.

2. Richard de Aston, by the name of Richard de Aston, son of Gilbert, gave unto Hugh Dutton, of Dutton, Sex Bovatas Terræ, in Aston, in the beginning of the reign of Henry III. about 1230, for then lived Geoffrey, son of Adam de Dutton, who is one of the witnesses; which lands now belong to the demain of Dutton, 1671. This Richard, had a wife Joan, by whom he had issue Richard, son and heir.

3. Richard Aston, of Aston, son and heir, had issue Richard, and Robert; which Robert had issue Richard, to whom Sir Robert Dutton, of Mere, in Staffordshire, gave a parcel of land in Radward, in the fee of Mere and Aston, in Staffordshire; to wit, that land, which the said Richard, son of Robert, formerly held: The original in the possession of Sir Willoughby Aston, of Aston, 1671.

I find also one Simon de Aston, who married Agnes, one of the daughters and coheirs of Adam Hatton, of Hatton, nigh Daresbury, in Cheshire, living 1290, which may fall out for the time to be a younger son of this Richard Aston; but I cannot certainly affirm it.

This Richard Aston, of Aston, is said to marry Maude, daughter of William, son of Herbert de Walton, and had issue Richard, son and heir, and Margery, married to William, son of Hugh de Frodsham.

4. Richard Aston, son and heir, married Rose, the fourth and youngest daughter, and afterwards coheir of Roger Throsfel, of Maxfield, in Cheshire, in the reign of King Edward I. and had issue Richard Aston, son and heir; and Hugh, Prior of Birkenhed-Abbey, in Wirral Hundred. Rose was a widow, and living 18 Edw. III.

5. Richard Aston, of Aston, son and heir, married Anabella, daughter of Eva de Rode, and sister to William Rode, of Rode, in Cheshire, in the reign of Edward II. and had issue Robert Aston, living 7 Edw. III. but then very young; Thomas, another son, living also 7 Edw. III. and Margery, (or Margaret,) a daughter, married to William, son of William Walensis de Halton, i. e. son of William the Welshman, of Halton.

6. Sir Robert Aston, of Aston, Knight, son and heir of Richard, married Felice, daughter of John Hawarden, Citizen of Chester, about 1338, and had issue Richard Aston, son and heir, heir, Hugh, second son, Lawrence, and James, living 49 Edward III. By the French deed, it appears, that Richard Aston, Lord of Aston, did covenant with John Hawarden, Citizen of Chester, that Robert, son of the said Richard, should take to wife Felice, daughter of the said John, and if Robert die before marriage, then Thomas, another son of the said Richard, should have her to wife; with other covenants, in case Robert should die before he attained unto fourteen years of age, or matrimony had, dated 7 Edw. III. so that Robert was then very young.

This Sir Robert was dead before 29 Edw. III. as appears by a record, dated 29 Edw. III. and had issue Richard Aston, Lord of Aston, living 29 Edw. III.

7. Richard Aston, of Aston, son and heir of Sir Robert, was Lord of Aston, 29 Edw. III. who died without issue about 42 or 43 Edw. III. or sooner.

And the right line now failing, the estate came to Sir Richard Aston, son of Robert Aston, of Ringey, in Aston, son of Hugh Aston, brother and heir to Richard, who died without issue. It appears by the testimony of Robin Hocan, 5 Hen. V. 1417, then aged seventy years, that he knew Robin of Aston, son and heir of Hugh, to be married, by Hugh his father, to Fillote, daughter of Black John Hawarden, at that time Steward of Hawarden, and that Robin and Fillote were enfeoffed of a parcel of land called Ringey, and had issue Sir Richard Aston, and other children; and afterwards Robin died, in Spain, in the lifetime of Hugh, his father: This Hugh had to wife Cicely, afterwards married to Hocknell; and Hugh married Richard, his grandson, son of Robert Aston, of Ringey, unto Jonet, daughter of John Hocknell, of Huxley; and had issue: But Jonet, and her children, and Fillote, mother of Richard, died all of the pestilence at Ringey; and afterwards, Sir Richard Aston married Ellen, daughter of Geoffrey Dutton; and that Hocan knew Sir Richard Aston, occupying the whole manor of Aston, for forty years and more, and Sir Robert, his son, occupying it for seven years and more.

8. Sir Richard Aston, of Aston, Knight, (son and heir of Robert Aston, of Ringey, in Aston, son of Hugh, of Aston,) married Jonet, daughter of John Hocknell, of Huxley, and had divers children by her, who died all of the plague at Ringey, with their mother also: Afterwards Sir Richard married Ellen, daughter and heir of Geoffrey Dutton, 9 Rich. II. (which Geoffrey was third son of Sir Hugh Dutton, of Dutton,) by whom he had lands in Listark and Halton, 22 Rich. II. By Ellen he had issue, Robert, son and heir; Henry living 10 Henry V. Eleanor, married Richard Priestland, of Priestland; Elizabeth, married Thomas, son of Thomas Boydell, of Caterich, in Gropen-

Gropenhall, in Bucklow hundred, 17 Rich. II. but had no issue by him; afterwards she married Robert Maffy, of Hale, 21 Rich. II. and lastly, she married Thomas Danyel, of Over Tabley, and she died 11 Hen. IV, 1410. This Sir Richard was Treasurer to Queen Philippa, wife of Edward the third, of her lands and rents, in Ambrage, in Wales, 32 Edw. III. and Steward of Hopesdale: he was a soldier in Spain, 12 Ric. II. and Steward of Halton, 10 Hen. IV.

Ellen, wife of Sir Richard, after his death, married John Rycroft.

9. Sir Robert Aston, of Aston, Knt. son and heir of Sir Richard, married Isabel, daughter and heir of John Beeston, of —, and had issue Richard, son and heir; David Aston, living 23 Hen. VI. and Alice, wife of John Maffy, of Sale, 24 Hen. VI.

Sir Robert died 5 Hen. V. 1417. Afterwards Isabel, his widow, married John Carington, of Carington, in Bucklow hundred, in Cheshire, 9 Hen. V. He was afterwards Sir John Carington, Knt. Isabel had the wardship of Richard Aston, her son.

10. Sir Richard Aston, of Aston, Knt. son and heir, married Maude, daughter and heir of Peter Maffy, of Horton, in Cheshire, by Margaret his wife, daughter and heir of William de Horton, 9 Hen. V. This Peter Maffy was younger son of Richard Maffy, of Rixton, in Lancashire, Esq;

Sir Richard had issue by Maud, Thomas Aston, son and heir; John, second son, living 7 Edw. IV. Geoffrey Aston, third son, living 19 Hen. VII. William, fourth son, died without issue, 20 Hen. VII. Maude, married to John Done, of Flax-wards, in Cheshire; Joan, wife of Roger Dutton, afterwards heir to all Dutton's lands; which Joan, after the death of Roger, married Sir Richard Strangewaies; and Margery, another daughter, married John Wood, of Sutton, 2 Hen. VII. Sir Richard died 8 Hen. VII, 1492.

11. Thomas Aston, of Aston, Esq; son and heir, married Margaret, one of the daughters of Sir Thomas Dutton, of Dutton, 7 Edw. IV, 1467. This Thomas died in the lifetime of Sir Richard, his father, about 1484. Margaret, his widow, afterwards married Raufe Vernon, of Haslington, in Cheshire, Esq;

12. Richard Aston, of Aston, Esq; son and heir, married Dowse, daughter of Piers Warburton, of Arley, Esq; 1 Rich. III, 1484, and had issue Thomas, son and heir; Richard, a Priest, 26 Hen. VIII. Robert Aston, of Grange, in Staffordshire; John Aston, of Grange; Catharine, wife of Richard Broughton, of Broughton, in Staffordshire; Alice married Randle, Randle, son and heir of Randle Manwaring, of Karincham, in Cheshire, Esq; 23 Hen. VII. and Anne, married to William Masly, of Rixton, in Lancashire, Esq; 10 Hen. VIII. This Richard Aston died 20 Hen. VIII. 1529.

13. Thomas Aston, of Aston, Esq; son and heir, married Bridget, one of the daughters of John Harewell, and sister and coheir to Thomas Harewell, of Shotery, in Warwickshire, 4 Hen. VIII. 1512, and had issue, John, son and heir; Richard; Peter, third son, 38 Hen. VIII. had a bastard, called Thomas Aston, then living at London; William, fourth son, married Anne, daughter of Thomas Ireland, of the Hutt, in Lancashire, Esq; and had issue; and Francis, fifth son.

He had also a bastard son called Roger, afterwards Sir Roger Aston, Gentleman of the Bed-chamber to King James I. who married Mary Stewart, daughter to Alexander Lord Ochiltrey (Ochiltree) being lineally descended from Duncan, Earl of Lenox, in Scotland; by whom he had issue Margaret, married to Sir Gilbert Houghton, of Houghton-Tower, in Lancashire, Bart. Mary, married to Sir Samuel Peyton, of Knowlton, in Kent, Bart. Elizabeth, wife of Sir Robert Winkfield, of Upton, in Northamptonshire; and Anne, wife of Sir Thomas Perient, of Colchester, in Essex, Knts. These were his four daughters, and heirs. Afterwards Sir Roger Aston had to wife Cordelia, sister to the Earl of Chesterfield, but had no issue by her. This Sir Roger lies buried in Cranford church, in Middlesex.

Thomas Aston, of Aston, before mentioned, was Sheriff of Cheshire, 1551, 4 Edw. VI. and died 6 Edw. VI.

14. John Aston, of Aston, Esq; son and heir, married Margaret, daughter of Thomas Ireland, of the Hutt, in Lancashire, Esq. 38 Hen. 15. Sir Thomas Aston, of Aston, son and heir, was knighted 1603, and married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Arthur Manwaring, of Ightfield, in Shropshire, 11 Eliz. 1569, and had issue John, son and heir; Sir Arthur Aston, of Fulham, in Middlesex, second son, who had issue Richard Aston, and Sir Arthur Aston, a Colonel in Germany, and Governor of Oxford for the King, 1644, but was barbarously killed at Tredagh, in Ireland, after having surrendered the town to the Parliament rebels upon conditions, 1655, and had issue. After having honourably escaped the very often fatal chances of war, he received, as he was generously endeavouring to appease a tumult, several mortal wounds, of which he shortly after died, at Gogerddan, in Cardiganshire; by reason of which great and grievous loss, his father, after his decease, was succeeded by his younger son;

73. WISEMAN, of Canfield-Hall, Essex.

Created BARONET, Aug. 29, 1628.

IN the ordination made by King Edward I. upon his establishing the Kingdom of Scotland, in the 33d of his reign, towards its better government:

William Wiseman was constituted Viscount, or Sheriff, of Elgin; and Alexander Wiseman Viscount of Foreis and Innervan, in like manner as others; and had other shires in their charge, with some English, some Scottish Natives, under the King's Lieutenant and Chamberlain; so that the original extraction of the name remains uncertain.

Not long after, Simon Wiseman was found to be possessor of lands, in Cotes, in Northamptonshire, as recited in a confirmation to a charter, 2 Edw. III. to the Nuns of St. Mary de Pratish, in that county.

After that was John Wiseman, who married Magdalen, daughter and heir of — Rockell, and was father of Robert, who, by a daughter of — Hobart, of Suffolk, had issue, George Wiseman, who married a Garnish, and had issue, John, who married Anne, daughter to — Wyndham, and had issue, Simon, father of William.

It is observable, that all these matches of the male line are with Suffolk houses, insomuch, that it is not much doubted, that a race of them might transplant themselves out of Northamptonshire, and thence, with an easy remove, settle in Essex. For another son of the last John, I take to be that John Wiseman, who flourished temp. Edw. IV. and purchased the capital messuage of Billocks, in the parish of North End, in Essex, and left two sons, John, (ancestor to the Wisemans, of Rivenhall, in Essex; whose descendant, Sir William Wiseman, of Rivenhall, was created a Baronet, June 15, 1660; and dying 1692, left only one daughter and heir, Elizabeth, first married to John le Mott Honeywood, of —, in Essex, Esq; and afterwards to Sir Isaac Rebow, of Colchester, Knt. whereupon that title became extinct.) And

Thomas, who built the mansion house, called Gayharlands, in Chelmsford, in Essex; and was succeeded by John Wiseman, Esq; who was one of the Auditors to King Henry VIII. for the county of Essex, and by circumstance of time may be that John, who received the honour of Knighthood at the battle of Spurs, in that King's reign. He purchased Much Canfield Park, consisting of a messuage, and two hundred and sixty acres of land, lying in both Canfields, and Hatfield, temp. Edw. VI. by licence. He married Agnes, daughter of Ralph Joscelyn, of Great Canfield, Esq; and had a son, John; and Agnes, married to Thomas Fytch, of High-Easter, Esq; and Anne, who had two husbands; 1. William Fytch, of Little Canfield, in Essex, Esq; and 2. to Ralph Pudser, of Grays-Inn, Esq; and other children. He died March 6, and lies buried in Canfield Magna church.

John Wiseman, Esq; his son and heir, married Margery, daughter of Sir William Waldgrave, of Smallbridge, in Suffolk, Knt. Under-Treasurer of Calais, (where he died 44 Eliz.) by whom he had six sons, and two daughters.

Thomas Wiseman, Esq; the fourth son, upon failure of issue by the two elder, and the third being a Monk, inherited. He married Alice, daughter and heir of Robert Myles, of Sutton, in Suffolk, Esq; and died the last year of King James I. He held the Rectory, or Grange, of Great Canfield, of the King, of his manor of East-Greenwich, and the manor of Little Maplested, of the King, in capite; Robert, his son, did the same; but dying without issue,

William, his next brother, succeeded, who was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, 4 Car. I. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Capel, of Hadham, in Hertfordshire, Knt. (by Theodosia, sister to Edward, Lord Montagu, of Boughton, and to Henry, Earl of Manchester, and sister to that loyal Lord Capel, who lost his life for his Sovereign, King Charles I.) by whom he had Sir William, his successor; Sir Edmond, of London, Knight; and Capel, who was a Bishop in Ireland; Eliza, married to Robert Tyderlegh, Esq; and died April 26, 1654; and Theodosia, married to Sir William Craven, of Spertholt, in Berks, Knt. Sir William died at Oxford, 1643, and was there buried. His Lady was buried in Great Canfield church.

Sir William Wiseman, Baronet, eldest son, and heir, succeeded to the dignity and estate. He was four years old 1634; and had two wives; first, Anne, daughter and coheir of Sir John Prescott, of Hoxton, in Suffolk, Knight, by whom he had no issue; (she died May 11, 1662;) secondly, Arabella, fifth daughter of Sir Thomas Hewet, of Pishobury, in Hertfordshire, Baronet, (and sister to the Lord Viscount Hewet, of Gowran, in Ireland,) by whom he had thirteen children, of which, Sir Thomas was his successor; and Sir Charles succeeded his brother: Of the daughters, Anne married General Lumley, only brother to Richard, first Earl of Scarborough; (she died Mar. 4, 1736-7;) and Isabella, to — Stisted, of Suffolk, Esq; This Sir William died Jan. 14, 1684, and lies buried at Great Canfield.

Sir Thomas Wiseman, Baronet, eldest son, and successor, to his father, dying unmarried, May 1, 1731, was succeeded by his next surviving brother,

Sir Charles Wiseman, Bart. who died June 3, 1751, when the title and estate descended to

Sir William Wiseman, the present Baronet, who, on Jan. 30, 1759, was appointed Lieutenant-colonel of a company in the Coldstream Regiment of Foot Guards.

75. POLE, (or POOLE,) of Shute, Devonshire.

Created BARONET, Sept. 12, 1628.

THIS is a younger branch of the family of the Pooles, of Poole-Hall, in Wirral, in the county of Chester. The first of the family, who settled in Devon, was Arthur Pole, second son of Sir William Pole, of Wirral, in Cheshire, Knt.

This Arthur Pole, Esq; married Elizabeth, the daughter and heir of John Pole, of Devonshire, Esq; the grandfather, and great-grandfather of which John, was returned one of the Members for the city of Exon, in a Parliament, held at Westminster, 12 Edw. III. as was Thomas, another of the same family, for the borough of Barnstaple, in the 14th of the same reign.

Arthur was succeeded by his son John, who married Alice, daughter of Robert Code, of Gidleigh, in Cornwall, Esq; and was succeeded by another John, who married Edith, daughter of Robert Titherleigh, of Titherleigh, in Dorsetshire, Esq; He deceasing, was succeeded by his second son, William, (his eldest son dying issueless, before him.) Which William married Agnes, the daughter of John Drake, of Ash, in Devon, Esq; William, his eldest son, took to wife, Catharine, the daughter of Alexander Popham, of Huntworth, in Somersetshire, Esq; and sister to Sir John Popham, Knt. Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, by whom he left issue, a daughter, Dorothy, married, first, to Thomas Erle, of Charmister, in Dorsetshire, Esq; and, secondly, to Sir Walter Vaughan, Knt. and one son,

Sir William Pole, Knt. his heir, who married twice, first, Mary, the eldest daughter, and one of the coheirs of Sir William Peryam, Knt. Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer; secondly, Jane, daughter of William Symes, of Chard, Esq; and relict of Roger How, of London, Merchant. He rebuilt the mansion-house of Colcum, once a castle, belonging to the Courtenays, Earls of Devonshire; which, with the house at Shute, was soon after burnt down by some troops of the Parliament army, quartered at Lyme. This Sir William Pole was that famous Antiquarian, whose manuscripts are so often quoted by our modern Authors, and are justly esteemed as some of the most perfect pieces in their kind: Valuable as they are, they are now irretrievably lost to his posterity; for the humanity of his successors was such, that they were never denied to any of the curious, who had an inclination to peruse them: The greater part of which have been so well approved by those Gentlemen, that they never thought fit to return them.

Mr.

Mr. Prince, in his Worthies of Devon, says, He had the benefit of an academical education, in Exeter College, Oxford, and, after that, an inclination to study the Law, and removing to the Inns of Court, became a Member of the Inner Temple, where he grew eminent for his skill and knowledge in that honourable profession. 3. Eliz. he was chosen Autumn Reader, and the year following, Double Reader ; in which year there was a grand Christmas kept in the Inner Temple, at which the Lord Robert Dudley, (afterwards Earl of Leicester,) was the Chief Constable, or Marshal, under the title of Palaphilos. This our Sir William was one of his great officers, being Chief Justice of the Common-Pleas, as divers persons of quality besides were others, as Mr. Onslow, Lord Chancellor ; Mr. Stapleton, Lord Treasurer ; Mr. Kelway, Lord Privy Seal ; Mr. Fuller, Chief Justice of the King's Bench, &c. which place, though personated only in shew and solemnity, if he had been called thereunto, he was highly qualified to have executed in truth and reality. 7 Eliz. he was chosen Treasurer of the Inner Temple, a place then of trust and honour ; but we are not to understand, that he spent his whole time in London, but as the Terms and his occasions required. For he had his residence, (during his father's life-time, at least,) at Colcomb, lying within both manors of Coliton and Whitford, in the parish of Coliton, in the south-east part of this county ; it was some time the seat and dwelling, as well as inheritance, of the most noble family of the Courtenays, Earls of Devon, from whose heirs general it was purchased by Sir William's father, and settled upon this his son, who new built it. Being thus settled here, he lived in great reputation, and became an ornament to, and a very useful person in, his country, serving his Prince in the quality of a Justice of Peace, (then esteemed an honour,) and High Sheriff of this county, the last year of Queen Elizabeth, and 1 King James I. About four years after which, he was advanced to the dignity of Knighthood, by the said King, at Whitehall, Feb. 15, 1606. As to Sir William's personal qualifications, says the same Author, (Prince,) he was endowed with excellent parts, and adorned with great accomplishments ; and, as what enamels, and adds loveliness to all the other, beautified with a very civil, courteous, obliging carriage and disposition, which, indeed, is the true gentility. He was learned also, not only in the laws, but in other polite matters : He was very laborious in the study of antiquities, especially those of his own county, and a great lover of that venerable employment. A sufficient confirmation of which, we have in those many volumes of manuscripts on this argument, which he left behind him.

There

There were several volumes of manuscripts written by this Gentleman, and his son Sir John Pole, Bart. (who was much addicted also to the ingenious study of Antiquity, and made some additions to his father's Description of Devon,) which all miscarried in the time of the late Civil Wars in England; so that the very titles and arguments of them are perished likewise.

From whence it plainly appears, how very industrious this Gentleman was; how he chose to lay out his time in higher and nobler gratifications than what sensuality affords; and how he applied himself to this genteel study of Antiquities for more than twenty years together: insomuch, he thereby became, as the first, so the best Antiquary (for certainty and judgment) that we ever had in our county; it being plain, that with this Gentleman's labours, most of those who wrote since on this argument, have adorned their works.

But at length Death (that ultima linea rerum) came, and added a period to the last line of his life; though not until he had lived to a very great age. He lies interred in the Parish Church of Colliton, under a flat stone, whose inscription is obliterated by time.

Sir William, by his first wife, before mentioned, had issue, Sir John, who succeeded him; Peryam; William; and Francis; (Peryam settled in Ireland, where he acquired large possessions;) and several daughters, Mary, married first, to — Hurst, and afterwards to Francis, son and heir of Sir William Courtenay, of Powderham, in Devon, Knt. another of his daughters married to Walrond, of Bovey, Devon; and one to — Floyer; most of the others died young. Sir Courtenay; and John, who died young; and three daughters, Martha, married to — Ivory, of Somersetshire; Jane, to — Croker, of Lynham, in Devonshire, Esqrs. and Elizabeth died unmarried.

Sir William Pole, knighted by King Charles I. married to his first wife, Grace, daughter of Sir Thomas Trenchard, in Dorset, Knt. by whom he had no surviving issue. Francis Roberts, Esq; second son to the Right Hon. John, Earl of Radnor, but died without issue; Mary, and Courtenay, died young. Sir Courtenay Pole died April 25, 1695, in the seventy-eighth year of his age, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

Sir John Pole, who, in the year 1688, was a Member of that Parliament which settled the Crown on King William and Queen Mary; as he was also of those Parliaments which were summoned 1 and 10 Will. III. and chosen Knight of the Shire for Devon, the 13th of the same reign; was elected again a Burgess for Eastlow, in Cornwall, 1 Queen Anne; and for Newport, in the same county, the 4th of that reign. He died March 13, 1707, having married Anne, the youngest daughter of Sir William Morrice, of Werrington, in Devon, Knt. one of the Principal Secretaries of State to King Charles II. by whom he had four sons, Sir William, John, Charles, and Carolus; and four daughters, Charlotte, Urith, Mary, and Anne. All the daughters died young, except Urith, who was married to Sir John Trevelyan, of Nettlecombe, in Somersetshire, Bart. Sir John Pole was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir William Pole, of Shute, in Devon, Bart. He was elected Member of Parliament for the Borough of Newport, in Cornwall, 13 Will. III. and was elected Member in every Parliament summoned from that time till the year 1712, when he was chosen Knight of the Shire for Devon; and two years after, constituted Master of the Household, by her Majesty Queen Anne, which place he held till the death of that Princess. He married a daughter of Mr. Warren, by whom he left one son, Sir John, his successor; and one daughter, Elizabeth, married to John Antis, Clerk, second son of John Antis, Esq; Garter King at Arms; and dying Dec. 31, 1741, of the gout in his stomach, was succeeded in dignity and estate by his only son,

Their being benefactors to that church, is also evident from their arms therein, and the portraitures of them, and the Percies, in the gate, the latter with a piece of timber, and of the Vavasors, with a stone in their hands, shewing the materials each family contributed to that stately structure; and with stones out of the quarry, in the Manor of Haselwood, were also built the Monasteries of Holden, Selby, and Beverley, with Thornton-College, in Lincolnshire, and many others.) Sir John, aforementioned, had issue, by Alice, daughter of Robert Rookfield, two sons, Sir William, and Malgerius, ancestor to the Vavasors, of Weston, Acafter, and Coppinthorp, in Yorkshire.

81. DALSTON, of Dalston, Cumberland.

Created BARONET, February 15, 1640.

THE family of Dalston is of great honour and antiquity, in the county of Cumberland, being derived from Robert de Dalston, second brother to Hubert de Vallibus, (or Vaux,) Lord of Gillesland, in Cumberland, who, temp. Will. I. had the barony of Dalston, given him by Ranulph de Meschines, (or Micenis,) who was nearly related to the Norman Conqueror, and from him had a grant of the county of Cumberland, upon upon condition, that he dispossessed the Scots, who had got possession of it. To this Ranulph, Earl of Cumberland, and afterwards of Chester, Hubert de Vallibus, and Robert de Dalston, were near relations. The posterity of the last possessed the barony of Dalston, in a lineal descent, until King Stephen gave Cumberland to David King of Scots. Hen. II. recovering the county from the Scots, seized the barony of Dalston, and united it to the forest of Englewood, whereof it continued a member till Hen. III. (14 Regni) disforested the same, and gave or sold it to Walter Malclerk, then Bishop of Carlisle, and Lord Treasurer; whose successors, Bishops of Carlisle, have ever since enjoyed it. However, the descendants of the said Robert de Dalston had the ancient mansion-house, with the manor or lordship of Dalston-Parva, which they possess to this day.

Of the descendants of Robert, the first Baron, John, (son of Robert,) married a daughter and coheir of Kirkhide. From Thomas, (by Christopher, a younger son by a second venter,) are descended the Dalstons, of Acornbank, in Westmoreland, and Sir John Dalston, Knt. who was Sheriff of Cumberland, 10 Jac. I. Sir William Dalston, Knight, who was created a Baronet, 16 Car. I. being the same year elected Member of Parliament for Carlisle. OF this ancient family were Wyamarus and Jordayne, two brothers, who were living at the time of the Conquest; the first of them enjoying, by the gift of William the Conqueror, in the third year of his reign, 1069, as marks of his royal favour and reward, the Lordships of South and North Cave, Clyffe, Stanton, Hasloshese, Newland, Skalby, and the manor of Wal-dingfene, cum membris, in Yorkshire, all which the said Wyamarus conveyed to his brother Jordayne, in the seventh year of William Rufus, in which reign Wyamarus died without issue.

John, whose wife was the daughter of Estotes; also two daughters; Christian, married to Thomas Newbold; and Grace, to William Ayrmine, of Newland, upon Ayre, Esq;

5. Geoffrey de Cave, son and heir, took to wife Mabel, daughter of Robert Saltmarsh, of Yorkshire, and had issue, Peter, and Alexander de Cave, Dean of Durham, and Prebendary of Holden, where he lieth interred.

6. Peter de Cave married a daughter and heir of Sir Thomas Bromflete, Knt. by whom he had two sons, Sir Alexander, and Thomas, (who married the daughter of Robert Cliffe, and was progenitor to the Caves of Flinton, in Holderness, Yorkshire;) also three daughters; Catharine, wife to John Riplingham, of Riplingham; Beatrix, to Philip de Waldby; and Jane, the wife of John Dawney, of Sefay, all in the county of York.

7. Sir Alexander de Cave, Knt. eldest son and heir of Peter, and heir to his uncle Alexander, married the daughter of Peter de Mawley, Lord of Mulgrave, by whom he had one son, Peter, and four daughters; Margaret, the wife of Ralph Andlaby, of Andlaby; Joyce, wife of Sir Thomas Polington, of Polington, Knight; Jane, wife of Shelton, of Shelton; and Urfula, married to Sir John Ella, of Kirk Ella, Knt.

8. 10. John Cave, son and heir, was a Knight, and married Mary, daughter and coheir of Peter Genell, of Southcliffe, (by his wife, the daughter and heir of Cliffe, of Southcliffe,) whereby he much augmented his ancient patrimony, and had four sons, and two daughters; Sir Alexander, Thomas, Peter, and John, which three last died without issue. His daughters were, Anne, married to Sir Marmaduke Grendall; and Mary, wife to Sir Peter de See, Knights.

11. Sir Alexander Cave, Knt. son and heir, had to wife Catharine, daughter of Roger Somervile, of Grindall, who bore him three sons, and three daughters; 1. Sir Alexander; 2. John, Abbot of Selby, in Yorkshire, (one of the Parliamentary Abbeyes,) who, according to Mr. Browne Willis, was chosen Abbot, in 1430, and died six years after; and 3. Alexander. John, the second son, died, as appears by the inscription on his monument, February, 1471, and lies buried in Stanford church. In South and North Cave churches in Yorkshire, several of the ancestors of this family lie buried, as were evident by several of their remains in those churches; for, in 1585, when Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, went his visitation, he found several of their arms painted on the glass in North Cave church; and several Knights of this family, with their wives, carved in stone, in kneeling postures, in South Cave church; with the Caves arms, Azure, fretty, Argent, on them; and particularly a very ancient tomb of an armed Knight at full length, as big as the life, with a helmet on his head, and thereon a ducal coronet, with a falcon, and the arms of Cave round the tomb, but without any inscription. But at this time, this tomb, and all the other remains, are gone to decay; nor are there any evidences remaining, that can determine when this family settled in the counties of Northampton and Leicester, though the monument of John Cave is the first we can find of this family in Stanford church, and probably he was presented to the vicarage by his father.

13. Peter Cave, the eldest son and heir of Peter, married Mary, daughter of — Burdet, of Rothwell, in Northamptonshire, and had issue only one son,

14. Thomas Cave, Esq; who, by Thomasine, daughter of — Passmere, of Essex, had issue five sons; 1. Richard; 2. William, father of John, and Peter Cave; 3. Christopher, who left a daughter, married to Noble, of Stowford, in Leicestershire; 4. John, father of Thomas, William, and Christopher Cave, of Stanford, and of Bartholomew, and Edward Cave, of Welford; 5. Henry, who married, first, a daughter of — Saunders, of Harrington, in Northamptonshire, Esq; secondly, a daughter of — Belgrave, of Blaby, in Leicestershire, Esq; by the last he left issue. This Thomas, the father of these sons, died 1495, and lies buried in Stanford church.

The daughter Margaret married Thomas Saunders, of Harrington, in Northamptonshire, Esq; by whom she had Laurence Saunders, who was burnt for the testimony of the Gospel, in the Little Park, within the city of Coventry, 2 and 3 Ph. and Mary. Captain Saunders, slain at Newbury; and Sir Edward Saunders, Knight, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and other children. Anne, wife of Griffith Hampden, of Hampden, in Bucks, Esq; 3. Martha, to John Newdigate, of Arbury, in Warwickshire, Esq; and 4. Mary, to Sir Jerom Weston, Knt. son and heir of the Judge, from whom the Westons, Earls of Portland, were descended. The third son was Clement Cave, who married Margery, daughter and coheir of Nicholas Mallory, of Newbold Revell, in Warwickshire, Esq; and died without issue, and lies buried in Stanford church. His wife, surviving him, afterwards married John Cope, of Eydon, in Northamptonshire, Esq; 4. Sir Ambrose Cave, Knt. who was High Sheriff for Warwickshire, and Leicestershire, 2 Edw. VI. and one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Warwick, 4 and 5 Ph. and Mary, and 5 Eliz. he was also Chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, and one of the Privy Council to Queen Elizabeth; a Gentleman in great esteem with that Queen, and a most intimate friend of the Lord Treasurer Burleigh's. Attending at Court, on a public night, her Majesty's garter slipped off, as she was dancing; Sir Ambrose, taking it up, offered it to her, who refusing it, he tied it on his left arm, and said, he would wear it for his Mistress's sake, as long as he lived. In the possession of the family is an original picture of him, with the garter round his arm. He married Margaret, eldest daughter and coheir of William Willington, of Barcheston, in Warwickshire, Esq; relict of Thomas Holte, of

5. Francis Cave, who took to wife Margaret, daughter of Thomas Lisle, of Surry, LL. D. from whom the Caves of Bargrave were descended. 6. Richard Cave, of Pickwell, in Leicestershire, Esq; who married Barbara, daughter of Sir William Fielding, of Newnham Padox, in Warwickshire, Knt. by whom he had John Cave, of Pickwell, Esq; High Sheriff of the county of Leicester, 17 James I. who had several sons. His third son, John, was Rector of Pickwell, of whose sufferings, and ill usage, we have the following account, in Walker's Sufferings of the Clergy.

‘He was born in the parish of Pickwell, and educated at Lincoln-college, in Oxford; where he was chamber-fellow with the famous Dr. Sanderfon, for eight years.’ After he was settled here in his native parish, he attended his ministerial cure with great diligence, and lived in great esteem and respect with all his neighbours, till the breaking out of the Great Rebellion in the year 1642. The first attack that was made upon him, was when the Parliament sent a regiment to be quartered about that place, where six troopers, with their horses, were quartered upon him; who continued off and on for a year or two. They first attempted him by way of dispute, concerning the Liturgy and constitution of the Church of England, which passed in writing, by way of objection and answer: but finding they were like to do little good that way, they betook themselves to rougher methods. They ravaged his house, and abused his children and servants, demanded unreasonable provisions to be made for them; and would sometimes take up a good dish of meat from the table, and throw it upon the ground, because not cooked, or dressed up to their humour and palate; they debauched some of the servants; and when complaint was made of it to some of the neighbouring Justices, and to some of their superior officers, no remedy could be had. Not content with this, when three or four of their horses were stolen one night out of the stable, they accused him of the theft, carried him to their head-quarters, and tried him at a council of war for his life; and were ready to pass sentence upon him, when Colonel Ireton, coming suddenly in, and examining into the matter, suspected there was some villainy in

' it ; as indeed it afterwards appeared, that they were stolen by ' some of their own party. Whereupon he put a stop to their ' proceedings, and dismissed him. When this would not do,
 ' they fell a tampering with the parishioners, to try if they could ' prefer, and bring articles against him ; but at present they could ' find none for their purpose ; and because he still persisted in a ' firm loyalty to the King, and unshaken zeal for the Church of ' England, praying for the Bishops, after they had been voted ' down by the Parliament, they one time came into the church, ' and discharged a pistol at him then in the pulpit ; and at an-
 ' other time plucked him out of the pulpit, and pulled his gown
 ' over his ears. After several attempts to get false witnesses,
 ' they at last corrupted three or four, a tailor, a miller, a
 ' weaver, and one more : whereupon articles were drawn up,
 ' subscribed, and sworn to before the Committee of Leicester ;
 ' though some of them afterwards upon their death-beds sent for ' him, and professed they could not die, till they had declared,
 ' that they had been suborned to testify and swear against him.
 ' Some years matters hung in this way ; he being banded from ' Committee to Committee, though the clearness of his case was ' such, that they could bring it to no conclusion. By this time
 ' one of the Committee of Leicester had combined with one
 ' Wells, an Independent Preacher, who having a son brought up
 ' a silk-weaver in New-England, sent for him over to be married ' to the Committee-man's daughter, and the Rectory of Pick-
 ' well was pitched upon for the portion for his daughter. And ' now matters were pushed on with more vigour : but finding ' that little good would be done at country Committees, the cause
 ' was removed to London, and brought before the Committee of ' the House of Commons ; where Mr. Cave was advised to retain
 ' Bradshaw, for his Council ; who at first told him, that his ' case was clear and good : but being tampered with the night
 ' before the trial, by the opposite party, he told him the next ' morning, he much feared how his case would go ; and two of ' his near kinsmen, both Members of the House, Sir William
 ' Armyn, and Sir Arthur Haslerigg (the only two he was re' lated to of that party) firmly promised him to be at the ' Committee, and to support his cause ; but both of them thought ' fit to be absent. Accordingly the cause went against him ; and
 ' an order was directed to the Committee in the country to dis-
 ' possess him ; who sent a file of musqueteers, and turned father,
 ' mother, and six children, out of doors at once, not suffering
 ' the neighbours to take them in, nor to have one bit of bread,
 ' nor draught of drink, out of their own house. And now, hav' ing made clean work of it, a parcel of itinerant preachers were ' sent to Pickwell, to mock God with a day of thanksgiving, that
 ' the

‘ the people were delivered from such an ignorant, unlearned, ‘ and unskilful teacher. He and his family notwithstanding were ‘ entertained by the neighbours for the present, though they were ‘ not suffered long to continue there, nor he to teach school there,
 ‘ or elsewhere. Whereupon he took up his dwelling near Stam‘ ford; where not being suffered to abide long, he removed up ‘ to London; when being broken with age and sufferings, and ‘ worn out with long and tedious winter journeys, from Com‘ mittee to Committee, he departed this life about the beginning ‘ of November, 1657.’

85. BOTELER, of Teston, Kent.

Created BARONET, July 3, 1641.

THIS family, in several ancient deeds without date, have been stiled de Pincerna, and are descended from Radulphus de Pincerna, living in King Henry the first's time, who sealed with a covered cup, and have since, as appears by deeds, wrote themselves Butler, and sometimes Boteler, as the family does at present.

At the Visitation of Kent, in King James the first's reign, they were stiled a right worshipful and ancient family, by John Philipot, Rouge-Dragon, marshal and deputy for the said county, to Mr. William Camden, Clarencieux king at arms, as it had been traced up by undoubted evidences, for many generations, by Francis Thynne, Lancaster herald; which account was examined and confirmed by the said Mr. Camden.

John Boteler was High Sheriff of Kent 22 Rich. II. He married the daughter and heir of Richard Feverham. In 1 Hen. V. John Boteler was Knight of the shire for Kent.

In the reign of Queen Elizabeth, Oliver Boteler, upon his marriage with Anne, daughter and heir of Thomas Barham, of Teston, in Kent, Esq; removed from Shernbroke, in Bedfordshire, (where the grandfather of the said Oliver came, from Kent, and had settled,) to Teston, the seat of his father, where the family have ever since continued.

Before this marriage, the ancestors of the family married three other heiresses, whose arms they quartered.

This Oliver was afterwards knighted by K. James I. and had issue a daughter, Anne, married to Sir George Fane, of Buston, in Kent, Knt. second son of Sir Thomas Fane, and Mary, Baroness le Dispencer; and three sons; 1. Sir John Boteler, Knt. who married Alice, daughter of Sir Edward Apsly, of Suffex, Knt. but had no issue, and died in his father's life-time; as did also James, the second son; so that

William, the third son, succeeded to the estate. He married Joan, daughter of Sir Henry Fanshaw, of Ware Park, in Hertfordshire, Knt. in May 1631, and was the first Baronet of this family, advanced to that dignity 17 Car. I. At the breaking out of the civil war, he engaged on his Majesty's side, having raised and armed a regiment at his own expence, and was killed at the fight at Cropedy-Bridge, June 29, 1644, leaving only one son,

Sir

Sir Oliver Boteler, Bart. who succeeded to the title and estate, and married, in 1665, Anne, daughter of Sir Robert Austen, of Bexley, in Kent, Bart. by whom he had issue two sons, Sir Philip, and John; and one daughter, Elizabeth, who died unmarried.

Sir Philip, the eldest son, succeeded his father in title and estate. He was Member of Parliament for the port of Hyeth, temp. King William III. and Queen Anne. He married Anne, daughter of Sir Edward Desbouverie, Knt. in 1690, and left issue only one son,

Sir Philip Boteler, the present Baronet, who succeeded his father in dignity and estate, in April, 1719, and married, in May, 1720, Elizabeth, only daughter and heir of Thomas Williams, of Cabalva, in Radnorshire, Esq; by whom he had issue only one daughter, who died unmarried.

86. HATTON, of Long-Stanton, Cambridgeshire.

Created BARONET, July 5, 1641.

THIS family is of great antiquity in the county of Chester, Sir Thomas, the present Baronet, being the twenty-fourth in a lineal descent from Wolfrid, brother of Nigel, Baron of Halton, and Constable of Chester, who were sons of Yvon, Vicecomes, or Governor of Constantia, in Normandy, by Eme, sister of Allan, Earl of Britagne.

Which Wolfrid (or rather Wolsaith) was Lord of Hatton, by the gift of Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester, and was succeeded by Robert, his son and heir, who by Margaret, his wife, daughter of Gilbert Crispin, had issue Sir Adam Hatton, of Hatton, Knt. whose son, Sir Geffery Hatton, Knt. married a daughter of Sir Adam Harthull, and had issue Sir Roger Hatton, who by his wife, a daughter of Sir Peers Normandville, Knt. left issue, Ralph Hatton, Esq; the father of Sir Hugh Hatton, who married Amy, daughter of Sir Randolph Venables, and was succeeded by Hugh, his son and heir, who married Mary, daughter of Sir John Ardern, Knt. and left issue two sons, John, and Hugh.

John,

John, the eldest son, left an only daughter and heir, Maud, married to Ralph Vernon, Esq; whose son, Robert Vernon, in right of his mother, inherited the manor of Hatton.

Hugh Hatton, the second son of Hugh Hatton, by Mary Arden, had to wife Margaret, the daughter and heir of Jeffery de Brayne; and left issue John Hatton, of Great Aldersey, Esq; living 30 Edw. III. who by his wife, Joan, daughter and heir of Sir John Hallom, Knt. was father of Adam Hatton, of Great Aldersey, 1 Ric. II. who by Catharine, daughter of Sir William de Helesby, Knt. had William Hatton, Esq; father of another William Hatton, Esq; who had issue Peter Hatton, Esq;

This Peter, by Margaret his wife, daughter and coheir to Sir George Bostock, of Mobberley, in Cheshire, Knt. had issue nine sons; 1. Richard, his son and heir, ancestor to those of Alderton, in Salop; 2. Peter, ancestor to those of Kirsty-Birches, in the same county; 3. Henry, to those of Holdenby and Kirby, in Northamptonshire; 4. Robert, to those of Norley, in Cheshire, and of London; 5. John, to those of Maxfield; 6. Ralph, to those of Weverham; 7. Adam, to those of Northwich, all in Cheshire, and to those of Sutton, near Nonsuch, in Surry; 8. Simon, to those of Stocton-Yate, in Cheshire; and 9. Hugh, who died issueless.

Henry, the third son, married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of William Holdenby, of Holdenby, in Northamptonshire, Esq; and had issue two sons, John and Richard.

John Hatton, the eldest son, married Joan, daughter to John Westby, in Kent, Esq; and had issue three sons, William; John, of whom hereafter; and Christopher.

William Hatton, of Holdenby, the eldest son, had to wife, Alice, daughter to Laurence Saunders, of Harringworth, in Northamptonshire, Esq; and had issue three sons; Francis Hatton, who died young; Thomas, who died without issue; and Christopher Hatton, who, by his singular merit, became a great ornament to his family, and raised it first to the honour it now enjoys. He was bred to the Laws at the Inns of Court; but more like a Gentleman, than one who pretended to raise himself by that profession. The Queen first took notice of him for the comeliness of his person, and his graceful dancing at a mask at Court; but more afterwards for his great abilities.

He became first one of the Queen's Gentlemen-Pensioners, then Gentleman of the Privy-chamber, and next, Captain of the Guard; from which office he was advanced to be Vice-chamberlain, one of the Privy-council; and at length Lord-Chancellor;

Chancellor ; being likewise made a Knight of the Garter, and installed May 23, 1588.

His first preferment at Court was to be one of the fifty Pensioners ; whence his modest sweetness of manners advanced him to the Privy-chamber ; where he had not been long, but his face and tongue (which most eloquent, which most powerful, was in those days a question) made him Captain of the guard ; his presence and service Vice-chamberlain ; and his great improvement under my Lord Burleigh, placed him in that grave assembly, (the wisest convention in Europe at that time) the Privy-council ; where he had not sate long, when his enemies as well as his friends made him Chancellor and Knight of the Garter ; the one to raise him, and the other by that rise to ruin him. The eagle-eyed men of those times carried up on high the cockle-shell they had a mind to crack. A man of a pious nature, very charitable to the poor, very tender of dissenting judgments, (saying, that neither searing nor cutting was to be used in the cause of religion,) very bountiful to scholars, (who chose him Chancellor at Oxford,) very exact in his place ; whence he went off, though not with the applause of a great Lawyer to split causes, yet with the conscience and comfort of a just man, to do equity.

Take his character from his own words, those words that prevailed with the Q. of Scots to appear before the Commissioners at Fotheringay, when neither Q. Elizabeth's commission, nor the Lord Chancellor's reason, nor the power of the kingdom, could persuade that Lady to it. The words are these :

‘ You are accused, but not condemned. You say you are a Queen ; be it so : if you are innocent, you wrong your reputation in avoiding trial. You protest yourself innocent ; the Queen feareth the contrary not without grief and shame. To examine your innocence are these honourable, prudent, and upright Commissioners sent : glad will they be, with all their hearts, if they may return and report you guiltless. Believe me, the Queen herself will be much affected with joy, who affirmed to me, at my coming from her, that never any thing befel her more grievous, than that you were charged with such a crime : Wherefore lay aside the bootless privilege of Royal Dignity, which here can be of no use to you, appear in judgment, and shew your innocence ; lest by avoiding trial, you draw upon yourself suspicion, and lay upon your reputation an eternal blot and aspersion.’

Four things I observe he did that deserve a chronicle :

1. That he delayed the signing of Leicester's patent for the Lieutenantancy of England and Ireland, the preface to his kingdom, until that Earl was sick.

2. That he reduced the Chancery, and all other courts, to rules.

3. That he stood by the Church against the enemies of both sides. Archbishop Whitgift, when checked by others for his due severity, writes to him thus : ‘ I think my self bound to ‘ you for your friendly message as long as I live : It hath not a ‘ little comforted me, having received unkinde speeches not ‘ long since, &c.’ And, therefore (after an expostulation about some states-mens proceedings against the law and state of the realm, and a declaration of his own resolution,) saith he, ‘ Your honour in offering that great courtesie, offered unto me ‘ as great a pleasure as I can desire. Her Majesty must be my ‘ refuge, and I beseech you that I may use you as a means, when ‘ occasion shall serve ; whereof I assure my self, and therein rest,
‘ JOHN, CANT.’

4. That he promoted the proclamations for plain apparel, for free trade, for pure religion, and the laws against the Papists.

None nobler, none less aspiring : none more busie, yet none more punctual in his hours and orders. Corpulent he was, but temperate ; a batchelor, (and the onely one of the Queen’s favourites,) yet chaste : quick were his dispatches, but weighty ; many his orders, and consistent : numerous were the addressees to him, and easie of access. Seldome were his orders reversed in Chancery, and seldomer his advice opposed in council. So just he was, that his sentence was law with the subject ; so wise, that his opinion was oracle with his Sovereign : so exact was Queen Elizabeth, that she called upon him for an old debt, though it broke his heart ; so loving, that she carried him a cordial breath with her own hand, though it could not revive him.

He died a batchelor, 20 Nov. anno 1591, having adopted Sir William Newport, his nephew, viz. the son of Dorothy Hatton, his sister, by John Newport, of Harringham, in Warwickshire, Esq; for his heir, who changed his name to Sir William Hatton, and was then twenty-six years of age ; but in default of issue male by him, he settled the greatest part of his estate on his godson, Christopher Hatton, son and heir of John Hatton, his nearest kinsman of the male line ; being eldest son of John Hatton, second son of John Hatton, his father’s brother, before-mentioned.

Which Sir William Newport, alias Hatton, leaving (by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter and heir to Sir Francis Gawdy, Knt. Lord Chief Justice of the Common-Pleas,) only a daughter, Frances, married to Robert Rich, Earl of Warwick, the said Christopher Hatton, did accordingly enjoy the estate.

Which

Which Christopher was made Knight of the Bath, at the Coronation of King James I. and was the ancestor to Lord Viscount Hatton, as is hereafter shewn.

John Hatton, Esq; (second son of John, and Joan his wife, daughter of John Westby, before mentioned,) was of Gravesend, in Kent, and had by his wife Dionis, daughter of — War, or Ware, in Suffex; two sons; 1. William Hatton, of Gravesend; and, 2. John.

This John, (second son of John, of Gravesend) was of Stanton, in Cambridgeshire, and living in 1579. He married Jane, daughter of Robert Shute, Baron of the Exchequer, and one of the Justices of the Common-Pleas, and by her had, 1. Sir Christopher Hatton, of Kirby, in Northamptonshire, Knt. made Knight of the Bath at the Coronation of King James I. from whom is descended Lord Viscount Hatton, as before mentioned; 2. Robert; 3. Thomas.

Sir Thomas Hatton, of Long-Stanton, Cambridgeshire, Knt. (third son of the last named John Hatton, Esq;) was by King Charles I. created a Baronet of England. He married Mary, daughter of Sir Giles Allington, of Horse-heath, in Cambridgeshire, Knt. and left three sons; 1. Thomas; 2. John, who died without issue; 3. Sir Christopher; and three daughters; Mary; Elizabeth, married to Sir William Boteler, of Kinton, in Bedfordshire, Knt. and Jane. He died Sept. 23, 1658, aged seventy-five.

Sir Thomas, his eldest son, succeeded him, who married Bridget, daughter of Sir William Goring, of Burton, in Suffex, Bart. and by her had two sons, Christopher, and Thomas; and several daughters; of which Mary married John Pocklington, of Huntingdon; Elizabeth, to Thomas Day, of Qui, in Cambridgeshire, Esqrs; Rebecca, to — Crayker, of London; and Dorothy, to Tirrel Dalton, of Fulborne, in Cambridgeshire, Esq. The sons of Sir Thomas both lived to enjoy the title, but died young, within a few days of each other: Whereupon the title fell to

Sir Christopher Hatton, Bart. third son of Sir Thomas, the first Baronet, (John, the second son, dying without issue before his elder brother.) This Sir Christopher had to wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Buck, of Westwick, in Cambridgeshire, Esq; and by her had several sons, and one daughter; whereof only two sons, viz. Sir Thomas, and Sir John, survived him; and the daughter, who died soon after him, unmarried. Sir Christopher died in October, 1720, and was succeeded in title and estate by his eldest surviving son,

Sir Thomas Hatton, Bart. who married, first, Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Cooper Orlebar, of Henwick, in Bedfordshire, Esq. She dying May 5, 1732, aged forty-four, he married soon after, to his second Lady, Henrietta, daughter of Sir James Astley, of Woodend, in the parish of Harlington, in Bedfordshire, Knt. (by Anne, his wife, second daughter of Sir Thomas Penyston, of Cornwall, in Oxfordshire, Bart.) and dying at Woodend, June 22, 1733, was buried in the chancel of Long-Stanton. Leaving no issue, the title and estate descended to his only surviving brother,

Sir John Hatton, Bart. who married Mary, daughter of Thomas Hawkes, Gent. and relict of Mr. William Hitch, by whom he left three daughters; one of them, Elizabeth, is dead; and one son, Sir Thomas, his successor; and dying June, 1740, was succeeded in title and estate by his only son,

Sir Thomas Hatton, the present Baronet, born Sept. 14, 1728, who married a daughter of Dingley Ascham, of Connington, in Cambridgeshire, Esq; and had two sons, of whom the eldest died young.

The Rev. William Hatton, third son of Sir Christopher, who died before his father, married Susanna, daughter of Mr. Hinton, and had by her one son, Christopher, who is Rector of Girton, in Cambridgeshire.

Which Richard married Mrs. Joan Musgrave, and had issue Robert Abdy, of Abdy, in the county of York, who married Mrs. Eleanor Metcalf. His son Robert, married Mrs. Joan Norreys, and had issue Thomas Abdy, of Abdy, who married Cecily, daughter of William Tijas, of Yorkshire, Esq; whose second son, Roger Abdy, of London, married Mary, daughter of — White, of Hutton-Hall, in Essex, and died 1595. His third son, Anthony Abdy, Esq; Alderman of London, died Sept. 1640, having married Abigail, daughter to Sir Thomas Campbell, Knt. Alderman of London, and by her had several children; and from him descended three Baronets, Sir Thomas, of Felix-Hall, of whom we are to treat; Sir Robert, of Albyns, byns, in Essex; and Sir John Abdy, of Moores, in the same county, created Baronet June 22, 1660, both which titles are extinct. Alice, one of the daughters of this Anthony, married Sir John Bramston, Knight of the Bath. His eldest son, Thomas Abdy, Esq; was the first Baronet of this family, advanced to that dignity 17 Car. I. He married two wives; 1. Mary, daughter of Lucas Corfellis, of London, Merchant; secondly, Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Soame, of London, Knt. and had issue by both wives.

88. BAMPFYLDE, of Poltimore, Devonshire.

Created BARONET, July 14, 1641.

THIS is a family of good antiquity, who have long flourished, with great reputation and esteem, in the county of Devon; but it is not certain when they first resided at Poltimore. They were sole Lords of it in Edward the first's reign, having then presented to the Living of Poltimore. The Hockisham estate lies contiguous to it, and is in the present Sir Richard's possession, being brought into the family by the second match in this pedigree, who was a daughter of — de Hockisham. Weston Bampfild, in Somersetshire, belongs now to Sir Richard, and has always been possessed by the heirs male, as far as there are any traces to be found of this family. A considerable estate, at Hardington, in Somersetshire, was given to Sir Coplestone Warwick Bampfylde, father of Sir Richard, by Warwick Bampfylde, a descendant from Peter Baumfield, second son of John Baumfilde, by Agnes de Peder-ton; since which time the name of Warwick has been taken by the family. Margaret St. Maur was descended from the Barons of that name, through the Lovels, Barons of Castle-Cary; the Earls of Douglas, in Scotland; the Earls of Breteuil, Pacey, and Yvery, in Normandy; also the Lords de la Zouche, of Ashby; Roger de Quinace, Earl of Winchester, &c. &c. She was the heir of St. Maur, and Sir Richard appears to be entitled to that Barony.

The first we find mentioned of this family is — Baumfilde, who married a daughter of John Hastings, and had issue — Baumfilde, whose wife was a daughter of — de Hockisham, (the estate now held by Sir Richard,) by whom he had issue John Baumfilde, sole Lord of Poltimore in the reign of Edward I. who married Isabel, daughter of John Faber, and had issue John Baumfilde, who took to wife Eleanor, daughter of Humphry Beauchamp, of Rima, and was father of John Baumfilde, who, by Joanna, daughter of Sir Richard Moreton, Knt. was father of John Baumfilde, whose wife was Isabella, daughter of John de Cobham, and had issue,

John Baumfilde, Esq; who married, first, Joanna, daughter of Geoffrey Gilbert, of Compton; and, secondly, Joanna Hastings. By his first wife he had a son, John, who died without issue. Also,

Thomas Baumfilde, Esq; who married Agnes, daughter of Adam Coplestone, by whom he had three daughters, Alice, Joanna, and Agnes; and two sons: The younger son, Thomas, died young; and the elder, John

John Baumfilde, Esq; married Agnes, daughter of John de Pederton, by whom he had two sons, Sir William Baumfilde, Knt. and Peter Baumfilde, of Hardington; also two daughters; Elizabeth, married to Henry Fraunceis, of Combflory, in Somersetshire, Esq; and Thomazin, married to — Paunsfoot, Esq; This John and his wife lie buried in Poltimore church.

Sir William Baumfilde, Knt. eldest son of John before mentioned, married Margaret, daughter of Walter Paunsfoot, by whom he had one son, and two daughters, Agnes and Alice.

Walter Baumfilde, his son and heir, married, first, Grace, daughter of Sir Ralph Pudsey, Knt. and, secondly, Constance, daughter of Edward Langford, Esq; He died 19 Edward IV. and, by his first wife, left issue,

William Baumfilde, Esq; who married, first, Margaret, daughter of John St. Maur, (and coheirefs to Dame Mary Drewrie, and afterwards of John St. Maur.) His second wife was Margaret, daughter of Nicholas Kirkham, relict of John Cheyney, of Pin-Hoe. By his first wife he had issue one son, and two daughters; Margaret, married to Richarde Yarde, of Bradley, Esq; and Elizabeth, to — Lye, Esq;

Edward Baumfilde, his only son and heir, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Nicholas Wadham, of Merifield, Knt. by whom he had one son, and five daughters; 1. Laurentia, married, first, to — Bidwell, and afterwards to Robert Fulford, Esqrs; 2. Elizabeth, married to George Percival, from whom is descended the present Earl of Egmont; 3. Mary, married to William Warder, Esq; 4. Joanna, married to Richard Pollard, Esq; and, 5. Catharine, to Erasmus Pym, of Somersetshire, Esq;

Richard Baumfilde, Esq; his son and heir, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Sydenham, Knt. of Brimpton, Somersetshire, by whom he had three sons; Sir Amias, of whom hereafter; Giles, and Richard; also nine daughters; 1. Elizabeth, married to George Carey, of Clavillie, Esq; 2. Joanna; 3. Ursula, married to Thomas Fulford, of Fulford, Esq; 4. Susan, married to John Hicks, of Witheridge, Esq; 5. Mary, married to Humphry Moore, Esq; son of Sir John Moore, Knt. 6. Gertrude, married to John Harding, of Dorset, Esq; 7. Anne, married to Christopher Morgan, of Dorset, Esq; 8. Catharine; and, 9. Margaret, married to William Lacy, of Hartrowe, Somersetshire, Esq;

There is a tradition (says Wotton) that during this Gentleman's minority he became a prey to some great person, who carried him into a distant country, and bred him up in the drudgery of the family, concealing from him his quality and estate, and at last made him his huntsman; but one of his tenants (being his nurse's husband) discovering where he was detained, made him acquainted with his fortune; the truth of which he convinced him of, by a remarkable mole which he had in his back, and brought him away privately to Brimpton, the seat of John Sydenham, Esq; who assisted him in his return to Poltimore, and soon after gave him his daughter in marriage. In confirmation of which, he lies at length, with a hound at his feet, under a monument in Poltimore church. Having received no account from the family, concerning this particular, I do not presume to give it as authentic. According to the inscription on his monument, he died May 29, 1594, and his wife, May 4, 1599.

Sir Amias Baumfylde, Knt. his eldest son and heir, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Clifton, of Barrington, in Somersetshire, Knt. by whom he had issue six sons, and four daughters. Richard, his eldest son, died without issue; John, of whom hereafter; William, Amias, Edward, and James. Of the daughters, Dorothy married, first, Edward Hancock, Esq; and, secondly, Sir John Dodridge, Knt. one of the Justices of the King's Bench; Jane married Sir Francis Drake, of Buckland, Knt. Anne and Elizabeth died unmarried. This Amias died at Cotton Heath, Feb. 9, 1625, aged sixty-five, and lies buried under a stately monument in the church at North Molton, in Devonshire.

John Baumfylde, his son and successor, was Member of Parliament for Tiverton, in this county, 1 James I. as also for the county, 3 Charles I. and married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Drake, of Buckland, Devon, Esq; by whom he had eight sons, and seven daughters. The sons were, Amias, Arthur, Sir John, (of whom hereafter,) Richard, Lewis, Francis, Alexander, and Thomas. The daughters were, Elizabeth, married to ——— Ashford, of Ashford, in Devon, Esq; Dorothy, married to Henry Worth, of Worth, in the same county; Joan, Anne, and Ursula; Bridget married to Henry Henley, of Lee, Somersetshire, Esq; and Mary, wife of James Rodd, of Stoke, in Devon, Esq;

John Bampfylde, Esq; (third son and successor of John before-mentioned,) was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, 17 Charles I. being at that time Member of Parliament for Penryn, in Cornwall. He married Gertrude, daughter of Amias Coplestone, Esq; and coheir of her brother, John Coplestone, of Coplestone and Warleigh, in Devon, Esq; by whom he had issue five sons, and eight daughters. 1. Sir Coplestone, his successor; 2. Amias, married to Arabella, daughter of Sir Hugh Wyndham, of Kentsford, Somersetshire, Knight Banneret, and died, leaving two daughters, Gertrude, and Mary; 3. Lewis married to Elizabeth, daughter of ——— Hull, of To Puddle, in Dorset, Dorset, Esq; by whom he left two sons, and two daughters; John, Edmund, Elizabeth, and Anne. 4. John, and 5. Richard, who both died unmarried. The daughters were, 1. Elizabeth, married to Thomas Moore, of Haychurch, in Devon, Esq; 2. Gertrude, wife of Sir William Morrice, of Werrington, in Devon, Bart. 3. Susanna, married to John Gifford, of Brightley, in Devon, Esq; 4. Grace, wife of Sir William Bastard, of Garston; 5. Frances, espoused to Sir John Elwell, of Pinhoe, Knt. 6. Dorothy, wife of Sir Francis Drake, of Buckland, in Devon, Bart. 7. Ursula; and 8. Mary, who both died unmarried.

Sir Coplestone Bampfylde, Bart. eldest son and successor to his father, was designed by his guardians, (his father dying while he was young,) to have a liberal education. He was, therefore, when in some measure qualified for it by school learning, sent to the University of Oxford, where he became a Member, in the quality of a Nobleman, (as they are there called,) of Corpus Christi College. How well he answered that title, appeared from his very splendid way of living there, and that large and noble plate he left to his College when he went thence, which remained a long while after a monument of his munificence, until at length, with some other pieces, it was stolen away.

After this, having stopped at London some time, Sir Coplestone returned into his native county, which happened to be in the dregs of anarchy and confusion; but, having a vigorous soul, actuated, even then, with principles of loyalty to his Sovereign, though in exile, and of duty to the church, then under a cloud, he became very industrious, with several other persons of honour and quality in these parts, for the happy restoration of both. But then his zeal this way, rendered him at length suspected to the men in power: Insomuch, Messengers, or Pursuivants, were sent abroad to apprehend him; at which time, he was pleased to conceal himself a while at Trill, one of the houses of his noble friend, John Drake, Esq; afterward Sir John Drake, Knight and Baronet; by which means he escaped their hands.

Notwithstanding any threatening danger that might happen, his generous mind could not be affrighted from following his duty and honour. And therefore, when the Commons of the city of Exeter began to rise, and to put themselves in arms, declaring for a free Parliament, which happening at the general quarter-sessions, for the county of Devon, this Gentleman, and several other persons of quality, were there present; they all agreed in a Remonstrance to be forthwith drawn up, and sent to the Parliament. This was a matter of no small consequence, quence, and by none more vigorously pursued than by this honourable person : So that the Remonstrance was drawn up, and presented to the House by this Gentleman's uncle, Thomas Bampfylde, Esq; then Recorder of that city.

This Remonstrance became a precedent to many other towns and cities in England to do the like : Whereby the army in and about London, consisting of fourteen thousand old foot soldiers, were dispersed throughout the kingdom (of which fifteen hundred were sent to Exeter) to prevent the like insurrection as had happened there, elsewhere. Which dispersion, how much it facilitated General Monk's march into London but with seven thousand old soldiers, and consequently, how greatly this bold and brisk Address of our Country Gentlemen, promoted the happy Restoration of Church and State, which soon happened hereupon, is very obvious to observe, if not so easy for envy to acknowledge.

After this, again, (may we credit a late Historian,) when our most noble countryman, General Monk, was come into England with his army, to restore the nation to its right senses, the county of Devon, together with the city of Exon, join in a Petition of Right to his Excellency the said General ; and it was agreed that it should be presented to him by the hands of this great Patriot, Sir Coplestone Bampfild, for which, what entertainment he met withal from the Rump, you may take as follows :

Sir Coplestone Bampfild, presenting to General Monk an humble Petition for Right, in the name of the city and county of Exeter and Devon, without any respect to the counties whence he came, the message he carried, or the honourable person to whom employed, with another honourable Gentleman that came on a like account, was confined to the Tower by the Rump. But his stay there was not long, for Charles the Second at length came.

Hence this Gentleman, having thus acted in conjunction with other worthy Patriots, for restoring the public welfare, it may not be forgotten, what particular care and pains he took for the conserving thereof, beyond a possibility of an interruption : And this he did, by disarming disaffected and suspicious persons, whose disloyalty was now become not only their principle, but their interest, as being (some of them at least) in profitable offices and places of trust ; others in the possession of the King's, or Church's lands and houses, and they could now near as willingly have parted with their lives, as with them.

This Gentleman, together with another very honourable person of our county, the Hon. Sir William Courtenay, of Powderham-Castle, Bart. raising each a gallant troop of about an hundred and twenty Gentlemen, (most of them persons of quality and estates,) in the head of which they rode themselves, securing some, and disarming others, they brought all the disaffected in those parts, into a due subjection to the Government, in a little time.

When these dangers now were so happily over, and the nation once more settled upon its ancient bottom, this honourable person had the whole Posse Comitatus of Devon put into his hands, by King Charles the Second; he being the first High-Sheriff of this county, which he made after his return to the throne; and this was in the year 1661. Which office, Sir Coplestone executed with great splendor, in an extraordinary number of liveries and attendants.

Nor was this the only place of trust and honour he was concerned in, for the service of his Prince and Country; but, besides his being constantly in Commission of the Peace, and Deputy Lieutenant of the county, (a little while only excepted in King James the Second's reign, when he, with a great many other loyal Gentlemen, had the honour to be turned out,) he was chosen (in despite of all the interest could be made to the contrary) Knight of the Shire, to serve as one of the Representatives of this honourable county in Parliament; so generally was he beloved.

Nor was this Gentleman concerned only in the menagery of the civil affairs of the county; but engaged in the military also, as being (what of long time was in his family) one of the Colonels of the County Militia; in which post he continued unto the time of the Monmouth Invasion, when somewhat declining in his health, and his son being come of age, he dropped that honourable office into his hands.

Having thus accompanied this eminent person to the last scene of his life, we can do no less than observe, how he performed that part thereof, and so quitted the stage of mortality.

When the Prince of Orange first landed in Devon, and had marched with his army so far as Exeter, Sir Coplestone being ill himself, was yet pleased that his son, the Colonel, should wait upon his Highness, and congratulate his arrival, as one come to preserve our Laws and Religion, and maintain the established Government. But when, at length, he apprehended that matters were carried beyond all imaginations, fearing a change would be made in the fundamental constitution of the Government, he so far declared against those proceedings, as to refuse payment of any new-made rates and taxes, and the Collectors were enforced to levy them by distress upon his goods.

Not long after, going to visit his son's relict at Warleigh, the gout, with which in his latter years he had been greatly afflicted, afflicted, returned upon him with violence, and, like an armed man, surprizing the castle of his heart, soon put a period to his days, in the fifty-fifth year of his life, 1691.

Before his decease, (what is very remarkable,) he called his family together, and left this in strict charge with them, that they should always continue faithful to the Religion of the established Church of England, and be sure to pay their allegiance to the right Heirs of the Crown. His remains being brought from Warleigh, were entombed, among his ancestors, in the Parish Church of Poltimore, without any funeral monument. Thus far Prince's Worthies.

He married, first, Margaret, daughter of — Bulkeley, of Burgate, Hants; and, secondly, Jane, daughter of Sir Courtenay Pole, of Shute, in Devon, Bart. By his first Lady he had two sons, and one daughter; John-Coplestone-Bulkeley, who died without issue; Hugh died before his father, by a fall from his horse; Margaret died an infant. By his second Lady he had no issue.

Hugh Bampfylde, Esq; (who died in his father's life-time, as before mentioned,) by Mary, daughter and heir of James Clifford, of Ware, Esq; left two sons, and a daughter; 1. Sir Coplestone-Warwick, the succeeding Baronet; 2. John, who represented first the county of Devon, and, after his nephew, Sir Richard, came of age, he gave up the county of Devon to him, and represented the city of Exeter. He was born April 8, 1691, and died Sept. 17, 1750. He married, first, Elizabeth, daughter of — Bassett, of Heanton-Court, in Devon, Esq; by whom he had no issue; and, secondly, Margaret, daughter and sole heir of Sir Francis Warre, of Hestercombe, in Somersetshire, Bart. by whom he has now living, 1. Hugh Bampfylde, Esq; aforesaid, had also one daughter, Margaret, who died an infant.

Sir Coplestone-Warwick Bampfylde, eldest son of Hugh, succeeded his grandfather in dignity and estate. He represented the city of Exeter in Parliament, 9 Queen Anne, and the county the 12th of that reign, and every succeeding Parliament to his death. He married Gertrude, (relict of Sir Godfrey Copley, Copley, Bart.) daughter of Sir John Carew, of Anthony, in Cornwall, Bart. (by his third wife, Mary, daughter of Sir William Morrice, of Werrington, in Devon, Bart. and had issue Sir Richard-Warwick, his successor; and one daughter, Mary, who married Sir Coventry Carew, of Anthony, in Cornwall, Bart. which Sir Coventry dying, his Lady married, secondly, — Buller, Esq; Member of Parliament for Westlow. She died in Nov. 1762. Sir Coplestone-Warwick dying October 7, 1727, and his Lady, April 14, 1736, he was succeeded in dignity and estate by his only son,

In the reign of Henry IV. 1400, William Stirkeland was Bishop of Carlisle, of whom we find this account, in Mr. Browne Willis's Survey:

‘William Strickland, who had been before elected Bishop of Carlisle, 1395, but kept out of it till 1399, received the temporalities Nov. 15, that year, and became consecrated at Cawood, Aug. 24, 1400, by the Archbishop of York, on the King's recommendation of him to the Pope. He was a great benefactor to his Cathedral, as his predecessor (Thomas Merks, alias de Newmarket, alias Somastre, Monk of Westminster) had been to the Bishoprick. He died August 30, 1419, and was buried in the Cathedral, under an arch in the north isle, on one side the choir, where is yet to be seen his effigies, elegantly cut in freestone, habited in his pontificalibus.’

His second wife was the Lady Frances Finch, eldest daughter of Thomas, Earl of Winchelsea, by whom he had Sir Thomas, his son and heir. This Sir William was a considerable person in Oliver Cromwell's time, and one of those the Protector summoned to take place as a Lord, and to have that dignity in all commissions; he died about 1671, and was succeeded, in dignity and estate, by his only son, Sir Thomas Strickland, Bart. who married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of Sir Francis Pile, of Compton-Bauchamp, in Berks, Bart. and had issue, Sir William, his successor, and four other sons. Also a daughter, married to John Smith, Esq; Speaker of the House of Commons.

Created BARONET, Aug. 4, 1641.

OF this family (which is of good antiquity,) was Robert de Boveton, who had issue, Richard, father of William, temp. Edw. III. His son, William de Boveton, alias Boughton, was father of Richard, 2 Hen. VI. His son Thomas is mentioned by Sir William Dugdale, in his Antiquities of the county of Warwick, to be possessed of the manor and seat at Lawford, by marriage with Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Geffery de Allesley, of that place, which he chose for his residence, and was constituted a Justice of Peace in Warwickshire, 21 Hen. VI. and so continued till the end of that King's reign, as appears by several renewings of those commissions. In 31 Hen. VI. he served in Parliament, as one of the Knights of the Shire for the county of Warwick, and in the 38th was appointed, with others, to array and arm all persons of body able, and estate sufficient, within that county, for the King's service.

V. and again Sheriff of those counties in 2 Rich. III. and was killed in his service, but how, is variously related. The tradition is, that he was killed in Bosworth Field; but the inquisition, taken after his death, expresseth that he died Aug. 20, 3 Rich. III. which was two days before the battle: Therefore it is probable that, raising forces in the county for the King, he was encountered by some of the Earl of Richmond's troops, in their passage towards Bosworth, and by that means lost his life. He married Agnes, daughter of — Longvile, and had issue, William Boughton, twelve years old at the death of his father, who was 'Squire of the Body to King Henry VIII. and in the 27th of that King, Sheriff of the counties of Warwick and Leicester. all these parts : He married Sufanna, daughter of Sir John Brocket, Knt. and died 1589, leaving Henry, his son and heir, who, by Howard, daughter of Edward Leigh, of Rushall, in Staffordshire, Esq; had issue, Edward, who died Oct. 1642, and by Joice, daughter to William Combe, of Old Stratford, Esq; had issue, William and ———; William died without issue, and was buried March 17, 1663, and the estate came to his nephew, Francis, son of ———, his brother, which Francis Boughton, Esq; married Frances, daughter to Sir Thomas Norton, of Coventry, Knt. who having no issue by her, he gave and devised his estate to his kinsman, Edward Boughton, Esq; a younger branch of the Lawford family, (son of Humphry Boughton, Esq; third son of Sir William, the first Baronet.) 99. GOODRICKE, of Ribstan, Yorkshire.

GOODRICKE is a Saxon name, signifying God's Jurisdiction. It is mentioned by Ingulphus, and other Historians of the Saxon times, and is inscribed upon several old Saxon coins.

It appears from the visitation of Robert Glover, Somersset Herald, that this family flourished for several generations, at Nortingley, or Nortonlee, in Somerssetshire, all whose names, marriages, and issue, are specified in the family pedigree.

At length Henry Goodricke, the third son of Robert Goodricke, of Nortingley, marrying an heiress, the daughter of Thomas Stickford, Esq; in Lincolnshire, the family flourished in that county; where, after six generations, William Goodricke, of East-Kirby, Lincolnshire, Esq; married to his second wife, Jane, the heiress of Mr. Williamson, of Boston, by whom he had three sons and a daughter: The sons were, John, Thomas, and Henry, (ancestor to the present Baronet, of whom hereafter) of which, John, the eldest, succeeded to his father's estate, and was denominated of Bullingbrook, in Lincolnshire, and married ried a daughter of Sir Lionel Dimock, of Maring, in that county, Knt. Thomas, the second son, was in great favour with King Henry VIII. and was employed by him, in several negotiations with foreign Princes. He was one of the thirty-two Commissioners impowered to reform the canon laws, in that King's reign; and when King Edward VI. had reduced that number to eight, he was one of them. He was sent, with others, to reform the University of Cambridge, and was one of the Compilers of the English Liturgy. He was twenty years Bishop of Ely, and by King Edward VI. was joined in commission, with others, to carry the Order of the Garter to the French King, and made an oration at his being invested with it. The same King made him Lord Chancellor of England; from which office he was removed by Queen Mary, and died, unmarried, May 10, 1554, nine months after King Edward.

The Reverend Mr. Downes, in his Lives of the Compilers of the English Liturgy, gives this account of him:

This worthy Prelate was descended from an antient and wealthy family, and was born at Kirby, in Lincolnshire, and educated at Corpus Christi College, in Cambridge. He took his first degree in arts, in 1510, the same year with Cranmer and Latimer; commenced Master in 1514; and, in 1516, was Proctor of the University. He applied himself to his studies with unwearied industry; and acquired a great reputation, for his uncommon proficience, not only in divinity, but in the knowlege of the civil and canon law. His great merit soon recommended him to the favour of King Henry, who sent for him to Court, advised with him in the most difficult affairs of state, and employed him in frequent embassies to foreign Princes. In his reign he commenced Doctor of Laws; and on April 19, 1534, was consecrated Bishop of Ely, in Archbishop Cranmer's chapel, at Croydon. He continued Bishop of that diocese above twenty years; and finding the palace at Ely old and ruinous, at his own charge repaired and beautified it, and built a spacious and magnificent gallery on the north side of it. He was a great favourer of the Reformation; and, on account of his singular learning, was consulted with, and employed in the most important affairs relating thereto. He had a great hand in drawing up, The Institution of a Christian Man; (for a more particular account of which book, see the Life of Archbishop Cranmer, p. xi, xii.) and was a sincere promoter of pure religion, and a patron to all learned men, who, he thought, might be of service, towards the abolition of the papal tyranny and superstitions, and the restitution of true primitive Christianity. Among these he had a particular esteem for Dr. Richard Cox, whom he made his Chaplain; and, by his interest at Court, prevailed prevailed to have the education of the young Prince Edward committed to his care.

After the death of King Henry, he was found so serviceable in promoting the regular progress of the Reformation, and so useful a counsellor in all difficult affairs both of church and state, that it was thought necessary to bestow a suitable reward on him, for his great services. Accordingly, he was sworn into the Privy-council; and, in 1551, was made Lord Chancellor of England. He is, on this occasion, much abused by Dr. Burnet; who, not content with a large invective against him, for accepting a post, so inconsistent with the function and duty of a Clergyman, as he pretends, goes on to load his memory with a heavy accusation of inconstancy in religion, turning with every tide, and resolving not to suffer for the reformation in Queen Mary's reign. But this is a most malicious and groundless charge, a base and unworthy slander on a person, to whom our reformed church is so much indebted: And had Dr. Burnet been but as free from those crimes, as the worthy Prelate, whom he so scurrilously reflects on, he had left a much fairer character behind him, and been in greater repute with impartial posterity, than he is now ever like to be.

But to return to Bishop Goodrick. While Chancellor, he was admired by all, for his impartial distribution of justice; he had the blessings and prayers of the poor, and the favour and esteem of the rich: His greatest enemies could not but acknowledge him gentle, just, and gracious; and his most intimate friends, when they brought a bad cause before him, found him inflexible, severe, and unprejudiced. Having a great esteem of Bishop Day's learning, he laboured earnestly to reduce him from his prejudices, and dispose him to a favourable opinion of the Reformation; but could do no good on a man so wilful and obstinate. He was one of those, who drew up that excellent book, The Reformation of the Ecclesiastical Laws: And at the request of King Edward, put the Great Seal to the instrument for the succession of the Lady Jane Grey. This was the reason, why, upon the fall of that Lady, the Great Seal was taken from him, within two days after Queen Mary came to London. And though it was thought fit, for the present, to let him enjoy the benefit of the general pardon; yet there is no question to be made, but that he would, amongst the rest of the Martyrs, have been brought to the stake for his religion, had he not died, on the 10th of May, 1554, at Somersham, of the stone.

Henry Goodricke, Esq; the third brother, before-mentioned, purchased Ribstan, and other lands in Yorkshire, of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, anno 1542, and died in 1556. He married Margaret, daughter and coheir of Sir Christopher Rawson, son, of London, Knt. and had several children. He was succeeded in his Yorkshire estate, by his son Richard, who was born 1524, was High Sheriff of Yorkshire anno 1579, and died 1581. He married Clare, daughter of Richard Norton, of Norton-Coniers, in Yorkshire, Esq; and was succeeded in his estate, by his son Richard, who was born 1560, was also High Sheriff of Yorkshire anno 1591, and died 1601. He married Meriol, daughter of William, Lord Evre, and by her had seven sons, and several daughters. He was succeeded in his estate by his eldest son, Sir Henry Goodricke, Knt. who was born in 1580, and died in July, 1641. He married Jane, the daughter of Sir John Savile, of Methly, in Yorkshire, Knt. one of the Barons of the Exchequer, who at length was heiress to her brother of the whole blood, Sir Henry Savile, Bart. There were twelve children by this marriage, of which were three daughters, Jane, and Elizabeth, who died unmarried; and Mary, married to Richard Hawksworth, of Hawksworth, in Yorkshire, Esq; and nine sons, whereof only three survived their father, viz. Sir John, his eldest, at his death; 2. Savile Goodricke, Esq; who died at Vienna, aged thirty-two; and, 3. Sir Francis, who married Hester, the daughter of Peter Warburton, of the Grange, in Cheshire, Esq; but died without issue, in August, 1674, at Durham, where he was Chancellor.

Sir John Goodricke, Knt. the eldest son, was created Baronet by King Charles I. He was born April 20, 1617, and suffered very much in the civil wars for his loyalty to the King; and had his estate sequestred, and paid 1343l. 10s. composition to the sequestrators. He was prisoner first at Manchester, and then in the Tower of London; from whence he made his escape into France, where he continued till the Restoration, when he was chosen Knight of the Shire for Yorkshire, and died November 1670. He married two wives, viz. 1. Catharine, daughter and heir of Stephen Noreliffe, Esq; by whom he had his eldest son, Sir Henry; and to his second wife, he married Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Smith, Esq; of Suffolk, and widow to William, Lord Viscount Fairfax, of Gilling, and by her had his younger son, Sir John.

Sir Henry Goodricke, Knt. and Baronet, eldest son and successor to his father, in title and estate, was born October 24, 1642. He was Envoy Extraordinary from Charles II. King of England, to Charles II. King of Spain; and was Lieutenant General of the Ordnance, and Privy Counsellor to King William III. He married Mary, the daughter of Colonel William Legg, and sister to George, Lord Dartmouth; but died without issue, after a long illness, at Brentford, in Middlesex, desex, March 5, 1704-5, and was interred with his ancestors at Ribstan, and was succeeded by his brother,

Sir John Goodricke, Bart. who was born October 16, 1654, and died December 10, 1705. He married Sarah, the daughter of Sir Richard Hopkins, of Coventry, Knt. Serjeant at Law, by whom he left ten children at his death, viz. five sons and five daughters; 1. Sir Henry, the eldest, who succeeded him; 2. Francis, (who married Mrs. Jane Prescott, and had only one daughter;) 3. Richard, (who took Orders, but is since dead, unmarried;) 4. John-Savile, (who married Mrs. Adeliza Herbert, and had issue, two daughters, Adeliza, and Mary;) 5. William, (who married Mrs. Mary Ruffel, and had one son, Henry, and two daughters.)

Sir Henry Goodricke, Bart. eldest son and successor to his father, was born Sept. 8, 1677, and married Mary, the only child of Tobias Jenkyns, of Grimston, in Yorkshire, Esq; (by his first wife, the Lady Mary Poulet, second daughter to the first Duke of Bolton,) and by her had four sons, Sir John, his successor; Henry, (dead;) Thomas, late Lieutenant Colonel of the 25th regiment of foot; and the Rev. Henry Goodricke, Prebendary of York, &c. and also four daughters, Mary, (dead;) Elizabeth, died unmarried; Sarah; and Jane, married to the Rev. Mr. Wanley, of Ripon. 101. DAVIE, of Creedy, Devonshire.

Created BARONET, September 9, 1641.

THE name of this ancient family was originally local, and derived from the habitation of their progenitors, who (as appears by deeds, writings, and other records in the Tower, and other places) were, among other lands, owners of an ancient mansion-house and demesne lands, situate in the parish of Harwood, and anciently known by the name of the WEY, so called from the situation of it, being about the middle way, and almost equidistant from Barneffaple, Biddeford, and Torrington, three chief towns in the north part of Devon. The inhabitants of this seat, and ancestors of this family, were first of all known by the name of DE-LA-WEY, and the first of them mentioned in their pedigree had coat armour, which hath ever since continued the same to this family, although their names have diversly been written, DE-LA-WEY, then DEWY, DEVIE, and afterwards contracted and softened into DAVIE; unto which variation it was the more subject, for that many hundred years since, one Walter Pollard, matching with the daughter and heir-general of this family, became owner of the said ancient habitation, called WEY, which gave name to the family, as aforesaid, and which, ever since the said marriage, hath continued with the Pollards, who, in respect of that match, do also, at this day, quarter the coat of the Davies. But although, by the said marriage, that land, which was most ancient, is lost from this family; yet it pleased God, by matches, industry, and virtue, (which is the soul of gentry, and surest pillar of greatness,) to recompence that loss, and preserve this family in reputation through all ages.

The first ancestor mentioned in the pedigree, (which is a very fine one,) is William De-la-Wey, alias De-Wy, who came over with William the Conqueror. He left issue three sons,

William Devie, alias Dewey, his son and heir, had issue, David Devy, alias Dewy, whose son Thomas Dewye, alias Davy, died 31 Edw. 1303.

David Devye, alias Dewy, was his son and heir, aged thirteen, 31 Edw. I. 1303, whose son Robert Davye, alias Dewy, in an old deed, wrote Robertus De-Via, married Lettice, daughter and heir of John De Oulacombe, by whom he had issue, Roger Davy, who, by Thomafine, daughter and heir of John Fitzwalter, of Ebberleigh, had issue William, his son and heir, who married Alice, daughter of Richard Reyney, of Egsford, in Devon.

This William served in Parliament for Melcomb, in Dorsetshire, 4 Hen. VI. and for Barnstaple, 25 Hen. VI. Richard Davy, son and heir of William, aforesaid, had two sons, William, and Robert.

This family, after having long flourished at Ebberleigh, and Uppicot, in the parish of Benford, near Great Torrington in Devon, which hereditarily descended to them from Gilbert Uppicot, who possessed it in the reign of Edw. II. now separated in these two brothers; William continued the line of Ebberleigh, and Robert, the second son, settled at Crediton.

Which Robert married the daughter and heir of John Thomas, alias Bardolph, of Tichfield, in Hants, by the daughter and heir of William Bardolph, of Tichfield; by whom he had four sons, 1. John, the elder, of Crediton; 2. Gilbert, of Canon-Teign; 3. Lawrence, of Medland; and, 4. John, the younger, of Creedy, in Samford, and Crediton; and they were the original of as many families of note, in the county of Devon.

John Davie, the younger, was thrice Mayor of Exeter, a very hospitable person, and in his first mayoralty, 1584, when Don Antonio, King of Portugal, being driven out of his kingdom by Philip, King of Spain, came to Plymouth, and from thence to Exeter, where he and his retinue were lodged by this Mayor in his own house, and by him very nobly entertained during his abode there, which was a considerable time. He married Margaret, daughter of George Southcote, of Calverly, in Devon, Esq; by whom he left issue a daughter, Margaret, married to Gideon Heydon, of Farwood Epford, in Devon, Esq; and a son, John Davie, of Creedy, Esq; who, on Sept. 9, 1641, was created Baronet by King Charles I. He married two wives; first, Julian, daughter of Sir William Strode, of Newnham, by whom he had issue four daughters; Mary, married to John Willoughby, of Payhembury, in Devon, Esq; Elizabeth, married to Arthur Copplestone, Esq; Julian; and Margaret, married to Thomas Bear, of Hunsome, in Devonshire, Esq. Also four sons, 1. Sir John, his successor; 2. William, a Counsellor at Law, who married Margaret, daughter of Sir Francis Clark, of Putney, in Surry, Knt. and had issue, one son, Sir William, hereafter mentioned; and four daughters, (viz. 1. Created BARONET, Feb. 5, 1641.

OF this family, it is preſumed, was Andrew Trollope, Eſq; who diſtinguiſhed himſelf in the French wars, temp. Hen. VI. and was killed at Towton fight, temp. Edw. IV. as alſo, Thomas Trollope, of Thorleby, Eſq; who married Margaret, daughter and coheir of Roger Lumley, Eſq; youngſt ſon of Thomas Lumley, Eſq; by Elizabeth Plantagenet, his wife, daughter of King Edward IV. by the Lady Elizabeth Lucy.

Sir Thomas Trollope, the first Baronet of this family, so created, 17 Car. I. who married two wives; 1. * As three Baronets, Sir Lister Holte, Sir Thomas Trollope, and Sir Edward Noel, are descended from three daughters of this Sir John Clobery, it is thought proper to give the following authentic account of Sir John, as published, in a note, by the Editor of Dr. Barwick's life, in English, p. 275. Colonel Clobery was the younger son of an ancient family in Devonshire, which had continued at Bradstone, their seat, above five hundred years. He was born at Bradstone, in the year 1623, or 1624. His father, a Royalist, gave him an ingenuous education, and he was sent to the Temple to study the Law. His natural and acquired abilities were such, it is probable he would have been very considerable in that profession, had he not quitted it, after the murder of King Charles, to serve under his countryman and kinsman, General Monk, who advanced him from one commission to another, till he gave him the command of a regiment. At the Restoration, being presented by the General to the King, he was knighted, and had a pension of six hundred pounds per annum granted to him, his heirs and assigns, for ever. He served in Parliament for the City of Winchester, with James, Lord Annesley, the three last Parliaments of King Charles II. He died at Winchester,

He died at Casewick, Nov. 1729, being succeeded, in dignity and estate, by his eldest son,

Sir Thomas Trollope, the present Baronet, who married Diana, daughter and coheir of Thomas Middleton, of Stansted, in Essex, Esq; by whom he had six sons; 1. 107. ST. QUINTIN, of Harpham, Yorkshire.

Created BARONET, March 8, 1641.

THIS ancient family is said to be denominated from St. Quintin, the capital of Lower Picardie, in France: It is very certain they entered England on the Norman invasion, anno 1066, for in the ancient roll of Battaille Abbey, there is, amongst others, St. Quintin.

Sir Herbert de St. Quintin had, by gift from William the Conqueror, the manor of Skipsey, with the borough of Woodshall and Brandisburton in Mapleton, sixteen oxgangs of land in Killing, the manor of Howlbridge, with the fen and the marsh from the bank to the sea in Yorkshire, and Carltown in the county of Nottinghamshire.

Sir Herbert de St. Quintin was father of Oliver, whose son Sir Robert, in the time of William Rufus, was one of the twelve Knights, who, with Robert Fitzhamon, divided some lands in Wales, which they had by conquest gotten there. He built a castle there, remaining at this time, and called St. Quintin-castle.

In 1134, Adeliza, or Alice de St. Quintin, with the consent of her son, the before named Robert, founded a Priory for Nuns of the Cistercian Order, in a place which Julian held, near Appleton, in Yorkshire, and called it Nun-Appleton: It was commended to the patronage of St. Mary, and St. John the Apostle and Evangelist. This land lay on each side of the river Wharf, partly essarted and partly not, which was confirmed by Thomas Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury. Osbert, Archdeacon of York, was one of the witnesses to the foundation charter made by this Alice de St. Quintin, widow of Robert, son of Fulco, before she married again to Eustace de Merch.

Sir Herbert de St. Quintin was another son of the said Oliver. Agnes, the wife of this Sir Herbert de St. Quintin, founded, A. D. 1149, the Priory of Nun-Keeling, olim Chilling, in the Deanry of Holderness, in the East Riding of Yorkshire, for the health of her soul.

Sir

OF this ancient family, which had long been seated in Nottinghamshire, was John Williamson, (son and heir of William Williamson, late of Horton Cockney,) who 13 Edw. IV. released to John Berry, Lord of Tresholt, one messuage, in Dunfell.

III. LOWTHER, of Whitehaven, Cumberland.

Created BARONET, June 11, 1642.

THIS family appears to be of very ancient standing, and considerable rank in the county of Westmoreland, and hath flourished at Lowther beyond any record, long before the Norman Invasion.

This family has produced one Lord Viscount, and four Baronets, that were all living at the same time, and Members of Parliament, which are here recited :

1. Sir Henry Lowther, of Lowther, Bart. Lord Viscount Lonsdale.

2. Sir James Lowther, of Whitehaven, Bart.

3. Sir William Lowther, of Mask and Holker, Bart.

4. Sir William Lowther, of Swillington, Bart. which title became extinct, but was revived by a fresh patent, granted to the present Sir William, of Swillington, Aug. 17, 1764.

The name, according to the different apprehensions of the writers and customs of the times, has been variously wrote, as Louthier, Louthre, Lowther, Llothar, Lothar, Lothar, Lothair, Lothayre, Lauther, Loder, Loader, Lauder. Olaus Wormius, the Danish Antiquary, being consulted by Sir Henry Spelman, at the instigation of Peter Osborn, about the derivation of this, among other English names, says, he finds it among the ancient Danish and Saxon names of their Kings; and tells us, it is derived from the word Loth and Er, which signifies fortune and honour; others look on it as a very honourable name, because they observe many of the Emperors and Princes of Germany to be called Lotharius. But since most of the English names, and that of the most honourable families, are denominated from the towns which they were Lords of, it seems most probable, that this family did so from their lands and barony of Lowther.

At

At Great Preston, in Yorkshire, the arms are there painted of the families the Lowthers have in succession matched into, which were transcribed by Mr. Thoresby, and published in his Antiquities of Leeds and Yorkshire, p. 3. viz. Lowther cum Dayncourt, Bromflete, Rookesbye, Quail, Moubray, Burnel, Lascells, Stapleton, Strickland, Vipont, Lord of Westmoreland, Moulton, Lord of Gillsland in Cumberland. After this we find

Sir Gervasius de Louthier, who held a Knight's service of King Henry III, 1217. Sir Gervasius married Beatrice, a daughter of John, Lord Ros de Kendal, grandson to Robert, Lord Ros, of Hamlock, and Isabella his wife, who was a daughter of the King of Scots.

Sir Hugh de Louthier, his son and heir, was an Officer to King Edward I. He married a daughter of Linglish, or Lingleys le Cofyn. Gervase de Louthre, Archdeacon of Carlisle, appears to be another son; he was appointed to this office in 1230, and died 1240. Sir Hugh was succeeded by

Sir Hugh de Louthier, his only surviving son, who, by a daughter of Moriceby, of Moriceby, in Cumberland, left issue;

Sir Hugh de Louthier, Attorney-General, 20 Edw. I. He was returned one of the Knights for the county of Westmoreland, the 28th of the same reign, and had summons to be at Parliament held at Northampton, 1 Edw. II. He married a daughter of Sir Peter de Tiliol, of Scaleby Castle, in Cumberland; and was succeeded by,

1. Sir Hugh.

2. Thomas de Louthier, made one of the Justices of the King's-Bench, 5 Edward III. with Richard de Willoughby. He married Anice, one of the two daughters and co-heirs of William Plumland, of Plumland. His daughter Margaret married Henry Mauleverer, of Allerton Mauleverer.

The said Sir Hugh de Louthier, son and heir, was, the 17th of Edw. II. one of the Knights of the Shire for Cumberland, was commissioned to array all men at arms in the county of Westmoreland, and to be in readiness to attend the King on the 14th of Edward III. and had been in several engagements against the Scots. He served in Parliament for the county of Westmoreland, and in the 15th of Edward III. he was again returned one of the Knights for Cumberland; on the 17th he served for the same county. He was High Sheriff of Cumberland the 26th, 27th, and 28th of the same reign, which was then an office of great trust and power. The 33d of Edw. III. he was again returned one of the Knights for Westmorland, as he was the 45th and 46th of that reign, which was the last time he served; for growing in years his son and heir was elected. He married Margaret, daughter and heir of Gessery de de Lucie, Baron of Cockermouth, but we do not find that she claimed the title. He was succeeded by his son,

Sir John de Louthier, who, by an indenture, is wrote, Johannis fil. Hugo de Louthier; he was elected the 50th of Edward III. for Westmorland, and the 2d of Richard II. With him Sir Thomas de Clifford covenanted by indenture, touching the government of Thomas Clifford, his son and heir, and his own as well as his ward's peace. He married Margaret, afterwards the wife of Sir Robert de Kendall. This Sir John was succeeded by,

1. Robert, of whom presently.

2. Sir William, of Crookdale, who was Sheriff of Cumberland, 2 Henry IV. as also the 7th, 8th, and 9th year of that reign; and Representative for that county, with his brother Sir Robert, the 5th of Henry IV. and by Alice, daughter and heir of John Hale, of Kirkby there, had issue Richard; also Elizabeth, the wife of Richard Orpheur, Lord of Plumland, in Cumberland, Esq;

3. — Lowther, wife of Thomas de Wharton, of Wharton, in Westmorland, Esq; ancestor to the Duke of Wharton.

The said Sir Robert was Knight of the Shire for Cumberland, the 15th and 17th of Richard II. and the 2d of Henry IV. was again elected for the same county; as also the 5th of Hen. IV. with his brother; and again in the 8th of Hen. IV. and the 2d of Henry V. and Sheriff of Cumberland, 6 Henry V. He greatly contributed, anno 1401, towards building the choir of the cathedral of Carlisle, with his father-in-law, William Strickland, bishop of the diocese, whose daughter and heir, Margaret, he married. He died 9 April, 1430, according to the date on his tomb in Louthier church, whereof the family are patrons. He left issue, 1. Sir Hugh Louthier; 2. Mary, wife of Sir James Pickering, of Windermere, in Westmorland; 3. Anne, wife of Sir Thomas Curwin, of Workington, in Cumberland.

The said Sir Hugh, in the life-time of his father, served under that glorious Monarch King Henry V. in the wars in France, and was in the famous battle of Agincourt, 1415, there being with him his kinsman, Jeffery de Louthier, Receiver-General of the Duchy of Lancaster, and Richard de Louthier; he served the 4th of Henry IV. for the county of Cumberland, as also the 9th of Henry VI. and Sheriff of the said county the 18th and 34th of the same reign. He married Anne, daughter of John de Darenwater, of Darenwater, in Cumberland, Esq; and was succeeded by Sir Hugh de Louthier, who married Mabel, daughter and heir of Sir William Lancaster, of Stockbridge, in Westmorland.

Sir

Sir Hugh de Louthier was his son and heir, and married Anne, daughter of Sir Lancelot Threlkeld, of Threlkeld, in Cumberland, by Margaret his wife, daughter and sole heir of Henry Bromflete, Lord Vesey, by whom the said Margaret was by birth Baroness Vesey; and by her marriage to her first husband, John, Lord Clifford, brought the title into that family, as also Lensborough-House, and other estates. The said Sir Hugh died the 2d of Henry VIII. and left issue, Joan, wife of John Flemin, of Rydall, in Westmorland, Esq; 4. Mabel, wife of Christopher Dalston, of Acornbank, in Westmorland, Esq; 37 Henry VI.

The said Sir Hugh was Knight of the Bath at the marriage of Prince Arthur: He married Dorothy, daughter of Henry Lord Clifford, (by Florence Pudsey, his second wife) sister to Henry Clifford, first Earl of Cumberland: Her second husband was Richard, Lord Grey, of Groby, in Leicestershire, who was second son of Thomas, the first Marquis of Dorset, whose mother, Elizabeth, (daughter of Earl Rivers) being a very beautiful young widow, King Edward IV. fell passionately in love with her, and married her; from this Lady Elizabeth's first husband, Sir John Grey, was descended Lady Jane Grey, who was proclaimed Queen, and afterwards beheaded, Feb. 12, 1554, aged seventeen, with her husband, Dudley, Lord Guilford. The aforesaid Lord Henry Clifford's great grandfather, John, Lord Clifford, married Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Lord Percy (called Hotspur) by Elizabeth his wife, eldest daughter of Edmund Mortimer, third Earl of March, whose wife, Philippa Plantagenet, was the only daughter and heir of Lionel, Duke of Clarence, third son of King Edward III. from whom it appears that the said Dorothy, wife of Sir Hugh Lowther, was lineally descended. She was buried at Groby with her second husband, Richard, Lord Grey. The said Sir Hugh Lowther was succeeded by,

1. Sir Richard, his eldest son and heir, of whom presently.
2. Gerard, of Penrith, in Cumberland, Benchet of Lincoln's Inn, married —, daughter of — Dudley, in Westmorland, Esq. He was Sheriff of Cumberland the 35th of Eliz. and Knight of the Shire for the same county the 43d of Eliz.

He married Frances, daughter of John Middleton, of Middleton, in Westmoreland, Esq; and after he had seen his children to the fourth degree, giving them a virtuous education, and means to live, advanced his brothers and sisters out of his own patrimony, governed his family, and kept plentiful hospitality for fifty-seven years together; he ended his life the 27th of January, 1607, aged seventy-seven, and was buried at Lowther, where lieth the portraiture at full length of an armed Knight, with a table of four descents, beginning with Sir John his grandfather. The ſaid Sir William Lowther was created a Baronet 15 June, 1697, and was Member for the town of Lancaſter, from 1702 to 1705. He married Catharine, daughter and heir of Thomas Preſton, of Holker, in Lancaſhire, Efq; and was father to Sir Thomas, and Preſton, and alfo to Catharine, who died at Windſor, unmarried, May 9, 1764; and the ſaid Sir Thomas was alfo Representative for Lancaſhire, 1722. He married Lady Elizabeth, third daughter of William, Duke of Devonſhire, who died Nov. 1746; and his fon and heir, Sir William Lowther, claimed the title of Lord Sands de la Vyne, by his grandfather's marriage to the daughter of Holcroft, before-mentioned, and was Knight of the Shire for Cumberland, Keeper of the Seals, and Lieutenant and Cuſtos Rotulorum of Weſtmoreland, but he died ſoon after, unmarried, April 15, 1756, and was buried with his family at Cartmel, near Holker, whereby his title became extinct, and the Whitehaven eſtate, purſuant to the will of the late Sir James Lowther, reverted to the preſent Sir James, and his eſtate at Holker he left to his couſin, Lord George Cavendiſh.

We now return to Sir John Lowther, of Lowther, who was one of the Knights for the county of Weſtmoreland, 21 of K. James I. and alſo in three Parliaments in K. Charles the Firſt's time; in the laſt of which, his eldeſt fon and heir was elected with him. He was knighted the 6th of January, 2 Car. I. and was one of his Maſteſty's Council at York, 1629, for the government of the northern parts. He married Eleanor, daughter of William Fleming, of Rydall, in Weſtmoreland, Efq; and died Sept. 15, 1637, and left iſſue,

1. Sir John, his eldeſt ſon.

2. Sir Chriſtopher, Lord of the Manor of Whitehaven, in Cumberland, created a Baronet, 11 June, 1642; he was High Sheriff of that county, 16 Car. I. and by his wife, Frances, daughter and heir of Chriſtopher Lancaſter, of Stockbridge, in Weſtmoreland, Efq; (after the wife of John Lamplugh, of Lamplugh, in Cumberland) had iſſue, Sir John, Knight of the Shire for Cumberland, 21 Car. II. to the 13th of William III. and one of the Lords of the Admiralty, from 1688

1688 to 1695; also a daughter, Frances, wife of Richard Lamplugh, of Ribton, Esq; brother to Thomas, Archbishop of York. The said Sir John Lowther married Jane, daughter of Wooley Leigh, of Addington, in Surry, Esq; and died Jan. 1705, leaving issue, Sir Christopher, whom he disinherited with only an annuity: He married Jane, daughter of Philip Nanson, Rector of Newnham, Hants; he died at St. Andrew's, Holborn, London, without issue, Oct. 2, 1731; whereupon his younger brother, Sir James, succeeded to the title, as he had before to the paternal estate; he was Vice Admiral of the county of Cumberland, for which place he served several times Knight of the Shire, as also at the time of his death; was some time Member for the city of Carlisle, and also for Appleby; he died unmarried, Jan. 1755, aged eighty-three, and was buried at Whitehaven, in the new church called Trinity, to which he was a great benefactor. He was immensely rich, and supposed to have died worth near two millions. He was greatly enriched by the colliery at Whitehaven, which has proved an inexhaustible fund of wealth to this family. They were first wrought for foreign consumption, in the reign of K. William, by the said Sir John Lowther, who may truly be esteemed the founder of that town, by the encouragement which he gave to tradesmen and artificers to settle there: His son, the late Sir James, before-mentioned, pursuing the same plan, brought the mines to their present state of perfection. It has been computed that these two Gentlemen, in the compass of a century, expended, in one of them only, upwards of half a million sterling, besides what has since been laid out on them by the present Sir James, who has not only a very lucrative and advantageous trade carried on to London, but also a considerable number of vessels to supply the city of Dublin with coals.

3. Sir William Lowther, of Swillington, in the county of York, of whom see an account in the pedigree of the present Sir William, N^o. 387. Vol. III.

6. Frances, wife of John Dodsworth, of Thornton Watlas, in the county of York, Esq.

The said Sir John Lowther, of Lowther, was Knight of the Shire for Westmorland, with his father, the 3d of Car. I. and in 1640, was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia. He lived retired, but was one of the Knights for Westmorland in that Parliament which restored King Charles II. He first married Mary, third daughter of Sir Richard Fletcher, of Hutton, in Cumberland, by whom he had issue: He had also a second wife, Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of Sir John Hare, Bart. the elder branch of Lord Colerain, (by Elizabeth his wife, only daughter of Thomas, Lord Keeper, Coventry) and widow of Wooley Leigh, Esq. He had issue by her, 1. Ralph Lowther, father to John, who was Member for Pontefract, 1722, and died at Bath, July 1, 1727, and buried there; also to Elizabeth, the wife of Robert Frank, Recorder, and Member for Pontefract; also to Dorothy, wife of Lawson Trotter, and to Margaret, wife of William Norton, of Sawley, in the county of York; whose daughter, Margaret, married Thomas Bright, of Badefsworth, Esq; and had issue, Mary, their only daughter and heir, who married, Feb. 26, 1752, Charles, Marquis of Rockingham. And the aforesaid Sir John Lowther had also issue by this second wife, William Lowther, of Bedford-Row, London, Counsellor at Law, who married a daughter of Sir William Rawlinson, one of the Commissioners of the Great Seal; and Robert Lowther, Knight of the Shire for Westmorland, 1705 to 1708; he died unmarried; besides a daughter, Margaret, who married Sir John Aubrey, of Borettal, Bucks, Bart. March 6, 1678. The said Sir John Lowther died Nov. 30, and was buried Dec. 4, 1675, at Lowther. He had issue by his first wife, five sons and four daughters;

1. Colonel John Lowther; 2. Richard, who died young;

Col. John Lowther, before-mentioned, died in his father's life-time, and married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of Sir Henry Bellingham, Bart. His second wife was Mary, daughter of William Withins, of Eltham, in Kent, Esq; by whom he had one son, William Lowther, Member for the city of Carlisle, 1690 to 1695. He died unmarried.

The issue by his first wife, was,

1. Sir John Lowther, afterwards Lord Viscount Lonsdale.
2. Mary, married John Lowther, of Mask, Esq; Her second husband was George Preston, of Holker, in Lancashire, Esq; by whom she had Elizabeth, the wife of Sir Wilfrid Lawson, Bart. Representative for Cockermouth.

The said Sir John Lowther was created Baron Lowther of Lowther, and Viscount Lonsdale, in Westmorland, by patent, 28th of May, 1696. He was hearty for the Bill to exclude the Duke of York, and promote the Revolution. He died an early death, July 10, 1700, when he had lived forty-five years, two months, and eighteen days. His Lady, Catharine, Viscountess Lonsdale, daughter of the Hon. Sir Frederick Thynn, Bart. grand-daughter of the Right Hon. Lord Keeper Coventry, and sister of the late Lord Viscount Weymouth, erected a monument to his memory. She died at Lowther, January, 1712, and was interred in the same vault.

His Lordship did also rebuild his seat at Lowther in a stately and elegant manner, which was unfortunately burned down about the year 1720.

In a MS. of Sir William Leger's Peerage, I find his Lordship had another wife, Elizabeth, eldest daughter to Gilbert Holles, Earl of Clare, who was also wife to the Lord Barnard. The issue his Lordship had by his first wife are as follow :

In 1715, he was constituted Custos Rotulorum of the counties of Westmoreland and Cumberland, and the 8th of August, 1707, succeeded the Duke of Grafton as one of the Lords of the Bedchamber ; the same year waiting on the King at Newmarket, and his Majesty honouring the University of Cambridge with his presence, he had then conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Laws. On the accession of King George II. he was constituted Constable of the Tower, and on the 5th of April was appointed Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, as his father had been, which he resigned in May, 1735. He died March 12, 1750, unmarried, and the title of Lord Viscount became extinct.

112. ALSTON, of Odell, Bedfordshire.

Created BARONET, June 13, 1642.

SAYHAM-HALL, in Newton, was anciently the seat of the Alstons for many hundred years, from whence that family hath spread itself into several counties.

It is certainly a family of great antiquity, and said to be of Saxon extraction, though the origin of them cannot be traced at this time of day. We find them mentioned so early as Edward the First's reign, when William Alston, of Stisted, in Essex, for want of Warranty of Brockscroft, in Stisted, did grant and confirm to John de Carpenter, of Naylinghurst, so much of his better land in Stisted, except his mansion-house there.

In Edward the Third's time, Hugh Alston bore for Arms, Azure, ten Stars, Or, four, three, two, one, which was long before coat-armour was granted by patents.

After some descents from the abovesaid William Alston, of Stisted, the lineal descendant of this family was John Alston, of Newton, in Suffolk. He was father of William, who, by the daughter of — Symons, had issue Edward, of Sayham-hall, in Newton, who took to wife a daughter of Mr. Colman, by whom he had two sons; 1. William, of Sayham, of whom hereafter; 2. Thomas, of Edwardston, in Suffolk, who married, first, Dorothy, one of the daughters and coheirs of — Holmsted, of Mapsted, in Essex, by whom he had Edward Alston, of Edwardston, Esq; His second wife was —, by whom he had Thomas Alston, of Newton, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas West, of London, and had issue, Thomas Alston, of Newton. Edward Alston, of Edwardston, aforesaid, married Margaret, daughter of Arthur Penning, of Kettleborough, in Suffolk, Esq; by whom he had Sir Edward Alston, of London, Knt. Doctor in Physick, and President of the College of Physicians; Joseph Alston, of Chelsea, Esq; ancestor to the present Sir Evelyn Alston, Bart. of whom hereafter; and Penning Alston, of London. Sir Edward married Susan, daughter of Christopher Hudson, of Norwich, by whom he had two daughters; 1. Mary, married to Sir James Langham, of Cottesbrooke, in Northamptonshire, Bart. (who had only one daughter, Mary, married to Henry Booth, Lord Delamer, afterwards Earl of Warrington; 2. Sarah, married, first, George Grimstone, Esq; eldest son of Sir Harbottle Grimstone, Bart. Master of the Rolls; secondly, John, Duke of Somerset; thirdly, Henry, Lord Colerain, and died without issue.

William

William Alston, of Sayham-Hall, Esq; son and heir of Edward, aforesaid, married Margery, one of the daughters and coheirs of — Holmsted, of Maplested, in Essex, Esq; (by the daughter of William Bindlofs, Esq; Serjeant at Law,) by whom he had several children : But their lines failed, except William, the eldest, and Thomas, the fourth son, of whom hereafter.

113. CORBETT, of Leighton, Montgomeryshire.

Created BARONET, June 20, 1642.

NOT to go higher than 1066, it may suffice to say, that Corbett, a noble Norman, came over with William the Conqueror, in whose reign he was one of the principal persons entrusted and employed under Roger, Earl of Shrewsbury, in his county of Salop, together with Roger, and Robert, two of his sons, of whom Ordoricus Vitalis, who was a contemporary author, gives a character, ‘That the said Earl was a prudent and moderate man, a great lover of equity, and of discreet and modest persons; and says, he being freely assisted by the wisdom and courage of the said Corbett, and his two sons, Roger and Robert, (among other principal persons,) was as glorious amongst the greatest Nobles, as any of them all, by keeping the Welch in awe, and that whole province in peace.’

The said Robert, had a son Robert, Lord of Alcester, in Warwickshire, and two daughters. Sandford calls him Sir Robert, and says, ‘That Sibyl, one of his daughters, had a son Reginald, made Baron of Castlecomb, Earl of Cornwall, and from her, by Henry Fitz-Herbert, Chamberlain to Henry I. are descended the noble family of the Herberts, Earls of Pembroke, and the other Peers, &c. of the said family; and Philipot says, from the same Sibyl Corbett are descended the noble family of the Finch’s, Earls of Winchelsea, and the other Peers, &c. of the said family. From Alice, another daughter of Sir Robert, who was married to William Botreaux, Lord Botreaux, or Boscastle, the noble family of the Earls of Huntingdon, is descended.’

The said Roger Corbett, brother of Robert, had issue, William Corbett, of Caus-Castle, and Wattleborough; and Everard.

The aforesaid William, son of Roger Corbett, had two sons, Sir Robert Corbett, of Caus-Castle; and Thomas, of Wattleborough, borough, which latter travelled into foreign countries, and left his lands to his brother in custody.

Sir Richard Corbett, brother of Sir Robert, is in the register of those Noblemen and Gentlemen, who accompanied King Richard I. to the siege of Acon, since which time, and before the year 1597, we find nineteen of this family in the rolls amongst such who served in the several battles, sieges, and actions following, viz. at Agincourt, Grafton, sacking of Cadiz, and in the several wars against the Welch, Scotch, French, and others, in the reigns of Hen. III. Edw. I. Edw. II. Edw. III. Hen. V. Edw. IV. Hen. VII. and Hen. VIII. In 4 Richard I. Sir Fulk Corbett was knighted; between which time and 1 Car. I. we find seventy-one Knights of this family, whereof Roger was a Knight Banneret, 19 Edw. III. another Roger was knighted in the field beside Tewksbury, May 3, 1470. Robert was the seventh Knight of the Bath, of fifty-seven, made at the marriage of Prince Arthur, 14 Hen. VII. And 17 Hen. VII. Robert, Peter, and another Peter, are in the lists of Lords, Knights, and Esquires, resident in Salop, certifying them to have estates of the value to be made Knights of the Bath; Richard was knighted on Allhallow-Day, 15 Hen. VIII. with Henry Somerset, son and heir to the Earl of Worcester, by Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, Lieutenant-General of the King's army in France, in the church of Roy. Miles was knighted by the Earl of Essex, at the sacking of Cadiz, 1596, and Richard was made Knight of the Bath, 1603, at King James's Coronation. A son of the before specified Sir Robert, was Thomas Corbett, who taking part with the Barons, who rebelled at the latter end of King John's reign, that King seized his castle of Caus, &c. which was restored to him, 2 Hen. III. on the said Thomas Corbett's doing his homage. 16 Hen. II. upon a complaint from Llewellyn, Prince of Albeth, against Thomas Corbett, and others, the King returns an answer, dated at Baldoff, Feb. 20, eodem anno, whereby he clears him of the said charge. The said Thomas was one of the Barons-Marchers, 17 Hen. III. who being of a ' brave spirit, (as historians mention,) either put himself in arms, with some of ' the Barons, or being suspected he would, of him, (when the ' Nobility and Realm grew not a little discontented, by reason ' of so many Poictovins, and other strangers, being advanced ' into places of power and trust,) thereupon it was required ' (inter alias) to give hostages for his fidelity, till people's ' minds might be quieted; on which occasion Roger, the son ' of Richard Corbett, was delivered for his pledge.' To the said Thomas, among other Barons-Marchers, 22 Hen. III. did the King send his precept, dated March 8, at Tewksbury, to attend attend him at Oxford, upon Tuesday next after the octave of Easter, there to consult touching Prince Llewellyn's taking homage of the great men in Wales. 32 Hen. III. he was constituted Sheriff for the counties of Salop and Stafford, and continued in the said trust the 33d and half the 34th years of Henry III. between which year and 11 Jac. I. we find the Shrievalty of the county of Salop has been one and twenty years, or times, in this family; also four years, or times, for the county of Stafford, twice for the county of Bucks, twice for the county of Oxford, twice for Wilts, twice for Norfolk, and once for Bedford.

The said Thomas, aforementioned, 41 Hen. III. attended the King in his expedition into Wales; and he in July, 41 Hen. III. had command to assist Hamon L'Esrange, in preventing the incursions of the Welch, towards Montgomery; and 42 Hen. III. he had command (among other great men) to fit himself with horse and arms, and to attend the King at Chester, on Monday next after the feast of St. John Baptist, thence to march against the Welch, then in hostility. The said Thomas, 44 Hen. III. had summons, dated at Westminster, Aug. 1, to repair to the Marches, with all the power he could raise, for the defence of those parts, against the Welch; and 47 Hen. III. he received the King's precept, requiring him to be at Hereford, on the third day after Epiphany, well accoutered with horse and arms, to march against the Welch, who had then possessed themselves of divers lands belonging to the King's subjects in the Marches; and in like manner, to be at Ludlow, upon the octave of the Purification of the blessed Virgin. The said Thomas, (who married Isabel, daughter of Reginald, and sister of Roger Valletort, Baron of Huberton, died 20 Edw. I. From him descended Peter Corbett, who, Dec. 12, 5 Edw. I. by a writ then issued, directed to Edmund, Earl of Lancaster, the King's brother, and dated at Windsor, was summoned along with the said Earl, Nicholas Corbett, and others, to attend the King at Worcester, in the octaves of St. John Baptist, in his expedition against the Welch; and besides the said Peter, Robert Corbett, of Salop, and Nicholas Corbett, of Northamptonshire, are in the Marshal's roll of the Nobility, and persons of Quality, 5 Edw. I. that held by Knights service, that offered and acknowledged their service before Humphrey, Earl of Hertford, Constable of England, and Roger, Earl of Norfolk, Marshal of England, to attend the King on his expedition against Llewellyn, Prince of Wales.

Peter Corbett, 1282, 10 Edw. I. was in the expedition made into Wales; and June 28, 1283, the same King issued writs, dated at Rotheland, and directed to the Earl of Gloucester, and Peter Corbett, among others, to attend him at Shrewsbury the morrow after Michaelmas-day, to assist in a treaty then to be had concerning David, the son of Griffin, his captive; and June 14, 1287, 15 Edw. I. the same Peter, and also Nicholas Corbett, were summoned by writ, dated at Westminster, to attend Edmond, Earl of Cornwall, at Gloucester, three weeks after St. John Baptist, with horses, and arms, on his expedition into Wales; and July 16, the same year, the King being desirous to provide an army against — and other Welch rebels, by writ, dated at Gloucester, summoned the said Peter to attend him at Lampadherner, with four hundred footmen; and November 14, the same year, he was, together with Edmund Mortimer, and others, required to continue in the King's camp at Emelen, to curb the malice and rebellion of the Welch: and 22 Edw. II4. MARKHAM, of Sedgebroke, Nottinghamshire.

Created BARONET, Aug. 15, 1642.

MARKHAM, a village in Nottinghamshire, Mr. Camden observes, gave name to the Markhams, a family very famous heretofore, both for antiquity and valour; of which was Sir Alexander de Markham, Knt. Constable of the Castle of Nottingham, temp. Hen. III. His son Alexander was father of John, who had a son, Lord of Markham, father of John de Markham, an eminent Lawyer, temp. Edw. II. & Edw. III. who by Joan, daughter to Sir Nicholas Bothomfell, Knt. was father of Robert de Markham, Serjeant at Law, temp. Edw. III. who married a daughter of Sir John Cauntton, of Cauntton, Knt. by whom he was father of Sir John Markham, Knt. one of the Justices of the Common-pleas from the 20th of Rich. II. to 9 Hen. IV. He acquired great possessions in Lincolnshire, by his first marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John de Cresly, Knt. sister and coheir of Sir Hugh de Cresly, who died without issue, temp. Hen. Sir John had issue, by his first marriage, Sir Robert Markham,

Knt.

Knt. who married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Sir Nicholas Burdon, Knt. and was ancestor to the Markhams of Cotham, and Allerton, in Nottinghamshire. Sir John married to his second wife, Millicent, daughter and coheir to Sir John Bekeringe, Knt. relict of Sir Nicholas Burdon, Knt. by whom he had Sir John Markham, Knt. ancestor to those we are now treating of. This Sir John, the father, died in 1409.

Sir John Markham, Knt. the eldest son, by the second venter, was an eminent Lawyer, and appointed Lord Chief Justice of the King's-bench, 22 Hen. VI. and had his patent renewed 1 Edw. IV. Of this great man we have the following account :

‘ John Markham was born at Markham, in Nottinghamshire, descended of an ancient and worthy family. He employed his youth in the studying of the municipal law of this realm, wherein he attained to such eminency, that King Edward the fourth knighted him, and made him Lord Chief Justice of the King's-bench, in the place of Sir John Fortescue, that learned and upright Judge, who fled away with King Henry the sixth.

‘ Yet Fortescue was not missed, because Markham succeeded him : and that loss, which otherwise could not be repaired, now could not be perceived. For though these two Judges did severally lean to the sides of Lancaster and York, yet both sat upright in matters of judicature.’

He married Margaret, daughter and coheir to Sir Simon Leke, of Cotham, in Nottinghamshire, whose mother, Joan, was daughter and heir of Sir John Talbot, of Swannington, in Leicestershire.

Mr. Camden styles this Chief Justice ‘ the greatest ornament of this family, who tempered his judgments with so much equity (as you may read in the histories of England,) that his name will endure as long as time itself. After his being displaced, on a very honourable account’ (having refused to give a Charge contrary to his conscience, though by the desire of the King) ‘ and having thereby deservedly obtained the name of the Upright Judge, he retired to Sedgebroke, where he built a burial place in the church, and over it a chamber, where he lodged, and spent his latter days, in great piety and devotion.’ This Sir John left issue by Margaret, his wife, before mentioned, Thomas, Lord of Sedgebroke, who by Catharine, daughter and coheir to William Hartthorne, Esq; left issue John, who espoused Eleanor, daughter to Sir John Turberville, Knt. by whom he had Richard Markham, Esq; living 1562, who by Anne, daughter to George Heveningham, Esq; had a numerous progeny.

116. WROTTESLEY, of Wrottesley, Staffordshire.

Created BARONET, August 30, 1642.

THE name of this family is local, being taken from this place of their habitation, which they are supposed to have been possessed of ever since, if not before, the Norman Conquest; whereof — de Wrottesley, (so his name is written as a witness to two deeds in the Monasticon,) lived temp. Henry II. Sir Hugh de Wrottesley was seated here, temp. Hen. III. as was also Sir William de Wrottesley, 9 Edw. II.

Sir Hugh de Wrottesley, son and heir of Sir William, in 21 Edw. III. had licence to make a park at Wrottesley; and in 23. of that King, had the custody of the lands of William Pilatenhall, deceased; in which year he was made one of the Knights Companions of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, at the foundation of that Order. He married two wives; 1. Isabel, daughter of John Arderne, of Aldford, by her he had no issue; but by his second wife, Mabil, daughter of Rice Rees, he left issue, John, and died 4 Rich. II.

John, his son and heir, had issue, Hugh, who lived 12 Hen. VI. and 1 Edw. IV. and married Thomasine, daughter of Sir John Greisley, Knt. and was by her father of Sir Walter Wrottesley, Knt. who was Lord of Perton, 9 Edw. IV. and was buried in the Grey-friars church, now Christ-church, in London, 1473. He married Jane, daughter and heir of Hugh Barry, of Berks, Esq; and left issue, Richard, and Henry, who died Fellow of a College in Oxford, 1486; and three daughters; Thomasine, wife to William, Lord Stourton; Alice, wife to Thomas, Lord Scrope, of Upsale; and Anne, married to Richard, Lord St. Almand, (or St. Amand.) Richard, the eldest son, married Dorothy, daughter of Edmund Sutton, Esq; son of John, Lord Dudley, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, and relict of Sir John Musgrave, Knt. by whom he had a son named Walter. This couple were each of them buried at Tetnal; and, as their epitaph is in old English verse, made by a country Poet, we shall for once deviate from our plan to oblige the lovers of antiquity.

Sir John was a Gentleman of strict honour and justice, was highly valued by the county where he lived, for which he was chosen a Representative in 1708, and dying in Oct. 1726, was buried at Tetnal. He was succeeded in dignity and estate by his eldest surviving son, 117. THROCKMORTON, of Coughton, Warwickshire.

Created BARONET, Sept. 1, 1642.

THROCKEMERTONA, Throckmorton, or the Rockmoortown, from whence this family is denominated, is situated in the Vale of Evesham, in the parish of Fladbury, anciently written Flandenburgh, in Pershore hundred, in Worcestershire; a manor containing two hamlets, Hull aliàs Hill, and Moor.

The rise of this family is recorded by no antiquary; in a pedigree made by Sir William Dugdale, the first mentioned is John de Throckmorton, who was Lord of the manor of Throckmorton, in the Vale of Evesham, about sixty years after the Norman Conquest, 1130; which leaves no room to doubt, but that this family possessed it at the entrance of the Normans, or long before, the etymology of the name being either British, or, as more probable, Saxon.

From this John descended Henry de Throckemerton, who made a grant of a yard of land in Halla, temp. Hen. III. 1220.

Robert de Throckemerton, (his son, I presume,) had issue Simon de Throckmorton, who, by Isabel his wife, had issue two sons, sons, John and Giles, which last had an annual revenue out of the manor of Throckmorton, A. D. 1330.

John, the eldest, was possessed of Throckmorton, 13 Edw. III. 1339, and had in marriage Agnes, or Annie, daughter and heir of Sir Richard Abberbury, of Adderbury, in Oxfordshire, and was succeeded in the Lordship of Throckmorton, &c. by Thomas, his son and heir, who was of the retinue of Thomas Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, in 20 Rich. II. as also Escheator for the county of Worcester, in 3 Hen. IV. (in those days an office of great account and trust;) he was Constable of Elmley-castle, in 6 Hen. IV. and by Agnes his wife, daughter and heir of — Besford, was father of John Throckmorton, who was employed in the service of Earl Richard, (son of Thomas, Earl of Warwick,) at Caen, in Normandy, in 5 Hen. V. and being brought up to the study of the Laws, was afterwards of his counsel. He died April 12, 23 Hen. VI. leaving Eleanor, his wife, surviving, who was daughter and coheir of Sir Guy de la Spine, or de Spineto (by the heir of Wyke) Lord of Coughton, in Warwickshire. John Throckmorton left issue by Eleanor, aforesaid, two sons, and six daughters; 1. Thomas, ancestor to the branch we are treating of; and, 2. John, who married Isabel, daughter of Edward Bruges, of Lone, in Gloucestershire, Esq; (from whom descended Sir William Throckmorton, of Tortworth, in Gloucestershire, created Baronet 9 Jac. I. which title is extinct.) Of the six daughters, Eleanor married to Richard Knightley, of Fawsley, in Northamptonshire, Esq; Maud, to Sir Thomas Green, of Green's Norton, in the same county, Knt. Margaret, to John Rous; Agnes, to John Winslow; Elizabeth, to Robert Ruffel; and, according to some pedigrees, another Elizabeth, married to Robert Gifford; and by others, married to — Seymour.

Till the time of Thomas Throckmorton, eldest son and heir, it seems that this family was not wholly possessed of Coughton; but then did John Tracy, son and heir of Alice, the other daughter and coheir of Sir Guy Spine, by his deed, bearing date May 29, 27 Hen. VI. grant unto him the said Thomas, and his heirs, that moiety thereof by inheritance belonging to him. Of which Thomas, all that I have seen farther memorable, is, that in 5 Edw. IV. he underwent the Office of Sheriff of the counties of Warwick and Leicester, and that he departed this life in 12 Edw. IV. leaving by Margaret, daughter and coheir of Sir Robert Olney, of Weston, in Bucks, Knt. (and Goditha his wife, daughter and coheir of William Bosom, or Bosun,) four sons; 1. Robert, of whom hereafter; 2. John, who married Jane, daughter and coheir of Henry Baynard, of Spelthull, in Suffolke, and was ancestor to the Throckmortons, of Claxton, and Southelman, &c. in Norfolk and Suffolk; 3. Richard, ancestor to those of Great Stoughton, in Huntingdonshire; and, 4. William, LL. D. Also four daughters; Goditha, married to Edward Peyto, of Chesterton, in Warwickshire; Mary, wife of Thomas Middlemore, of Edgbaston, in the same county; Margaret, to William Tracy, of Tuddington, in Gloucestershire, Esqrs; and Elizabeth, the last Abbess of Denny, who died Jan. 13, 1547, and lies buried at Coughton.

Robert Throckmorton, Esq; son and heir, twenty-one years old at his father's death, I find a Justice of the Peace for Warwickshire, from 2 R. III. till towards his death. In 1 Hen. VII. he was made of that King's Privy Council; and in 2 Hen. VII. this Robert made the Park at Coughton, inclosing therewith a certain common ground called Wikewood, whereunto he afterwards added Samburneheath, and Spiney's Leys, lying within the said Lordship of Samburne; and the same year was a Commander in the King's army at the battle of Stoke. In 10 Hen. VII. he received summons, with divers other persons of quality, to appear before the King in person upon the feast day of All Saints the same year, to receive the order of Knighthood, upon the advancement of Henry, the King's second son, to the Dukedom of York, and created him Knight of the Bath, in honour whereof these were to be made Knights of that order; yet do not I find, by any commission, that he had the title of Knight attributed to him till 17 Hen. VII. That he was a man of singular piety, the sundry bequests, contained in his testament, do sufficiently manifest; and of no less devotion, as may seem by his pilgrimage to the Holy Land, which in 10 Hen. VIII. (having settled his estate) he undertook; but died beyond sea in that journey. He left issue by his first wife, Elizabeth, daughter of — Baynham, only one daughter, Ursula, married to Sir Thomas Gifford, of Chillington, in Staffordshire, Knt. and by his second, Catharine, daughter of Sir William Marrow, Knt. Alderman of London, he had four sons, and seven daughters; 1. Sir George, hereafter mentioned; 2. Anthony, killed in the battle of Pavia, in Italy; 3. Michael, who was of the retinue to Cardinal Pole, and died 1 Nov. 5 & 6 Phil. and Mary, and lies buried at Mantua, father to Francis Throckmorton, Esq; famous for his hospitality to the English travellers at Mantua, where he lived, notwithstanding his burial at Ullen-hall, 1617; 4. Richard, of Higham Ferrers, in Northamptonshire, who married Jane, daughter of Humphry Beaufoe, of Edmonscot, in Warwickshire, and was ancestor to Sir George Throckmorton, Serjeant of the hawks to Queen Elizabeth, and to those of Brampton and Ellington, in Huntingdonshire. Of the several daughters of Sir Robert, Mary was wife of Tho. Burdet, of Bramcote, Bramcote, in Warwickshire; also of Richard Middlemore, of Edgbaston, in the same county, Esqrs; Elizabeth, married to Sir Thomas Englefield, Knt. Catharine, wife of — Boughton, of Lawford, in Warwickshire, Esq; Ursula, Bridget, and Alice, died unmarried; and Margaret, a nun.

Sir George, his son and heir, succeeded, who being a Knight in 17 Hen. VIII. was one of those that attended in Court at that solemn Coronation of Queen Anne, in 25 Hen. VIII. and in 18 and 35 Hen. VIII. executed the office of Sheriff for the counties of Warwick and Leicester. He built that stately castle-like Gate-house of freestone at Coughton, intending (as it should seem) to have made the rest of his house suitable thereto; but the Lord Cromwell, Vicar-general to the King, being Lord of the manor of Oversley, in Warwickshire, and beholding thence, with a rapacious eye, this estate, lying in the vale below, had him imprisoned in the Tower for refusing the Oath of Supremacy, where he was preparing to lay down his life for the same principles as Bishop Fisher, and Sir Thomas More, professed. But Queen Catharine Parr, niece to Sir George's Lady, begged the life of her uncle, and was so great a friend to him, as to procure court preferments for three of his sons, Clement, Nicholas, and George; and when the Lord Cromwell fell into disgrace, the King was pleased to advise with Sir George, amongst others, in what manner to proceed with that unfortunate statesman; who complained thereof in a doleful letter to the King. He married Catharine, daughter of Nicholas, Lord Vaux, of Harrowden, by whom he had nine sons, and ten daughters; 1. Sir Robert, ancestor to the present Baronet, of whom hereafter; 2. Deodatus; 3. Clement, of Haseley, in Warwickshire, Sewer to the Queen, temp. Hen. VIII. and afterwards a Commander at the siege of Bullogne. He married Catharine, daughter of Sir Edward Nevil, Knt. second son to the Lord Abergavenny, and from him descended those of Haseley, and Ansley, in Warwickshire. His eldest son and heir, Job, was a considerable man, and the supposed author of Sir Martin Mar Prelate; and father of Sir Clement Throckmorton, Knt. who was a Gentleman not a little eminent for his learning and eloquence, having served in several Parliaments in the reigns of Elizabeth, James I. and Cha. I. as one of the Knights of the shire for the county of Warwick, and undergone divers other public employments. Clement, his son, was Lord of the manor of Haseley, 1640, and had three sons, and five daughters; Sir Clement, his eldest, knighted by King Charles II. and sat in Parliament as one of the burgesses for Warwick, 1661. He died at Wolverhampton, before his father, without issue ; whereupon his brother Francis, first son by his father's fourth wife, became heir to the estate, and enjoyed it about two years ; and he dying also without issue, his brother Robert succeeded, who married into the Mordaunt family, and possessing it not much above two years, died, leaving his wife with child of a son, which was named Clement, who lived to be married to Lucy, daughter of Captain Thomas Lucy, of Cherlecote, and Catharine, his wife, daughter of Robert Wheatley, of Bracknel, in Berks, Esq; (who after his death married the Duke of Northumberland,) but dying some little time after, left his wife also breeding of Mrs. Lucy Throckmorton, who married, first, William Bromley, of Baginton, in Warwickshire, Esq; eldest son of the Hon. William Bromley, Esq; Secretary of State to Queen Anne ; and, secondly, — Chester, Esq. The fourth son of Sir George, before mentioned, was Sir Nicholas, Sewer to King Hen. VIII. and a Commander at Bullogne ; who in the reign of Edward VI. commanded at Musselburgh-field, and brought the news of the victory ; whereupon he was knighted, and was in the highest favour and esteem with that King. In the reign of Queen Mary he was tried about Wyatt's conspiracy, and made a most notable defence, as may be seen in the State Trials, and by the justness and integrity of the Jury, was acquitted ; and afterwards was received by the Queen with great marks of esteem ; and was at the battle of St. Quintin's. In 1 Eliz. he was Chief Butler of England, and Chamberlain of the Exchequer, and that year employed as Embassador to Francis II. King of France, and Mary, Queen of Scots, his consort, to expostulate the matter with them for assuming the Arms of England, in their quarterings. Much more might be said of his actions and negotiations, for he was a valiant soldier and commander, and a consummate statesman. He left his own life in verse, written, as is supposed, in his imprisonment, (and is now in the library at Weston.) He died Feb. 12, 1570, aged fifty-seven, and Fuller says, ' at supper, eating of sallad, not without suspicion of poison, the rather because happening in the house of one no mean artist in that faculty, R. Earl of Leicester,' and lies buried on the south side of the chancel of St. Catharine Cree Church. He married, (as before mentioned,) Anne, daughter of Sir Nicholas Carew, of Beddington, in Surry, Knight of the Garter, (sister and heir to Sir Francis Carew ;) from this match by his eldest son, Sir Arthur, proceeded the Throckmortons, of Paulers Perry, in Northamptonshire ; from Sir Nicholas, a younger son, who had his mother's estate, and took the name of Carew, was the late Sir Nicholas-Hacket Carew, of Beddington, in Surry, Bart. descended. The fifth son of Sir George, was Kenelme. 6. Thomas; who died without issue. 7. Sir John, knighted by Queen Elizabeth, in the first year of her reign, at Kenilworth, and was Master of the Requests, and Justice of Chester. He married Margery Puttenham, daughter of Robert Puttenham, Esq; by whom he had five sons, and four daughters. He died May 22, 1580, and lies buried at Coughton.

Sir John Throckmorton, of Fekenham, above mentioned, had issue Francis, attainted in 26 Eliz. for treason laid to his charge, as having conspired in behalf of the Queen of Scots. The eighth son of Sir George, before mentioned, was George, who married Mary, daughter of John Bruges, the first Baron Chandos: And, 9. Anthony, of Castleton, Oxfordshire, who married Catharine, daughter and coheir of William Willington, of Barcheston, in Warwickshire, Esq; relict of William Catesby, of Athby Legers, in Northamptonshire, Esq; and was ancestor to the Throckmortons of Hertfordshire and Essex. Of the daughters of Sir George, Mary died without issue; Anne, married John Digby, of Colehill, in Warwickshire, Esq; Elizabeth, first married to Robert Winter, of Hodington, in Worcestershire; and, secondly, to Thomas Smith, of Camden, in Gloucestershire, Esqrs. Margaret, first the wife of — Catesby, and afterwards of Brian Cave, Esqrs. Elizabeth, first married to John Gifford, of Chillington, in Staffordshire; secondly, to William Ligon; and, thirdly, to George Peyto, of Chesterton, in Warwickshire, Esqrs. Mary, to Sir John Huband, of Ipsley, in Warwickshire, Knt. Elizabeth, Meriel, and Elizabeth, who died young, or unmarried. Sir George, the father of these sons, lived to a very great age, and died 1 Queen Mary. He had a more numerous posterity than perhaps any in England at that time, having an hundred and twelve grand-children existing. He died in the year 1500.

Sir Robert Throckmorton, Knt. eldest son and heir of Sir George, before mentioned, was Sheriff of the counties of Warwick and Leicester, 1 Queen Mary. He had two wives; first, Meriel, daughter to Thomas, Lord Berkeley, by whom he had three sons, but only one son, Thomas, survived; and four daughters; Elizabeth, wife to Sir John Goodwin, of Winchington, in Bucks, Knt. Catharine, married to Henry Norwood; Anne, to Ralph Sheldon; and Mary, to Edward Arden, of Parkhall, in the county of Warwick, Esqrs; his second Lady was Elizabeth, daughter of John, Lord Hussy, relict of John, Lord Hungerford, by whom he had two sons, who died unmarried ; and five daughters ; of which Meriel, married Sir Thomas Tresham, of Rushton, in Northamptonshire ; Anne married Sir William Catesby, of Ashby Legers, in the same county ; Elizabeth was wife to Sir Anthony Tyringham, of Tyringham, in Bucks ; and Temperance was wife to Sir Randal Brereton, of Cheshire, Knights. Sir Robert died 12 Eliz. and lies buried with his ancestors at Coughton.

Thomas Throckmorton, of Coughton, Esq; only surviving son of Sir Robert, succeeded him. His life was a continued trouble on account of his religion, his estate being frequently under sequestration, and his person often imprisoned ; but the severest hardship was the loss of the manor of Ravenston, which he held by lease from the Crown, paying 63*l.* 13*s.* yearly, at Lady-day and Michaelmas, or within forty days after, by equal portions : But upon an advantage, taken many years after, for default of payment of the rent, at the exact time, (occasioned by a servant's losing part of the money at gaming, which he was then sent to pay,) he lost the same ; and tho' the Queen's Receiver had afterwards received it, and given an acquittance as if paid at the proper time, yet, after great expences in law, he never could recover it ; and having paid several sums on account of recusancy, which, together with his great hospitality, and noble generous spirit, obliged him to contract several debts, yet he took great care that none of his creditors should suffer by him, and therefore sold the ample estate brought by his Lady, as well as some others. He married Margaret, daughter and coheir to William Whorwood, Esq; Attorney-general to King Henry VIII. (the other sister being married to Ambrose Dudley, Earl of Warwick,) by whom he had one son, John, and five daughters ; Margaret, wife to Sir Rice Griffin (or Griffith) of Brome Court, in Warwickshire ; Elizabeth, married to Sir Henry Griffith, of Wichnore, in Staffordshire, Knts ; Eleanor, to Sir Henry Jernegan, of Cossy Hall, in Norfolk, Bart. Meriel, wife of Henry Berkley, Esq; son and heir of Sir Henry Berkley, of Gloucestershire, Knt. and Mary, who died unmarried. This Thomas Throckmorton, Esq; died March 13, 1614, aged eighty-one, and lies buried at Weston, in Bucks.

John Throckmorton, of Coughton, Esq; his only son, died in his father's life time ; he married Agnes, daughter of Thomas Wilford, Esq; son of Sir James Wilford, of Newman-hall, in Quendon, in Essex, Knt. by whom he had four sons ; 1. Robert, of whom hereafter ; 2. Ambrose, 3. Thomas, who were both Colonels in the army of King Charles I. and died unmarried ; and, 4. George, who died in Italy, unmarried : also five daughters ; 1. Eleanor, wife of Sir Edward Golding, of Colston Bassett, in Nottinghamshire, Bart. 2. Winifrid, married to John Powell, of Sandford, in Oxfordshire, Esq; 3. Margery, Priores of the English nunnery at Louvain ; 4. Margaret ; and, 5. Mary.

Robert Throckmorton, of Coughton, Esq; the eldest son, and heir to his grandfather, was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, 19 Car. I. He resided very little at Coughton, but kept a bountiful house at Weston, for many years, till the breaking out of the civil wars, when he had his estate sequestered, and his house at Coughton plundered, and miserably defaced, and made a garrison of, by the Parliament forces ; whereupon he was forced to secure himself at Worcester, leaving his Lady at Weston ; and dying 1650, was buried at Coughton.

This Sir Robert had two wives ; first, Dorothy, daughter of Sir John Fortescue, of Salden, in Bucks, Knight of the Bath, by whom he had no issue ; she died Nov. 4, 1617, and lies buried at Coughton ; secondly, Mary, daughter of Sir Francis Smith, of Ashby Folville, in Leicestershire, Knt. sister to Sir Charles, the first Baron Carington, (of Wotton, in Warwickshire,) and to Sir John Smith, who with his own hands redeemed, in the battle of Edge-hill, the banner royal of King Charles I. for which signal valour he then received in the field the honour of Knight Banneret. By her Sir Robert had four sons, whereof only Sir Francis survived him ; and one daughter, Anne, married to Edward Guldeford, of Hempsted-place, in Kent, Esq; father of Sir Robert Guldeford, Bart.

Sir Francis Throckmorton, Bart. his only surviving son, and successor in dignity and estate, rebuilt the mansion house at Coughton, and lived in great hospitality during the peace and plenty that ensued after the Restoration. He married Anne, daughter and sole heir of John Monson, of Kinnerley, in Surry, Esq; son of Sir William Monson, Knt. Vice-Admiral of England temp. Jac. I. and had issue four sons, and three daughters ; 1. Francis, who died Sept. 10, 1676, aged sixteen, at Bruges, in Flanders ; 2. Sir Robert, his successor ; 3. John, who died at four years old ; 4. George, who made such improvements by his travels into France and Italy, as to be esteemed one of the completest gentlemen of his time ; he led a life, for some years before he died, with such devotion towards God, humility and charity towards his neighbours, and rigorous mortification towards himself, that his life was thought proper to be printed, in 1706 ; he died Ap. 16, 1705, aged thirty-four years. The daughters were Anne, a nun, of the the order of St. Augustine, at Paris; Mary, wife of Martin Wollascot, of Wollascot, in Shropshire, Esq; and Elizabeth. Sir Francis died Nov. 7, 1680, and lies buried at Weston.

Sir Robert Throckmorton, Bart. eldest surviving son of Sir Francis, succeeded to the Lordship of Coughton, in Warwickshire, and Weston, alias Weston Bosun, near Olney, in Bucks, and to the other estates of his ancestors, being the heir general of Abberbury, Besford, Spiney, and Weston, heir of Bosum, or Bosun. He was born at Moorhall, in Warwickshire, Jan. 10, 1662. He resided chiefly at Weston; and having married Mary, second daughter of Sir Charles Yates, of Buckland, in Berks, Bart. (sole surviving sister and heir of Sir John Yates, of the same place, Bart.) had issue three sons; Robert, who died an infant, Jan. 14, 1688, aged but fifteen days; George, born at Weston, Dec. 7, 1690, who died during his father's life time; and Sir Robert, his successor: Also eight daughters; Anne, Mary, Elizabeth, Catharine, Frances; Charlotte, married to Sir Thomas-Windsor Hunloke, of Wingerworth, in Derbyshire, Bart. Apollonia, married to Sir Edward Blount, of Sodington, in Worcestershire, Bart. and Frances. Sir Robert dying 1720, (and his Lady, July, 1728,) the dignity and estate devolved on his only son.

Sir Robert Throckmorton, the present Baronet, the eighteenth heir male of this family, who hath had three wives; first, Lady Teresa, fifth daughter of the Right Hon. William, Marquis of Powis, by whom he had two sons, and one daughter; Robert, who died young; and George, who died Aug. 30, 1767, leaving ten children; also one daughter, Mary, married to — Fitzherbert, Esq. His second Lady was the daughter of George Collingwood, of Northumberland, Esq; by whom he had a daughter, married to — Gifford, Esq. 119. BLOUNT, of Sodington, Worcestershire.

Created BARONET, Oct. 5, 1642.

THIS ancient family is said to take its rise from the Bonaldi, or Biondi, in Italy, whose historians derive them from the Roman Flavii.

Blound, Lord of Guisnes, in France, had three sons, who came into England with William the Conqueror. One returned into France; the other two, Sir Robert and Sir William Blound, remained in England, and gave a beginning to all the Blounts in this kingdom. Sir Robert, created by the Conqueror, Baron of Icksworth, in Suffolk, married Gundred, daughter to the Earl Ferrers. He was Dux Manuum Militarium, Baron of Icksworth, Lord of Orford-castle, Walsingham, Stepworth, Ashfield, and Laningham, in Suffolk.

Gilbert,

Gilbert, his son, married Alicia de Colekirk, and left issue William, Baron of Icksworth, who married Sarah, daughter of Monchampes, or Monchenfy, Lord of Elwalston, in Derbyshire, and had issue Gilbert, by others called Hubert, Baron of Icksworth. He married Agnes de Insala, or Lisle, and had issue two sons, William and Stephen.

Sir William, the eldest, married Cecilia de Vere, and had issue his son, Sir William; who, taking part with Mountford, Earl of Leicester, was slain at the battle of Lewes, in Sussex, and attainted in Parliament temp. Hen. III. and here ended the Blounts, Barons of Icksworth. But

Sir Stephen, second son of Gilbert, or Hubert, married Maria, sole daughter and heiress of Sir William le Blound, of Saxlingham, in Suffolk, the fourth in a right line from Sir William Blound, brother to the first Sir Robert, and General of Foot to the Conqueror. From the families thus united, all the Blounts, in England, are descended.

Sir John Blount, their son and heir, married one of the sisters and coheirs of Richard de Wrotham, and had issue Peter, who died issueless; and Sir William, who married Isabel, sole daughter and heir to the Lord Beauchamp, of Flache, in Somersetshire, and relict of the Lord Lovet. He had by her three sons, Sir Walter; Sir Thomas, from whom descend the Blounts of Maple-Durham, Tittenhanger, and others; of the third son there is no record.

Sir Walter, of the Rock, son and heir, married Joan, daughter, and sole heir to Sir William de Sodington, whereby they possessed that estate, which has been the continued seat of the family to this day. He had issue Sir William Blount, who married Margaret, daughter and coheir of the Lord Verdun; but dying without issue, left many of his lands to his brother, temp. Edw. III.

Sir John, his brother, married Ifolda, daughter and heir to Thomas, Lord Montjoye, and grand-daughter and heir to the Lord Ralph Montjoye; whence that title was afterwards assumed, as a Barony, in this family: Richard, their eldest son, died without issue; Sir John, second son, by his first wife, daughter to —, was father of John. By his second wife, Isabella, daughter and heir of Sir Bryan Cornwall, of Kinlet, descend the Blounts of Kinlet, Eye, Kidderminster, Orleton, &c.

Sir John Blount, Knt. eldest son, married Isabel, daughter of Sir John Foulhurst; but dying before his father, left his son, Sir John, who succeeded his grandfather; and married Catharine, daughter and heir of Thomas Corbet, of Stanford, by whom he had divers children. His eldest surviving son,

Peter

Peter Blount, Esq; of Sodington, by Anne, daughter of Edward Cornwall, Baron of Burford, had issue Thomas Blount, of Sodington, Esq; who married two wives, first, Catharine, daughter of Thomas Stanford, of Rowly, in Staffordshire, Esq; by whom he had two sons, 1. Walter Blount, Esq; who married two wives; first, Margaret, daughter of Sir John Talbot, of Grafton, in Worcestershire, Knt. and, secondly, Catharine, daughter of Thomas Grey, of Enville, in Staffordshire, Esq; but had no issue by either of them; 2. Henry, who died without issue; but the said Thomas, by his second wife, Jocosa, daughter and heir of Thomas Shirley, of Stockton, in Herefordshire, Esq; had two sons, Sir George; and Peter, who died without issue. Sir George Blount, Knt. eldest son by the second venter, and heir to his half-brother, married Eleanor, daughter of William Norwood, of Leckhampton, in Gloucestershire, Esq; and left issue four sons, and three daughters, viz. Elizabeth, married to William Walth, of Aberley; Eleanor, to Henry Ingram, Esqrs; and Margaret, who died young. The younger sons served King Charles I. in England, Ireland, and Germany.

Sir Walter Blount, the eldest son, was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, 18 Car. I. and married, very young, to Elizabeth, daughter of George Wyld, of Droitwich, in Worcestershire, Esq; Serjeant at Law. This Sir Walter was a great sufferer for King Charles I. for whom he was long imprisoned, first at Oxford, then in the Tower of London; himself, his brothers, and four sons, were all in the same service. His second son, Colonel John Blount, was Lieutenant-colonel in K. Charles II.'s own regiment, when Prince of Wales. His third son, William, was Major in the Queen's regiment. Peter, fourth son, was a Captain at Worcester fight, and married Frances, daughter of Sir John Pershall, of Horsley, in Staffordshire, Bart. relict of John Stanford, of Salford, Esq; Walter, Thomas, and Edward died young, or unmarried. His daughters were, Eleanor, married, first, to Robert Knightly, of Offchurch, in Warwickshire, Esq; secondly, to the hon. Walter Aston, afterwards Lord Aston, of the kingdom of Scotland; Anne, married James Anderton, of Birchley, in Lancashire, Esq; (who left only one daughter; by whose intermarriage, that estate fell to Sir William Gerrard, of Garfwood, in that county, Bart.) 120. CHAMBERLAYNE, of Wickham, Oxfordshire.

Created BARONET, Feb. 4, 1642.

THIS ancient family is descended from William, Count Tankerville, of Tankerville-Castle, in Normandy, who came into England with William the Conqueror, but returned again into Normandy.

John de Tankerville was a younger son of the former Earl, and was Lord Chamberlain to King Hen. I. Richard, his son, was Lord Chamberlain to King Stephen, and thereupon assumed the surname of Chamberlain. William, his son, Lord of North Riston, was Lord Chamberlain to King Hen. II. and married the daughter of — Clifton. He had taken prisoner Robert de Bellemont, Earl of Millain in Normandy, and Earl of Leicester in England, commonly called Blanchmaines, who had taken part with young King Henry, against his father.

Robert Chamberlayne, his son, was father of Sir Richard, who married Jane, daughter and heir of John Gatesden, by whom he had issue Sir Robert, whose wife was a daughter of — Griffith, of Northamptonshire.

Sir

Sir John Chamberlayne, Knt. his son, took to wife Jane, daughter and heir of John Mortein, son and heir of Sir John Mortein, (of an ancient knightly family,) by the heir of Ekney, and had issue Sir Richard, who by Jane, daughter of Sir John Reyns, of Clifton Reyns, Knt. was father of Sir Richard, John, of whom hereafter, and several other children; whereof Sir Richard settled at Sherborne, in Oxfordshire, where his posterity continued till the reign of King James I. when John Chamberlayne, Esq; the last of that branch, died, leaving two daughters, his coheirs. The eldest married, first, Sir Thomas Gage, of Fittle, in Suffex, Bart. secondly, Sir William Goring, of Burton, in the same county, Bart. The youngest daughter married the Lord Abergavenny.

Francis Chamberlayne, Esq; late Member of Parliament for New Shoreham, and Richard Chamberlayne, Esq; of Princethorpe, in Warwickshire, were descended from this branch of the Chamberlaynes.

Which Rich. Chamberlayne, Esq; was late High-Sheriff of the county of Essex; and married Sarah, daughter and heir of Jeffery Stanes, Esq; of Ryes, in Essex, by whom he has only one son, Stanes Chamberlayne.

John Chamberlayne, of Hopton, in Derbyshire, Esq; (second son of Sir Richard, before mentioned,) continued the line. He married Alice, the daughter of Bensted, and had issue Thomas, whose wife was the daughter of — Knifton. John, his son, by the daughter of — Elton, was father of John, who espoused Agnes, daughter of — Keynes, and was father of William, who married Elizabeth, daughter of — Fleming, of Dartmouth; by whom he had issue

Sir Thomas Chamberlayne, of Presbury, who married three wives; first, Anne Vander-Zenney, of the house of Nassau, in the Low Countries. His second wife was Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Ludington, (and relict of — Machine,) from whom the Chamberlaynes, of Maugersbury, are descended. His third wife was Anne, daughter of — Kirkeet, half sister to Sir — Monk, of Devonshire, grandfather to the Duke of Albemarle; from whom descended the Chamberlaynes, of Oddington; which said family is lately extinct.

This Sir Thomas Chamberlayne was eminent for his publick services: He was Ambassador in the reigns of King Henry VIII, King Edward VI, Queen Mary, and Queen Elizabeth.

A younger brother to this Sir Thomas Chamberlayne, was William Chamberlayne, Esq; who settled in Ireland, and left one son, Thomas; who applying himself to the study of the Laws of England, and being eminent in his profession, was first knighted knighted by King James I. and soon after advanced by him to be Chief Justice of Chester: After which, viz. anno 1618, he was promoted to be one of the Justices of his Majesty's Court of King's Bench; but being willing to retire from business, got leave to resign his office in 1622, and, by his Majesty's favour, re-assumed his place of Chief Justice of Chester, in which office he died. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir George Fermor, of Easton Neston, in Northamptonshire, Knt. relict of Sir William Stafford; of Blatherwick, in the same county, Knt. by whom he had Thomas, his son and heir, and George Chamberlayne, of Wardington, in Oxfordshire, Esq; who married Anne, daughter of Sir Richard Saltinstall, of South Okington, in Essex, Knt. and left issue.

Thomas Chamberlayne, Esq; eldest son and heir of the Judge, in consideration of his distinguished loyalty to his Majesty, in the time of the great rebellion, and of his ancient descent, was by him created a Baronet, in the 18th year of his reign. He married a daughter of the knightly family of the Aclands; in the county of Devon, by whom he had two sons, Sir Thomas, and Sir James, both successively Baronets.

Sir Thomas, the eldest son, and successor to his father, married Margaret, daughter of Edmund Prideaux, of the Inner-Temple, Esq; by whom he had only two daughters, his coheirs. Catharine, the eldest daughter, was married, first, to Richard, Viscount Wenman, of the kingdom of Ireland, (by whom she had one son, Thomas, Lord Viscount Wenman; and two daughters; one married, first, to Capt. Bertie, of the Abingdon family, deceased; and, secondly, Sir William Osbaldeston, of Nethercot, Oxon, Bart. the other married John Wicksted, Esq;) The said Catharine was afterwards second wife of James, Earl of Abingdon, who died in 1699, by whom she had no issue; and since married to her third husband, Francis Wroughton, of Heskett, in the county of Wilts, Esq; Penelope, the second daughter of Sir Thomas, was married to Sir Robert Dashwood of Northbrooke, in the county of Oxford, Bart. by whom she had a numerous issue. Sir Thomas, leaving no male issue, was succeeded in the dignity, but not the estate, by his brother, Sir James Chamberlayne, Bart. a Gentleman of great learning, who married Margaret, daughter of — Goodwin, of Bodicote, Oxon. Gent. and died Oct. 1699, leaving three sons, and one daughter; 1. Sir James, his successor; 2. Henry; 3. Thomas, and the daughter, who both died unmarried.

Which Sir James Chamberlayne, Bart. in June, 1745, was appointed Major of the Royal Regiment of Horse Guards Blue,

CHAMBERLAYNE, of Wickham. 495

and promoted to be Lieutenant Colonel of the said Regiment, Dec. 1750. He married a daughter of — Walker, Esq; formerly Clerk to the House of Commons, and had several children. He died in December, 1767, and was succeeded by Sir James Chamberlayne, his eldest son, who is the present Baronet.

P. S. Sir John Chamberlayne, of this family, was a great soldier, and eminent in the court of Edw. III. It appears by a record now in the Tower, that the King did grant to him, by the name of Count Chamberlain, Earl of Tankerville, Viscount de Millaine, and High Constable of Normandy, a warrant to receive 10,000 marks, which he had lent to the King's son, in the wars with France.

Of this family also was Sir Roger Chamberlayne, who, by the intrigues of the traitorous Duke of Suffolk, M. de la Poole, was condemned, and in part executed as a traitor, for his fidelity to his patron, Humphry, Duke of Gloucester, Regent of England, during the minority of K. Henry VI. commonly called the Good Duke Humphry; but by great providence was preserved.

As was also Sir William Chamberlayne, of Gedding, in Suffolk, a great favourite and companion of Edw. IV. by whom he was made Knight of the Garter, in the first year of his reign. He was a man of great renown, an able governor, and expert soldier; for during his being Governor of Craill upon Oise, in France, which in 1436 was besieged by the French, immediately after they had taken Paris, he behaved so bravely, that with two hundred Englishmen only, he issued out of the town, discomfited his enemies, slew two hundred of them, and took a great many prisoners. His wife was Anne, daughter and sole heiress of Sir Robert de Herling, Knt. who surviving him, married, secondly, Sir Robert Wingfield, Knt. Comptroller of the Household to K. Edw. IV. and to her third husband, in 1492, John, Lord Scrope, of Bolton.

121. HUNLOKE, of Wingerworth, Derbyshire.

Created BARONET, Feb. 28, 1642.

THAT this Baronet is descended from an ancient family; plainly appears, from a certificate given to Sir Henry Hunloke, Dec. 14, 1674, by James, Earl of Suffolk, Deputy to the Right Hon. Henry, Earl of Norwich, Earl-Marshal of England, wherein he affirms, that his ancestors, for many descents, have borne and used for their arms, Three Tigers Heads, &c. as appeareth by old records remaining in the College of Arms; which leaves no room to doubt of their ancient extraction.

And it is evident, from the deeds and writings of this family; that Nicholas Hunloke did, in the reign of King Henry VIII; possess a very considerable estate, not only at Hadley, in Middlesex, but likewise near Bramcot, and Stapleford, in Nottinghamshire. He died at London, leaving issue two sons, Nicholas, and Thomas, by his wife Alice, daughter of — Bryche, of Bryche-hall, in Lancashire; who remarried to Allen Sutton, of Upper-Haddon, in Derbyshire.

Nicholas, the eldest son and heir, married Elizabeth, daughter of — Barlow, of Barlow, in the county of Derby, and had issue, Nicholas, Henry, Joan, Margaret, and Christopher. He did not only enjoy the paternal estate, but also the manor of Wingerworth, in Derbyshire, which he purchased from Richard Curson, Esq; and there the family has ever since resided, excepting a short space, during the time of Oliver Cromwell, who banished them (as known loyalists to their Sovereign) from their house, which being a large stone building, he converted it into a garrison. But Lady Hunloke, relict of the first Baronet, hereafter mentioned, remarrying with Col. William Michell, one of Cromwell's officers, the Colonel proved a good friend to the family, and a happy instrument of preserving both the mansion and estate from any further damage or waste. She had one daughter by the Colonel, who married Sir James Phelyppes, of Stoke Charity, in Hampshire, Knt. but died without issue. This Nicholas died at Wingerworth, anno 1552, 5 Edw. VI. and lies buried in that parish church.

His eldest son Nicholas, who married a Crasshaw, dying without issue, his second son, Henry, succeeded to the estate; who had by Margaret, his wife, (who was daughter of Nicholas Walker, Esq;) Henry his only son and heir. He afterwards married Edith, daughter of William Reresby, of Thibburgh, in Yorkshire, Esq; widow of George Markham, of Idleston, alias Eaton, in the same county, Esq; He was interred at Wingerworth, Oct. 20, 1612.

This

This Henry Hunloke, Esq; took to wife Anne, daughter of Henry Needham, of Kirtlington, in Nottinghamshire, and relict of Lawrence Blundeston, of Hexgrave Park, in the same county, by whom he had no issue; and to his second wife, Anne, daughter and heir of Richard Alvey, of Corber, in Derbyshire, Gent. of the family of Alvey, in Nottinghamshire, by whom he had issue one son, Henry, and a daughter, Anne, married to Henry Powtrel, of West-Hallam, in the said county, Esq; After which, the aforesaid Henry Hunloke, being a Gentleman of great esteem and authority in his country, and Sheriff for Derbyshire, anno 1624, to shew his affection to his Prince, did, in a very advanced age, take a journey to meet King James I. and attending him in his progress, with a fatigue above his strength, fell down dead in the presence of his Majesty, at Ilkeston, in Derbyshire, on the 17th of August, in the same year, acquiring as much renown by dying in his duty to his Sovereign, as if he had lived to receive the honour of Knighthood, which the King designed to confer upon him.

He was succeeded by his only son, Henry, not only in estate, but also in loyalty, which he sufficiently testified, by readily lending to King Charles I. a considerable sum of money in his most pressing necessity, even at a time when there was little probability of ever being repaid. This he did at the request of his Majesty, who honoured him with a Letter on this occasion, dated Sept. 14, 1642.

But his free concurrence to the maintaining the Royal Cause stopped not here; for he soon after (at his own expence) levied and accounted a compleat troop of horse in the regiment of Col. John Frecheville, of Stavely, in Derbyshire, Esq; (afterwards Lord Frecheville,) whereof he himself was Lieutenant-Colonel. And, to the perpetual honour of his name and family, this young hero, not yet twenty-two years of age, like a true patriot of his country, at the memorable battle of Edge-hill, in Warwickshire, by an uncommon valour, conduct, and courage, so signalled himself, that King Charles, to publish the honour he had merited that day, knighted him in the field of battle, and soon after created him a Baronet.

Not long after, making a bold attempt upon the enemy near Bescwood-Park, in Nottinghamshire, in a skirmish with some of the adverse party that lay in ambush, he received a cut with a sword in his elbow, which so disabled his right hand, that it hung useless in a scarf to his dying day; and for his loyalty to his Sovereign, he was fined 145*l.* by the sequestrators.

He married Marina, daughter of Dixey Hickman, of Kew, in the parish of Richmond, in Surry, Esq; (by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Henry, Lord Windsor; in whose right the Barony of Windsor, with the estate, descended to her brother Thomas, late Lord Windsor, afterwards created Earl of Plymouth.) He left issue Henry, his son and heir, who succeeded him; and a daughter, called Marina, who became a Benedictine nun at Brussels; and a posthumous son, called Thomas Windsor, who died at Treves, in Germany, Nov. 1672, being a volunteer in the French army against the Imperialists. This Sir Henry Hunloke died Jan. 13, 1648, and was buried at Wingerworth.

Sir Henry Hunloke, Bart. (son of Sir Henry Hunloke, Knt. and Bart. aforesaid,) married Catharine, only daughter and heir to Francis Tyrwhit, of Kettleby, in Lincolnshire, Esq; (son and heir of William Tyrwhit, Esq; who married Catharine, daughter to Anthony Brown, Lord Viscount Montague; which William, was son and heir of Robert Tyrwhit, of Kettleby, Esq; by the Lady Bridget Manners, his wife, eldest daughter of John, the fourth Earl of Rutland, lineally descended from Anne, Duchess of Exeter, and sister to K. Edward IV.) by whom he had seven sons, and six daughters; 1. Henry, who died at Paris, in his travels through France; 2. Francis, who died young; 3. Sir Thomas-Windsor, his successor; 4. Robert, 5. Nicholas, who both died infants; 6. another Robert, deceased, who married Anne, daughter of Marmaduke Carver, of Chesterfield, Gent. but had no issue. She afterwards married John Salt, of Betley, in Staffordshire, Esq; but died without issue; 7. Francis, who died at Amsterdam, in Holland. Of his daughters, Elizabeth married George Heneage, of Hainton, in Lincolnshire, Esq; by whom he had six sons, and two daughters; Catharine, Anne, and Teresa died unmarried; Marina, died a child; and another Marina, late Lady Abbess of the English Benedictine Nuns, at Pontoise, in France. It is remarkable, that Sir Henry Hunloke, above mentioned, enjoyed the title and estate for the space of sixty-seven years, in which time he very much improved it, having beautified his seat with a pleasant park, &c. He lived and died in the universal esteem of his country, and was interred at Wingerworth, Jan. 6, 1715.

Sir Thomas-Windsor Hunloke, the third son, succeeded his father in title and estate, and resided at Wingerworth, the seat of his family. This Baronet took to wife Charlotte, the sixth daughter of Sir Robert Throckmorton, of Coughton, in Warwickshire, Bart. by whom he had issue four sons, and seven daughters; 1. Henry, the present Baronet; 2. Thomas-Windsor, 3. Robert, and, 4. James, all living in 1770; Catharine, Charlotte, Anne, Mary, Marina, Barbara, and Henrietta, all of whom, except Charlotte and Mary, are now deceased.

The said Sir Thomas-Windsor Hunloke, in the year 1726, taking down the old seat, erected a stately free-stone building, on a pleasant hill, adjoining to his Park, residing, while the mansion was erecting, at Strutton, in the county of Stafford, whence he returned, with his family, to Wingerworth, in 1730. Charlotte, Lady Hunloke, died at Wingerworth, Dec. 31, 1738, as did Sir Thomas Windsor, Jan. 30, 1752, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Sir Henry Hunloke, the present Baronet, who, Dec. 21, 1769, married Margaret, eldest daughter of Wenman Coke, of Longford, in Derbyshire, Esq; (eldest son of Col. Philip Roberts, of Bexford, in Hertfordshire, Esq; by his wife Anne, youngest daughter of Edward Coke, of Holkham, in Norfolk, Esq; and youngest sister of Thomas Coke, Lord Lovell, and Earl of Leicester; and on the death of the said Earl, and his son, Lord Coke, he changed his name to Coke,) by his wife, Elizabeth Denton, sole heiress of George Chamberlayne, of Wardington, in Bucks, Esq; who took the name of Denton, as nephew and heir of the late Mr. Justice Denton.

122. D'ANVERS, of Culworth, Northamptonshire.

Created BARONET, March 21, 1642.

THIS family, denominated from the town of Anvers, in France, and anciently written de Anverso, or D'Anvers, descend from Roland D'Anverso, who entered England with William the Conqueror; and though we find not any lands he held by gift of that Prince, who very liberally rewarded his followers, especially those who took up their abode here, yet Ranulph D'Anvers, his son, received of Crispin, Lord of Wallingford, (whose Knight he was,) the manors of Marlow, Dorney, and Huckham, to hold of his Honour of Wallingford.

Roland (son of Ranulph,) was Dapifer to the Baron of Wallingford; and his descendant, Sir Ranulph D'Anvers, married the daughter and heir to William de la Riviere, by which match he greatly increased his estate; to which a farther addition was made by William, his son and heir, who married with the sister and coheir of Robert de Coleshall. He was living 17 Edw. III. and one of the witnesses to a charter of that King, dated Nov. 9, 1343, whereby Nicholas de Cantilupe became the founder of the Carthusian monastery of Beavall, in Nottinghamshire, and being denominated of Wappenham, had issue Robert, who died 37 Edw. III. having had issue by Alice, his wife, sister and coheir to Robert de la Beech, of Aldworth, in Berks, (whose family had been Barons of Parliament, and of ancient extraction,) two sons, Edmund and Richard.

Edmund was aged twenty-two in 38 Edw. III. and had issue William, who was Under-Treasurer of England temp. Hen. IV, and left posterity; one of which, probably, was Thomas, who married Joan, the daughter of William Bruly, of Waterstoke, in Oxfordshire. From which marriage descended Sir William D'Anvers, Knt. constituted a Justice of the Common Pleas 3 Hen. VIII. whose son, John D'Anvers, left three daughters; from whom have descended the Husbands of Ipsley, the Caves of Stanford, and the Digbies of Colehill.

Richard, younger brother to Edmund, married the daughter and heir of John de Bracestre, of Oxfordshire, and by her was the father of John, who, in 1399, espoused Alice, daughter of William Verney, of Byfield, and had issue by her three sons, Robert; John, a clergyman; and Richard.

Robert, who was bred to the Law, in 17 Hen. VI. purchased the manor of Culworth. In the 29th of that reign he was made a Justice of the Common Pleas, was knighted by K. Edw. IV. at the Coronation of his Queen, and died in the 7th year of the reign of that King, leaving by Agnes his wife, daughter of Richard Quatremains, of Ricot, Oxon. three daughters, who inherited his estate.

Richard, his youngest brother, was Comptroller of the Customs under K. Edw. IV. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Langston, of Caversfield, in Bucks, by whom he had two sons, Richard and John. Having acquired great wealth, he purchased of the daughters and coheirs of his brother, Sir Robert D'Anvers, Knt. the estates which were left them by their father; out of which (being very considerable) he settled the manor of Culworth on John, his younger son, upon the said John's marriage with Anne Stradling, sister, and, afterwards heir, to Sir Edward Stradling, of Dantsey, in Wilts; by which match he became possessed of that estate also; and was knighted by K. Henry VII. at the marriage of Prince Arthur.

Sir John D'Anvers, Knt. had several children by the said Anne Stradling, of which the eldest son, Thomas, settled himself at Dantsey, and married a daughter of Sir William Courtney, of Powderham-castle, in Devon. His son Sylvester succeeded him there, and by his wife, who was daughter of John, Lord Mordaunt, had a son called John; which John was knighted by Queen Elizabeth; and marrying Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of of John Nevil, Lord Latimer, by her was the father of Sir Henry D'Anvers, Knt. who was created Baron D'Anvers, of Dantsey, 1 Jac. I. and in 1 Car. I. Earl of Danby, afterwards a Knight of the Garter. He had many employments, as well civil as military, and died at his seat at Cornbury, Oxon. in 1643, memorable for being the Founder of the Physic Garden at Oxford.

William D'Anvers was the second son of Sir John D'Anvers, Knt. by the said Anne Stradling; by whose procurement, after Sir John's death, the paternal estate at Culworth was settled on the said William, by Thomas, his elder brother. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard, and sister of Edward Fiennes; from the marriage of which Edward with Margaret D'Anvers, (sister of the said William,) is descended the family of Viscount Say and Sele. By the said Elizabeth Fiennes, William D'Anvers had an only son, John, who married Dorothy, daughter of Sir William Rainsford, of Great Tew, Oxon. and had two sons by her, Samuel, and Daniel; and three daughters, Temperance, Justice, and Prudence.

Samuel, the eldest son, married Anne, daughter and heir of Leonard Pigott, of Little Harwood, in Bucks, by whom he had several children. Samuel, the eldest son, succeeded him; and dying unmarried, left his estate to John, his next brother, who was High Sheriff 1 Car. I. and was knighted.

Sir John D'Anvers, Knt. married Dorothy, sister of Sir John Poultney, Knt. of Misterton, in Leicestershire; and had by her Sir Samuel D'Anvers, who was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet 18 Car. I. He was High Sheriff of the county the same year that King suffered, and on that mournful occasion clothed his men in black. He married Anne, daughter of Sir William Pope, Knt. who was one of the sons of William, Earl of Downe, in the kingdom of Ireland, and had issue by her,

Sir Pope D'Anvers, Baronet, his successor, who married Anne, the daughter and coheir of William Barker, Esq; of Sunning, in Berks, by whom he had two sons, John, and Daniel; and several daughters.

Daniel, his youngest son, married Martha, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Hodges, of Warwick, by whom he had two sons, and two daughters. The two sons died unmarried, as did one of the daughters; the other daughter married to Daniel Rich, of Sunning, son of Sir Robert Rich, Bart. by whom she, dying in 1753, left one son, and two daughters.

Sir John D'Anvers, Bart. the eldest son, and successor of Sir Pope D'Anvers, married, first, Meriel, daughter of Sir Robert, and sister of Sir Francis Leicester, of Nether Tabley, in Cheshire, Bart. She died in childbed of her only son, Samuel, who died about the age of twenty-one, unmarried. Sir John married afterwards, Mary, daughter of the Rev. John Hutchins, Rector of Eydon, by whom he left two sons, and two daughters; of which daughters, one only is now living.

His eldest son by that marriage, Sir Henry D'Anvers, Bart. died soon after he came of age; and left his estate and title to his brother, Sir Michael D'Anvers, the present Baronet, who was High Sheriff of the county in 1763.

123. HAGGERSTON, of Haggerston - Castle, Northumberland.

Created BARONET, Aug. 15, 1643.

THE name of Haggerston is of great antiquity, in Scotland, and local, from Halkerston. William and Richard Haggerstons are witnesses to a donation anno 1190. John de Haggerston was one of the Scots Barons who swore fealty to K. Edw. anno 1296. Robert de Haggerston is a witness in a donation to the Abbey of Cultre, anno 1468. Sir Thomas Haggerston is made travelling Governor to Alexander Stuart, son to K. James IV, anno 1506.

Mr. Le Neve, Norroy, begins the pedigree with Thomas de Haggerston, who married Agnes, sister and coheir to Sir Gilbert Umfrevile, Knt. and had issue, Thomas Haggerston, of Haggerston-Castle, in Northumberland, who married Mary, daughter of Alexander Selby, of Bidleston, in the same county, and was father of William, who by Catharine, daughter of Miles Stapylton, of Wighill, in Yorkshire, had issue Robert, who took to wife Julian, daughter of Sir — Umfreville, Knt. and had issue Henry, whose wife was Margaret, daughter and heir of — Hefilrigge, of Hefilrigge, in Northumberland. John Haggerston, his son and heir, married Isabel, daughter of George Collingwood, of Ellington, in Northumberland, and had issue William Haggerston, Esq; slain at Panyerheugh, in Scotland, temp. Thomas Haggerston, Esq; created Baronet by King Charles I. He was Colonel of a regiment of horse and foot, in the service of that King, and married Alice, daughter and sole heir of Henry Banaster, of Bank, in Lancashire, Esq; and — his wife, daughter and heir of Kuerdon, of Kuerdon, in the same county, (but her estate was all lost or spent, in the civil wars,) by whom he had three sons, and four daughters; 1. John, slain at Ormskirk fight, in Lancashire, in the civil wars, Oct. 1644; 2. Sir Thomas, successor to his father; 3. Henry, killed by a fall from his horse, at Lambtongates, in Durham, 1684. He married at Liege, in Flanders, and left a daughter, married abroad. The daughters were, Ellen, married to William Selby, of Bidleston, in Northumberland; Anne, to William Blundel, of Crosby, in Lancashire; Margaret, to William Hodshon, of Hebbarne, in Durham, Esqrs; and Alice, who died unmarried. Sir Thomas died at a great age, and was succeeded, in dignity and estate, by his eldest surviving son,

Sir Thomas Haggerston, Bart. who had two wives; 1. Margaret, daughter of Sir Francis Howard, of Corby-Castle, Knt. and had issue nine sons, and a daughter. This Lady died in childbed of a daughter, who died almost as soon as born. Of the sons, Thomas, the eldest, was killed in Ireland, in the service of King James II, unmarried; 2. William, of whom hereafter; 3. Henry; 4. John; 5. Francis, who all embraced religious lives; 6. Edward, who married, first, Mary, daughter of Gerard Salvin, of Croxdale, in Durham, Esq; and secondly, to Mrs. Fitzherbe; the other sons (I take it) died unmarried. Sir Thomas married to his second wife, Jane, daughter and sole heir of Sir William Carnaby, of Farnham, in Northumberland, Knt. by whom he had no issue. This Sir Thomas was Governor of Berwick-Castle, and his house there was burned down, Feb. 19, 1687, when he lost most of his writings, and sustained above 6000 l. damage, himself, wife, and family, narrowly escaping.

Created BARONET, Nov. 13, 1643.

THIS family is descended from Hugh Meyth, who was King of Ulster, in the year 1122, when King Henry II. landed in Ireland. His grandson, Hugh Boy O'Neill, (from whom the territories, called the Clanaboys, in the counties of Down and Antrim received their names,) recovered those countries from the English, (who conquered them from the Irish,) temp. Hen. II. and enjoyed the same till the reign of King James I. One of the family still enjoys a considerable part thereof; the rest being partly recovered by force of arms, and partly purchased from them in King James the first's reign, who first instituted the creation of Baronets, in order to raise money (the fee of each Baronet being settled at 1000 or 1200 l.) for subduing the O'Neills in Ulster; and as a further reward and encouragement for that service, the Ulster Hand, being part of the O'Neills arms, was given as an augmentation to the Arms of each Baronet.

The present Sir Randal O'Neill is the fourteenth, in a lineal descent, from the said Hugh, the last King of Ulster.

Sir Bryan O'Neill, his great grandfather, in consideration of his loyalty, bravery, and conduct, at the battle of Edge-hill, was was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet, 19 Car. I. He married the Hon. Jane Finch, of the Earl of Nottingham's family, and died in the year 1680, leaving issue,

He married Mary Plunket, daughter of Edward, Lord Dunfany, (by the Lady Catharine M'Donnell, sister to Randall, late Marquis of Antrim.) He died 1694, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir Henry O'Neill, who married Mary, daughter of Mark Bagot, of Mountarran, in Catherlough, Esq; by whom he had issue one son, Randall, his successor. His second Lady was Rose, daughter to Capt. James Brabazon, son of Sir Anthony Brabazon, of the Earl of Meath's family, by whom he had three sons, of whom only Francis is living. Sir Henry dying, was succeeded by his son, by the first venter, Sir Randall O'Neill, the present Baronet, who married Mrs. Margaret Thompkins, a Lady of English extraction, by whom he has one son, William, born about the year 1754; and one daughter, Rachael.

125. HICKMAN, of Gainsborough, Lincolnshire.

Created BARONET, Nov. 16, 1643.

THE first I meet with of this family, was Robert Fitz-Hickman, Lord of the manors of Bloxham, and Wickham, in Oxon, 56 Hen. III, 1272, who had two sons, John, and William. John, the eldest, was knighted; and, according to the custom of those times, was surnamed de Bloxham, from his possessions, and served in Parliament as one of the Knights for Oxfordshire, in 12 and 15 Edw. II. but dying without issue,

William Hickman, his brother, was heir to the estate; which William is mentioned in deeds, in 2 Edw. III, 1327, and was father to Sir Roger, and John, both surnamed de Bloxham,
The

The first was a principal Commander under King Edw. III. in his wars against the French ; but dying without issue, his brother John became heir to the estate, and is mentioned in deeds in 51 Edw. III, 1376, and was living 1 R. II, 1377.

Henry Hickman was his son and heir, living in 11 Hen. IV, 1409 ; and left issue,

William, his son and heir, Lord of the manor of Woodford-Hall, in Essex, where he resided in 8 Hen. V, 1420, and was succeeded by William, his son and heir, in 37 Hen. VI, 1458, who had two sons, William, who died without issue, and Walter, who succeeded as heir in 3 Hen. VII, 1487, and had issue three sons, William, Walter, and Henry. William, the eldest, dying without issue, and Henry, the youngest, who was Prebendary of Llandaff, died 28 April, 29 Hen. VIII, 1537, whereupon the estate descended to Walter Hickman, of Woodford, second son, who made his Will, 29 Oct. 1540.

His son, Anthony, took to wife Rose, daughter of Sir William Lock, Knt. and coheir to her mother, Catharine, daughter of Sir Thomas Cook, of Wiltshire, Knt. They had issue six sons, and one daughter. From William, the eldest son, the present Sir Nevile-George Hickman, Bart. is lineally descended ; Henry, the second son, was Doctor of the Civil Law, and married Anne Wallop, and had issue one son, and two daughters ; Elizabeth, the eldest, was married to Sir Henry Fienes, son of Henry, Earl of Lincoln ; Anne, the younger, married Richard Dukefon, D. D.

Walter, the third son, was ancestor to the Earl of Plymouth, and the Lord Viscount Windfor, in Ireland, and Lord Montjoy, in England.

Anthony Hickman, fourth son, was Doctor of the Civil Law, and died unmarried, 13 Dec. 1597, and lies buried in the church of St. Bennet, Paul's Wharf. Matthew, and Eleazar, were the two younger sons ; and the daughter was Mary, married to Robert Phelips, of the county of Middlesex.

The aforesaid Anthony Hickman, their father, was much in favour with King Henry VIII. and Edward VI. but in the reign of Queen Mary, was under persecution for the particular kindness he shewed to Bishop Hooper, and many other good, but distressed men, preachers of the Gospel, whom he sheltered in his house, and afterwards got conveyed beyond sea. His wife's father, Sir William Lock, in the 25th of Hen. VIII, 1534, when the Pope sent forth his Bull against that King and his realm, and posted it up at Dunkirk, went over, and took it down ; for which act, the King gave him 100 l. per annum land of inheritance, made him one of the Gentlemen of

of his Privy-chamber, did him other honours, and knighted him. He was particularly employed by Queen Anne Bullen, privately to gather the Epistles, Gospels, and Psalms, from beyond sea, in which he ran great hazard; some having been secretly made away, for attempting the same thing.

I now return to William, (the eldest son of Anthony, above named,) who was knighted by K. James I. at Belvoir-Castle; by his first wife, Agnes, daughter of Sir Christopher Draper, (relict of Sir Wolstan Dixy,) he had no issue; but by his second, Elizabeth, daughter of William Willoughby, Esq; (eldest son of Charles, Lord Willoughby, of Parham,) and Elizabeth his wife, daughter and heir of Sir Christopher Hildyard, of Winstead, in Yorkshire, Knt. he had two sons, and two daughters, of which Frances married Sir William Rokeby, of Skiers, in Yorkshire, Bart.

Sir Willoughby, his eldest son, was, for his great loyalty to King Charles I. created a Baronet; and married Bridget, eldest daughter to Sir John Thornhagh, of Fenton, in Nottinghamshire, Knt. (by his wife, a daughter of Francis Rodes, Esq; one of the Justices of the Common Pleas;) Sir Willoughby died 1649.

Sir William Hickman, Bart. his only son, succeeded him in dignity and estate. He married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of John Nevile, of Mattersey, in Nottinghamshire, Esq; by whom he had four sons; William, who died aged twenty-three, a gentleman of great hopes; Nevil; Sir Willoughby, his successor; and Francis, M. A. of Christ-Church, Oxford, 1668, (he joined with Bishop Atterbury in the Latin translation of Dryden's Abfalom and Achitophel.) They all died unmarried, except Sir Willoughby; and five daughters; whereof Anne married to John Rayner, of Drayton, in Nottinghamshire; and Mildred, to Robert Williamson, of the same county, Esqrs. Sir William died 1681-2.

Sir Willoughby Hickman, Bart. third son of Sir William, (the rest dying without issue,) succeeded his father in the title and estate. He was Knight of the Shire for the county of Lincoln, 1713, and had in marriage Anne, only daughter of Sir Stephen Anderson, of Eyworth, in Bedfordshire, Bart. (by his first wife, Mary, daughter of Sir William Glynne, of Bicester, in Oxon. Bart.) He died Oct. 28, 1720, having had several sons and daughters, of which, William, his second son, was Member of Parliament for East Retford, in Nottinghamshire, 1710, and died without issue. Sir Willoughby was succeeded by his fifth, but eldest surviving son,

Sir

308 BATHURST, of Leachlade.

Sir Nevil Hickman, Bart. who married Frances, daughter of Edward Hall, Esq; (descended from the Halls of Gretfold, in Lincolnshire,) and had issue by her two daughters, who are both dead; and two sons; Willoughby, who died young, and Sir Nevile-George, his successor. He died in June, 1733; and his Lady afterwards, in Feb. 1737, married Sir Francis Whichcote, of Aswarby, in Lincolnshire, Bart.

Which Sir Nevile-George Hickman, only surviving son, and successor to his father, in honour and estate, is the present Baronet, who married, Sept. 13, 1746, a daughter of — Towers, Esq;

130. ACLAND, of Columb-John, Devonshire.

Created BARONET, June 24, 1644.

(Exemplified to HUGH, January 21, 1677.)

THIS family derives its name from the situation of its ancient seat, in the parish of Lankey, near Barnstaple, which, being in the midst of large groves of oaks, (in Saxon, signified by Ak, or Ac,) from thence obtained the name of Ac, or Oak-land, alluding thereto. They appear, in early times, to have borne on their seals, three Oak Leaves, on a Bend, between two Lions rampant; and it is evident, from a deed in Sir J. Pole's fol. MS. of Deeds and Charters, p. 82. that they were settled in this place as early as the reign of Henry II.

The present Sir Thomas is the twenty-first, in a lineal descent, from this Hugh de Accalen, seated at Accalen, 1155. Hugh was succeeded, about the year 1191, by his son,

Baldwyn de Accalen, who left a son of his name,

Baldwyn de Accalen, living in the time of Henry III. This last had issue,

William de Accalen, who, temp. Edw. I. married Sarah, daughter of John de la Pile, and was father of another Baldwyn de Accalen, living 9 Edw. II. He had issue two sons, John, and Richard, who died 21 Edw. III. without issue.

John de Accalen, his successor, married Agnes, daughter and heir of Richard de Leigh, of Leigh, in the parish of Loxbear, and was succeeded, 39 Edw. III. by his only son and heir,

John de Akelane, of Akelane, who, by Sir J. Pole, in his historical account of famous soldiers, is recorded to have gained great credit in the wars of France, during the reigns of Ed. III. and Rich. II. By a deed, dated 9 Rich. II. this John impowers Thomas Affeton, John Staiford, and Joh. Colyn, to raise money for his redemption, in case he should be taken prisoner, without sale of his lands in Akelane, Riverton, Gratten, Barnstaple, Hawkeridge, Little Bray, Southmoulton, and other places. He left, by Alice his wife, daughter and heir of William Hawkeridge, of Hawkeridge, in the parish of Chiddlehampton, John, who died without issue 4 Hen. IV. and Baldwyn Akelane, who, having married Joan, daughter and heir of William Riverton, was, in 11 Hen. IV. succeeded by his only son and heir,

Robert Akelane, married to Cecily, daughter and coheir of R. Hakeworthy, by Margaret his wife, daughter of Adam Colestone. He died 23 Hen. VI. leaving another, Baldwyn Akelane, who married Joan, daughter of William Prideaux, of Adistone, by Alice, heiress of Stephen Giffard, of Thewborough, and was succeeded, 4 Hen. VII. by his only son,

John Akelane, who, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of John Fortescue, of Spridleston, had another

John Akelane, of Akelane; and one daughter, married to John St. Albin, of Alfoxton, in the county of Somerset. John died before his father, leaving by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Thomas Hexte, of Ham, in the aforesaid county, two sons, John, and Anthony, the last of whom was of Goodly-Priors, and had issue Baldwyn, who died 12 Eliz. leaving another Anthony, settled at Hawkeridge, in the parish of Chiddlehampton, married to Anne, daughter of Courtenay, of Moland, from whom the Acklands of Fremington are descended.

John

John Acklande, of Acklande, eldest son and heir of John, died 31 Hen. VIII, leaving by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of John Cruwyse, of Cruwyse Merchard, John; and one daughter, married to Robert Chichester, of Hall; which

John Acklande, his only son, and successor, married Margaret, daughter and coheir of Hugh Radcliffe, of Stepney, in the county of Middlesex, (a younger branch of the Earls of Suffex,) by whom he had Hugh, and Sir John.

The younger son, Sir John, inherited his mother's estates, in the county of Middlesex, and was very eminent in his generation; for having acquired a compleat education, and knowledge of the world abroad, he long served his country in Parliament, and the Commission of the Peace at home. He was knighted on the accession of King James, and served the office of Sheriff for the county of Devon in 1608. That he was religiously and charitably disposed, appears from his building and endowing a chapel, at his seat at Columb-John, near Exeter, for the use of his family and tenants; and also settling on the Mayor and Chamber of the city of Exeter, in trust, for ever, the tythes of Churchstow and Kingsbridge, adjoining parishes, in the county of Devon, the produce of which, he directed, should be distributed in bread, weekly, to the poor of several parishes in Exeter, and the county of Devon. As a patron of learning, he was likewise a considerable benefactor to Exeter college, in the University of Oxford, by building the College Hall, and settling Exhibitions towards the maintenance of two scholars. He married two wives; first, Elizabeth, daughter of George Rolle, of Stevenstone, in the county of Devon; and, 2dly, Margaret, daughter of Sir William Portman, of Orchard Portman, in the county of Somerset; and dying 1613, was buried in the church of Broad Clift, where a monument, with the effigies of himself, and his two wives, is erected to his memory. Sir John, dying without children, left a considerable estate to the issue of his elder brother,

Hugh Acklande, of Acklande, son of John, who married, 1585, Margaret, daughter of Thomas Monke, of Powderidge, in Devon, aunt to the famous General of that name, by whom he had one only son and heir,

Sir Arthur Acklande, of Acklande and Columb-John, knighted 1606, and married to Elizabeth, sole daughter and heir of Robert Malet, of Wooley, in the county of Devon, whose family, even from the Conquest, held great possessions in the county of Somerset. In the time of Hen. VIII. Baldwyn, second son of Tho. Malet, of Enmore, in that county, and Solicitor-general to the said King, marrying the heiress of Hacche, his his descendants settled at Wooley, in Devonshire, the seat of that ancient family. She surviving Sir Arthur, became the second wife of Sir Francis Vincent, of Stoke d'Abernon, in the county of Surry, Bart. Sir Arthur died in 1614, and was buried with his ancestors in the church of Lankey, under a handsome monument erected by his widow; by whom he had issue John, and one daughter, Elizabeth, married to Anthony Vincent, eldest son of Sir Francis.

John Aclande, of Aclande and Columb-John, his only son, engaging very zealously in the service of his Prince, King Charles the first, greatly impaired his fortune, not only by raising, but supporting at his own charge, a party with which he garrisoned his house at Columb-John; which, at one time, as Lord Clarendon takes notice, was the only force the King had in the county of Devon, to controul the power of the Earl of Stamford, then at Exeter. Upon the decline of the King's affairs, his house was plundered, and himself severely fined for his delinquency, by the Commissioners at Goldsmiths-hall. He served the office of Sheriff for the county of Devon, 1641; and was, in consideration of his faithful services, advanced to the degree of a Baronet, in the twentieth year of Charles the first; but amidst the confusion of these times, the Letters Patents were destroyed, and new Letters not being granted till after the Restoration, 1677, by reason of a long minority in the family, there was in them inserted a special clause of Precedency, from the date of the first, June 24, 1644. Sir John married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Francis Vincent, of Stoke d'Abernon, Bart. by whom he had three sons, Sir Francis, Sir John, and Sir Hugh; also two daughters; Eleanor, married to Sir John Davie, of Creedy, Bart. and Susanna, married, first, to Ed. Halfall, Esq; Equerry to Queen Catharine; and, secondly, to John Carleton, Esq; son of Tho. Carleton, Esq; Equerry to King Charles the first and second. Sir John died Aug. 24, 1647, and lies buried at Stoke d'Abernon.

Sir Francis Acland, his eldest son, and successor, died unmarried, in 1649.

Sir John Acland, second son, and successor to his brother, married Margaret, daughter and coheir of Dennis Rolle, of Stevenstone, by whom he had issue Sir Arthur, and one daughter, Margaret, married to John, Lord Arundel, of Trecire. Sir John died in 1655, before he was of age.

Sir Arthur Acland, his only son, died likewise in his minority, in 1672; whereupon the title and estate came to his uncle,

Sir Hugh Acland, third son of Sir John, the first Baronet, who served in Parliament for the boroughs of Barnstaple and Tiverton, and married Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Daniel, of Beswick-Hall, in the county of York, by whom he had six sons, and one daughter; 1. John; 2. Hugh; 3. Thomas, Rector of South-Brent, who left issue by a daughter of — Wilcocks; 4. Charles; 5. Arthur; 6. Francis; and Elizabeth.

John Acland, his eldest son, settled at Wooley, and died in 1702, before his father, at the age of twenty-eight, being then one of the Representatives for the borough of Callington, in the county of Cornwall, and leaving issue by Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Ackland, of Fremington, four sons, and one daughter; 1. Hugh; 2. Richard, of London, Merchant, who, by a daughter of Peter Burrell, Esq; left a son, and one daughter, now the wife of Richard Hoare, of Barnes, in the county of Surry, Esq; 3. John, Rector of Broad Clift, who, by a daughter of Rawlin Mallack, of Cockington, in the county of Devon, Esq; left an only son, the present Rector of that parish, married to a daughter of the late Dr. Oliver, of Bath. Arthur, the fourth son, died without issue; and Anne, the only daughter, was married to the late Sir John Davie, Baronet.

Sir Hugh Acland, eldest son of John, and successor to his grand-father, Sir Hugh, in 1713, represented the borough of Barnstaple in Parliament, and died at the age of thirty-one. He married Cecily, eldest daughter and coheir of Sir Thomas Wrothe, of Petherton Park, Bart. lineally descended from Sir Hugh de Placitis, brother of John, Earl of Warwick, temp. Hen. III. who, by the favour of that King, having married the heiress of John de Wrotham, of Wrotham, in Kent, Sheriff of that county and Devon, temp. Joh. also Warden of the Stannaries, and Lord of the manor of Newton Forester, &c. held the latter in her right by Grand Serjeancy, and the service of keeping the Park of North Petherton, and the other Royal Forests, within the county of Somerset. The descendants of the second son of this marriage, took the name of Wrothe, and were of the first rank in the county of Middlesex, till the time of King James the first, when Robert Wrothe, who married Mary, eldest daughter of Robert, Earl of Leicester, and represented that county in Parliament, dissipated the greatest part of the possessions of his ancestors. The Somersetshire estate, including the ancient manor of Newton, and Petherton Park, was, however, enjoyed by the late Sir Thomas

Thomas Wrothe, (who worthily served his country in the two last Parliaments of King William, and all the Parliaments of Queen Anne, for the city of Wells, and county of Somerset,) and on his death, in 1721, descended to his eldest daughter, Lady Acland; his other, Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Palmer, of Fairfield, Esq; dying without issue. She was also heiress to the families of Osbaldeston and Morley; her mother being Mary, only child of Francis Osbaldeston, of Aldersbrooke, in the county of Essex, Esq; by Cecily, daughter of Sir John Morley, of Halnaker, in the county of Suffex, aunt of Mary, wife of James, late Earl of Derby, who left no issue.

The children of this marriage were, the present Sir Thomas; 2. John, who died in his childhood; 3. Arthur Acland, now settled at Fairfield, in the county of Somerset, having, on the death of Peregrine Palmer, the late worthy Representative for the University of Oxford, succeeded to the estate of that ancient family, being, by his mother, descended from Elizabeth, the daughter of Col. Palmer, and aunt of the above-mentioned Peregrine. He married Elizabeth, only daughter of William Oxenham, of Oxenham, in the county of Devon, Esq; and has issue Hugh, John, Peregrine, and several daughters. Hugh, the fourth son of Sir Hugh, born after his father's death; and an only daughter, Anne, are unmarried.

Sir Thomas Dyke Acland, the present Baronet, married Elizabeth, only daughter, and heir of Thomas Dyke, of Tetton, Esq; heir also to her uncle, Edward Dyke, of Pixton, in the county of Somerset, Esq. She died in 1753, leaving him two sons, John Dyke Acland, of Pixton, Esq; and Thomas, now at Eton school.

131. VYVYAN, of Trelowarren, Cornwall.

Created BARONET, Feb. 12, 1644.

THE ancient family of Vyvyan was originally seated at Telkudrin, or Trivudrin, now called Treviddren, in the parish of Buryan, in Cornwall, which estate still continues in the family.

The first, who is entered in the Visitation Books of the Heralds Office, is Sir Vyel Vyvyan, Knt. This person is said to have married Margaret, daughter of Christopher, Earl, or Lord of Kildare, in Ireland, and had issue a daughter, Joan, married to Sir Bartholomew Granville, of Kilkhampton; and also Sir Ralph Vyvyan, Knt. his son and heir, who, by Catharine, daughter of Reginald Ferrers, of Boswithy, or Boswith-Greet, in Cornwall, had issue Richard Vyvyan, who, by reason of his neighbourhood to the Collegiate Church of Buryan, had, in conjunction with John de Maunte, Dean of that place, a controversy with Richard de Beaupre, the pretended Prebendary of Trethin.

This Richard married Constance, daughter of Sir Hugh Peverell, Knt. by whom he had issue, William, his son and heir; Hugh, Nicholas, and three daughters, married into the families of Herne, Erisy, and Aleth. He died Nov. 16, 1331, and his wife Oct. 25, 1308.

William, his son and heir, married Claricia, daughter of Henry le Fort, or le Force, of Pengersick, (by Engrine, daughter of Edward Godolphin,) and died Dec. 13, 1345, and his wife Nov. 18, 1346, having issue a daughter, Joan, married to Alan Treuronek, of St. Sanced; also his son and successor, Ralph Vyvyan, Esq; who married Alice, daughter of Peter Kemple, of Cornwall, Esq; and was father of Ralph, who married Isabella, daughter of John Anthony, or Anthorne.

It is most probable that these were two persons, father and son, called Ralph Vyvyan: The father married Alice, the daughter of Peter Kemple; and the son Isabella, daughter of John Anthony, as before observed; and in this we follow the Heralds office, and several manuscripts in the Trelowarren family. Indeed, there is one that supposes, that there was but one Ralph, who had to wife both the Ladies above mentioned; but we think this account easy to be refuted.

John, son and heir of Ralph, (who, if Leland's account may be depended upon, in his Itinerary,) had once much impaired his estate; but the same was repaired and increased by the marriage of Honor, daughter and heir of Richard Ferrers, of Trelowar-ren, Esq; by whom he had that Lordship, the continued seat of the family.

By the said Honor, he had issue Richard, whom Leland calls a gallant Courtier, set forth by Somerset, Lord Herbert. This Richard was Sheriff of Cornwall, in the 8th, as also in the 20th of Hen. VII. and having married Florence, daughter of Richard Arundel, of Trerice, in Cornwall had by her Michael, and Robert, bred a Lawyer.

Michael was Sheriff of Cornwall in the 22d of Hen. VII, and married Thomafine, one of the daughters of John Glyn, of Murvayle. By her he had a son called John; also a daughter, Florence, married to John Fortescue. This Michael died about 4 Eliz.

John, his son, married Elizabeth, the eldest daughter and co-heir of Thomas Tethurfe, Esq; (son and heir of John Tethurfe, by Elizabeth, his wife, who was the eldest daughter of Sir Hugh Courtney, and one of the coheirs of Edward Courtney, Earl of Devon.)

John, his son and heir, who was Member of Parliament for Helston, 14 Eliz. married Anne, daughter of Baldwin Mallet, and had issue Anne, married to John Kestel, of Kestel; Christian, Barbara, and Catharine.

Also Hannibal, his son and heir, who was Member of Parliament 28 and 43 Eliz. for Helston, 31 Eliz. for Truro, and 3 Car. I. for St. Maws, as also Sheriff of Cornwall. He married Philippa, daughter of Roger Tremaine, of Cullacomb, in Devon, Esq; and had issue,

Sir Francis Vyvyan, Knt. who was Sheriff of Cornwall, 15 Jac. I. and was in great esteem and reputation. He married Loveday, daughter of John Connock, of Treworgy, in Cornwall, Esq; and had issue,

Sir Richard Vyvyan, Knt. his son and heir, who was Member of Parliament for Penryn, 15 Car. I. and a Burgess for Tregony, in this county, to serve in that Parliament which began 1640; but leaving it in 1642, retired to Oxford, and sate in the Parliament there 1643, and was Master of the Mint at Exeter during the time of the rebellion. He was, by King Charles I. in reward for his loyalty, and the great losses he sustained by imprisonment, and sequestration of his estate, advanced to the honour and dignity of a Baronet, the 20th of his reign. He married Mary, daughter of James Bulteel, of Barnstaple, in Devon, Esq; and had issue, Sir Vyell, and Charles, and several daughters.

Sir Vyell Vyvyan, Bart. successor to his father, married Thomafine, eldest daughter and coheir of James Robyns, of Glasney, in Cornwall, Esq; and died without issue, Feb. 24, 1696.

He

He was Member of Parliament for Helston, 31 Car. II. and Sheriff of Cornwall.

Charles, his brother, married Mary, the eldest daughter and coheir of Richard Erisye, of Trevanna, in Cornwall, Esq; and had issue three sons; Sir Richard; Charles, a Captain in the Army, who married Margaret, daughter of — Ash, Esq; of the kingdom of Ireland; and John, formerly Fellow of Exeter-College, in Oxford; and two daughters, Loveday and Anne; but dying before his brother, the honour and estate, upon the death of Sir Vyell, descended to Sir Richard, his eldest son.

Which Sir Richard Vyvyan, Bart. succeeded his uncle, was elected Member of Parliament 12 and 13 K. William, and served the county of Cornwall, as Knight of the shire, 1, 4, and 9 of Queen Anne's reign. He married Mary, the only daughter and heiress of Francis Vivian, Esq; (by Anne, daughter of Bridget Minard, who was daughter and heiress of Sir Samuel Cosworth, of Cosworth,) and had issue six sons, and four daughters; 1. Sir Francis; 2. Richard, a Barrister at Law, who married Philippa, daughter of Philip Piper, of Tresmarrow, in Cornwall, Esq; 3. Charles, married to Mary, daughter of Harry Bond, of Tresfonger, near Camelford, in Cornwall, Esq; 4. Thomas, who took to wife Loveday, daughter of — Buggens, of Trelage, in St. Kivern, in Cornwall, Esq; 5. John, married to Sarah, daughter of — Cousins, of Rochester; 6. James, who is unmarried. The daughters are, 1. Loveday; 2. Bridget, married to Richard Sawle, of Polmaugan, in the county of Cornwall, Esq; 3. Anne, and, 4. Frances. Sir Richard dying, May 9, 1724, was succeeded in honour and estate by his eldest son,

Sir Francis Vyvyan, Bart. who married, May, 1730, Mary, the only daughter and heir of the Rev. Mr. Carew Hoblyn, of George Henn, in the county of Devon, (son of Robert Hoblyn, of Nemswhiddon, in the county of Cornwall, Esq; by Grace, his wife, eldest daughter and coheir of John Carew, of Penwarne, in the county of Cornwall, Esq;) by whom he had issue Sir Richard, his successor, born Mar. 11, 1732; Catharine, born April 15, 1733; Grace, born July 9, 1734; and Carew, his second son, born Jan. 11, 1736. Sir Francis's Lady died Nov. 3, 1740, and he in Nov. 1746. He was succeeded by Sir Richard Vyvyan, the present Baronet, who, Dec. 6, 1754, married Jane, daughter of Christopher Hawkins, of Trewinnard, Esq; but by her has no issue. Sir Richard's brother, and two sisters, are living, and unmarried.

132. EDWARDS, of Shrewsbury.

Created BARONET, 1644.

(Exemplified to FRANCIS, April 22, 1678.)

THE first ancestor mentioned in this family pedigree, is Ynyr Caduroch, a nobleman in Maelors, one of the Barons of the Prince of Powis, descended from the King of Powis, who was descended from Gurtheirn, (called by the English Vertigern,) Earl of Eurgain and Ewyas, in Herefordshire, and afterwards King of the Britains, about the year 450. He married Rheinger, daughter and sole heir to the Earl of Hereford, who was descended from Cariadoc Ureichfras, who was one of the Knights of the Round-table to King Arthur. They left issue, Tudyr, surnamed Trevor, who was Earl of Hereford, in right of his mother, and married Gladusia, daughter to Howel Dda, King and Governor of all Wales. The title of Earl of Hereford continued in this family many years, till the Saxons wrested it, and all the kingdom, out of the hands of the Britains, and conferred the same on the Saxon nobility.

From the above Tudyr, after a long series of ancestors, who married with the daughters of the Princes of North and South Wales, the King of Cornwall, the Lords of Powis, and Barons of Burford, &c. was Morris Edwards, Esq; who lived temp. Hen. VII. and was the first that took that surname. Tho' we find that some of this family were possessors of Maelors, Chirckland, Oswestry, Dudleston, and Whittington, about the 12th of William the Conqueror. David, the son of Morris, was of Kilhendre, in Salop, and father of John Edwards, alias John ap David, &c. and his son Edward Edwards, of Shrewsbury, married Ancharet, daughter and heir of Edward ap Howel, ap Enyon Goch, and had issue, Hugh Edwards, of Shrewsbury, who lies buried in St. Chad's church, leaving issue by Alice, daughter of Thomas Keile, of Bakber, in Dorset, two sons; Timothy, of Kilhendre, living 1623, and Thomas.

Thomas died March 19, 1634, aged seventy-nine, and was buried in St. Chad's church, in Shrewsbury, leaving issue by Anne, daughter of Humphry Baskerville, Esq; Alderman of London, relict of Stephen Duckett, Esq; Henry, who died without issue; Sir Thomas; Humphry, and Jonathan, who both died without issue; and two daughters, Lucy, and Alice.

Sir Thomas Edwards, Knt. son and heir, was the first Baronet of this family, advanced to that dignity by King Charles I. He married, first, Anne, daughter to Bonham Norton, of Shetton, ton, Salop, Esq; and had issue only one daughter, Anne, married to Herbert Westfaling, of Rudhall, in Herefordshire, Esq; His second wife was Cecily, daughter to Edward Brookes, of Stretton, in Salop, Esq; by whom he had issue six sons; 1. Sir Francis; 2. Thomas Edwards, Esq; (who married Anne, daughter and coheir of John Haynes, of Shropshire, Esq; and dying Jan. 28, 1726-7, aged eighty-two, left issue one son, Sir Henry, of whom hereafter, and one daughter;) 3. Benjamin, (who married Sarah, daughter to Richard Pooke, Merchant, and left issue one son, Francis, and one daughter;) 4. Herbert, died unmarried; 5. Jonathan, Rector of Westbury, in Shropshire, (who left issue two sons, Jonathan, and Thomas, and two daughters, Mary, married to Mr. Pougenes, of Carmathenshire; and Elizabeth;) 6. Brookes, who died without issue. Sir Thomas also left five daughters, who all died unmarried.

Sir Francis Edwards, Bart. eldest son of Sir Thomas, succeeded his father in dignity and estate, though the latter was very much impaired by the family's great suffering in the civil wars, in which it is supposed the Baronet's Patent was lost; for in April, 1678, a new one was granted to Francis (then Sir Francis) Edwards, of Shrewsbury, and to the heirs male of his body, with remainder to Thomas, Benjamin, Herbert, and Jonathan, and the heirs male of their bodies, &c. with a special clause for Precedency before all Baronets created after the year 1644, viz. according to the former Patent.

This Sir Francis was a Colonel of foot, in the service of King William, and died in Ireland, that summer the battle of the Boyne was fought, and was buried there. He married Eleanor, daughter of Sir George Warburton, of Arley, in Cheshire, Bart. and had issue, Thomas, and Elizabeth, who died infants; Sir Francis, and four daughters; 1. Elizabeth, married Andrew Corbet, of Adbright-Huffy, Salop, Esq; 2. Eleanor, married the Rev. Mr. Dryden Pigot, Rector of Edgemount, in Salop, younger brother to Robert Pigot, of Chetwynd, in that county, Esq; (she died, leaving no issue.) 3. Hester, married to — Davies, of Stanton Lacy, Salop, Esq; and, 4. Diana, married to John Scrimshire, Esq;

Sir Francis, the only son of Sir Francis, succeeded his father in title and estate, and married Eleanor, daughter of — Harvey, of Stockton, in Warwickshire, Esq; and left issue one son, Sir Francis, and one daughter, Eleanor, married to Sir Henry Edwards, Bart. of whom hereafter.

Sir Francis Edwards, Bart. succeeded his father in dignity and estate, and married, first, Anne, daughter and coheir of Thomas Rocke, of Shrewsbury, Esq; by whom he had no issue. She dying in 1726, he married to his second Lady, Hester, daughter and coheir of John Lacon, of West-Coppies, in Shropshire, Esq; and had one daughter, who married Viscount Malpas, son and heir of George, Earl of Cholmondeley.

Sir Francis dying without issue male, was succeeded in dignity and estate by his cousin, Sir Henry, grandson of Sir Thomas, the first Baronet.

Which Sir Henry Edwards married, in 1727, (as before mentioned,) Eleanor, daughter of Sir Francis, and sister to the late Sir Francis Edwards, Bart. by whom he had issue, 1. Eleanor, 2. Diana, who both died infants; 3. Sir Thomas, his successor; 4. Francis, who died an infant; 5. Francis, Rector of Greete and Frodesley, in the county of Salop, who died unmarried Dec. 24, 1767; 6. Benjamin, a Captain in the eleventh regiment of foot; and, 7. Mary, married, May 23, 1759, to Thomas Mitton, of Skipton, in the county of Salop, Esq. Sir Henry died Mar. 26, 1767, and was succeeded by his son, Sir Thomas Edwards, the present Baronet, who, in 1760, married Anne, sole daughter and heiress of ——— Barrett, late of Ealing, in Middlesex, Esq; by whom he has one daughter, named Helen-Esther-Mary.
